Memorial services are to be held Sunday next following the church service. The band will play and the graves will be decorated by Veterans and Sons of Veterans.

The annual thank offering meeting was held last Wednesday with Mrs. A. G. Morse, the attendance being 25. All officers and committees were re-elected. The annual reports were given and talent money was received. A dialogue entitled "Barreling" was given by Mrs. A. H. Hibbard and Mrs. Everett E. May. A pleasant social hour followed with refreshments. Mr. E. R. Rollins took a group picture of those present.

Chrysler Quality and Value In a New Low-Priced Six

The new Chrysler "60"—a lower-priced six—is unqualifiedly guaranteed to give you more value for your money than any other car in its class.

This supreme value is assured you because in designing the "60" Chrysler Engineers set about creating a car of entirely original design and construction, going the absolute limit to put into it a dollar's worth of value for every dollar of its purchase price.

In Chrysler "60" there is also the same supreme quality that has been built into the famous Chrysler "70" and the unsurpassable Imperial "80"—a quality that is now a definitely known quantity in motordom.

Reduced $50 to $200—Unchanged Except Price

At these new sensationally lower prices all features of supremacy of the famous Chrysler "70" which have set it apart as the standard of motoring in its class for more than two years, are made even more outstanding.

For in the accomplishment of these new lower prices there is absolutely no change in the performance, quality, comfort, style, equipment, design or workmanship in body or chassis which have proved themselves in tens of thousands of miles of driving by thousands upon thousands of owners.

These sensational reductions today establish Chrysler "70" even more exceptionally as the world's one outstanding motor car value in its class.

You will find us eager to demonstrate to you the extraordinary features at these new prices of Chrysler "60" or Chrysler "70"

BECAUSE Isabella, Queen of Spain, was convinced by a young dreamer of Genoa that the world was round and one could reach the east by sailing west—America was discovered.

Because Clara Barton, a nurse in the Civil War, was convinced that a national relief organization was necessary for the emergencies of war and peace—the American Red Cross was organized.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham, of Lynn, Massachusetts, was convinced that the medicine she made for her family and her neighbors could be sold to the benefit of other women—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was marketed.

Like the mighty oak, a great business has grown from small beginnings. Today, six buildings are devoted to the manufacture of this dependable medicine.

JULIA SCHMIDT worked in a factory. She was not strong and she often forced herself to sit at her machine when she was not able. For five years, she was in a weakened condition.

Because a friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, she gave it a trial. "Everyone says I am a healthier and stronger girl," she writes. "I am recommending the Vegetable Compound and I am willing to answer letters from women asking about it." Her address is 652 North Front St., Salem, Oregon.

DANIELSON

LOST AND SCARED PUPPY CAUSED MAD DOG RUMOR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 25—A wee mite of a dog a mongrel that weighs about six pounds and has a collar big enough for a fighting bulldog, set a section of the town of Brooklyn into a state of excitement today when someone conceived the idea that the animal was mad and dangerous. Clubs and guns were in the hands of men who were trying to catch the little dog and despatch it and finally someone sent for Joseph Birch, dog warden of the town of Brooklyn. Meanwhile a thrifty mad dog scare was spreading through Brooklyn and over into Danielson.

Mr. Birch made short work of taking the little dog into custody and within an hour afterwards had the little wanderer sitting on his knees to be petted. It appears that the dog was lost and frightened and probably hungry. A tag on its collar bore the inscription Sprague, No 67052. Mr. Birch communicated with the town clerk of Sprague and that official agreed to checkup on the dog's ownership and report the presence of the animal at Mr. Birch's place in Brooklyn. Mr. Birch said the dog showed no signs of rabies, but was nervous and tired and probably had been acting strangely, largely because of being lost.

Theodore Byron Cook, 73, died Tuesday morning in Foster at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred A. Cole, with whom he had made his home for a number of years. Mr. Cook, who was well known in this town, was born in Cranston, R. I., December 7, 1852, a son of Nelson and Ruby Colvin Cook. In addition to Mrs. Cole Mr. Cook leaves two sons, Theodore of Muskegon, Mich., and Daniel of Cascoag and two daughters, Mrs. George Blackmar of Providence and Mrs. Bertha Knight of Rockland. There are also two sisters, Mrs. Emma Knowlton and Mrs. James Yeaw, both of Scituate, and his grandchildren number 19.

A charge alleging a violation of the automobile laws has been filed against the driver of a Ward Baking truck that was knocked over on its side over on the West Side one day last week when it was struck by a Ford driven by James Moran of Brooklyn. It will be charged that the truck was parked on the left side of the street and that the driver started off with the machine and swung out across Main street heading toward Elm street when the Ford came along and struck it.

RECITAL BY PUPILS PROVED VERY INTERESTING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, May 25—A delightful evening was provided Tuesday at the Majestic theatre for those who attended the annual recital presented by the pupils of Miss Emma A. Burbank. The musical numbers were splendidly given and in addition there was a little play. By Candle Light, with nearly a score in the cast, all these in old-fashioned costume, and a number of folk and other dances. The programme was well balanced and presented. The proceeds from the recital will be given by Miss Burbank to the fund being raised to provide free band concerts on Davis park during the summer months.

The program was as follows:

Baseball fans who have been hungering to see a real contest right here at home will troop to the Paco field, south of Cottage street, near the White Row, this (Wednesday) evening at 7 o'clock to see the first game in Danielson's Twilight league.

The Paco company players will meet the team of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company, and it will be a real ball game, make no mistake about that.

The Paco team will appear in all the splendor that new uniforms can lend. The squad has been completely outfitted by the company, and the company has been generous in its allowance for the cause.

Both the Gas and Electric team and the Paco team number good ball players in their lineups. It so happens that no exact line on their playing abilities as teams is available, because they have yet to meet each other on the field That's what lends special interest to tonight's game. There are those who will tell you that Paco is sure to win, and many others to assert that the Incandescent boys are going to take the game. A host of people will be on hand to see which prediction proves correct.

Arthur F. Hughes of Dayville is to succeed J. Dyer Potter, who recently resigned as assistant treasurer of the Brooklyn Savings bank to take the treasurership of the Cargill Trust company at Putnam. Mr. Hughes will assume his duties here on June 14. He has been for several years a member of the office force of the Assawaga Company, Inc., at Dayville and prior to that time was in the office of the Quinebaug mills in Danielson. He has had valuable experience in accounting and bookkeeping. Mr. Hughes is a graduate of Killingly high school and is well known throughout the town.

Participation of Danielson's patriotic organizations in Memorial day observances will begin next Sunday afternoon, when delegations from this place will go to South Killingly for the annual observance in that community. There will be a service at the Congregational church in that place and a procession to the cemeteries, where the graves of the honored dead will be decorated. On Sunday evening there is to be a union memorial service at the Methodist church here and patriotic societies will be in attendance. Monday morning there will be observances in East Killingly and in Brooklyn. Monday afternoon Danielson will hold its exercises. The line will form at G. A. R. hall and proceed to the Orpheum theatre, going later to the Soldiers' monument and thence to Westfield and St. James' cemeteries to decorate the graves.

The auxiliary of the Woman's Board of Missions of the Westfield Congregational church met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. J. Tillinghast, Academy street. Miss Sarah L. Ayer was in charge of the devotional period. New Days in Latin America was the subject of the study period.

St James' school baseball team won its first baseball victory of the season from a school representing the Danielson grammar school by a score of 6 to 5.

A number of members of Lee J. L'Homme post, American Legion and members of the auxiliary plan to be in Hartford this (Wednesday) evening to attend a state dinner at which National Commander John R. McQuigg is to be the principal speaker.

A minimum temperature of 38 degrees, with light frost, was reported from various sections of the town of Killingly early Tuesday morning.

Members of the Ladies' Benevolent society of the Congregational church will meet this afternoon in the church parlor.

Merrill Gallup entertained a number of friends at a party at his home on Broad street Tuesday evening. An amusing feature of the evening was a mock marriage with young men playing the part of women and vice versa. Refreshments were served.

St. Alban's Sewing society will hold its closing meeting of the season at the parish house Friday afternoon.

Miss Grace M. Stanton is in Washington attending the annual session of the Northern Baptist convention as a delegate from the Danielson Baptist church.

Thousands of workers in this territory are anticipating what may be termed a triple holiday at the Memorial day period. They will be off duty from Saturday noo nto Tuesday morn-

The idea of having a Church Vacation school met with hearty approval at a meeting of a joint committee from the Congregational, Methodist and Baptist churches held to discuss the matter at the Congregational parsonage. The ministers of the respective churches were asked to get in touch with other Church Vacation schools and authorities, make an estimate of expresses and report to a similar joint meeting to be held in the Methodist church on Tuesday evening, June 1st.

A Church Vacation school is a group of boys and girls meeting in the church each week day, except Saturday, for several weeks in the summer vacation period. The school opens at 9 o'clock in the morning and continues in session with a varied program for two or three hours. The program is carefully graded according to ages. In general the program includes a worship period, story telling, Bible stories, hand work, organized play and picnics.

The purpose of the school is to develop Christian character. Each part of the program is worked out in accordance with the latest educational standards so that the child is kept busy and absorbed with interest from start to finish.

Such a school was conducted last summer in Danielson, jointly with the Congregational, Baptist and Methodist churches and with great success. They are planning to have another this summer.

Mrs. Charles A. Thayer is substituting as teacher of the first grade in the Israel Putnam school for Miss Mildred Torrey, who is ill at the home of her brother, Harry E. Torrey of Grove street.

E. H. Burt's drug store was recently broken into and $15 was taken from the money drawer, but nothing else was missing. Access had been gained to the store by forcing an entrance through the cellar door from an alley way in the rear of the block.

Miss Doris Thibeault, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Thibeault of Quinebaug and Joseph St. John, son of Mr. and Mrs. Napoleon St. John were married at eight o'clock yesterday morning at St. Joseph's church at North Grosvenordale, the Rev. Fr. Donnelly officiating. The couple were attended by the father and uncle of the bride.

The bride wore a dress of tan canton crepe and carried a bridal bouquet of white carnations. Upon their return from a short bridal trip Mr. and Mrs. St. John will reside in Quinebaug.

The annual poppy drive of the Oscar W. Swanson post, American Legion auxiliary, of North Grosvenordale, opened on May 23 and will continue throughout the week. Members of the auxiliary will be assisted by the girls from Miss Lewis' class rooms. Every one will have an opportunity to help the great work of these organizations and of paying a tribute to all who died in the service by buying a poppy during Poppy week and wearing it especially on Decoration day, not as a tag, but with reverence, in memory of the boys who died for their country.

Mrs. Stella and daughter, Miss Marion Bowen of South Main street were visitors in Providence last week.

Mrs. Samuel Diamond and daughter Miss Elsie Diamond have returned from a visit of several weeks with friends and relatives in New York city.

Kenneth White of New Haven has been the recent guest of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Gallant of Church street.

Mrs. Mary Kennedy of Church street has returned from a visit of a week with relatives in Providence.

ELECT T. H. DE COUDRES PRES. PUTNAM CHAMBER

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 25—At the annual meeting of the chamber of commerce at the Putnam Inn last evening the following officers were elected:

President, T. H. DeCoudres; first vice president, E. C. Rogers; second vice president, Charles A. Richard; third vice president, Otto E. Wulf; treasurer, C. A. Boyce; directors for three years, Charles E. Dean, F. O. Marion, Charles A. Richard.

The hold over directors are: A. Newton Vaughn, Armand Lizotte, W. J. Bartlett, George L. Padgett and Francis Metcalf, whose terms expire in 1927; Judge F. F. Russell, Willis B. Carroll, Walter N. King, Louis E. Law, C. A. Boyce, Arthur E. Smith, Charles Seder and Alex Gilman, whose terms expire in 1928.

After a brief speech of acknowledgment and thanks on the part of Mr. DeCoudres, George L. Padgett made the following statement:

"A year ago," he said, "as chairman of the nominating committee I had the pleasure of suggesting the name of C. A. Boyce for treasurer of this body which resulted in his nomination and election. He was also named by the president as chairman of the committee on New Industries. Because of the very excellent record he has made in both these positions I offer the following and move its adoption:

"Resolved that the Putnam chamber of commerce hereby expresses its appreciation of the efficient and unselfish work of C. A. Boyce as treasurer of this organization and as chairman of the committee on new industries; that it has learned with regret that he is of leave Putnam; that it wishes him the fullest measure of success in his new position, and that it commends him to the people of West Hartford as a desirable, public-spirited citizen who will prove a valuable acquisition to any community."

A. Newton Vaughn said: "I second the motion, fully endorsing all that is contained in the resolution but with regret that it is necessary to take this action due to the fact that Mr. Boyce is soon to leave us. His services to the chamber of commerce have been invaluable and I believe that every one here will sincerely regret his departure."

The resolution was adopted by a unanimous vote. Mr. Boyce made a suitable and graceful recognition of the tribute paid him.

Louis Benoit who has been a patient at St. Vincent's hospital at Worcester for some time has sufficiently recovered to return to his home on Main street.

Miss Myrtice Warren of Danielson has been the guest o fher parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Warren of School street.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Baptist church holds its meeting this (Wednesday) afternoon at the church parlors.

Paul Warren of School street and John Hannifan of South Main street were visitors at Rockville last week.

STEEL CAR PROTECTION

From the investigation that is underway the responsibility for the wreck of the Owl express at Mansfield, Mass., because of a collision with a freight that was being sent from one track to another, should be fixed. If there was a failure to properly set the signals, if the system was not working properly or if they were not respected remains to be determined.

As the result of the crash the fireman was killed and several others injured, kindling wood was made of the freight cars and the signal tower and fire followed as is apt to be the case under such conditions.

In this connection it is interesting to note, according to one report, that "passengers and railroad men, alike were loud in their praise of the heavy steel construction of the Pullmans of the Owl. They said that had the cars been of wood, scores might have been killed in the wreckage sure to result from such a crash."

Railroad wrecks are not numerous. The ascertainment of the cause of the one at Mansfield should provide the means of preventing others, but it is impossible to overlook the benefit of the protection that is provided to the passengers and train employes by the use of steel construction. Not only does it avoid the splintered wreckage that would result if the cars were of wood, but it overcomes the danger of fire, which in too many instances has been the cause of increasing the horror of railroad wrecks.

As new equipment is added railroads, especially in main line travel, give recognition to this protection by the acquisition of steel cars. They may cost more and they are heavier but these points are far outweighed by the element of safety which they provide. Wherever the steel cars figure in wrecks they demonstrate conclusively their value to the traveling public and in the end they are of economic advantage to the railroads. In time it can be expected taht passenger service will be furnished in all steel equipment.

SPEEDING AROUND THE WORLD

All are familiar with the flight around the world by the naval aviators of this country. It has been demonstrated that it can be done, but on that flight the chief purpose was to circle the globe and not to make speed.

Naturally when a person sets out to establish a new record for going around the world he must figure on the use of airplanes and that is included in the plans of John Goldstrom who is on his way in an effort to better the record of 35 days, 21 hours which was made in 1913 by John H. Mears. He doesn't intend to fly the entire distance, since he will cross the oceans by steamship, but when possible he proposes to go through the air and he is not the only one who is confident that he will be successful.

Greater speed is to be obtained now than was the case 13 years ago. More dependence can be placed upon flying machines and certainly more of them are available. When Goldstrom gets across the Atlantic he plans to fly from Plymouth to Amsterdam to Berlin to Moscow. And then it is a case of a long flight across part of Russia, Siberia, Mongolia, China and possibly across the water to Japan, where he would sail from Yokohama for the United States with the intentions of completing his round the world trip by a flight across this country to New York.

Much of course depends upon everything going well. He cannot experience many crashes and make connections. Till he gets to Moscow he can probably rely upon dependable service, but what he will receive after that is a question which experience will demonstrate.

We have of course got to the day when 80 days around the world is slow That record was more than cut in two more than a decade ago and now it remains to be seen what air navigation is able to do in relaying an individual from point to point around the globe over a different and faster route where his slowest time, barring accidents, will be in crossing the oceans. After Goldstrom shows what he can do it will not be long before speed contests around the world for the entire distance can be expected.

WAITED LONG ENOUGH

It is one thing to seek action from congress and it is another thing to get it. Something like three years ago the Lausanne treaty between this country and Turkey was negotiated. Its ratification has been repeatedly urged but as yet it has not been accepted. There are Americans and American interests in Turkey which should have the benefit of the treaty provisions, but thus far there has been no haste shown in furnishing it.

From time to time the senate has been asked to give its sanction to the treaty, but it has failed to act. It has seemingly given heed to the opposition which takes its stand on the ground that the treaty is not as favorable as ought to be obtained and does not contain certain provisions which formerly appeared. It is likewise brought to attention that Turkey has been guilty of great atrocities and that there should be no thought of entering into treaty relations with that country until it reforms.

There has been no attempt to claim that the Lausanne treaty is a perfect one. At the time of the negotiation it was apparent that there were some features concerning it which were not all that could be desired, but it was the best that could be obtained and it was drafted along lines similar to those followed by other nations which have concluded treaties with Turkey.

No one would attempt to deny the deplorable record of the Turks, but that neither eliminates it nor means that the Americans in Turkey should be entirely disregarded. In spite of the protests against ratification of the treaty it is of special significance that the church which is in charge of the missionary efforts in that country and those connected with the educational institutions are not only favorable to but urging ratification.

No change in the treaty terms have been obtained during the three years of waiting and none is liable. The wisest course seems to be to ratify and look to the future for the betterments that are sought, but protect Americans in the meantime.

COMMERCIAL AVIATION

Apparently congress was convinced from the start that there was need for the bureau of commercial aviation provided for in the Bingham-Parker bill, which has now become law by favorable action in both houses and the signature of the president. It at least encountered no real opposition.

For several years conditions have been tending to this very notion. Commercial aviation has been increasing and it was apparent that there was need for regulation without greater delay. With the provision of the necessary funds all will be in readiness for the functioning of this new bureau attached to the department of commerce and that provision should not be withheld.

According to its provisions all pilots must obtain licenses and all aircraft must undergo inspection. The law sets forth the methods by which this shall be done and it bids fair to surround aviation with increased degrees of safety that will place commercial aviation more nearly on a par with such service in Europe.

Connecticut is not unmindful of the part which its junior senator has played in connection with this piece of legislation. It heartily endorses his efforts and appreciates the benefits that will be attached to the regulations which have been established in connection with a mode of transportation that will experience constant development as the years pass. The step has been taken none too soon. It is desirable that regulations be required in the early stages since they will not only be the more easily enforced but they will prevent conditions from getting in a serious way that will involve danger and invite trouble.

UPHOLDING THE LAW

Out in Minneapolis they have a 19 year old boy who has been convicted of stealing an automobile and because of his age great efforts were made to have the district judge place him upon probation. This the judge refused to do. In full knowledge of the circumstance the Minneapoli Journal upholds the action of the judge and says: "The culprit's youth does not excuse him. A boy of 19 knows that when he takes another's car he is breaking an important law and visiting a great wrong upon the owner. He may bank on the probability that his immaturity may keep him out of the reformatory. Perhaps the belief that every minor will be freed on probation leads many such to yield to the temptation to steal cars. If so Judge Dickinson does well to disillusion a large group of potential automobile thieves."

In Minneapolis it is apparently being realized that there is such a thing as overdoing leniency, that advantage is being taken of the courts through the options that are given to judges and that the public is suffering unjustly from the practices that are developed as the result.

Those who go in for the stealing of automobiles understand that they are committing a crime. Let the owners do everything possible to prevent such thefts by making them more difficult, but there is no reason for lending encouragement to automobile stealing by indicating to those who are inclined in that direction that they can expect to escape with no greater penalty than a slap on the wrist. When the law is made to mean something it is invariably the case that there is greater respect for it, and such seems to have been the attitude of the Minneapolis judge.

Even if there was a wet and dry referendum no voter would be obligated to go to the polls, but if he didn't go he would forfeit all chance of henceforth discussing the prohibition question.

BUSY GROWNUPS

"I'm feeling very down," gloomed the Hyde Park man when he joined his friend from Woodlawn on the morning train. "I can't find the boys of yesteryear anywhere, doggone 'em, and when I want a playmate in a hurry I find myself all alone in a cold, vast world!"

"When a fellow is 21 this sphere is totally populated with young people having nothing to do but amuse themselves. Of course he is aware that in the dim background that doesn't count in the least there are millions of dull, plodding persons past 30 hanging on hopelessly.

"Whenever he decides on a good time his trouble is picking out which girl or which fellow he'll chum along with. There are a dozen telephone calls about every party and six automobiles offered to convey him. Sometimes he gets a headache trying to make up his mind which of three functions promises the most amusement.

"This goes on for quite some time while he is occupied with the distracting business of falling in love and setting up a household and paying folks back for the pickle dish they sent as a wedding present and getting the little woman the fur coat she simply has to have in order to hold up her head with the other girls.

"Finally, much to his surprise, he emerges on a high, cold plateau, so to speak, where the winds whistle lonesomely and he can bend over the edge and look down on the crowd aged 31 milling around excitedly and never once glancing up in his direction. All sorts of interesting things appear to be happening down there and he says by jove, what's the reason he can't join in, too, and have some of the fun? Hey, Susie, I won't be home to dinner tonight, going to the wrestling match!

"That's the way I acted yesterday. Imogene took the blow with great cheerfulness and said hastily that she thought it would do me a lot of good.

"So I rang up Jim. Aw, shucks, mourned Jim, golly, wouldn't I like to go—but Ada had an awfully bad cold when I left home this morning and could hardly talk over the phone when I called up this noon and I don't feel any to good myself, even if I didn't sort or think I'd better go home this evening on Ada's account! Some other time—

"Then I rang Joe at his office and I rang him at home and got Marie. My, it seemed good to have somebody to talk to Marie said huskily. She had been in bed all day with a awful cold and felt just terrible—what did I want with Joe? Not a thing, I told her hastily because no matter how stupid a man may be he knows better than to fancy he can go to a wrestling match if his wife isn't feeling well. I tried Tom and he said he'd rather go than anything on earth but he had to go home to the children, because his wife was out of town at a funeral and he sure of hated leaving them alone. Some other time.

"I tried Bill. Heck, said Bill, nothing he'd like better—but Ruth was just getting over a bad attack of grip and was sort of nervous and fussy about being left alone and he didn't think he'd better. Some other time.

"Arnold was real indignant when I phoned and asked for his company. Where had I been he'd like to know, not to be aware that they had a brand-new baby? He went down to the hospital every evening and, say, it was smart for a new one—looked right at you! Mopping my brow I thought of Lionel, my dyed-in-the-wool bachelor friend who lives at a club and is as free as the wind. No, said the desk, Lionel was not in—he had gone down to Ohio to get married and had given up his room.

"So I went alone to the wrestling match and had a poor time because I had nobody along to punch in the ribs when I got excited. I tried you, too, but you weren't in—"

"Wish I could have seen it," said the Woodlawn man. "But I couldn't have gone last night anyway—my Uncle Henry was out at dinner on his way to the coast—"

"Wouldn't you know it?" groaned the Hyde Park man sadly.—Chicago News.

Today's Birthdays

Her Majesty, Queen Mary of Great Britain, born in Kensington Palace, 59 years ago today.

Dr. Walter Hullihen, president of the University of Delaware, born at Staunton, Va., 51 years ago today.

Robert W. Chambers, one of the most successful of American novelists, born in Brooklyn, N. Y., 61 years ago today.

Daniel Upthegrove, president of the St. Louis & Southwestern railway, born at Greenville, Texas, 55 years ago today.

Mrs. Florence Corliss Preston state superintendent of public instruction of Washington, born in Minnesota, 52 years ago today.

Today's Anniversaries

1810—Captain Nathaniel Wyeship, in the ship Albatross, from Boston, arrived at the mouth of the Columbia river and attempted the first American settlement there.

1816—Bavaria became a constitutional monarchy.

1847—Sara Jewett, celebrated actress born at Buffalo, N. Y. Died at Cambridge, Mass., March 27, 1899.

1860—The first marriage of a white couple in Arizona took place at Tucson.

1870—The Fenian raid into Canada from the United States was repelled by the militia.

1898—The first United States army transport sailed from San Francisco for the Philippines.

1917—Rome reported the Italians had broken the Austrian lines on a six-mile front and captured 9,000 prisoners.

1925—Death of Ernest D. Burton, president of the University of Chicago.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Many will be the greetings and messages of good wishes which will be showered upon Queen Mary today upon the beginning of her 60th year. Time has proven false the prophecies of those English wiseacres who, when the then Princess of Wales came to the throne some 18 years ago, said, "She will never have the place in the hearts of the English people which queen Alexandra maintained from the day of her arrival in England as a bride." The respect which Her Majesty has ever enjoyed among her people has of late years developed into sincere affection. While not of the same delicate and lovable type of woman as was represented by the late Queen Alexandra, her successor on the throne stands for all that is alert, thoroughly in earnest and deep thinking in the 20th century woman. She is today respected for her deeds of charity and her sincere interest in the public welfare and loved for her admirable qualities as a wife and mother.

Our Unfavorable Trade Balance

For the fourth consecutive month the value of our imports has exceeded that of our exports. The total import surplus for the current calendar year amounts to $132,417,000, compared with an export surplus of $257,937,000 in the corresponding period of 1925. The change is due both to an increase in the value of imports and a decline in the value of exports. The slump in exports may be accounted for in part by the lower price of cotton. The greater value of our imports as compared with a year ago reflects the high rate of industrial activity in this country with the resulting demand for foreign raw materials. The "unfavorable" balance for April was only $10,000,000, compared with $62,677,000 in March. It is possible that this tendency of the balance to dwindle may have some connection with the reported slackening of activity in some of our basic industries during the spring.—New York World.

Old Jed Thumper Gives Advice

Youll find it usually the case.
Few folk can take advice with grace.
/—Old Jed Thumper.

Now that Johnny Chuck had found out who Old Jed Thumper really was, he was less inclined to quarrel with him. In fact, Johnny felt the need of some one to talk to. So he became very polite to Old Jed Thumper.

"Of course," said Johnny, "you know every inch of the Old Pasture, and that makes a difference. But it seems to me that in order to be safe, one should be able to see one's enemies at a distance and that can't be done here in the Old Pasture."

"You are wrong, Johnny Chuck," said he

Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit who was Mrs. Peter's father, shook his head. "You are wrong, Johnny Chuck," said he. "It isn't necessary at all to be able to see your enemies at a distance. What difference does it make whether or not you can see them so long as they cannot get at you?"

Johnny had to admit that it really didn't make any difference. "Take that hole you've dug there," said Old Jed Thumper. "You've dug it down in under the rocks in such a way that no one any bigger than you can possibly get in there. So you really don't care if Old Man Coyote or Reddy Fox does find it. Isn't that true?"

Johnny nodded. "Yes," said he, "I feel quite safe in there. I dug that hole the very first thing, so as to feel safe."

"Of course you did," replied Old Jed Thumper. "I'm glad to see that you had sense enough to see that the first law of life is 'safety first.' Now take my advice and never say unkind things about places or people you are not really acquainted with. Now, you don't know the Old Pasture, but I do. I have lived to grow old and gray here, which is proof enough that the Old Pasture is a safe place. You can fight, while I cannot. Yet you come up here and call the Old Pasture unsafe. That proves how silly it is to talk about things of which you know nothing. Why not get thoroughly acquainted with the Old Pasture before you say things against it? If you will come with me, I'll be glad to show you around. Perhaps then you will change your mind."

Johnny Chuck explained that he was very glad to go with Old Jed Thumper another day. He was quite meek, was Johnny Chuck, for he knew that Old Jed Thumper had been right in all that he said.

"All right," said Old Jed Thumper. "I'll be right here at sun-up tomorrow morning and I'll show you that the Old Pasture is the safest place in all the great world, once you know it. I am older than you, Johnny Chuck. Yes, sir, I'm older than you. Years ago I learned that it doesn't pay to jump at conclusions. It is the poorest kind of jumping I know of. I learned not to criticise others, because very few can know all about their neighbors' affairs. No, matter what you think, keep your thoughts to yourself, unless they are pleasant thoughts. Good by, Johnny Chuck. I am going to my castle in a bramble-tangle to take a nap, and I assure you that I shall sleep with perfect comfort, even though Reddy Fox and Old Man Coyote may be sitting just outside, looking in. I tell you, the Old Pasture is a perfectly safe place when you know it."

So Old Jed Thumper hopped away and Johnny Chuck sat on his doorstep and did a lot of thinking. Now that he had made an acquaintance, he was more than ever inclined to stay up in the Old Pasture until he had seen it thoroughly. "It's an opportunity," said Johnny Chuck, talking to himself. "It's an opportunity. And those who do not take advantage of opportunities never get very far in this world. I'll go with Old Jed Thumper tomorrow morning."

The next story—Johnny Chuck Sees Buzztail.

Kentucky has formally adopted a state flower, a state bird and named a poet laureate within the last 60 days. The flower is the golden rod. The Kentucky cardinal, bird of brilliant red plumage, was chosen as the feathered representative of the state. Originating in the house, a resolution passed both assembly branches naming Dr. J. C. T. Noe, professor at the University of Kentucky, as poet laureate of Kentucky.

From Small Beginnings

Benjamin Franklin the Great Statesman and Philanthropist

Father, I want to be a sailor.

"No you'll stay here and help me and you'll begin work tomorrow."

The next day the maker of soap and of tallow candles took the ten year old boy out of school and set him at work in the grease. There was to be no further talk of going away to sea. If the boy would not become a preacher, as the father wished, he could at least be a worker on land.

The boy, his name was Benjamin Franklin, obeyed. But suppose he had not! Suppose he had run away to sea as a cabin boy. Would he have become more than captain of a small vessel?

He obeyed—and worked his way through poverty and became the most influential American of his times, a diplomat, a scientist, an author, a printer, a journalist, an organizer of public works, the representative of America at foreign courts, a proposer of a union of states, member of the Continental congress, signer of the Declaration of Independence, a maker of the Constitution of the United States, and the inventor of scores of useful things, including the famous Franklin stove, bi-focal eye-glasses, and water-tight compartments on ships.

Franklin's way to the position of being the most useful of all Americans of his time was not an easy way. He worked at his father's greasy trade of making soap and candles for three years. Then, at the age of 13, he began work of printing, a work that was to make him famous. Four years later he left Boston and went to Philadelphia. There the 17 year old boy went down the principal street munching a loaf of bread and passing the girl whom he was afterwards to marry. He became a printer, the proprietor of a paper, and the publisher of the famous "Poor Richard Almanack," noted for wit and wisdom. Business took him to Europe and made him familiar with foreign affairs. Therefore, when the Colonies became rebellious, Benjamin Franklin, printer, editor and traveler, was in a commanding position. Gifted with unusual wit, naturally extremely wise, and always intensely patriotic, he was made a member of all the bodies that represented the colonies as a whole. Without doubt the self-educated candle-maker, soap-maker and printer was the greatest man in the colonies. It is said that nothing but his humor kept him from becoming the first president of the United States. He made himself a powerful force both in America and in Europe, and he was absolutely tireless and fearless in patriotic work. In many respects he was the greatest American in our history.

Stories That Recall Others

Correct Appearance

Mary, from the city, was visiting in the country. One evening the hired man announced he was going to feed the hogs. Mary ran ahead eagerly, calling back: "What are hogs? I never heard of them."

Soon Mary saw the pan, and exclaimed: "Are those hogs? Why they look like pigs!"

Unto Second Generations

"Aunt Flo" the devoted old time negro servant who has been with a certain family for years is of a type that is fast passing. Not only does she bake the most tempting biscuit but also takes a genuine interest in all family happenings, and is the self appointed censor for all who ring the doorbell. She brags about she knows "Quality." Her especial charge is "Miss Baby," the young lady daughter of the household, for whose grandmother Aunt Flo was cook when her mother was still a girl. Early one Monday morning Aunt Flo, who had been dusting the parlor, went, as fast as one of her size could to find the young girl's mother.

She complained thus: "I can tell by the arrangement of the chairs in the parlor that Miss Baby had company last night. Your mamma didn't let you keep company that young and we can't let Miss Baby."

Had Eczema Badly For Over 12 Months Cuticura Healed

"I had eczema badly on the palms of my hands for over twelve months. It broke out in a rash that was as red as fire and burned very badly. Between my fingers it itched badly, and when I scratched them it made them worse. They hurt terribly when I put them in warm water, and my husband had to help me with my work. They were always worse at night and I could not sleep.

"I was advised to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment so purchased some and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed." (Signed) Mrs. P. F. McKinney, West St., Rt. 31, New Canaan, Conn., Aug. 12, 1925.

A PRETTY THROAT IS MOST DESIRABLE

Old-time Recipe of Buttermilk and Cream Best; Preserves Whiteness Youthfulness and Beauty

One of the woes of the middle aged woman nowadays is that her throat looks lined and old when she puts on a waist with a comfortable and fashionably open neck.

The old-time recipe and still the best to keep youthful looks and ensure a clear, creamy complexion is simply everyday buttermilk and cream. And every woman will be glad to know that she can now obtain the ready-to-use product called "Howard's" Buttermilk Cream in both tubes and jars at any good drug store.

Few women realize that the throat is one of the greatest telltale marks of age since it very readily shows advancing years or the marks of neglect. If they would only accept these toilet hints in their helpful true light they would not hesitate to cut this out and remember to give Buttermilk Cream a trial. Lee & Osgood Co. guarantees it to give complete satisfaction or money back.

IMPORTANT. Even the finest face creams fail if the soap you use is harsh. Howard's Buttermilk Cream Soap keeps skin smooth, soft and pliable.

90 Days for Wife Beater

SALVATION ARMY WORKERS START CAMPAIGN WITH VIGOR

The Salvation Army workers had a very busy day Tuesday, the opening day of the campaign. The weather was ideal and all the workers showed enthusiasm. The Salvation Army headquarters on Cliff street was a beehive of activity and the workers interested in the campaign rushed in at all hours of the day for instruction and information. The first financial report meeting will be held tonight (Wednesday) at the Wauregan hotel at 6:30 p. m. sharp, where a luncheon will be served to the captains and workers. It is expected that the first returns will be very encouraging. Some of the workers are reporting that they are well received by whomever they solicit and that the contributions are generous. All signs bid fair that the quota of $4,500 will be reached in a few days. The ladies' teams are particularly active and are determined to put the campaign over in short notice.

Mrs. Ebenezer Learned, commander of the second division of the aSlvation Army campaign entertained the captains and lieutenants of her division at her home Tuesday afternoon. Ways and means how to accomplish best results in the campaign were very earnestly discussed. All the ladies present assured Mrs. Learned that the work will be followed up with a whole hearted determination.

Earl Taggart was constantly in touch with the men captains, lieutenants, and workers and there was no let-up in the entire organization. Mr. Taggart is very anxious to have all captains, and workers present at the luncheon held at the Wauregan hotel at 6:30, so that check-up of the entire status of the campaign may be had.

The Salvation Army officers feel very grateful to the people of Norwich for the kind courtesy and encouragement they accord to the workers of the campaign. It is on this spirit of willingness to contribute to the maintenance of the Salvation Army activities in the city of Norwich that the hope of the success of this campaign is based. The organization feels that it has a mission to fulfill and with the help of God and the kind co-operation and generosity of the people of Norwich, they hope to continue in the performance of their duty so as to be worthy of that fine confidence and support.

NORWICH ROUND TABLE ENDS PROGRAMME MEETINGS

The final meeting in the regularly arranged programme of the Norwich Round Table was held Tuesday evening with Mrs. C. C. Gildersleeve as hostess at her home at No. 29 Lincoln avenue. The roll call was answered by predictions of what is to happen in America in the next 50 years.

EASTERN CONNECTICUT FORESTERS GREET GRAND CHIEF RANGER

Foresters from the courts in eastern Connecticut gave congratulatory greetings to the newly elected grand chief ranger, Henry A. Congdon of this city, at a reception in his honor Tuesday evening in the rooms of the Foresters' club. The attendance filled the hall to capacity and included His Honor, Mayor Milo R. Waters, and three visiting officers from the grand court of the state, Past Chief Ranger Dunleavy of Waterville, Grand Secretary Thomas O'Loughlin of Naugatuck, and Edward Girard of Putnam, chairman of the grand trustees.

The visiting officers, with Mayor Waters, were met at the Wauregan hotel and escorted to the club rooms by the reception committee, which consisted of Frank H. Quinley, William H. Callahan, James Casey and J. C. Callahan.

For the exercises in the hall, Past Chief Ranger Quinley of Court City of Norwich, No. 82, presided, expressing the gratification which the guests of the Foresters of America in Eastern Connecticut felt in having Mr. Congdon elected to the office of grand chief ranger in this state. He said that he felt sure this would prove an inspiration to all the courts in the state, and especially in this part, to do their best to advance the interest of the order by increasing their memberships, and he called upon Mayor Waters for a few remarks.

The mayor's words proved to be a graceful presentation speech and he handed to Grand Chief Ranger Congdon the gift of the assembled local Foresters, which was a handsome leather traveling bag, fitted out with military brush and comb set. The grand chief ranger responded suitably and there were remarks by the three visiting grand officers, all speaking of the promising outlook for a progressive year under the leadership of Grand Chief Ranger Congdon.

In an entertainment programme arranged for the evening there were a number of vocal selections and two snappy boxing bouts by local talent. Sandwiches and coffee were served under the direction of the arrangements committee which included Chief Ranger Joseph R. Portelance, Jr., J. C. Callahan and William J. Dunion.

BUDDY POPPY BY FOREIGN WAR VETERANS

R. E. Hourigan post No. 594, V. F. W., will on Saturday, May 29, observe the annual "Buddy" Poppy day when these memorial flowers will be offered for sale. The Veterans of Foreign Wars inaugurated the poppy movement in 1922.

Explaining the origin and the purpose of the "Buddy" poppy sale a statement from the organization says:

"Many inquiries have been received regarding the right of the Veterans of Foreign Wars to use the poppy as the memorial flower of that organization and to promote the movement to have every citizen of our country wear a poppy on Memorial day in token of our love and reverence for our hero dead. One phase of the question is easily disposed of. Poppies made of cloth or paper are artificial flowers and as such cannot be patented or copyrighted, or controlled exclusively by any organization, firm, or individual. When the Veterans of Foreign Wars originated the plan of using only poppies made by disabled veterans, we took the precaution to give our flower the name "Buddy" Poppy and to register that name as a trademark. It gives us the exclusive right to use that name, which is a guarantee that all poppies so labeled are genuine-made by disabled veterans.

"The fact that the V. F. W. was the first veteran society to conduct a national poppy sale is well known to all who are familiar with the history of veteran affairs in America. We have consistently endeavored to prevent the commercialization of the poppy idea and to keep the whole movement upon a high plane, in harmony with the ideals and sentiments which inspired our undertaking.

The annual sale of "Buddy" poppies by the Veterans of Foreign Wars is designed not only to symbolize the tribute which Americans, as a united people, feel for those who died for the ideals and principles for which our nation stands but also as "a testimony of the nation's continuing sense of its concern for the men who served," and who still suffer as a result of that service.

HARTFORD LUTHER LEAGUES WERE ENTERTAINED HERE

The Luther League of the German Lutheran church, Franklin street, entertained 50 members of the Luther League of Trinity church, Hartford, Tuesday evening. At a social in the church parlors, The Hartford guests arrived by bus during the early evening and the programme was opened with talks by Ernest French, secretary, and Henry Frisher, treasurer of the Hartford league. An address of welcome was given by Miss Elizabeth Steizner, president of the local league.

During the evening games were played and there was a series of comic sketches portrayed on the stage. The characters were as follows:

SETTLEMENT MADE IN KRAMER WILL CONTEST

The two jury cases of John M. Kramer of Norwich, Mary Burnham of Willimantic, both against William J. Kramer, as executor of the estate of George Kramer, late of Colchester, have been settled out of court. There were both appeals from probate and were assigned for trial here Tuesday. The terms of settlement were not made public.

The reasons given for the appeal were that George Kramer never signed sealed and published the document in question as his last will and that at the time of the making of the document he was not of sound mind and memory and not capable of making a valid disposition of the property by will.

The will was made in the presence of Albert J. Bailey, Henry Parker and L. Bokoff. By the will George Kramer bequeathed $100 to John Kramer of Yantic; John Kramer, Jr., Colchester; George Kramer, Norwich; Charles and Nellie Kramer of Rockland, Mass., were each left $200. The residue of the estate was to be held by William J. Kramer of Norwich in trust and he was to pay out of the fund, as the same may last, the sum of $100 to Mary Burnham, niece of Willimantic, William K., and William J. Kramer of Norwich, brother and nephew, and in case of the death of either of the said persons prior to his decease the said sum of $100 was to be paid each year to his survivors. The estate was appraised at $12,485.61.

She later attended Shelton school in Bridgeport and Bridgeport high school. Before her marriage, she was for a time connected with the Southern New England Telephone company at New Britain and later was an office executive with the Holmes & Edwards branch of the International Silver company at Bridgeport. Mr. Larson is a department executive of Barron G. Collier, Inc., New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. Larson and family are passing the next two months with Mrs. Larson's mother, Mrs. Evelyn M. Palmer of 25 Sixth street, Bridgeport, formerly of Norwich.

DISCOVERED MIDNIGHT FIRE IN BARN IN WESTERLY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, May 26—Albert Fisher of Wequetequock and party returning from Providence at 1 o'clock this morning discovered flames in the barn in the rear of the house of Michael D. G. Papalia, 329 High street and immediately turned in an alarm from Box 24. The fire apparently started in the Ford touring car of Mr. Papalia, which he drove into the barn about 2.45. The flames went through the roof and out through the doorways and windows. An Oldsmobile car of Mr. Papalia was also considerably damaged. And the Hudson sedan of Trevato Bros. Three streams of hose were laid and the fire put out before it could get fire to adjoining dwelling houses. The damage is covered by insurance.

NORWICH AND INSURANCE COMPANY LOSE SUIT

Following a 10-minute deliberation Tuesday at New London, the jury in the court of common pleas returned a defendant's verdict in the case of the City of Norwich and the Travelers Insurance Co., against Joseph and A. Nelime, proprietors of a garage on Main street in this city. Judge Charles B Waller accepted the verdict. Atty. Arthur T. Keefe represented the defendants while Atty. C. V. James represented the city and the insurance company who were plaintiffs. Fred A. Beckwith, of Niantic, was foreman of the jury.

The suit was brought by Norwich and the insurance company to recover $455.75, which had been paid to the late Cornelius Driscoll, a city employe, who was injured in line of duty by an automobile which backed out of the defendants garage in Main street in this city and driven by an employe of the garage K. W. Belfort. The accident occurred on Aug. 5, 1925, but the driver, according to testimony in court was going less than five miles an hour and using all due care and precautions.

The defense put on no witnesses. The jury retired at the close of the plaintiffs side of the case and Atty. Keefe made a motion for the court to direct a verdict for the defendant, which was denied. Witnesses called were Street Commissioner John C. Donovan of Norwich, Richard L. Tarrant, of the insurance company, Belfort, the driver of the car and Eugene Thomas Dumont, of Norwich and Southbridge, Mass., a witness to the accident.

The jury which sat on the case consisted of the following members: Charles W. Elliot, William A. Mercer, John J. Kesting, New London; Michael Enright, Charles E. Baker, Groton; Fred P. Davis, Stonington; Fred W. Turner, Ledyard; Jacob Adams, Montville; George A. Keeney, Alonzo M. Beebe, Waterford; Fred A. Beckwith and Winifred Hanney, East Lyme.

MISS RUTH SEABURY AT NORWICH TOWN CHURCH

A large and enthusiastic gathering assembled in the Norwich Town Congregational church on Sunday evening under the auspices of the missionary committee of the Norwich Christian Endeavor union. Delegations headed by their pastors were present from Second church, New London, Hanover, Ledyard, Taftville, North Stonington. Young people were also present from Park and United of the city and from Colchester. North Stonington came 20 strong, about half of them being young men.

A girls chorus from the local church with Organist Herbert Terrington, occupied the choir loft and led the singing. Miss Elisabeth Avery of the committee of arrangements presided, announcing the hymns and reading the scripture lesson. Rev. G. F. Bailey, pastor of the church, offered the prayer.

Miss Ruth Seabury, young people's director of the woman's board of missions, was introduced by Miss Avery and gave the address of the evening.

Miss Seabury referred to the saying of Jesus that we should love the Lord our God with all our minds and heart and strength. She enforced the significance of the text by weaving through it the personal experiences of particular friends of hers now in active service on the mission fields of India, China and in the heart of Africa, she held her audience for 40 minutes in rapt attention. Many crowded to the front of the auditorium at the close of the address to question the speaker further about details of young people's work at home and abroad.

Miss Seabury displayed an exhibit of useful articles which can be made by young people's groups and which are much needed in hospitals and schools on the mission fields.

She was the guest of Miss Helen Eadie of Hanover over the week end.

FAY WILL CONTEST IS SETTLED WITHOUT TRIAL

The fight of Charles B. Hutchins of Danielson to break the will of his aunt, the late Mrs. Mariah H. Fay, who left him nothing from her estate of about $155,000, came to an end in the superior court here Tuesday morning when it was the first case on the list assigned for trial. A settlement in the case was reached and a stipulation was made whereby judgment for the defendant was allowed to be entered.

It was understood that Mr. Hutchins secured a monetary settlement but what the amount is was not made public.

The appeal from probate taken by Mr. Hutchins was on the ground that Mrs. Fay was not mentally capable of making a will and that she was unduly influenced by several persons who were principal large beneficiaries under the will, these being Lucy F. Crosby, Josephine Main Franklin and Ina F. Keach of Danielson, and others unknown to the appellant.

Under the terms of the will of which Attorney Charles L. Stewart is executor, the three persons are to receive the income from the residue of the estate which is to be held in a trust fund of about $100,000. After the death of the last of these, the trust fund goes to Franklin Dexter Crosby, a student at Yale, who is a son of Mrs. Henry D. Crosby. His brother, John, will receive the trust fund in case Franklin should die before the trust fund is disposed of.

The principal item in the estate was the Fay building on Franklin square at the corner of Main and Ferry streets, which was appraised for $90,000, but sold at auction for $150,000. A mortgage of $22,6[illegible] held by the Dime Savings bank was paid off by Administrator Stewart and there are a few minor matters to be disposed of before the estate can be finally settled.

A bequest of $5,000 was made in the will to Miss Mollie Burke of this city, who was housekeeper for Mrs. Fay for 26 years. There was also an $800 bequest to Christ Episcopal church for a Memorial window for herself and her husband, Edwin Fay, who died in January, 1900. Mrs. Fay died Feb. 9, 1925.

Brown and James were attorneys for Mr. Hutchins, H. H. Pettis and Brown and Perkins for the administrator.

$1,000 Award For Westerly Man

Theodore Whitford of Westerly, a sophomore at Amherst college, has been awarded the $1,000 prize offered by the American Council of Education for study abroad. Mr. Whitford will spend next year in study at some foreign university and will return to pursue his course of study at Amherst his senior year in regular standing. The requirements for the prize were very rigid, only an unusually high standing enabling an American college student to be a candidate.

ACORNS AND OAKS

Because Isabella, Queen of Spain, was convinced by a young dreamer of Genoa that the world was round and one could reach the East by sailing West—America was discovered.

Because Clara Barton, a nurse in the Civil War, was convinced that a great national relief organization was necessary for the emergencies of war and peace—the American Red Cross was organized.

Because Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., was convinced that the medicine she made for her family and her neighbors could be sold to the benefit of other women, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was marketed. Today it is recommended by women all over America as a dependable medicine.

WHOLE TOWN EATING COOKIES SOLD BY CAMP FIRE GIRLS

Okisa and Pequot Camp Fire girls are busy during this official Cooky Week, in the endeavor to add to the fund for their projected camp at Groton Long Point the coming season. The use of the vacant store in the Central building has been denoted to the girls by the owner of the building, William H. Murphy and each afternoon an Academy girl opens the store, where the sale goes on from 2 to 6. So good are these home-baked cookies that every customer wants to come again.

Tuesday, the store was opened by Miss Natalie Holden, who had the assistance of Gertrude Thumm, Eleanor B. Welsh, Edith Hunsinger, Dorothy C. Miller and Julia John. The guardians of the 30 or 40 girls of the camps are Misses Beatrice Freeman and Dorothy Holden. A special is made of sugar cookies during the sale all this week.

Warns Middle-Aged Women to Check High Blood Pressure

Thousands of women at the changing time of life are in danger of high blood pressure. It is caused by poisonous waste matter accumulating in the system or the weakening of one or more organs. This forces the heart to do more work and raises blood pressure.

The symptoms are dizziness, shortness of breath, head pains, flushed face, nervousness or sleeplessness. High blood pressure must be treated and stopped for everyone knows it brings on Bright's disease, apoplexy and often sudden death. It is too dangerous and quick acting to go without heeding its symptoms.

Norma is a doctor's prescription for high blood pressure that has been used with great success.

Being a purely vegetable medicine it contains no habit forming drugs, is harmless, and works in such a way that it drives out waste matter, lessens the duty of the over-taxed heart and reduces blood pressure swiftly and safely. Often one bottle brings great relief. Get a bottle of Norma today and free yourself of life shortening high blood pressure.

Benefits of Massage Without Massage

You all knew the splendid benefits of expert facial massage. But do you also know that if improperly done, or too frequently, it tends to loosen the skin, weaken the muscular foundation, producing sags and wrinkles?

If more women only knew it, all the good of massage, and more, with no harmful effect, may be had by applying a simple mixture of Powdered Tarkroot and lemon juice, a spoonful of each. This, instead of making the face flabby, does the very opposite. Its action is perfectly astounding. In your mirror you see wrinkles, sore lines and sagginess literally "ironed out" in less than fifteen minutes! A beautifully rounded contour results and a youthful pink glow m

BASEBALL FIELD DAY WITH GAMES FOR FACULTY AND VARSITY INTERESTING

The Academy baseball squad and members of the faculty held a real old fashioned field day at the Campus Friday afternoon for which about 50 prizes were awarded for the events. Cimikoski was the shining light in the baseball events winning three first places and a second.

The events opened with a baseball game between the young women members of the faculty and a team from the student girls in which the instructors for once had the advantage of their teams of the fair sex was not without its thrills and was replete with good hitting and sparkling fielding. For the faculty Miss Platt did the pitching and Miss Gallup started to do the catching but after one inning retired in favor of Miss Tarr. For the students Miss Bennett was the pitching star while Dot Spicer did the catching. Four Babe Ruths developed on the student team. Miss Bennett, Miss Hracyk, Miss Williams and Miss Brennan, who all hit home runs. The score at the end of the five innings was 22 to 6 in favor of the students.

The second game was between the varsity ball team and the men members of the faculty in which for four innings the faculty members had the edge on the varsity but the varsity with timely hitting won out 6 to 4. The feature of the game was the hitting of Henry "Pop" Tirrell who completely baffled Jarvis' shoots and poled it out of the lot for what would have been a home run had the veteran cared to try for the circuit but he halted at second. Johnny Williams pitched brilliant ball for the faculty and was well supported in the field by Bill Gallagher and Earle Brigham. Court Whitney did the catching in very acceptable manner. The other members of the faculty team were Paul Bradley who excelled in base stealing, Ray Congdon whose fine catching in the outfield was of high order and varied order. Ray Case played right field.

After the game the following prizes were awarded to members of the faculty: For the longest hit, a pipe donated by William Harrington, awarded to Henry A. Tirrell; for the most hits, a razor donated by George E. Engler, awarded to Courtland Whitney; for the best performance considering use of credit, a cigarette case donated by Bellows, the jeweler, awarded to John H. Williams Jr.; for the best batting and base running, the chair donated by Smith, awarded to Paul Bradley; for the most errors, a pencil donated by Tagany Smoke Shop awarded to William H. Gallagher. There was a tie between Earle B. Brigham and Mr. Gallagher and by unanimous acclaim Mr. Gallagher was given the prize.

The lineups for the two games was as follows:

Student Girls—Dot Spicer c; Miss E. Bennett p; Miss Dean 1b; Miss E. Huntington 2b; Miss Rose Crumb 3b; Miss Mary Hracyk ss; Miss Williams lf; Miss J. Hamill cf; Miss K. Brennan rf; Miss R. B. O'Rourke rf.

Faculty—Miss Platt p; Miss Gallup c; Miss Bogner 1b; Miss Kelley 2b; Miss R. Tarr 3b; Miss Steinman ss; Miss Lord lf; Miss Bentley cf; Miss Mulcahy rf.

Varsity team—Jarvis p, cf; Goldblatt 2b; Cimikoski 3b; Ferrington 3b; Tombari ss, p; Sadinsky lf; Greene cf; Bowser rf, cf; Hamil rf, 3b.

Faculty—Williams p; Whitney c; Tirrell 1b; Gallagher 2b; Bradlaw 3b; Brigham ss; Congdon lf; John cf; Case rf.

Following the baseball games the field events for the varsity players were run off. The events and prize winners were as follows:

BIG SHAKE-UP EXPECTED IN HARTFORD E. L. CLUB

HARTFORD, May 25.—(AP)—With the Hartford near the bottom of the heap in the Eastern League race, through failure to get started this season, drastic action was taken today in an attempt to end the Senators' slump.

Owner James M. Clarkin announced that Gene Sheridan, second baseman purchased from Jersey City early in the season had been named acting manager in place of E. McDonald. Jack O'Hara, who has been scout and advisor for the team, has been released.

With these changes completed in the active playing control of the team, it was further announced that Pitcher Homer Jenkins and Catcher Eddie Hackbarth had been given their release. New faces are expected in the Hartford line-up soon, including [illegible] first baseman, an outfielder and a pitcher or two.

Sheridan's future as playing head of the team depends on his ability to bring victories to the Senators. Andy Coakley, Columbia baseball coach and former Pittsfield manager, was here for a conference recently and watched the Senators in action. It was reported that he was being considered for the manager's post, but it was announced today that he had not been definitely engaged.

COMMISSION ASKS RICKARD TO MAKE REPORT TUESDAY

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—The New York state athletic commission today fixed next Tuesday as the date for an accounting with Tex Rickard on his 1926 heavyweight championship plans. At that time, Chairman James A. Farley said today, the board will call for a definite report from the promoter on his progress in matching Jack Dempsey and Harry Wills.

Rickard who has obtained agreements with Dempsey and Gene Tunney, had made no overture to Wills in the 30 days given him by the commission to negotiate with the negro and his manager, Paddy Mullins. At least, Mullins says he has not been approached by Rickard, and friends of the promoter assert the latter has no intention of signing Wills. Rickard has been in Hot Springs, Ark., for several days on vacation.

PIG FIRST INNING HELPS WILLIAMS BEAT HARVARD

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 25.—(AP)—A swarm of eight runs in the first inning helped Williams to an 11 to 9 victory over Harvard today. Barbee replaced Booth for Harvard in the pitcher's box in the first inning and held Williams to three more runs in the second and fourth. White pitched for the visitors until the last frame, when Bok took his place. Score:

Williams	8	2	0	1	0	0	0	0	11	13	3
Harvard	1	1	0	2	0	0	0	5	0	9	11	2

Batteries: White, Bok and Coe; Booth, Barbee and Durham.

COLGATE BEATS YALE TEAM IN PITCHING DUEL

NEW HAVEN, May 25.—(AP)—Colgate nine today broke Yale's winning streak of eight consecutive victories by defeating them here 4-3. The first seven innings were a pitching duel between Scholtz of Colgate and Shoop of Yale, but the latter weakened in the eighth, allowing four hits to give them four runs. Shoop struck out ten men and walked one, while Scholtz fanned six and passed five.

Yale tied the score in the seventh, 3 to 2, when Lindley doubled, went to third on a single and scored on an error. Stenberg led the Colgate attack with five hits, including a triple and a double. Score by innings:

Colgate	000	101	040						4	11	2
Yale	010	000	110						3	8	3

GIANTS TAKE DODGERS IN BOTH GAMES

NEW YORK, May 25.—(AP)—The New York Giants celebrated their return to the Polo Grounds from a disastrous road trip by defeating Brooklyn twice today, 4 to 1, and 9 to 8. After Parnell won the first game for New York with a home run with the bases full, the Giants beat Grimes, the veteran Robin spitball pitcher, with a seventh inning assault in the second game which netted five runs.

Fournier returned to the Brooklyn lineup for the first time since his injury early in the month. Score:

CALIFORNIA COACH CRITICIZES EASTERN METHODS OF TIMING

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 25.—(AP)—The University of California's athletes arrived here today for the I. C. A. A. A. A. track and field championships next Friday and Saturday. Coach Walter Christie expressed the belief that all three west coast teams would be in the fight and said that his outfit of 15 "native sons" was fit and sound. He also expressed doubt as to the accuracy of some of the sensational times that have been turned in by sprinters this year and suggested the judging and timing could be remedied.

Christie made no extravagant claims for the University of California, which has won three of the eight postwar meets of the association, but he said: "Thirty or more points ought to win the meet and it is not hard to figure any one of the far western-ers topping that total."

A New Yorker by birth and a former Princeton coach, Christie accents the unequal square deal for the far westerners in the Harvard stadium this week.

"I've never had a bit of complaint over the treatment we have received at the intercollegiates in the east, but one phase which I think could be remedied is judging and timing," he remarked. "Now we have had stories on all sorts of wonderful marks by all sorts of wonderful sprinters this spring. Often cupable of running a sound 10 1-5 seconder for 100 yards have been finishing about four yards behind men credited 9 3-5 seconds.

PAROCHIAL SCHOOL LEAGUE

St. Patrick's Beat Loaders

The St. Patrick's school team handed the league leading Sacred Heart team their first defeat of the season Tuesday afternoon at Dupuell field when the Saints won a close decision, 7 to 6, over the Taftville team. The Sacred Heart team scored six runs in the second inning but were unable to get another across throughout the remainder of the game. The Saints scored in the first, second and third innings and then tallied three times in the sixth which dowsed the Taftville team. Hamill turned in his third league victory. The lineup: Hamill, p; Mathews, c; Ingleheart, 1b; Couture 2b; O'Neil, 3b; H. Mathews, ss; O'Connell, lf; Russillo, cf; Kirker, rf.

RED SOX TRADE FIVE FOR TWO MINOR PLAYERS

BOSTON, May 25.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox today announced two deals by which they obtain a new infielder and outfielder in exchange for five reserve players. Chester Rose and Joe Kiefer, pitchers, and Tom Jenkins, outfielder, have been traded to the Wichita Falls team of the Texas league for Henry Clay Fitzgerald, an outfielder. From the Columbus club of the American association, the Red Sox have obtained Regan, an infielder, for Emmett McCann, formerly of Portland, Ore., and Jimmy Geygan, a recruit from Aquina college, Columbus.

RIVERVIEW CLUB PLAYS TWO HARD GAMES THIS WEEK END

Manager Paul Semke will send his Riverview club against two hard teams over the Memorial day week end when on Saturday the Corbin Red Sox will come here and on Monday the Sons of Italy team plays at the State hospital. The Corbin Red Sox always put up a stiff game against the hospital and a fast game can be anticipated. The Italian team of South Manchester has never played here but from reports from the Silk town they are the best in baseball in that city.

TAFTVILLE A. A. TO PLAY J. C. ALL-STARS TONIGHT

Taftville A. A. will clash with the Jewett City All-Stars this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the Providence street grounds in a twilight game. This is one of the first of the many twilight games that will be played by the Taftville team this season. In tonight's contest Robbit Gaudier will pitch for Taftville and Mcsleston will catch. The battery for the All-Stars will be Stanley, pitch and Parkhurst, catch.

Tonight's Game.

The contest this evening is the Twi league at the Academy campus should be very interesting as it will bring together the Warriors and the Braesons.

The Warriors won their first start in the league last week and are out to take their second game tonight. However the Braesons, since their defeat last week, are reported as having strengthened considerably and should give the 1925 champions a stiff battle.

The game will start at 6:15 p. m.

ACADEMY MEETS BULKELEY ON THE TRACK AT CAMPUS THIS AFTERNOON

Bulkeley and the Academy clash again today only this time the contest will be on the track and field instead of the baseball diamond. The meet will be held at the Academy campus and it is hoped that the Academy trackaters will carry on the good work of the baseball and tennis teams which holds victories over the Orange and Black Whalers.

Bulkeley is reported to have a strong track team being especially strong in the distance events and field sports as well as having a fast man in Gray for the 50 b events. Bulkeley will bring up a squad of about 25 men in an effort to take the Academy track and field men into camp. The same bitter rivalry that has marked the baseball and tennis games is expected to manifest itself in the track meet today and the Academy undergraduate body will be out in force for the meet.

Realizing that they must uphold the glorious records set by the baseball and tennis teams the Academy track and field men have been putting in an exceptionally hard week on the cinders and in the jumping pit. Armstrong who has been high point winner for the Academy this season is expected to carry on his good work against the New London team. Counted upon to be a point man for the Red and White. In the distance runs the Academy is depending on Watters and Kramer while in the field events, Krahm, Dixon and Mounley are likely to place in the pole vault and high jump, while Cimikoski and Tombari are listed for the javelin and discus throws. Cimikoski will also enter the broad jump and possibly the 440 yard run.

This track meet will wind up the Academy track season for the spring and a victory today will mean the termination of what may be considered a fairly successful track season. The sprints have all been won by the Academy but the field events have been a weak spot and every effort is being made to strengthen this department for next season.

ATHLETICS SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER WITH SENATORS

PHILADELPHIA, May 25.—(AP)—The Athletics and Washington split a double header today that required almost five hours playing. Washington won the first, 17 to 13 by scoring 11 runs in the fifth inning on nine hits and two walks after tying the score in the preceding round with a four run rally. The Mackmen rallied in the closing innings but were unable to overcome the champions' big lead.

Philadelphia took the second game, 7 to 6. Walter French and Gordon Cochrane hit home runs in the second game, both going over the right field fence. Cochrane's came with two men on base and tied the score.

Gray pitched well in a relief role, holding Washington safe after he succeeded Rommel in the second inning. The scores:

WESTERLY

WOMEN'S COMMUNITY CLUB ELECTS MISS RUTH V. DAVIS
(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 25.—Westerly Women's Community club held its annual meeting this evening at 6.30 o'clock in the church parlors of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church on Main street, with President Mrs. Lloyd W. Willard presiding. Following the supper and business session, Miss Ruth Victoria Davis was elected president for the ensuing year.

Under the joint direction of the Women's Aid society and the S. D. B. society of the Pawcatuck Seventh Day Baptist church a chicken supper was served about 150 members and friends. President Willard presided at the business session which followed the supper when annual reports were made by the society officers and Mrs. Ralph M. Briggs of Ashaway led the singing during the evening. Special reports were made by Mrs. S. H. Davis, in charge of the Community club activities during the past year in the interests of the young Italian women of Westerly, which were conducted at the High street grammar school. President Willard told of the work of the dressmaking classes; Miss Ruth Davis of the gym classes and Miss Flora Bannon of the class in dramatics. The special speaker of the evening was Miss Gertrude Saunders of Providence, who had for her subject the work among the foreign born women of Providence in which she is actively engaged.

The nominating committee consisting of Mrs. Alexander Ferguson, Mrs. Alexander Mitchell and Mrs. Elisa C. Burdick, reported the following slate and they were elected as follows:

The Dawn of a Better Cigarette

Make your DOUBTS walk the PLANK and give this New Cigarette a Sporting Try-out

HAS your smoking become like a marriage with the romance worn off?

Is it a settled routine with all the old charm gone?

Then maybe it's time for a change of brands.

There's something wrong with the old love, when you get no "feeling" out of a smoke, beyond the warmth it brings to your lips.

For men who are tired of sameness or tameness, we created this newcomer.

A cigarette with a charm that woos and wins even the jaded smoke taste.

A cooler and milder, a more winsome and fragrant cigarette. Called OLD GOLD, because, like its name, it represents the highest possible standard in quality and value.

Speaking from 166 years of experience, we honestly believe OLD GOLD is the finest cigarette at its price ever produced.

But please don't take our opinion alone. Try a package—and judge for yourself. If smoking is your daily solace, won't you gamble 15c to try to enhance that solace?

If you have any doubts, give 'em the air. Walk 'em down the plank. And then give OLD GOLD a fair trial. We'll rely on the evidence you smoke out of that first package.

C., attending the National Baptist convention, the services, all but the Bible school will be omitted. The first time in six years.

The C. J. E. society is to meet this (Wednesday) evening with Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Weeks.

The stone walls which form the causeway that extends from the eastern end of East Grand street to Southeast Island, property of Robert L. Johnstone of New York, are nearing completion. The Mystic Valley Water Co. will start laying pipe soon.

Nina Council, D. of I. held the fourth annual banquet at the K. of C. home Sunday afternoon. A large number attended. Following was the program carried out: Flag pledge; prayer, Rev. J. E. O'Brien; Welcome, Mrs. C. Gallant; song, Miss Anna McGowan; remarks, Rev. Fr. Thomas P. Mooney of Mystic; piano duet, Jean and Nellie Ledwith; remarks, Past Regent Mrs. Walsh, of Westerly; solo, Ruth Maxson; poem, Gladys Morgan. Martin Spellman of Westerly sang several selections. Theo. Krizanet gave violin solos and there were vocal solos by Mrs. Connors of Mystic.

BOZRAH

Mrs. Charles W. Webb of New London, Indiana, is spending several weeks at the parsonage, the guest of Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Webb.

The New London council of Religious Education held a community teachers' meeting at the Center church Thursday afternoon and evening. The conference was led by Rev. H. N. Wells of Lyme, who spoke on, "Who Can Teach the Lesson." Rev. J. Harlow Graham discussed How to Plan the Lesson and Rev. A. W. Cansey, What to Teach as the Lesson. The following churches were represented: Lebanon Baptist, Hitchville Baptist, Waterchester, Colchester, Bozrah and Franklin Congregational. Supper was served by the Bozrah church.

C. A. Parker has sold his place to Edward Congdon.

At the last regular meeting of the Bozrah grange a class was initiated in the third and fourth degree.

Rev. and Mrs. N. E. Webb were present at a banquet in Hartford on Wednesday evening, given to the seniors, of the Hartford Theological seminary.

SALEM

In the annual speaking and spelling contest of the pupils of the six schools in Salem, held in the Grange hall, there were 19 contestants in the speaking competition, Stella Fisher from the Gates Hill school was winner with Muss DeWolfe of the Pond school second.

There were also 19 who participated in the spelling contest which was won by Jennie Wojnar of the Gates Hill school, also the winner last year. Betty Jamieson of the White Birch school was a close second. Janet Lane played a piano solo, Grace Ames and Betty Jamieson a piano duet, Sidney Winans for a saxophone solo and there was a song by the pupils of the West road school and recitation by Jennie Zelzanskie.

JOSEPH CONTINO, JR., OF NEW LONDON, THREATENS TO SUE BALTIC DRIVER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 25—Joseph Contino, Jr., 18 was fined $10 in the police court this morning for operating an automobile without having a license. He has since obtained the permission required. The youth resides at Clark Lane in the town of Waterford, and on the 26th of last month he drove to New London with others in a truck that is the property of his father. On the way from Ocean Beach he noticed an automobile operated at a fast rate of speed was approaching, so he went to the side of the highway as far as he could to give the oncoming machine all the roadway possible. He didn't steer out enough, however, for the auto, which it developed later was driven by William Pressner of 158 Main street, Baltic, crashed into the Contino machine and raked it badly. The damage resulting was about $100. Joe accused the Baltic man of having committed a reckless act in colliding with him and talked of a suit in damages, but Pressner apologized and offered to make good any damage occasioned. He has not made good, though Joe has called on him. Now the youth is to bring matters to a climax for he says he will sue for damages. It is understood that the Pressner machine carried insurance.

TEST OF NEW PUMPER DEFERRED TO FRIDAY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 25—The official test of the new Ahrens pumper, recently purchased by the city of New London for use of the Pequot Hose company and which arrived in New London several days ago, will not take place tomorrow as had been planned by city officials. The demonstrator is ready for the test, but because of the inability of officials of the National Insurance exchange to reach New London Wednesday the test has been deferred until Friday morning at 10 o'clock. The test will take place at the municipal pier and will occupy about three hours, during which time water from the Thames river will be pumped through several distances of hose and different nozzles. The apparatus was driven about the streets of the city today and daily drivings of the pumper will take place until Friday for the purpose of tuning up the massive fire-fighting machine.

Mrs. Arthur McGrath of 480 Williams street was hostess at a miscellaneous shower the other night complimentary to Miss Mary Florence Lanson of Hartford, a member of the class of 1919 of Connecticut college, in honor of her approaching marriage with Steven Romaine of Hartford. Miss Lannon has been social secretary of the Crowley club vacation house for the past three summers.

The New London Masonic club will have a night for ladies Wednesday when there will be a program of vocal and instrumental selections, dancing and refreshments. The affair will take place at the home of the organization on Huntington street.

Councilor James A. May, who is touring the west and New York state, will return home the latter part of this week.

There was a bunch of drunks and fighters before the court today, eight of them. Some of them were of the plain sot while others had trills on their offenses. Those who had recently been in the court and who were shown consideration because they were first offenders as far as the court had knowledge, were given what was coming to them today. They were fined and if they could not pay they went to jail. Others were sent up for given periods. It was a sort of cleanup session for the drunks. One of the admittedly guilty was a business man who has a strong appetite for liquor and who is a nuisance when intoxicated. He was fined.

The funeral of Fred W. Bruce was held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at 46 Hanley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph R. Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of John H. Vallett, who was struck and almost instantly killed on the Norwich-New London turnpike Saturday afternoon by a machine operated by Max Ancell, Montville, was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at his residence in Uncasville. The services were conducted by Rev. Horatio J. Chase, pastor of the Montauk Avenue Baptist church, this city. The ritual of Pequot lodge, I. O. O. F., this city, of which organization Mr. Vallett had been a member many years, was also used in connection with the services. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

The funeral of Miss Jennie M. Rogers, was held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock at the Seventh Day Baptist church, Waterford, and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Duane Ogden. Burial was in First Hopkinton cemetery, Ashaway, R. I.

James C. Bence, 82, died this morning at his residence, 121 State street, death ending an illness of but a few weeks. He is survived by his wife and a brother George Bence, of New Haven. Mr. Bence was a Civil war veteran, having served in Co. E., United States infantry. He was born in Bath, Eng., but had resided in New London nearly half a century.

Mrs. Ann Caroline Hunger, 78, wife of Ferdinand Hunger, died last night at the residence of her son-in-law, Nelson L. Cone, 118 Willetta avenue, after a lingering illness. Besides her husband and daughter, Mrs. Hunger is survived by a second daughter, Mrs. Walter P. Camp, of this city.

Abraham Bronstein, of New York, formerly of New London, is spending a few days in this city.

Robert H. King, 40, veteran conductor in both the passenger and freight service of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, died last night at his residence, 25 Denison avenue. He is survived by his wife and daughter and by two sons, Walter and Norman King, all of this city. He was a member of the Order of Railway Conductors; Fairview lodge, No. 101, I. O. O. F., Groton and Brainard lodge, No. 102, A. F. and A. M., this city. Mr. King had long been in ill health, being a sufferer from an internal malady for which he had been under treatment many months. Mr. King was operated upon some time ago and it was believed that he would recover. He was born in Rockville and had been in the employe of the railroad 23 years.

The City of New London has sold to Ernest E. Rogers and the latter has transferred to the city, small parcels of land on Rogers street. The exchange of lands was made to permit Mr. Rogers to straighten the line of that highway.

William Clark, charged with being a deserter from the United States army, was given a court martial at Fort H. G. Wright, Fishers Island, this afternoon. Clark was arrested in New London March 27 by Sergeant John Cavanaugh and is alleged to have deserted from Camp Meade, Md., in 1921. Sergeant Cavanaugh was a witness at the court martial.

Mrs. Edward Raymond of 25 Dell street; Gordon and Graham Peckham, twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Peckham, 39 Pequot avenue; Altheus Blais, 11 Pequot avenue, and Mrs. John Cuddy and infant daughter, 33 Howard street, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Mrs. John Hilding returned to her home in Groton, today having been under treatment at Home Memorial hospital for several days.

Mrs. Mary Gardner, 18 Blackhall street, and Mrs. Ida Bragaw, 39 West street, are at Atlantic City, representing the New London Women's club at the 15th biennial convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy this afternoon reported the hatchway on Main street, just north of State street in a dangerous condition. The matter was referred to the highway department.

Patrolman William Riordan was off duty today, being in Hartford in attendance of the session of the United States district court.

Herbert D. Utley, proprietor of a job printing establishment corner of Green and Golden streets, reported to the police late this afternoon that twice recently an attempt has been made to burglarize the place. When the first attempt was discovered Mr. Utley did not make it known to the police, but when the second effort to gain admission to the place was detected to have been made Monday night, Mr. Utley decided to inform the authorities. Each time the thief went to the yard in the rear of the printery and broke a piece of glass in one of the windows, presumably for the purpose of reaching through the opening and unfastening the window, but in neither instance was the window unlocked. It is surmised that the thief was scared away both times.

John Miga, 17 New street and Louis Kupis, 16 New street, complained to the police this evening because of damage done their gardens by youths who make a practice of using the highway for a ball field. Miga and Lupis stated that frequently the ball enters their respective premises and in chasing the ball the youngsters trample upon the garden where vegetables are growing.

Mrs. Harry G. Young, 118 Cedar Grove avenue, complained to the police this evening because of damage done her premises by a careless motorist. The driver of the machine, who attended the ball game at Morgan field at the conclusion of the game drove his car into the Young premises for the purpose of turning the machine around. In doing so the operator did not exercise care so as to where the car was driven but drove the machine through a garden.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward B. Clegg have returned to their home in Newark, N. J., after having spent several days with Mrs. Herbert Turner, Fitch avenue.

Ale Chaplinski, Montville, who has been arrested numerous times of late principally for intoxication and breach of the peace, will not cause the authorities of the town of Montville trouble for some time to come. When before Justice of the Peace Oscar Church this morning Chaplinski was fined $25 and costs and sentenced to 90 days in jail, on a charge of breach of the peace. Chaplinski appeared at his home late last night, intoxicated. He engaged in a quarrel with his wife and finally beat her, an experience the woman has previously undergone, but last night she decided that she had received sufficient inhuman treatment and notified the state police. Officers Frank Schweikert and George Sisson were sent to the Chaplinski home where the wife beater was found and made a prisoner. He was detained at the New London police station until the hour of his presentation in court.

To date at Ocean Beach, it has been one of the coldest months of May in a number of years and occupants of cottages there are still receiving heat through means of a furnace, fireplace, stoves or other artificial means.

The circulators of a petition for the obtaining of signers in sufficient number to compel the city council to issue a call for a special city election, that the voters may express their desire as to whether the present form of city-manager form of government or the former municipal form of government shall prevail in the conduct of city business, report that but about 150 more names are needed to the several petitions before it will be ready to hand to City Clerk Julian D. Moran. The city clerk will then determine whether there are 2,150 bona fide signatures attached to the petition and if that number exists, it will be handed to the council at the earliest possible meeting of that body. The circulators declare that the number of signers required will be obtained within another week and that the petition should go to the council that a date of the election can be selected during the latter part of June. Whenever the election is held, it will not be before September, as the charter provides when such an election shall take place.

The members of the New London police department, who are on their vacations will be the last to have recreative periods, at least as far as vacations are concerned. After the 15th of the month, when those on their vacations at present will have returned to duty, the only time off the officers will have will be two days each month. When City Manager Holt granted the officers a two-day respite from duty monthly, he revoked the vacation periods during the summer because of the fact that all the officers available are needed during that part of the year.

The observation train of the New Haven railroad that is used to follow the races of Yale and Harvard on the Thames river each year, is at Midway where it is being put in condition for the annual event, June 25.

Many are wondering why E. F. Black was granted permission to erect a business building on Fitch avenue, yet Simon Green was not allowed to establish his business on Williams street, near Blackhall street. There is a great difference in the case. Mr. Green was granted permission to erect a building such as he desired, but he was not given the privilege of locating a gasoline plant in the building. Mr. Black does not desire to use power in his plant and if he does use power it will not be generated by gasoline. The Black establishment is for the conduct of a business which is entirely within the law, while the Green business has an element of danger in the use of gasoline that must be considered.

It is probable that the petition of Charles Schall for the removal of bath houses which he claims are an encroachment upon city property, will get to the courts before a settlement of the matter is reached. The case is now in the city council where it has been referred to committee and the matter must be reported before the council can go farther with it. There are some questions of law involved and these will be settled by law.

The city council will review the Memorial day parade on Williams park, as there is no other place where the ceremony can be held. Even there it will be necessary to erect a platform that the members of the council may be seen among the crowd that will

OWNER OF BOOTLEG CAR FINED $300 AT HARTFORD

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 25—Michael Costello, proprietor of the Garden of Italy, a restaurant, 115 Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, was arraigned in the United States district court in Hartford this afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law in transportation. He pleaded guilty and was fined $300. Costello, who has been in business at Ocean Beach two years, was taken into custody several weeks ago, being arrested at the corner of Belden street and Belden court by Prohibition Enforcement Agents Joseph Fitzpatrick, Harry W. Avery and Stanton L. Brigham, when the car Costello was driving and for which a watch had been maintained throughout the night, was held up. In secret compartments beneath the machine was found five gallons of alcohol, which, it is alleged, Costello brought to this city and intended to use in the dispensing of drinks. Costello lost the alcohol and his machine, a Nash sedan was confiscated.

WATERFORD MAN STRUCK BY AUTOIST WHO SPED AWAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 25.— Albert Hathaway, about 55, residing on Gilead road, Waterford, is a patient at Lawrence Memorial hospital tonight, having been admitted to the institution shortly before 10 o'clock suffering from injuries sustained by being struck by an unidentified automobile. The driver of the car is being sought by the state police at Groton barracks for evasion of responsibility, the driver having left the man in the highway partially unconscious, after having alighted from the machine and observing that the man was seriously injured. Hathaway was walking in a northerly direction on his way to his home and when he reached a point near station 16 the automobile, a large touring car headed in a southerly direction came along and was operated to the left hand side of the road with the result that Hathaway was struck. The driver of the car stopped the machine and after looking over the front end boarded the car and drove away. The state police were notified of the accident and Officer Fred Kulowski was detailed to conduct an investigation. The officer went to the scene of the accident and after causing Hathaway to be removed to the hospital, endeavored to obtain witnesses of the accident or some one who saw the car. He was unable to do so. At the hospital it was ascertained that Hathaway has a compound fracture of the upper part of the right leg and possibly internal injuries.

DR. EMIL NOVAK GUEST OF DR. AND MRS. DUNN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 25—Dr. Emil Novak, noted surgeon, and a graduate from Johns Hopkins university, Baltimore, was the guest of the New London Medical society at a meeting of that organization held this evening in the English room of the Hotel Mohican. The meeting was attended by a majority of members of the society. A luncheon was served after which Dr. Novak delivered an informal address, dwelling on points in connection with the practice of medicine and surgery thatp roved highly interesting and instructive to the medical fraternity. Dr. Novak was accompanied to New London by Mrs. Novak and during their brief stay here they will be the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Frank M. Dunn, Broad street. Dr. Dunn is also a graduate from Johns Hopkins Medical department.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Wauregan House Barber Shop

Frank Denault, proprietor of the Wauregan house barber shop, a seven-chair shop where there is no waiting, is making special improvements in the place, having it decorated entirely in blue and all wood work to be covered in white glass. There will be a lavatory for each chair and a sterilizer as well, providing the most modern facilities for the satisfaction of patrons. A specialty is made of hair bobbing for ladies and he is putting in two new chairs for the children, one a hobby horse and the other an automobile which will delight the kiddies.

Lyceum Theatre, New London

Interwoven in the story of "Babies a la Carte" which will be the attraction at the Lyceum, New London, on Friday and Saturday, matinee Saturday, are characters of every day life, the principle is that of a shyster lawyer craving for fee, with no conscientious scruples as to how he obtains them. The many tricks and sharp practices he resorted to in attempting to obtain a divorce for a client gives ample opportunity to weave the comedy which promises four hundred laughs, and treats in a unique way a subject that is of vital moment to not only our country but it embraces the world.

Broadway Theater

When Stella Dallas, Henry King's production of Mrs. Olive Higgins Prouty's famous novel, opens at the Broadway theater, starting Sunday, it will be revealed as an exact celluloid translation of the book. Even the original title has been left intact.

This carries out the avowed intention of Samuel Goldwyn, producer of the film, to perpetuate the genius contained in the story by returning the romance precisely as it was read by the millions who devoured the novel and saw the play.

Successfully to carry out this idea made difficult by the dissimilar technique of the novel and the screen, Frances Marion, famous scenarist, spent more than four months in the preparation of the script.

Each incident and climax of the novel has been conscientiously preserved to the latter and spirit in the screen version. Laurel's birthday episode, a dramatic, high light, the Pullman car climax and the wedding have all been conveyed from words and sentences to pictorial drama.

Belle Bennett, picked as the 73rd applicant for the part, is considered to be Stella Dallas to the life. Ronald Colman is Stephen Dallas, the romantic youth of good family. Alice Joyce is the kindly, understanding Mrs. Morrison. Jean Hersholt lives the life of Ed Munn, the wise cracking, show-off riding master. Lois Moran, the unmodernized and unsophisticated child wonder, is the strange and beautiful Laurel. Mrs. Prouty, in a letter to Lois Moran, stated that Lois was her ideal Laurel. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., makes a perfect Richard Grosvenor, the carefree college boy, Laurel's sweetheart.

Although this mammoth production played at $2.00 prices for seven solid months in New York city Norwich theatregoers will see it at popular prices.

Palace Theater

Herbert Brenon, scholar, gentleman, motion picture director and—maker of stars. One without the others would not be a complete description of this man, Brenon. He has taken more unknown people, and made stars of them, than any director now producing pictures for the screen.

A short time ago, Betty Bronson was an unknown. Her name mean; absolutely nothing. True, she had played "bits," but never anything that amounted to much. Then, with a truly discerning eye, Brenon took a "test" of Betty with him when Sir James Barrie was asked to pick the leading player for the title role in Peter Pan. The rest is history. Today, Betty is among the foremost stars of the screen firmament.

Esther Ralston was another player of whom nothing was known. But, with her splendid characterization as Mrs. Darling in Peter Pan, she, too, took the country by storm.

Before being cast as Wendy by Mr. Brenon, little Mary Brian was just—plain Mary Brian. No it's—Miss Mary Brian, featured player in Paramount pictures.

In Dancing Mothers, his latest film, Brenon worked with a cast of well-known actors and actresses; and so the results, as may be expected, are better than ever. Conway Tearle, Alice Joyce and Clara Bow are co-

Edmund Goulding wrote the story from which the picture was adapted. Dancing Mothers is coming to the Palace theater Thursday for a three day run.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

A Smoker For World War Veterans

The Robert O. Fletcher post of the American legion, together with its chaplain, Rev. S. A. Ioiak are planning a good time for all the World war veterans next Thursday evening at the St. Joseph school club rooms, 130 Cliff street. The committee in charge will have a very fine program to entertain the boys and remind them of the good old war days.

There will be several good musical and vocal selections and after that some fast boxing matches arranged for the benefit of the veterans by the amateur boxers in the city. The ladies' auxiliary will prepared a delicious lunch to tickle the palates of every doughboy present.

The legion post is most anxious to have all the war veterans from any of the allied and American armies attend this smoker. Everybody will be assured a good time next Thursday, so please attend.

POETRY

The Wedding Chords

Heedless she strayed from note to note,
A maid, unless knowing that she sang!
The dainty accents from her throat
In undulations lightly rang.

She sang in laughing rhythms sweet;
A bird of spring was in her voice;
Till, on through measures deft and fleet,
She caught the ditty of her choice.

A surge of love, in words of fire,
Now made her breast with passion stir;
It breathed across her living lyre,
And thrilled the waiting chords in her.

Uplifted like a quivering dart,
One moment poised the tones on high,
To tell the language of her heart,
And swell the paean ere it die.

She smote the keys with will and force
Like storm winds swept the sounds along;
Her flying fingers in their course
Vied with the tumult of her song.

Her eyes flashed with a burning theme;
A glow of triumph flushed her cheek;
No need of words to tell the dream
Of love her lips would never speak.

When the wild cadence died in air,
And all the chords to silence fell,
I knew the spirit lurking there—
The secret that had wrought the spell.
—Stephen Henry Thayer.

Songs of Sea and Lands

I read whatever bards have sung
Of lands beyond the sea,
And the bright days when I was young
Come thronging back to me.

In fancy I can hear again
The Alpine torrent's roar,
The mule-bells on the hills of Spain,
The sea at Elsinore . . . .

I journey on by park and spire,
Beneath centennial trees,
Through fields with poppies all on fire,
And gleams of distant seas . . . .

Let others traverse sea and land,
And toil through various climes,
I turn the world round with my hand
Reading these poets' rhymes.
—Longfellow.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Hair Customer—Have you any hose?

New Clerk—What shade? Flesh, nude, brown or black?—Good Hardware.

Mr. Newlywed—This lettuce tastes awful. Did you wash it?

Mrs. Newlywed—Of course I did. Why, I even used my good perfumed soap on it. — Washington Star.

For you my dear, I would go to the ends of the earth!

Why didn't you come yesterday? It was raining!—Pele Mele, Paris.

First Caddie—There's nothing right with this course, according to 'im. I wonder wot sort of a course 'e wants?

Second Caddie—A correspondence course o' golf!—London Opinion.

Employer—Sam, I hear you and George almost had a fight.

Sam—Yassah, boss, we all would a' had a terrible fracas only they wasn't nobody there to hold us apart.—Life.

Horace—The last time I gave this recitation there wasn't a dry in my audience.

Oliver—What did you do? Recite it to the goldfish.—Detroit News.

My wife wants to go to dances all the time.

Doesn't she realize that you require some sleep?

She seems to think I ought to get that at the office.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

She was a woman who always told everybody her business. With a cheerful smile she settled herself at the counter of the haberdasher's and began:

My husband has been ill—very ill indeed. So I have to do his shopping; I want a nice shirt.

Certainly, madam, said the assistant. Stiff front and cuffs?

Oh, no! she exclaimed. The doctor says he must avoid anything with starch in it.—The Progressive Grocer

Starting in 1915 with assets consisting principally of a Washington hand press near one hundred years old and since that time added by an appropriation of only about $500, the University of Oregon Press has grown into a large institution. The new home of the Press, a $13,000 structure, was financed out of funds which it had earned.

The American Society for Safety Engineers' committee for the elimination of harmful noises is to make a study of noises that affect the nerves, cause loss of sleep and impair the hearing. Noises made by trolley cars, trains, power stations and industrial plants will be measured by instruments to ascertain the different intensities that result in harmful effects.

Two Detroit women, Mrs. A. R. Webster and Miss Gertrude Oatman, were marooned for a week in a curtained touring car on a snow blocked road 20 miles northwest of West Branch, Mich. They were finally rescued none the worse for their experience. The two subsisted on a supply of groceries bought before they started. There were plenty of robes and blankets in the car and occasionally Mrs. Webster started the motor to give added warmth.

One of the reasons why Belgium has been so long able to exercise a strong influence in overseas glass trade is the extreme care taken in packing. Insurance against breakage is extremely rare, as perfected containers for almost every sort of transportation encountered in the export markets have been designed. Cases are sometimes of two-inch material, specially framed and cleated, and the glass is packed in straw with paper sheets between the sheets. In many cases where particular risk of breakage is involved, a strong inner case is placed inside the outer one with a compressed straw designer between.

WARNING

Special Town Meeting

The legal voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Norwich are hereby warned to meet in a Special Town Meeting, to be held in the Town Hall, in Norwich, on

at Seven O'clock, P. M. (Standard Time) for the following purposes: To determine what action they will take upon a certain petition signed by 20 legal voters of said Town requesting the calling of a Special Town Meeting for the following purposes:

First: To decide whether or not said town will purchase a tract of land and build a school house thereon in the northwesterly portion of said town, within the limits of the Fourth Voting District in said town, at a cost for said land and the erection and equipment of said school building of not more than $225,000, and to appoint a committee to do all things necessary in connection therewith.

Also, to authorize the Board of Selectmen of said Town to borrow such sums of money upon such terms and at such times as may be, in their judgment, necessary, not to exceed said sum of $225,000, to pay for said land and for the erection and equipment of said school building, and to give the notes or other interest bearing evidences of indebtedness of said town therefor, provided it is determined to build said school building.

Second: To act upon a certain petition signed by 20 legal voters of said Town requesting the appropriation of a sufficient sum of money for the erection and maintenance of a suitable number of electric lights on the New London Turnpike southerly of West Main Street from the residence of Mr. John McWilliams to the residence of Mr. Charles Conrade.

Third: To decide whether the Town would appropriate a sum, not to exceed $50.00, to reimburse Frank J. Hill of said Town for the transportation expenses of his son, Frank A. Hill, to the Putnam Trade School.

Fourth: To determine whether the Town will discontinue six sections of highway on the Gallows Hill Road, so called, leading from Norwich Town to Taftville, said sections being shown on a certain lay-out of said highway, recorded in the Land Records of the Town of Norwich, in Book of Plans, No. 2, at pages 93 to 99 inclusive.

Also, to do any other business proper to come before said Meeting.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 21st day of May, 1926.

WILLIAM S. MURRAY,
CHARLES P. BUSHNELL,
PATRICK T. CONWELL,
Selectmen of the Town of Norwich.

AUCTION NOTICE

By WITTER BROS., Auctioneers
Office, 43 Main St., Danielson, Conn.

We will sell at public sale for Ashley C. Hibbard at his residence located in West Woodstock, Conn., on the proposed state highway leading to Eastford, Conn., on a choice lot of household goods of every known description, 1 Dodge Bros. 1924 touring car, a lot of blacksmith tools, including one Buffalo upsetter for five inch tires, forge and blower, drill, etc. The farm of three acres more or less with all buildings thereon, consisting of a good nine room house, barn, hen house, corn crib and ice house will be sold at one o'clock P. M., S. T. Terms of sale on personal property cash. A deposit of $350 will be required at time of sale and the balance upon the delivery of the deed within forty eight hours, unless the purchaser should desire to let the present mortgage of $600 remain. Here is an opportunity of a life time. Mr. Hibbard says he will sell this wonderful little farm for the high dollar as he leaves Connecticut for the West immediately after the sale. Good caterer in attendance. If stormy next fair day at the same hour.

FRIDAY, MAY 28
AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M., S. T.

AUCTION NOTICE

By WITTER BROS., Auctioneers
Office, 43 Main St., Danielson, Conn.

We will sell at public sale for Mr. Edwin Bennett at his residence and store located in Brooklyn Village, Conn., on the Danielson road on a choice lot of household goods of a useful nature, consisting in part of beds, bureaus, tables, chairs, fine Richmond cook stove, wood heater, refrigerator, floor covering, linen, towels, napkins, crockery, cooking utensils, store stock, consisting of a few groceries, counter, show case, new set of Standard computing scales with one and two cent graduations, Eddy ice box of good size, outside tools, consisting of grind stone, forks, hoes, shovels, lot of steel traps, good ladder, and one Overland touring car in good running order with new tires. This will be a good sale to attend as Mr. Bennett has sold his real estate so all the personal which is in fine condition goes for the high dollar. Terms cash. Caterer will attend. If stormy, next fair day.

TUESDAY, JUNE 1
AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M., S. T.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

New York

Stocks higher; rail and equipment shares advance.

Bonds firm; public utility issues in demand.

Foreign exchanges easy: French and Belgian francs react.

Cotton higher; drought eastern belt. Sugar firm; steady spot market.

Coffee very steady; commission house buying.

Chicago

Wheat irregular; covering May shorts.

Corn lower; fine weather.

Cattle steady.

Hogs slow.

PROFIT-TAKING IN MARKET

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)— Heavy profit-taking sales by professional traders impeded the resumption of the upward movement of prices in today's stock market, which was featured by the strength and activity of the rail and oil shares. Trading broadened somewhat in volume, indicating a re-awakening of public interest, the day's sales aggregating 1,368,300 shares.

Reaping of the railroad shares was stimulated by the publication of another series of unusual favorable April earnings statements. Union Pacific, Lehigh Valley and Lackawanna showed increases in net railway operating income last month of $314,750, $196,686 and $171,114, respectively, over the same month last year.

Bullish operations in the oil shares were based on reports of large current earnings, a further extension of recent gasoline prices advances and favorable dividend and merger rumors.

Pan-American B was taken in large volume, crossing 70 for the first time since the middle of February, closing at 69 7-8 for a net gain of 1 3-8.

United Cigar Stores was big up nearly three points to 95 7-8 on rumors of an extra dividend distribution. The three American Sumatra tobacco issues all touched new high levels for the year.

Talk of increased fares accompanied the latest advance in the local traction issues. Interborough rapid transit and Manhattan Modified Guaranteed touching new high prices for the year at 63 1-4, and 58 1-4, respectively.

Motors were again heavy. Hudson closed a point lower at 63 3-8 and most of the others yielded fractionally.

Commodity prices fluctuated within rather narrow and irregular limits, May wheat advanced 1 1-8c a bushel, but the other options showed little change. Cotton advanced 4 to 7 points on unfavorable weather reports. Raw sugar was unchanged, but futures were slightly firmer. Coffee prices rallied slightly on short covering. Rubber prices were weak.

Call money held steady at 4 per cent all day although large sums were reported to be available with the result that the official rate was again shaded in the "outside market." Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were heavy with rather sharp recessions taking place in some of the continental rates. Demand sterling was quoted just under $4.86. French francs broke about 15 points to below 3 1-4c, and Belgian francs ruled about 10 points lower around the same price. Other changes were nominal.

NEW MILFORD SCHOOL WON JUDGING CONTEST

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, May 25—New Milford high school defeated ten opponents in winning the annual high school judging contest staged here by the Agricultural club of Connecticut Agricultural college. This makes the fourth consecutive year the New Milford boys have won the contest.

Following close behind New Milford for second place was the team entered by Southington, and the others finished as follows: Newtown, Woodbury, Windham High of Willimantic, Thompsonville and Killingly High of Danielson tied for sixth, Lebanon Tourtellotte of North Grosvenordale, Stonington, North Stonington.

In winning first prize, New Milford is awarded a silver cup, the gift of Joseph W. Alsop of Avon, a trustee of the college. In order to gain permanent possession of this trophy, a high school must win it for three consecutive years. New Milford already has permanent possession of the first cup offered by Mr. Alsop.

HEARS SUIT BROUGHT TO COLLECT COMMISSION

Trial in the case of Max Snitkin of New London, against John E. Nelson, formerly of New London and now of Brooklyn, N. Y., was begun before Judge Charles B. Waller in the court of common pleas at New London Saturday. Snitkin sues to recover on a commission alleged to be due him in the sale of the defendant's former property situated at 111 Ocean avenue.

The plaintiff claims that on July 27, 1925, the defendant gave him an option to sell the property for $7,000, $5,500 to be paid in cash. He claims the option was good for 30 days, but when he took a customer to the house, who was ready, able and willing to buy, he found that another man had just purchased it. The option was produced and was placed into the evidence.

Nelson claims that he did not understand the option; that he thought it did not limit anyone else from selling the place.

Wild Violets at Round Hill

Many are admiring the garden of wild blue violets at Round Hill farm, Lisbon. The plot measures 7x14 feet and is a delight to passersby.

Not a Particle of Dandruff or a Falling Hair

"Danderine" will save your hair and double its beauty at once.

Within ten minutes after an application of Danderine you can not find a single trace of dandruff. One application dissolves every particle of dandruff; invigorates the scalp, stops itching and falling hair.

Furthermore Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow strong and beautiful.

Bobbed hair has made the girls aware of the dangerous effects of unsightly dandruff which is now more apparent than ever since the hair is short.

Danderine is a sure way to get rid of dandruff and immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. The effect is amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance.

Get a small bottle of Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter for a few cents and keep that dandruff out of your hair and off your shoulders.

ANCTIL UNDER MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE FOR AUTO ACCIDENT: BONDS OF $3,000

(Special to the Bulletin)

MONTVILLE, May 25—Max Anctil, 25, of this town, was arraigned before Justice of the Peace William Smiddy tonight charged with manslaughter in causing the death last Saturday afternoon in Uncasville of John H. Vallett, 73, of that place. Probable cause was found and the accused held for trial at the next term of the criminal superior court in bail of $3,000. Anctil obtained a surety on his bond and was released.

Vallett was walking along at Hilltop on the Norwich-New London turnpike on his way to his home when the car driven by Anctil and owned by his brother and which the driver had taken possession of without knowledge or consent of the owner came along at a high rate of speed as the aged man was apparently in the act of crossing the highway. Vallett was struck with terrific force and died of a fractured skull almost instantly. His funeral occurred today.

HAD BEEN LIFELONG RESIDENT OF UNCASVILLE

John H. Vallett, 73, of Uncasville, who was killed Saturday afternoon in that village when he was struck by an automobile driven by Max Anctil, was born at Uncasville and resided there all his life. He was a stationary engineer by occupation but had retired from active work about 20 years ago. In his early life he was employed on the Norwich line as an engineer, later accepting employment with the Uncasville Manufacturing Co., where he was employed for 26 years.

He was one of the oldest members of the Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows, in good standing for 46 years.

He is survived by a brother, Jeremiah of New London, and two sons, John H., Jr., of 371 Garfield avenue, New London and William C. of Uncasville. He is also survived by several grandchildren.

84 COWS IN COGNTY QUALITY FOR HONOR ROLL

During the month of April 26 herds were tested in the New London County cow testing association. This included a total of 478 cows, 84 of which qualified for the honor roll, the requirements being 1,200 pounds or better of milk and 40 pounds or better of butter fat.

The high cow for milk was, also, the high cow for butterfat. This was a purebred Holstein owned by Thomas Wood of Waterford. She produced for the month of April 2271 pounds of milk containing 74.94 pounds of butterfat.

Three cows in the association produced over a ton of milk for the month, two of these are owned by Mr. Wood and one by Myron Hoxie of Lebanon.

F. B. Ames & Sons of Salem had 24 Holstein cows qualifying for the honor roll. This is the largest number from any one herd.

The Jersey herd of A. D. Barrett of Ledyard leads for the second month with the highest herd average in butterfat.

Three herds that were among the five high herds in March are also included in April. The five high herds follow:

Owner	No. of cows	Ave. lbs. milk	Ave. lbs. B. F.
A. D. Barrett	5	889.5	42.29
Thomas Wood	9	1119.7	35.98
Will Babbitt	17	723.7	34.09
Myron Hoxie	15	966.6	33.79
Geer Brothers	15	731.8	32.46

The Barrett cows are Jerseys, the Wood and Hoxie herds are Holsteins the Geer Bros. herd is Guernsey, and the Babbitt herd is Jersey and native.

Paid Fines for Intoxication

Two local men paid fines of $5 and costs each in the city court Tuesday morning on charges of intoxication. A West Side young man was in court on charges of intoxication and resistance. He was discharged by the court as the evidence failed to sustain the charges.

SETTLEMENT MADE IN CLAIM FOR SERVICES

The witnesses for plaintiff and defendant in the suit of Julia McGregor of this city against Wm. H. Shields as executor of the estate of Mrs. Eliza T. MacDonald, were in attendance together with the counsel on both sides in the superior court here Wednesday afternoon and when the case was called in its order for trial, the parties asked for time to meet to see if an amicable settlement could be made without trial to the court and jury.

Judge Simpson granted the request and for three or four hours in the afternoon, the counsel and the principals were in conference and finally reached a basis of settlement at about the time for court to adjourn.

Mrs. McGregor's claim in the suit was for $9,000 for services alleged to have been rendered during the last six years of the life of Mrs. MacDonald who lived at 26 Cliff street.

She was a next door neighbor of Mrs. MacDonald, who left an estate of about $19,000, when she died Jan. 10, 1925.

Satisfactory terms of settlement were reached and the suit is to be withdrawn without costs to either party. The terms of settlement were not made public and the case is to be withdrawn at a later date.

Witnesses were in attendance from New London and Providence. Brown and James appeared for William H. Shields, executor of the will, and Attorney Arthur F. Libby was counsel for Mrs. McGregor.

This was the last case on the assignment list for Wednesday.

MADE SURPRISE GIFTS TO HOPE VALLEY PASTOR

Thursday evening about 250 persons surprised Rev. Dr. and Mrs. W. F. Parmelee in their spacious parsonage in Hope Valley.

Friends came from Norwich, New London, North Stonington, Westerly, Ashaway and other places with baskets well stocked with good things to eat.

The nature of the occasion was to let Dr. and Mrs. Parmelee know how they are appreciated and loved by their friends in this section of New England. Since coming from Ohio they have won the respect and esteem of thousands of people, especially in Connecticut and Rhode Island, by their genial personalities, courteous treatment and Christian fortitude.

Many costly and useful presents were the tokens of the high regard and esteem in which they are held by their many friends.

JUDGMENT OF $310 GIVEN FOR ARCHITECTS

George E. Pitcher & Son, of Norwich, architects, are awarded the sum of $310.65 with costs of $64.95 against Abraham Agranovitch, of this city, according to a decision handed down for the plaintiff by Judge Charles B. Waller of the court of common pleas.

The plaintiff sued for damages of $300 for plans and supervision of a house for the defendant in Colchester. When the plans were drawn, it was alleged, the defendant did not go ahead with the building of the house. Judge Waller, in his decision awarded the judgment to cover the time of the architects.

RIGHT OF WAY SUIT BEFORE JUDGE WALLER

Trial in a suit over a right of way near Latimer's mills was begun before Judge S. Victor Prince in the court of common pleas at New London. Dennis Savitisky of Chesterfield is the plaintiff and Mr. and Mrs. William Turinski are the defendants.

The plaintiff, represented by Attorney George Curtis Morgan, claims that the road should be open for his use in carting lumber. He claims now to be obliged to haul lumber six miles out of his way. Attorney Philip Z. Hankey represented the defendants while the heirs of the Latimer property were represented by Attorney Henry H. Hunt. Judge Waller reserved decision.

The case of Hyman Cooper of New London, against Hattie Shalett, and others, which was begun some weeks ago and slated for resumption Monday and the case of Harry A. Johns against Thomas Kearney, both went off. The case of M. Itzkowitz and others against J. E. Brooks, which was slated for trial also went off while the case of Steve Keaugus against Arthur Zondiros and others was assigned for trial June 8, in New London. The case of Amelia F. Safford against Henry E. Brown, was assigned for the same date.

PACKERVILLE CLOUD DIGGER PREDICTS FOR JUNE 1926

To begin with there is a very hot wave due May 26-27 and 28 says the Cloud Digger of Packerville. The production of wheat this year will be 395,000,000 bushels. There will be an increase of 35,000,000 bushels of corn over 1925 the potato crop will be 10,000,000 bushels greater than in 1925 and cotton will be more than 100,000 bales short of 1925.

These predictions are based entirely on an estimate of the department of agriculture "acreage report" coupled with my own weather predictions.

June weather will be "growing weather" in every way, there will be three very hot waves from Chicago to the Atlantic coast as far south as Montgomery, Alabama, and as far north as Saskatoon in the month of June. Sudden very fierce showers will occur in June, but no general stormy weather.

All railroads out of Chicago must prepare for movement of immense crops of all kinds this year. 1926 will go on record as the farmers year.

Keep June 12th to the 15th in your mind; also 19th to the 22nd.

SODALITAS HELD FINAL SUPPER FOR SEASON

The Sodalitas of the United Congregational church held their final supper of the season Monday evening at 6.30 at the church social rooms. Twenty members present were served cold sliced boiled ham, meat loaf, potato salad, fish salad, egg salad, cocoa, rolls, strawberry shortcake and whipped cream. The remainder of the evening was devoted to games and sociability.

The color scheme in the decorations was yellow and purple. Lilacs graced the tables together with yellow candles and there were pretty yellow and purple favors filled with candy at each cover. The committee in charge of the supper comprised Miss Alice Browning, chairman, Mrs. Eugene Sanders, Miss Beatrice Sharpe and Miss Jean Cram.

The regular noon time prayer will close the morning session, following a luncheon period the afternoon session will open about 1.30. The speaker of the afternoon will be Mrs. Helen Chisholm of Saybrook who will talk on state organization. The various department heads will speak for four or five minutes on the work of their department.

NORWICH TOWN

A group of young women from Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich, is preparing an entertainment under the leadership of Mrs. Ernest Newbury, to be given under the auspices of Ever Ready circle of the King's Daughters, connected with the First Congregational church.

"Waiting Upon God" was the theme of Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey's sermon at the Sunday morning worship at the First Congregational church. The text was Isaiah 40-31. But they that wait upon the Lord shall renew their strength—they shall mount up with wings as eagles, they shall run and not be weary and they shall walk and not faint.

In continuation of the theme, "The World's Service," in his Sunday morning sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. A. E. Whitten preached from the text, Mathew 27-22. Pilate saith unto them what shall I do then with Jesus which is called Christ? They all say unto him let Him be crucified. Mrs. Albert G. Miner, assisted by Miss Florence M. Bennett, were in charge of the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening. The topic was, How Is Christ Changing China? (Missionary meeting). Isaiah 61:1-3, was the Scripture reference.

Following this, Rev. Mr. Whitten submitted a very interesting report of the Epworth League convention which he attended in Willimantic, Saturday, May 15th.

Following a visit of more than a week at the home of her mother, Mrs. Rose Symington, of Central Village, Mrs. John Hoppman and little daughter, Louise, returned Sunday afternoon to their home in Norwich Town.

OLD CEMETERY EXERCISES ARRANGED BY D. A. R. CHAPTER

Memorial exercises will be carried out this year as usual, for the French soldiers of the war of 1776, also the soldiers of the American Revolution, in the Old Cemetery, Norwich Town, Saturday afternoon at 3 under the auspices of Faith Trumbull chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution. Mrs. William H. Dawley, regent. Mrs. Dawley has secured for the special speaker of the day, Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church, Norwich.

The Sons of the American Revolution have been invited to unite with the D. A. R. in carrying out the programme. Charles E. Chandler, president of Israel Putnam branch, S. A. R., has consented to procure a speaker for that body and the children representing the C. A. R., will have a special part.

DO YOU KNOW THE ROMANCE OF SILK HOSIERY?

Back in the days of Queen Elizabeth, when silk stockings were fashioned laboriously by hand from silk brought from the Orient, a young student at Cambridge University named William Lee, was expelled because he violated the college rule and was married.

William and his wife, Nancy, as is apt to happen to young couples, had a very hard time making ends meet, and Nancy, doing her share, knitted stockings by hand and sold where she could. William, the devoted husband, watching her knit in the evenings, after he had finished his day's work, conceived the idea of a wooden knitting frame. It was rough, but it was effective and could accomplish in a few hours the knitting that had been taking days.

England, sensing the power of Lee's machine, placed a prohibitive export duty upon them and the opposition of those engaged in hand knitting prevented the general use of these machines in Great Britain. Two men, who sensed the value of this better process, Benjamin Fewkes and George Warner, tiring of the home opposition to machine knitting, smuggled a machine out of England in a carload of salt and brought it to the little New England coast town of Ipswich, Massachusetts, in 1822, where the machine was set up and operated in a private home.

From this little start little over a hundred years ago, the Ipswich Mills have become one of the largest hosiery mills in the world, producing over 36 million pairs of stockings a year.

On the Shannon Annex floor we have up a reproduction of the house in which the first hosiery knitting machine in the United States was operated. In and around this house we are holding a sale of this Ipswich hosiery.

AMERICAN DEBT BECOMES PARAMOUNT FRENCH ISSUE

Recovery of the French Franc and the Surrender of the Riffian War Leader Clears the Skies—At the Opening of Parliament Today the Principal Bone of Contention Will Be Consideration of the American Debt Agreement.

PARIS, May 26.—(AP)—The recovery of the French franc and the announcement that Abd-el-Krim, the Riffian war leader has surrendered, leaves the Washington debt agreement as the principal bone of contention between the government and the opposition on the reopening of parliament tomorrow.

Today's official announcement that Krim is on his way to the French lines has relieved the socialists and the communists of one of their favorite points of assault on the government, and the excitement in the French exchanges has removed a dangerous breach in the government's breastworks.

The opposition leaders, in their desire to put the Briand ministry on the defensive at the outset of the session, may press their interpellations on the debt accord as they have threatened. The government, however, will probably see that the debate on the accord is postponed until the question of ratification comes up immediately after consideration of the new electoral law is most likely that this procedure will be adopted.

The principal opposition to ratification will come from the radicals and socialists. Ordinarily their defection would be dangerous for the government, but they coups of the center and the right are expected to vote in favor of the accord as an essential step toward financial stabilization in France. The principal arguments that have been against the accord are that without a safeguard clause, France is likely to find herself in a few years unable to meet her engagements because of a default by Germany in the payment of reparations. Those in favor of ratification reply that if the present agreement should go by the board, France will be faced three years from now with the necessity of paying $400,000,000 in one lump sum, which is a more certain and more dangerous eventuality.

The government has made a canvass of the chamber and has found that the vote is likely to be close with a strong certainty that ratification will be carried.

The case of the electoral law, which now provides for proportional representation of all parties in parliament, is the first question on the calendar. The Washington accord will come next. Finances will be the third important subject for discussion.

Finance Minister Peret is expected to introduce a measure to provide for a sinking fund so as to assure retirement of the French floating debt and to consolidate a fund to wipe out foreign debts and loans that were floated to reconstruct the war devastated regions.

ABD-EL-KRIM ENTERS FRENCH LINES TO SURRENDER

MADRID, May 26.—(AP)—Abd-El-Krim, the Riffian war lord, has surrendered, official announcement to this effect has been made here.

Krim entered the French zone in Morocco in flight from the Boukouya tribesmen. Details of the surrender are not yet available.

Rather than fall into the hands of the sultan and having to face native justice, Krim is declared to have preferred to put himself at the mercy of the French.

The submission of the chieftain had been expected in official circles, and there was much rejoicing throughout Spain when the foreign office made the announcement of his surrender.

France and Spain some time ago agreed on the procedure to be followed should Abd-El-Krim capitulate.

A commission has been sent to Taza, in French Morocco, to take charge of the Spanish prisoners released by the Riffians.

Future operations in Morocco, it is said, will consist merely of clearing the region between Tetuan and Shebuan of the bandits infesting it.

SURRENDER OF RIFFS WILL STRENGTHEN BRIAND

PARIS, May 26.—(AP)—News that Abd-El-Krim, the Riffian war lord, was on his way to the French lines to surrender, has come at an opportune moment for the Briand cabinet.

Although Krim's submission has been looked for at any time during the past week, it caused a great sensation in the lobbies of the chamber of deputies where a group of political leaders were busily engaged in laying plans for the reopening of parliament tomorrow.

The news has particularly upset the plan of the socialists and radicals by eliminating Morocco as a political issue of which they were very fond. "There need be no more talk of overthrowing Premier Briand for the moment," was the remark of one radical leader to whom the news that Krim was about to surrender caused joy as a Frenchman, although it upset some of his cherished plans as a politician.

Premier Briand, it is felt, has had the unusual luck to accomplish two of the hardest tasks with which the French government has been confronted during the past two years. These are the negotiations of an agreement with Germany and the pacification of Morocco.

An air of optimism, to which the foreign office has been unaccustomed for a long time, prevailed this evening around the Quay D'orsay. Satisfaction over the end of hostilities was resulted in expression of the greatest confidence toward Krim as the future leader of the French government. It is believed, it was said, that things will be made as easy as possible for the Riffian chief the only insistence being that measures be taken to guard effectively against a renewal of fighting in the Rif.

MANSFIELD TRANSPORTATION QUESTION IS SETTLED

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 26—The Mansfield Town School committee will not be required by the state to furnish transportation for children of Ash Street, attending the Chestnut Hill school, according to a decision of the state board of education. A hearing was held on the matter at the local Normal school on April 22nd. Representing the state were, George E. Sturges of Hartford, A. W. Greer, supervisor and A. W. Buchanan, agent of the state board of education. The petitioners for transportation who appeared were Michael Kemler, Mike Prokherchik, Joseph Horn, Charles C. Brown, Frank Brown, Morris and Sarah Kaplan. They were represented by an attorney. The children have to walk a distance of 1.7 and 1.6 miles and the parents claimed that the distance was too far, that the road became muddy causing the children to get wet and that the pupils were inclined to loiter along the roadway and did not arrive home from school until late in the afternoon.

Last year the committee had furnished transportation during the three stormy months of the winter season at the rate of $1.50 a day. The committee represented by Secretary William F. Kirkpatrick and Paul Benson pointed out that with transport furnished during the stormy period and with the stretch of road in question one of the best country roads in the entire town, the distance was not too great.

In the decision of the state board of education approved by Dr. A. B. Meredith, the actions of the board are pronounced as "fair." If the road should become in poor condition the selectmen would be notified to have it repaired. The state board claims that the distance is not unreasonable, and advises the school committee on two primary points, to adopt rules and regulations to cause the children not to loiter on the roadway and to offer temporary transportation not at designated annual periods but as the weather conditions make it advisable.

SPALDING-COLCORD CASE BEFORE SUPERIOR COURT

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 26—But one case was heard during a brief session of the civil side of the Windham county superior court held here today with Judge Christopher L. Avery on the bench. The case was that of George G. Spalding vs. C. F. Colcord, a suit for $2,000 damages over the purchase of 22 cows by the plaintiff on April 21, 1924 for $1,540, the cows being alleged to have been afflicted with tuberculosis at the time of the purchase.

The case was started Tuesday afternoon before the jury. Spalding made a cash payment of $200 and gave his note for $1,000 to be paid July 1, 1924 at the Putnam National bank. On May 3rd inspectors of the state department of domestic animals claimed that the sale of the cows was not in compliance with the law governing importation of cattle. After a test of the cows they were condemned for being tubercular and disposed of according to law. The plaintiff claimed that with the payment of the cash and the note he suffered considerable loss when the cows were taken from him. The defendant would not give him redress and he brought civil suit. At the same time a bench warrant was issued by the Windham county superior court for the arrest of Colcord on a charge of violating the importation of cattle law, without giving due notice to the department of domestic animals. The time limit is 72 hours after sale. Colcord was released under a bond of $1,000 furnished by Everett Williams of Woodstock. Both cases have been continued from time to time.

While the second witness, Dr. George E. Cowin, deputy commissioner of domestic animals was being examined Tuesday afternoon the case came to a halt when Attorney King for the defendant, raised a legal issue on the validity of accepting the state records showing the test of the cows, as testimony. A conference was held before court Wednesday morning and a short time later the announcement was made that the case was withdrawn by the plaintiff. The jury was then discharged and court adjourned until Tuesday morning June 1 at 9 o'clock, standard time, when six cases are to be heard.

The criminal side of the court was then re-opened by order of Judge Avery and Colcord was arraigned for a renewal of his bond on the charge of unlawfully importing cattle into the state. This action had become necessary due to the death of his bondsman some time ago. Deputy Sheriff Charles N. Ayer of Killingly was sworn in by Assistant Clerk of the Court Miss Marjorie Bradford as the defendant's surety. Judge Avery then ordered that the criminal session be recessed. The jury in this case consisted of Edmond Dubois, Sr., and Arthur C. Davison of Putnam; Frederick W. Porter and John Weaver of Brooklyn; George Holmes and Oscar Olsen of Canterbury; Fred E. Platt and Alfred T. Hall of Chaplin; Byron Colvin of Hampton, Edward M. Allen of Plainfield; Alfred S Bryden of Pomfret and Elmer Carter of Woodstock.

NEW LONDON INDUSTRY TO LOCATE IN WILLIMANTIC

WILLIMANTIC May 26—A new industry, the R. & J. Waist company of New London, manufacturers of muslin underwear for boys and girls will open in this city on or about June 1. The Center street armory building which was vacated some time ago as an auxiliary plant by the Roesie Velvet company will be occupied by the concern. Richard Hendel of the corporation announced Wednesday that from 75 to 100 local people would be employed and if business warrants the workin gforce will be increased to three or four hundred. Hyman Pivnick will be manager of the local plant for the present.

The machinery is being installed in the new location. The corporation recently closed its plant in Colchester and the machinery used there is being removed to this city. Girls and women will make u pthe majority of the working force.

Edgar Lavoie was again within the toils of the law Wednesday for failure to provide for his wife and three children. The charge brought against Lavoie in police court was of non-support of his wife and three children the oldest being six years and the youngest two and one-half years. Lavoie and that he was guilty. He had found but very little work since his arrest for the same offense on March 13 when he had promised to support his family. His wife said that she sometimes received money from him but that he had a hobby of attending dances and the motion picture shows. Lavoie denied doing this since March 13 but his spouse strenuously disagreed with him. First Selectman Ernest P. Chesbro said that the town had been giving assistance to the family for some time. Mrs. Lavoie said that she needed about ten dollars a week to support herself and three children. Judge Foss ordered Lavoie to furnish a bond of $500 to cover payments of ten dollars a week or else go to jail for six months. Up to late in the day Lavoie was still awaiting a bondsman.

A large audience was well pleased with the annual concert of the Willimantic State Normal school chorus held at the Windham high school auditorium Tuesday evening. Mrs. R. G. Remington, alto vocalist, assited the chorus and was heard in several pleasing solos. The recital was under the direction of Professor Morgan R. St. John whose able training, which was manifest in the perfect melody of voices, received many complimentary remarks. At the piano were Miss Ruth Pollard '26 and Miss Gertrude Fontaine '27. Mrs. G. E. Williams, soprano soloist was unable to be present. A number of the graduates of the school including many from various cities in the state were among those present. The program: Salutation, Samuel Gaines; Calm as the Night, Carl Bohm: In a Boat, Edward Grieg; Welcome Pretty Primrose, Ciro Pinsuti—chorus; Les Yeux, Rene Rabey; Lullaby, Cyril Scott-Mrs. Remington; Rustic Wedding, Gabriel-Marie; There, Little Girl, Don't Cry, Ethelbert Nevin- Moonlit Meadows, Alphonse Cellbulka—chorus; Trees; My Heart at Thy Dear Voice, Camille Saint-Saens—Mrs. Remington: Love's Old Sweet Song Malloy; The Swan, Camille Saint-Saens; Land of Illusion, Christine Sinding; Invictus, Brung Huhn—chorus.

Alphonse Couture of Jefferson avenue, Hills Grove, R. I., was charged with violating the automobile laws of Connecticut by operating a motor vehicle in this state with a Rhode Island registry for more than 15 days, in police court Wednesday morning. Couture said that he did not know what the time limit was in Connecticut and he was not sure how many days he had been coming into this state. He said that he was trying to establish an automobile express route between the two states. He expressed a desire to abide by the law and with this promise the court showed leniency. Couture was given a chance to secure a Connecticut registration by putting up a bond of $25 for that purpose. The case was then continued for one month.

Marion Arlene, a three years and two months old daughter of Walter J. and Anna Fontaine Johnson died at the home of her parents, 413 Main street Wednesday morning. The child had been ill for two weeks. Surviving beside her parents are two brothers Edward and William Johnson.

Claude DeRoberto, 22, of 23 Sutton street, Providence, R. I., was before the United States district court at Hartford Tuesday on a charge of violating the liquor law by illegal transportation. His case was assigned for trial Thursday, June 3. The accused and his brother, Ernest DeRoberto operated a booze car through this city on the evening of April 28. They were ordered to stop by Supernumerary Officer Pierre Marrotte of the local police department who was in uniform and assistant Federal Prohibition Officer Stanton L. Briggs in the performance of his duties. Ernest DeRoberto, who was driving did not heed the order and Officer Marrotte fired two shots at the fleeing automobile, one bullet striking the driver in the back and lodging near the left lung. The young man was confined at St. Joseph's hospital here for some time. He is now under a heavy bond and will be put to plea in the U. S. court next week on the same charge as the one held against his brother.

Mrs. Frank P. Lombardo, commander of the W. B. ICE CREAM is rich in food value. It contains more calories, taking equal weights, than beefsteak, roast chicken or eggs. It contains the proteins that build muscle and tissue; the carbohydrates that furnish energy; the mineral salts that make strong bones, and all three of the essential vitamins. Make Ice Cream a regular part of your diet. Eat it for lunch and dinner.

When you eat our Ice Cream, you can be absolutely sure of its purity and quality, for we control our own source of raw products, and we regularly test all our cream, fruits and syrups in our laboratory for purity and quality. Eat some today.

DANIELSON

NEW LICENSE PLAN IS BETTER FOR CONNECTICUT

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 26.—Fishermen hereabouts are interested in the fact that negotiations are underway between Connecticut and Massachusetts boards of fisheries and game to secure reciprocity agreements between the states relative to equal license fees for fishing or hunting while using the other states waters or grounds.

It has been something of an irritant for Connecticut fishermen that fishermen from Massachusetts could come into Connecticut by paying a license fee of $3.25, whereas a Connecticut fisherman taking out a fishing license in Massachusetts is charged $15.25. In reality the neighboring state issues a combination license, allowing both fishing and hunting, for that sum, but if a man does not happen to be a hunter he pays $15.25 just the same, as Massachusetts issues only this one form of license to non-residents.

The pending negotiations seek a reduction in the charge of this non-resident license from $15.25 to $5.25, which will be $2 more than the Bay State men pay for an anglers' license in Connecticut, and many of them come into this state, particularly into the town of Killingly. If the negotiations now underway are successful, the new arrangement will not become effective until January 1.

Her many friends here and in Dayville expressed deep regret Wednesday over the death in St. Joseph's hospital in Providence during Tuesday night of Mrs. Ida Vachon Marchessault, 34, wife of Samuel Marchessault, of Dayville.

Mrs. Marchessault was taken ill a week ago Sunday and was taken to the hospital on Friday of last week. She underwent a surgical operation last Saturday. Her condition remained critical through the early part of this week and on Wednesday became so dangerous that approaching death was indicated. The body was brought to Dayville Wednesday by Undertaker Martin T. Burns.

Mrs. Marchessault was born in Wauregan, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Vachon, now resident on the West Side. She leaves her husband and two daughters, Bernice and Jeanette, her father and mother, four sisters, Mrs. William Desaulniers of Putnam, Mrs. Amie Godreau of Goodyear, Misses Dorie and Alice of Danielson and two brothers, Arthur of Boston and Peter of Danielson.

At the church in Goodyear last Sunday Rev. Charles A. Downs preached from the text Luke 17: 6. The subject was Mustard Seed Faith. Faith is the foundation of life, both temporal and eternal. Real faith requires convictions rather than opinions. Religious convictions are growths of the heart rather than the head. A little live seed is more potent than a whole pile of dead wood. Live faith is reposed in a person and not in a system.

It is indicated that there will be a large attendance at tonight's session of the Danielson grammar school, the session opening at 7 o'clock. As has been previously announced, this will be a regular session of the school and the pupils will be engaged with their usual routine of work. Visitors may visit any or all of the grades and will be free to go about the building as they wish. They will be welcomed by representatives of Killingly's educational board and their stay made interesting.

John M. Dowa has been appointed a member of the borough fire police, organized a few months ago. These police have done effective work about fire areas in controlling traffic and keeping crowds out of danger zones. They have been as faithful as the firemen themselves in responding to alarms and have come to be a valuable adjunct to the department.

A message received here Wednesday was relative to the death in Mystic on that day of Mrs. Delle Hoyle, widow of George A. Hoyle. Mrs. Hoyle had been making her home with her grand-daughter. For many years up to the time of her husband's death Mrs. Hoyle had been a resident of Danielson, where Mr. Hoyle was engaged in the ice business and later in the lurch business. William A. Hoyle, who was associated with his father in business and later lived in New London, where he died a few years ago, was a son of Mr. and Mrs Hoyle.

Julian Benac has sold his home on Mechanic street to Edward Anderson. This property was once known as the John Ames place. Mr. Benac has acquired two lots extending from Winter to Hutchins street, near the St. James' church property, and is to build there.

Mrs. William T. Mullaley and members of her family are to arrive at their cottage at Alexander's lake this week end to remain through the summer season.

Thomas Bradford of Reynolds street has sold a dwelling house on that street to Frank Malhot of High street.

Tomorrow (Friday) will be visitors' night at the Dayville grammar school a night session to be held, as being held here this evening. A similar session will be arranged for Goodyear in the near future.

On Monday, Memorial day, the post-office will close for the day at 10 a. m., though the lobby will remain open throughout the day. No money order business will be transacted and the carrier service will be suspended. The evening mail will be despatched as usual.

The next meeting of Killingly grange is not to be held until June 7, three weeks to intervene since the last meeting. At the meeting of June 7, neighbors' night will be observed, with Moosup Valley, Canterbury and Highland grange of South Killingly visiting.

A backstop has been erected and other improvements made to the baseball field at the Paco company grounds south of Cottage street, where games of the Twilight league will be played.

Additional registered sheets to be held by the Danielson Rod and Gun club are scheduled for June 27, July 25, August 23 and September 26, making a total of six for this year.

A summer cottage for G. Rene Caron is under construction at Alexander's lake, where several such structures are planned to be built this season.

A detour is being built north of the present state highway route over Bishop's crossing in the southern section of the town of Plainfield for use while the overhead bridge will be under construction this summer.

Dr. J. N. Perreault is at Manchester, N. H., where he was called by the death of his mother.

Names that should have appeared in the recent account in this column of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burghardt were those of Miss Rose Jaszczeksi of Providence and Stanley Gonsirek of Danielson. All the members of the bridal party, eight couples, motored to Providence to be photographed.

While the danger is not so great just now, because the growth of vegetation has progressed considerable, there is again a menace of forest fires after many days of clear weather, broken only by light showers during Sunday.

It is related by a man who comes from a Vermont town that he canvassed cotton mills all the way from his home to a nearby mill village before he succeeded in obtaining employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Burghart, who were married at St. James' church Monday morning, are to leave the coming week for a motor trip to Buffalo and Niagara Falls.

As in other recent years, members of the G. A. R. will do their Memorial day parading in motor cars. All of advanced years now, marching has become too strenuous for the men who made history during the Civil war.

One may see the country without owning a fancy-priced car, as was demonstrated by two young men who drove through here Wednesday in an ancient vintage Lizzie that bore a Wisconsin registration—and it was rolling smoothly as some of the big gas wagons.

Something that bore earmarks of the heat wave promised by the Cloud Digger for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week began to make itself felt here late Wednesday afternoon.

Work done at the Danielson state armory since mid-winter has appreciably improved the condition and convenience of the structure. The expenditures involved were authorized in a measure approved at the last session of the legislature.

LEGION POST PLANS FOR MEMORIAL DAY EVENTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 26—Anselm Mayotte post, American Legion, held a special meeting this evening at the chamber of commerce rooms to perfect plans for the observance of Memorial day in Putnam. There will be no street parade, but assembly will be called at different hours at the various cemeteries in the town and the graves of the soldiers of all wars will be decorated. The Chamber of Commerce, the Rotary club, United Spanish War veterans and the Sons of Veterans will cooperate with the post by furnishing transportation to the veterans, and otherwise assisting in the decoration of the graves.

The automobiles of Vincent Girardi of Putnam and Alphonse E. Ouillette of Springfield, Mass., came together at Killingly avenue and Grove street. Mr. Girardi, who was alone in his car coming towards Putnam, stated to the police that the Massachusetts car rounded the curve at a high rate of speed and went well over to the left side of the road. The Putnam car had a damaged right headlight, mudguard and radiator but was able to get home under its own power. The Springfield car was more badly damaged and had to be towed to a local garage. With Mr. Ouillette were his wife, two sons and two daughters. The occupants of the cars were badly frightened but not hurt.

Information for fishermen has been given out here as follows: Every fisherman should know that it is unlawful to catch perch under seven inches long and the fishermen's attention has been called to the penalty of being found with one under this length.

Anyone found with a perch under seven inches long will be fined, his license taken away from him for a year and if he has a combination license, hunting and fishing, both will be taken away. A case was tried in Eastford last week, the fishermen were fined and their license taken from them. Unless it is reissued they will be deprived of the privilige of fishing for the rest of the year.

The state is doing all that it can to stock the streams and ponds and it is now up to the fishermen to do their part and report any cases of the violation of the law that may come to their knowledge.

The New Boston Cemetery association recently held its annual meeting at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Jordan and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. Josephine Steere; vice president, Mrs. George Stobbs; secretary, Mrs. Myrtle Jordan; treasurer, Spencer Jordan.

The treasurer reported that $1,400 had been subscribed by a permanent fund and that an additional $100 was available for immediate use in cleaning up the cemetery. A gift of $15 was received from a friend in Los Angeles, who has a grandson buried in the cemetery and consequently is interested in its upkeep.

After attending the annual state convention of the I. O. O. F. at Hartford recently, Judge L. H. Fuller started to his room in an elevator in which there were several other guests. The car got stuck between two floors and the party was imprisoned for more than half an hour which so delayed the judge that he almost missed the last train for Putnam for that night.

The following names have been drawn for the May session of the Windham county court.

Windham—George H. Gurley, John E. Brick; Putnam—Edmond Dubois, Sr., Arthur C. Davison; Ashford—George O. Baird; Brooklyn—Frederick W. Porter, John Weaver; Canterbury—George Holmes, Oscar Olsen; Chaplin—Frank E. Platt, Alfred T. Hall; Eastford—Fred Bowen; Hampton—John Hammond, Byron Colvin; Killingly—George I. Eaton, Fred L. Miller; Plainfield—Edward M. Allen, Edward G. Ames; Pomfret—Alfred S. Bryden, William H. Gallup; Scotland—Elmer Carter; Sterling—Thomas Brown; Thompson—Newell C. Cutter; Woodstock—John S. May.

At the recent annual typewriting contest, three schools were represented, Putnam high school, Plainfield high and Killingly high.

Miss Dora Bonin of the Putnam high won the first prize in the senior contest, writing 67 words per minute. Second prize in the same contest went to Miss Helen Keech of Killingly high, writing 59 words per minute. In the junior contest, the first prize went to Miss Ruth Pepler, of the Killingly high school, writing 50.7 words per minute and the second prize to Miss Eleano Gardner of the same school writing 44 words.

The school cup went to Killingly high school to be held as a permanent trophy for winning two years out of three. The school averages were: Killingly high school, 41.5 and Putnam high school, 39.5.

Mrs. George Gee, her mother, Mrs Harris, and her sister, Miss Edith Harris, have moved to Putnam from East Woodstock. This act on the part of the women followed directly after Mr. Gee's recent unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide by taking poison.

Mr. and Mrs. Irwin M. Tourtelotte of Hammond street were the recipients of a handsome May basket hung to them recently. A party of 15 people motored from Oakland, R. I., and Worcester, Mass., for the event. After hanging the Maybasket, they were invited into the house where refreshments were served and dancing and music was enjoyed.

Mr. Ellis representing the Putnam state trade school gave a talk in assembly at the Tourtelotte Memorial high school at North Grosvenordale and offered the school the privileges of co-operating with the trade school both during the summer and the school terms.

Mrs. Louis Southworth of Woodstock has returned to her home after an extended visit to New York city.

Mr. Damon, superintendent of the new Stillwater mills at North Woodstock, has now taken up his duties there and the mill is in operation.

David Lown, who has been spending the winter in Florida, is now at home with his mother, Mrs. Ettie Lown on Grove street.

Mrs. Jemima Williams of West Woodstock has been appointed administratrix of the intestate of Everett Williams, late of Woodstock by Probate Judge Robert E. Harris.

Judge George Holt and the Misses Constance and Sylvia Holt are at the Ben Grosvenor inn for a short time prior to their sailing for Europe for the summer.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of May View, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their housework easily, happy homes are the result.

JEWETT CITY

MRS. MARY MIOTKE STRUCK BY BROOKLINE SEDAN

JEWETT CITY, May 26—Mrs. Marie Miotke, 67, was knocked down by an automobile on North Main street near the corner of Green avenue shortly after noon Wednesday. Those who saw the accident claim that she became bewildered while trying to dodge the approaching machine. The car, a Lincoln sedan, was driven by Lloyd E. Kendall, of 5 Irving street Brookline, Mass., who was accompanied by his wife and two children. Mr Kendall, a surgical specialist, was bound for Baltimore university, Maryland. The injured woman was attended by Dr. F. E. Rainville, who found several bruises on her back; a cut on the head needed stitches to close it. Officer Henry Vegiard, finding no cause to hold the driver, allowed him to proceed.

Tomato raisers in this section were breathing easier Wednesday evening, because of the appreciable rise in temperature. More than five thousand plants nearly went by the board on Sunday night, when the mercury dropped all through this vicinity.

The increasing amount of various matters advertising in this column every week, is pretty good evidence, that when it is desired to reach the three thousand Bulletin readers in this section, any week day morning, concerning any matter of sale or important announcement. This medium is being considered favorably.

A local trout-fisherman has an old print, raked up among some old literature credited to Isaac Walton, which depicts a narrow stream in one of England's south county shires. Here men have come to fish, each one sits upon a chair which he has brought these being placed along the banks of the stream, only a few inches apart.

Returning from a visit to Willow brook Wednesday, where last week three square-tailed brook trout that weighed over a pound and a half each, were caught by borough anglers, the fishermen remarked that the British sports scene had nothing on Griswold's own brook. Thirteen experts were all within sight of each other, with five on the small plank bridge where Dr. Jennings landed his two pounder a week ago.

The funeral of Earl Gray, was held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gray Wednesday afternoon. Rev. E. E. Scates, pastor of the Baptist church conducted the service. Mrs. E. E. Scates and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere and Home of the Soul. Burial was in Jewett City cemetery with full Masonic ritual by Mt. Vernon lodge, No. 73, F. and A. M., William McCluggage, master. The bearers were four brothers, Herbert, Thomas, Lewis and Walter Gray. P. W. Chase, commander of the American Legion post and Hazard Arremoney lifted the American flag from the casket before it was lowered into its resting place. There were beautiful flowers from fraternal orders and from his family. The body of the young man, which was expected to arrive Tuesday, did not reach here until Wednesday noon, three hours before the hour for which the funeral had been arranged. The government dispatched the body by express from southwestern Kentucky by way of Indianapolis and Buffalo so the casket arrived from the north, instead of the south, as was expected. Mr. Gray appreciated the efforts of the local express agent and the telegraph operators in endeavoring to trace and locate the delay.

The funeral directors in charge were Hourigan Bros.

Wreaths with which to decorate the soldiers' graves Monday are to be made at the town hall Friday afternoon, commencing at 1 o'clock. It will take many patriotic hands to make the nearly 300 wreaths. Mrs. N. J. Babcock has charge of the work.

Pachaug Community club is to meet this (Thursday) evening. The committee is Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Roode Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Salisbury and Miss Etta York.

Mrs. Walter Harvey of Holyoke, Mass., is at F. E. Robinson's. Her son Norman, has been a guest there during his mother's absence in Kansas, and is just recovering from the measles.

The electric light superintendent, Earl S. Hiscox, moved Wednesday to his new home on the Thames Lee property, Palmer avenue, telephone 6-5.

All about the local hillsides, where three weeks ago the shad first was conspicuous, are now to be noted the showy members of the Griswold dogwood family. There are several different members here, all important factors in the floral pageant spread out to delight the observing eyes. The three or four varieties that used to bloom at Tadpole, along the state road, have met their fate, along with the beautiful red winterberry of early autumn. Passing automobile parties have cleaned it up, root and branch, until now the finest shrubs are in bloom on the bank of the Quinebaug, off the thoroughfare.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gallup's home on the Pendleton Hill road was opened Tuesday evening to a party of 75, who came to give Miss Gladys Young a shower. Miss Young, entering a darkened room, was covered in confetti, which came down upon her as she went through the door. In the center of the room was a table, and on this table was a huge May basket, piled halfway to the ceiling with packages. Miss Young and her fiance, Elmer Campbell of Pachaug were invited to be seated and open the packages. At this point in the program, Elliott Ames, of Norwich, Miss Young's cousin, presented her a box. This contained a wonderful shower bouquet most ingeniously contrived of clothespins.

It lacked neither ferns, lace or ribbon and certainly not clothespins, for there were five dozen in the bouquet. The gifts were very beautiful and useful, and were of every variety. Her father's gift was too large to bring, as it was a piano. Cake and ice cream were served. The party included friends from Pachaug, Jewett City, Voluntown, Lisbon, Norwich, Griswold, Hope Valley and Arcadia.

Among the many beautiful dahlias being planted here this season, are the handsome hybrid seedling, Miss Beatrice Knox, bred by William Knox of Griswold, and named for his grand child.

The Bulletin has been requested to state that Earl M. Gray, formerly of Jewett city, who died in Outwood, Kentucky, last Saturday, is survived by his wife and two children, of Providence.

SOUTH KILLINGLY

Raymond Barlow and Berton Brown spent a day fishing at Point Judith recently.

Mrs. Sally Slater returned to her home in Woonsocket Sunday after spending a few days with Mrs. George Slater.

Mr. and Mrs. George Phillips spent a day recently with friends in East Killingly.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spaulding of Auburn, R. I., spent the week end at their cottage.

The supper and entertainment by the local school was held in the community house Friday evening. The proceeds from the supper will be added to the victrola fund.

Mr. Cary has returned to his home having been in a hospital in Providence for a throat operation.

Olney A. Knight of Foster Center was a caller at The Oaks, Monday.

Mrs. Charles Young who suffered an attack of acute indigestion last week is able to sit up.

After a few week's respite measles have again appeared in this vicinity. Children in three families have them.

William Hughes and family of Providence spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. George Slater.

Mrs. William Moffat, of Wauregan took her sisters Misses Margaret and Emma Terwilliger to Providence Saturday.

Merril Jacues of East Killingly spent Sunday with local relatives.

Children and grandchildren of Mrs. G. W. Barlow hung her a well filled May basket, to celebrate her birthday Saturday.

The trustees of the estate of Amy Lowell will devote the $1,000 Pulitzer award for her book of poems What's O'Clock to the scholarship fund for poets who wish to travel.

CREATES DEMAND FOR REFERENDUM

There is no doubt but what the recent primary in Pennsylvania has set up a demand for a referendum in the states on the wet and dry question. It was not because Pennsylvania selected a wet candidate in the republican primary for United States senator, or because it picked out a dry candidate for governor that this demand developed, but because it has become apparent that it is impossible for the voters to register their preference for candidates and at the same time indicate what they wish in regard to prohibition. There are too many cross currents at work for any fair test of public sentiment on any one question when several are involved.

It may be entirely possible that the majority sentiment of the voters of Pennsylvania, irrespective of party, is wet, but it hasn't been so registered. Thus far there have been more votes cast for the dry candidates than for the wet ones and yet it can be appreciated that such votes might have been cast in a different manner if only prohibition was in the scales.

In sounding the wish of the public upon any particular subject a referendum thereon is desirable. It is the one fair test that can be applied and it is so recognized by both senators of Connecticut, as well as those of many other states. If a state is wet and if the people want a modification of the Volstead act the direct vote of the people will show it. And certainly no better information as to sentiment could be extended to the state and federal law makers. On the other hand if a state is as dry as another one is wet such instruction is not likely to be overlooked as a guide by the representatives of such a constituency in state and national legislatures.

Nothing serves to lay emphasis upon this more clearly than the recent contest in Pennsylvania, the outcome and the claims that have been made as the result of it. Drawing inferences from votes which have been cast for different candidates for various reasons is as easy for one side as another without getting down to bedrock. That will never be ascertained beyond question until there has been a vote on it by the people.

A FINE DEMONSTRATION

Some years ago Field's Point on Narragansett bay ceased to have the attraction that existed for so many years in its wonderful shore dinners. It was obliged to give way to business demands and today oil is dished out in much larger quantities there than clam chowder ever was. Oil tanks are conspicuous by their presence on a sandy hillside.

Because the hill was being worn away by the rains the oil company has decided to take steps to prevent the erosion and the plans call for the planting of thousands of honeysuckle vines, rose bushes and barberry bushes all of which will contribute to the attractiveness of the locality in addition to holding the banks in place once they get thoroughly rooted and developed. In addition the company will also plant thousands of pine trees this year and it has the intention of following this up next year with practically as extensive an outlay in trees and shrubs.

This work of protection is likewise going to be in time a nice bit of beautification, and it will at the same time transform the barren hillside into a wooded area from which in time it will be possible to recover if desired in timber many times the outlay.

Such is an example of the valuable work that needs to be done for the conservation of water as well as for the protection of sandbanks and denuded hillsides. While not intended as such it may well serve as a demonstration plot, for those who observe the results cannot fail to apply the lessons to other places which are susceptible to development and where it is possible to turn waste into profit.

It would be well if more owners of hillsides that are being worn away and land that is not being utilized for anything would discover the chance to show a bit of enterprise and business sagacity along similar lines. The oil company is looking out for itself but it should prove to be a valuable demonstration to many others.

THE MOROCCAN REBELLION

With the surrender of Abd-el-Krim the war in Morocco is at an end. The outcome is no more than what conditions made evident for it would have been almost humiliating and unheard of result had the Moroccan leader been able to defeat the armies of France and Spain. Spain of course must give due credit to the part which France played in the result, for the Spanish had been driven to the coast and rendered almost powerless before it became necessary for the French to take a hand. That even was forced by the rebel leader who, spurred on by his success over the Spanish believed that he could do the same thing to France. For a time that seemed a possibility, but as soon as the French suggestion of combining forces and making a united attack from the Spanish coast it was evident that it was only a question of time before Krim would be obliged to yield.

The Riffians fought valiantly under the type of warfare peculiar to that country and putting down the rebellion has been extremely costly both in men and money to France and Spain. It has been a struggle which has received strong opposition at home as in Morocco for there have been too many ways in which the money and men could have been employed without using them for war. It was for the purpose of discharging the responsibility placed on their shoulders by other nations that the defense of the respective governments in Morocco was made.

So far as the prolongation of the war was concerned it made little difference, but it would have been much to the advantage of Abd-el-Krim had he accepted the recent terms of peace that were offered. He was defeated then but was unwilling to admit it. It was impossible for him to get the tribes under him to carry on a useless struggle and their defection left him powerless. It is a case of unconditional surrender and the ending of an expensive war that should not have occurred and which has accomplished nothing for the rebels. It will mean much needed relief for France.

FLYING TO SOUTH AMERICA

When the Portuguese aviators completed their flight across the Atlantic to Brazil there was thought, or at least the suggestion was made, that they might continue their flight up through South America, Central America and North America, make the reverse of the Atlantic crossing that was effected by the round-the-world fliers and thence down through Europe to the starting point, thus adding new honors to those already obtained.

Nothing came of the idea, but there is now a flying boat, the Buenos Aires, that is making a flight by easy stages between New York and the capital of Argentina, for which it is named. Its schedule has not been made out with the idea of time and long non-stop flights, so much as for safety and the accomplishment of the trip through the air which has neither been accomplished, nor attempted before.

It is into all parts of the world, that the flying machine is reaching. We have seen a large development of trade between this and South American countries in the past decade. There are expectations that it will not only be continued but stimulated. There has been a decided increase in the amount of water transportation between the continents, trade and banking facilities have been greatly improved and there are reasons for believing that better relationships have resulted.

But while developments are going along satisfactorily in other directions it is not too much to expect that they will yet be benefited by the fact that air service between North and South America is possible. Those possibilities will be the better recognized following the success of the flight that is now underway.

JAPAN'S IDEA

The Japanese government seems to have been placed in a light which it does not regard as exactly correct by the report that its representatives at Geneva sought a naval disarmament conference between Japan, Great Britain and this country. The impression was gained that the Japanese government was desirous that such a conference be held at once, whereas Japan favors nothing of the kind.

It has gone to the Geneva conference with hope and it does not favor any step that would interfere with what is being undertaken there, and that is the point it makes in explaining the suggestion of its representatives.

If, however, nothing develops as the result of the conference, or it is seen that no progress is possible, it would then favor a separate conference as suggested for the purpose of extending the benefits of the naval agreement that is now in existence. It apparently picks the three countries that it believes would accomplish something.

This gives a different aspect to the matter, and is something which the other nations, as indicated by the views expressed by President Coolidge, could express themselves on best after it is known what is going to be done at Geneva.

It is gratifying to note that the sentiments of Japan are running in this direction. That country has entered into the prevailing agreement with sincere regard for its advantages. When it seeks to have them increased it is not only a view in the right direction but it shows Japan to be thinking along the lines which are favored by the United States and strengthens the belief that something may yet be accomplished even though it is not possible at Geneva.

THOSE NEIGHBORS

"Whatever in the world brings you out so early in the morning," gasped the surprised lady with the water wave combs all over her head as she let in her old schoolgirl friend who appeared somewhat awry and breathless.

"I had to get away from my neighborhood," explained the old friend, relaxing with a sigh on the best taffeta sofa cushion, which was not intended to be sat upon. "It was awful!"

"Tell me about it," said the surprised lady quite unnecessarily. "I thought you moved there because it was such a nice neighborhood—"

"I've nothing against the neighborhood," said the caller. "It is what happens there which distresses me! The slogan of our building is 'All the Conveniences and None of the Annoyances' and you never see anybody on the street but the delivery boys, because every one rides in his own car—and the rents are twice what the places are worth, so you can be sure that it couldn't be better.

"Last evening just as we were settling down to listen to the Blah brothers on the radio John was called to the phone. It was Mr. Kimp, from the apartment above, and he was all excited and his voice kept going up in a sort of screech. He said his wife was at the hospital and he had come to get her some things and they had just telephoned that he was the father of twins. He wanted John to go back with him because he said he had been all prepared to be the father of one, but two were a sort of shocker and he felt queer. So John put on his things and went off in Mr. Kimp's car.

"I settled down again and Mrs. Belter from across the hall tapped at the door. She had been crying and one eyebrow was damp and melting down but she was beyond caring. She said maybe I had noticed the tall blond young man who had been calling on Annette so regularly, the one who wore such nice clothes and came from a perfectly fine family whose father owned three cars, which was enough to stamp them as somebody—he was a young man any woman would be proud and glad to have her daughter marry and he always talked to her when he came and brought her boxes of candy as much as he did to Annette and how on earth was she to know—oh, why did it happen—by this time I was in a fever to learn the worst. 'What's happened to him?' I begged above the minor strain. Mrs. Belter dabbed her eyes again and bent the eyebrow. 'Well, this perfectly fine young man, oh, he was all right, but Annette had run away and married somebody else and had just sent a special delivery and here was Mr. Belter away on business and what should she do, especially as Annette had thoughtfully sent no address?'

"It took me some time to convince Mrs. Belter that what she should do was to powder her face and use cold water on her eyes.

"She quite cheered up after we had a cup of hot chocolate and wanted to know if I had learned that the Henneberrys at the corner were getting a divorce and that Mr. Henneberry felt so badly about it that he had tried to shoot himself with the baby's toy pistol that fired jellybeans, but that his wife was unrelenting. A red jellybean had smashed all over one side of his face too, but she never flicked an eyelash.

"I was just getting to sleep when John came in after bringing the distraught Mr. Kemp back home and wanted to know if I knew that the patrol wagon had taken away a load of people and articles of virtu from that Bland house across the way, which some bootleggers, who looked like honest business men, had rented and turned into a still. He added that there was quite a bad fire in the next block and that he had met our janitor coming in who said the elevators were out of commission for a week—and we are on the sixth floor. So I had such a headache this morning and felt so kind of low in my mind—"

"My word!" gasped the surprised lady, beginning to take out her water wave combs very rapidly. "I think you are remarkable to have lived through all this and we are going right downtown to have lunch and go to the gaudiest, liveliest matinee we can find. Not a single thing ever happens over here but the first of the month, and I should like to have you tell me about it all over again!" — Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Arnold Bennett, who today enters upon his 60th year, has gained place among the most successful authors and playwrights of our time. Energy and perseverance are among his chief characteristics, to which must also be added a rare versatility. Novels, volumes of essays and plays have emanated from his pen with unceasing regularity and with equal success. To use the title of one of his plays, he knows "What the Public Wants." Otherwise he would not have succeeded in writing several of the most successful plays of the past decade. Mr. Bennett was born in North Staffordshire, England, and tried his hand at the profession of law before he turned to journalism and later to literature. His first literary success was gained some 26 years ago, since which time his work has won an exceptional popularity on both sides of the Atlantic.

From Small Beginnings

Edward W. Bok, the Stenographer-Editor of the Ladies' Home Journal

One of the most fascinating books published in recent years is that delightful autobiography called The Americanizing of Edward Bok. In that book, written with all of Mr. Bok's happy originality, is a wealth of information on how to succeed when you have nothing at all. Edward Bok was an immigrant, if you can call a child an immigrant, for he was born in Holland, and brought to the United States when he was only six years old.

In Brooklyn, where he spent his childhood, he was a wideawake boy who took advantage of every opportunity, from the selling of lemonade to the learning of shorthand. He noticed where people went, what they liked to buy—and he met their wishes. His autobiography is crowded with anecdotes that reveal his ingenuity and originality. This spirit, so prominent in his boyhood on the city streets, he carried into life, and with it he made The Ladies' Home Journal one of the most enterprising and original papers. No one could ever tell what Mr. Bok would do next. It is said that he once came to New York and visited all the most fashionable eating places, in every one asking simply for a bowl of bread and milk, finding it almost impossible to obtain, and then demanding that he be charged no more than a just bill. The astonished waiters, accustomed to serving costly dishes, could not comprehend "bread and milk"—and all this gave the editor material for an excellent satire on New York city.

The boy not only sold all sorts of things and made money, but he studied shorthand and used that to his advantage. He was only 23 when he formed "The Bok Syndicate" and sent out Henry Ward Beecher's sermons to newspapers. At 24 he edited the Memorial to Henry Ward Beecher. Certainly there never was a more enterprising young man than Edward W. Bok. His unusual literary ability led him to a position with such prominent publishers as Henry Holt and the Scribner's. Then at 28, he became editor of the Ladies' Home Journal and used his great originality in building up that most successful of publications. Recently, on his retirement, he wrote his autobiography. He had previously written such books as Successward and Keys to Success. The very wideawake boy became an even more wideawake man.

Stories That Recall Others

Useless Waste

One day, while playing in a lot near his home, Willie, age three, found a dead cat. Not being able to realize the difference between a dead cat and a live one, he at once hit on the idea of keeping it. Picking it up, by the tail he carried it into the house and showed it to his mother, saying: "Look here, mamma, somebody threw a plum good cat away."

Fine and Fair Analyzed

There was a line of candidates awaiting their physical examination. As they proceeded by the desk of the medico he took the names and minor data such as color of eyes, hair, etc.

All was going smoothly until one chap stepped up, throwing out his chest. He gave his name and address, while the doctor looked at his hair, eyes and prominent features. He then handed the lad the paper on which he had made the notations.

The fellow looked it over critically as he walked away, checking his ideas of himself with those of the medico "Hair, brown; eyes, gray; face, round; complexion, fair——" Here he stopped, turned back to the doctor and said:

"Do you mean to say I have a fair complexion?"

"Why, of course you have," was the reply.

"That's odd," he responded musingly. "Why back home folk say I have a d—— fine one."

Nine women are enrolled in a course of straight architecture at the University of Illinois. The course is of four years and leads to a degree of bachelor of science. They have the same curricula as the men and are required to do the same work. Instructors in the class say there is great opportunity for women in architecture, especially along domestic lines.

Little Talks on Thrift

HOME BUILDING

It is of importance to note the vast amount of home construction now going on in this country. Our building program is proceeding at the rate of about $6,500,000,000 a year, about one-half of which is for residential types.

Of the $3,000,000,000 or more spent for residences, the building and loan associations last year financed $510,000 new homes at a cost of $1,780,000,000. Small homes also were financed through banks, insurance companies and other agencies including private enterprise, so that this country's home-ownership program is advancing at the rate of more than $2,000,000,000 a year—a figure that makes us easily the foremost nation in home-ownership.

It would be hard for anyone to say that Americans are not thrifty in the face of these facts.

The development of the suburban communities is, of course, responsible for a large amount of this home-building. Good roads and the automobile are playing their part. But the automobile, good roads and the manifold advantages of suburban life would be insufficient to make for the successful upbuilding of these communities if it were not for the thrift instincts of the people.

The impulse to own a home of your own is a thrift impulse. Very rapidly Americans are becoming a nation of home-owners and no tendency could be more significant of real progress toward a sounder moral and economic existence.

During these days of spring and early summer, signs of this home building movement are everywhere to be seen, and the statement can be made with reasonable safety that never before has there been as much home construction, individually owned, as we are witnessing in the United States today. Even in the large cities the home-owning instinct is making itself felt in the advancement of the co-operatively owned apartment house.

With all these developments there is not much opportunity for the pessimist to find comfort in America.

A nation of home owners is always a nation in step with the march of progress. — American Society for Thrift.

Dr. Edwin Mims, noted southern author and educator, born at Richmond, Ark., 54 years ago today.

Albert Lynn, whose hobby is counting automobiles that pass his home at Berwick, Pa., expects this year to pass the 1,000,000 mark. He began counting in 1913, and all his spare time has since been devoted to that work, with the result that he is now well past the 900,000 mark. In 1924 he put into use a specially made counting device. With this, the first 100,000 was completed in 251 hours of counting time, the second block of 100,000 in 215 hours and 40 minutes, the third in 209 hours and 15 minutes, and the fourth 100,000 in 190 hours and 30 minutes. Traffic passing his home in both directions is counted but motorcycles are not included.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck Sees Busztail

Some folk 'tis always best to greet Politely when you chance to meet.
—Old Jed Thumper.

Thump! Thump! Thump! Johnny Chuck heard it outside his door. Johnny had just opened his eyes, and it was still dark in that new house of his in the Old Pasture. For a minute he couldn't think where he was, for he was not yet used to it there. He crept up to the entrance to peep out. There, out in front, sat Old Jed Thumper, the gray old rabbit who was the father of little Mrs. Peter Rabbit.

"Well," said Old Jed Thumper, "are you ready?"

Johnny rubbed his eyes. "Ready for what?" he asked mildly.

"To see that the Old Pasture is the safest place in all the Great World," said Old Jed Thumper. "Didn't you agree to go with me at sun-up this morning?"

Then Johnny Chuck remembered. "But I haven't had any breakfast," he protested.

"What of it?" snapped Old Jed Thumper. "We can breakfast as we go along. I'll show you some clover as sweet and fine as any you ever tasted in all your life."

This sounded interesting, so Johnny shook himself, which was his way of making his toilet, and declared that he was ready. Away started Old Jed Thumper, lippety, lippety-lip. Johnny did his best to follow, but of course he couldn't keep up.

"Wait a minute! Wait a minute!" cried Johnny as Old Jed Thumper was disappearing around a turn in the path.

"'Tisn't safe to wait here," snapped Old Jed Thumper over his shoulder. "I'll wait when I get in a place that is safe."

"I thought you said the Old Pasture was the safest place in all the Great World," panted Johnny, when he finally caught up with Old Jed Thumper at the entrance to one of the private paths of the latter in a great tangle of brambles.

"It is," declared Old Jed Thumper. "Follow me in here, and if you don't feel safe when you get in here you never will."

Now, Old Jed Thumper was a big Rabbit and these paths of his, like little tunnels through the brambles, were extra large. Even so, Johnny Chuck found it a bit difficult to move along them without getting scratched. He had to admit, however, that there was nothing to worry about, in there, unless by some chance Shadow the Weasel should happen that way. Old Jed Thumper showed him all around through that tangle of brambles, then led the way to a sweet clover patch on the further side. There together they made a good breakfast. With that breakfast eaten, Johnny Chuck felt a whole lot better. Old Jed Thumper then led the way toward another great tangle of brambles, the one he called his "castle."

The way led across a great flat rock.

Then Johnny saw a big Snake coiled there

On the very edge of this great flat rock Old Jed Thumper suddenly stopped. Johnny Chuck heard a peculiar rattling or buzzing noise. He never had heard anything quite like it before. Old Jed Thumper turned and ran around the edge of this big flat rock. Johnny Chuck wondered why he did it. He himself started to cross the big flat rock, but that buzzing sounded louder than ever. Johnny stopped. That buzzing rattle seemed to be coming from the middle of that big flat rock. Then Johnny saw a big snake coiled there, and he discovered that the tail of that snake was moving very fast and it was this that was making that buzzing rattle. Johnny stopped right where he was.

"Excuse me," said he, "but I think you must be Busztail the Rattlesnake, of whom I have often heard."

"Your thinking does you credit," replied Busztail for that is who it was. "And I think you must be Johnny Chuck. I know of no reason why we shouldn't be friends. If you do not bother me I certainly shall not bother you."

"Thank you," said Johnny Chuck, and followed Old Jed Thumper around the edge of the rock, leaving Busztail to enjoy his sunbath undisturbed.

FUNERAL
Emil A. Jahn

The funeral of Emil A. Jahn, well known retired mail carrier, was held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from his home, No. 618 Main street, with a very large attendance of relatives and friends. The casket was banked in a wealth of beautiful floral tributes, including a large Gates-ajar from the neighbors and a large form from the Odd Fellows. Delegations were present from the Odd Fellows, the local postoffice and there were relatives and friends from out of town in attendance.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. Eldred Brown, rector of Trinity Episcopal church, and Mrs. Herbert Richardson sang Beautiful Isle of Somewhere and Saved by Grace. The bearers were John Counihan and Albert A. Guile, representing the mail carriers, Frank Green and Herbert Spencer, representing the Odd Fellows, and Philo Jahn and C. Leroy Storms, nephews. Burial took place in Maplewood cemetery and the Odd Fellows committal service was conducted at the grave. Undertaker C. A. Gager had charge of the funeral arrangements.

Charles A. Day, 81, one of the oldest Civil war veterans in Manchester, died there suddenly early Tuesday morning, following a stroke of apoplexy.

He was well known about town through his work as janitor of Cheney hall, where he served for 53 years. He was retired by Cheney Brothers, who own the hall, January 1, 1925.

He was born in New London. Following the footsteps of his father, Mr. Day when a young man, engaged as a worker on the United States mail steamer. Following the outbreak of the Civil war, he enlisted in Company C, Twenty-sixth Regiment, Connecticut Volunteers, August 16, 1862. It was a short term enlistment and he later re-enlisted in Company A, Connecticut Volunteers, Heavy Artillery, December 10, 1863. He served throughout the war and was discharged September 25 1865, with the rank of corporal.

Following the war, Mr. Day was employed for a time in Mansfield, and went to Manchester in 1870, entering the employ of Cheney Brothers. The following year he was assigned as assistant janitor at Cheney hall and later became janitor.

The members finished up the patchwork upon which they have been engaged.

LEFFINGWELL BAPTIST PASTOR DIES SUDDENLY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

Stricken with diabetic coma while leaving the Palace theater Wednesday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock, Rev. William B. Oakley, 53, pastor of the Leffingwell Baptist church, died at 8:15 in the evening at the Backus hospital without having regained consciousness.

Rev. Mr. Oakley had been to the theatre to see a moving picture on Indian life and as he reached the lobby on his way out complained of not feeling well. He was helped into the rest room and Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins who was in charge at the theatre had Dr. Louis T. Cassidy summoned. Rev. Mr. Oakley lapsed into an unconscious state and Dr. Cassidy quickly had the ambulance summoned when he arrived, having the stricken man taken to the Backus hospital where it was recognized from the first that his condition was critical.

Dr. C. C. Gildersleeve, medical examiner, who conducted an investigation after the death of Rev. Mr. Oakley learned that the minister had driven to this city in the afternoon in his automobile. The machine was found parked in Church street near the Community house and was taken in charge by Deacon S. W. Leffingwell and A. H. Beebe, clerk of the church.

Members of the congregation who learned of the death of their pastor Wednesday night were deeply affected by the news. He would have reached the end of three years in the pastorate there on the first Sunday in June. He was greatly beloved by the members of the church and was held in high esteem throughout Leffingwell and the countryside adjoining.

Rev. Mr. Oakley was unmarried, residing at the parsonage in Leffingwell. He is survived by his mother and a sister living in Chester, Pa., and a sister in New York state.

He was a graduate of Crozier seminary, Penn., and had held the pastorate at the Old Mystic Baptist church before coming to the Leffingwell church. The Old Mystic church was reluctant to let him go, but he decided to make the change largely in the interest of his health. He held a pastorate at one time also at Bridgeport.

NEW ST. JOSEPH'S HALL USED FOR COOKING CLASS

By invitation of Rev. S. A. Icick, pastor of St. Joseph's church, Miss Gladys L. Peckham, home service expert for the Norwich gas and electric department, gave a class of 80 a talk and demonstration, in the new St. Joseph's community hall, Tuesday evening. Miss Peckham was introduced by Rev. Father Icick, talking to the class of women and girls on homemaking. Later she gave a demonstration of making baking powder biscuits. Her pupils were very enthusiastic and later she will probably organize a class in that parish. Miss Peckham was presented to the parish members by Earl G. Taggart, sales manager for the gas and electric department.

Tonight (Thursday) at 8, Miss Peckham is to broadcast a recipe for Norwich housewives from WCBR at the Wauregan hotel.

Forty-four attended her lecture Wednesday, when the demonstration was on jellied fruit salad, strawberry Bavarian cream and fruit whip. This will be repeated Friday afternoon, which will be the last Friday lesson for the season. The Wednesday afternoon and Monday evening brides' classes will continue till June 7th, which date ends the season. Monday evening of this week, 51 in the brides class were given a lesson on frozen deserts. Next week their lesson will go over to Tuesday night on account of the holiday and they will be taught trussing and roasting chickens.

As usual, Mrs. C. D. Sevin assisted Miss Peckham Wednesday.

ROYAL ARCANUM WILL DISTRIBUTE DIVIDEND CHECKS

Supreme Vice Regent C. B. Haring of New York and four other high officers of the Royal Arcanum were entertained at a banquet held at the Wauregan hotel Wednesday evening by the councils of the eastern division, comprising Norwich, Stonington, Willimantic, Putnam and New London. About forty representatives of various councils attended the supper which was served at 6:30 p. m. Grand Regent C. P. McGuinness of Stamford was the toastmaster and he introduced Supreme Vice Regent Haring of New York as the principal speaker. The supreme vice regent featured in his address the forthcoming dividend which the Royal Arcanum is soon to pay to its members. He explained that each member will receive a credit check for the amount of one month's assessment, and that this credit check may be turned over to the treasurer in lieu of the month's assessment. There were remarks by the high supreme and grand officers present.

In addition to Supreme Vice Regent Haring, other visiting officials present were: Past Supreme Regent Carlton E. Hoadley of New Haven; Past Grand Regents F. H. Riley of Bridgeport and Harry Edemark of Meriden, Grand Regent C. P. McGuinness, Stamford and Grand Secretary D. J. Lucy of New London.

SUPT. HURLEY IS ABLE TO PROMISE BUT LITTLE

Wednesday afternoon Superintendent Robert T. Hurley of the Connecticut state police met in conference with Secretary J. J. O'Rourke of the Norwich chamber of commerce, William G. Park, James L. Case, Albert Lillibridge and Lucius Briggs in regard to transfer of examinations for drivers' licenses from this city to New London. Supt. Hurley said that this matter comes under the supervision of the motor vehicle department of the state. There was a general discussion on the matter and also on the motor vehicle registration office which a year ago it was hoped would be secured for Norwich. Supt. Hurley stated that he would look up the number of registration in Norwich and vicinity.

It was stated that there are about 40 stations in the state and that the present appropriation is not large enough to provide for the maintenance of any additional stations.

PAST MATRONS TO MEET WITH STONINGTON CHAPTER

A meeting of the past matrons' association of the order of Eastern Star in this district will be held with Ruth chapter of Stonington in the parlors of the Congregational church this (Thursday) afternoon beginning at 2 o'clock. It is expected that several members of Sachem chapter; also the neighboring chapters will be in attendance at the meeting.

Given Hearing In Chambers

At the Wednesday morning session of the city court, Mrs. Bertha Wright Tuttle, 23, of Voluntown and Angelo NeSota, 16, who were arrested by the local police Tuesday night in the woods on the West Side section were presented before Judge H. H. Pettis, following a hearing in chambers the woman was allowed to return to her home in Voluntown, being taken there by her parents. The charges against the pair were breach of the peace. Judgment was suspended in the case of the NeSota boy who is at present at liberty on probation for other offenses for which he has been in court.

Graduating at Boston

Miss Ruth S. Loring of Central Village, who has taken the domestic arts course in the Boston Young Women's Christian association's school, will be one of the 18 graduating in the course on Friday or this week.

Poles at Curve Protected.

The two poles at the curve at Sacred Heart church, Norwich Town, which are most exposed to wildly driven machines, have been given protection against future emergencies, one with a plate of iron bolted on near its base and the other with an encircling ring of iron pipes driven into the ground close against the pole.

SUPT. HURLEY SPEAKS FOR UNIVERSAL FINGER PRINTING

Robert T. Hurley, superintendent of the Connecticut state police, was the speaker of the day at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club held at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon, and took for his subject "Finger Prints". Mr. Hurley presented an entirely new angle to the subject of the finger printing system and his talk contained many points of sound logic. Mr. Hurley said in part:

With the so-called crime wave sweeping the country the question today is not what the police are doing for the public but what is the public doing for the police. For some time we have been told of the increase of crime in this country and I believe one cause of the spread of crime is due largely to the indifference of the public. There are several angles that make up this indifference but we can divide the public in two groups, the part called society or law-abiding citizens and the anti-social class or the criminally inclined. The law-abiding part embraces about 90 per cent of the public while the antisocial class makes up the other 10 per cent. But through the indifference of the majority the minority is holding back a class nine times its size. This does not seem possible but I believe it to be true and if true is something that is radically wrong. For the reason of this indifference we must turn back the pages of history to the 13th century when Edward I saw the gradual growth of the anti-social element and formed the Watch and Ward society to protect society against lawlessness. With the establishment of the protective group a third class was established—the police. All are separate and independent of each other and all have drifted wider apart so that today while society has nothing in common with the anti-social element both say to the police, "stand off". The finger print system is very obnoxious to society and many of this class say that it is unconstitutional and distasteful. Of course the anti-social element has absolutely no use for it. Society looks upon the finger printing system as a part of the police machinery and wants nothing of it. In reality the finger print system should not be a part of the police but a part of the society. The finger print is nothing more than an undisputable record. Society approves of birth certificates, marriage certificates and death certificates and practically every important event in a person's life is recorded in some manner. Yet all these records are destructable and not always obtainable or correct.

People should lay aside that old feeling of oppression and agree that finger printing is not unconstitutional but a necessary recording system for society. It is because of its police origin and use in police circles that it is distasteful to society. When we study into the subject we find we are a long way behind the times. It has been estimated that 35,000 people wander away annually and that a large percentage of the wanderers are never found and returned to their homes. The wanderers may be mentally deranged and there is absolutely no way of telling who they are. Their wanderings cause many an hour of heartache and anguish. But if the wanderers had all been finger-printed would not it be an easy matter to identify them? I would say that if the finger-print system was in general use at least 75 per cent of the wanderers each year would be returned to their people. Take the case of the kidnapped child. How easy it would be to identify the child if he had been finger-printed when young. The police would have some definite and indisputable record of identification.

Statistics show that business men and banks cash checks to the value of which are either forged or worthless. If a man had to put his finger prints on the check when cashing it for identification it would cut down the loss to a great extent. If the confidence man, the slick salesman of bogus investments were compelled to finger print his business card and the receipts which he gave for money received he would think twice before entering upon his shady business. This one act of finger-printing would practically eliminate the confidence man. It is estimated that one billion dollars are invested annually with the bogus stock salesman. The finger print system would drive these confidence men into an honest business. We spend much money for automobile theft insurance but if every automobile owner had to finger print his registration and bill of sale would it not be a difficult job for a thief to dispose of a stolen car?

Who is responsible for this condition if it is not society through its foolish objection to having a definite record of every person What do we do with the emigrant who comes to our country? We turn him loose in our midst and what definite record have we of him if we should want to find him. Society wants him found but will not permit of a record to be taken of him when he enters this country. He knows there is no definite record of him and there is nothing to prevent him from doing just as he pleases.

Society is 100 per cent wrong on this finger print system and it should become a necessary record and placed in the family Bible with the records of births, marriages and deaths.

Supt. Hurley was given a very appreciative vote of thanks at the conclusion of his talk.

At the business session of the club President Edwin A. Harris presided and Joseph H. Whelan was the song leader There were a number of musical features including a very pleasing duet. My Wild Irish Rose, by Eben Learned and James E. Roantree.

Alfred Lillibridge, chairman of the programme committee made the following appointments for the next month's meetings:

June 2—Charles J. Twist, song leader; Frank G. Aubrey, five-minute talker on current events; speaker of the day, Prof. Richard Dodge of Storrs college.

June 9—Arthur M. Thompson, song leader; Willis Austin, five-minute talker; balance of meeting in charge of Chairman James E. Roantree and his Business Methods committee.

June 16—Alfred G. Bliven, song leader; Charles E. Taylor, five-minute talker; principal speaker to be announced.

June 23—Richard L. Tarrant, song leader; Herbert M. Larom, five-minute talker; Dr. Hugh B. Campbell and his Educational committee in charge of further program.

June 30—Monthly business meeting. Lucius Briggs, song leader; Charles W. Taggart, five-minute speaker; Secretary Edward W. Jewett, the club's delegate to the International Rotary convention in Denver, Colo., will report on that great gathering.

The club voted the usual contribution to the Salvation Army for the drive for their budget The meeting adjourned with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

DRIVER HELD IN $500 BAIL— HAD BEEN DRINKING

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 26.—As the result of a collision between two Ford automobiles, about 8 o'clock Wednesday evening, at the junction of Mechanic street and Pawcatuck avenue, Fred Bovin of White Rock was taken to the office of Dr. William A. Hillard, who found the man under the influence of intoxicants. Patrolman Sheldon, of Pawcatuck, who investigated the accident, found that the other automobile was driven by Herbert Vars of Lower Pawcatuck and that the uncertain course of the Bovin machine caused the accident. Bovin was held in $500 bail furnished by Annie Bovin, who brought before Judge William A. Wilcox. He will appear in Stonington town court Saturday morning at 8 o'clock (S. T.) to answer to a complaint of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Roger Shugrue, 23, of Pawcatuck, was taken into custody about 11 o'clock Tuesday night by Pawcatuck Patrolman Adin R. Sheldon when he was creating a disturbance in his neighborhood. Before Judge William A. Wilcox in the Stonington town court Wednesday morning he was found guilty of intoxication and was fined $1 and costs, amounting to $12.71.

FOUR NEW DIVORCE SUITS ARE FILED

Papers in four divorce suits were filed here Wednesday with Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court. All are returnable in June.

Harry M. S. Luce of Sag Harbor, L. I., is made a defendant in a divorce suit brought by Mrs. Ella Laper Luce of New London. Mrs. Luce sues for alimony also, alleging desertion. They were married Sept. 2, 1897.

Divorce and custody of one minor child is asked for by Mrs. Katherine Aller Purcell of Groton from William H. Purcell of Colchester. Desertion since April 24, 1923, is alleged.

L. [illegible] Hill of Noank is being sued a divorce by Mrs. Clara Smith Hill of Norwich. They were married April 22, 1913, and intolerable cruelty is alleged since June 1, 1923.

Mrs. Claudia Benjamin Hull of Montville seeks a divorce from Latham Hull of Montville. They were married Dec. 16, 1914, and desertion is alleged since Feb. 7, 1923. The petitioner seeks the custody of two minor children. The couple formerly lived in this city.

ANNUAL CRADLE ROLL BY UNITED CHURCH SCHOOL

Eighty were present including the children and their mothers, for the annual cradle roll of United Congregational church school, which was held last Saturday afternoon from 3 to 5 o'clock at the Community house on Church street. A toy balloon was presented to each child and games were played under the direction of Miss Susie C. Whittlesey, assisted by Miss Marion Beebe.

The tables were decorated in lavender and flowers with candles. The favors were lollypop dolls dressed in pink crepe paper. Ice cream, cake and cookies were served.

Mrs. A. J. Sinay, who is superintendent of the cradle roll, had charge of the arrangements, assisted by Mrs. George Gifford and daughter Janet, Mrs. Thomas Smith and daughter Florence. Mrs. May Young and daughter Frances.

INJURED CHAUFFEURS ARE NOW OUT OF HOSPITAL

John Wall of 54 Roath street and Frank Krupinski of 714 Boswell avenue, the two chauffeurs who sustained lacerations of the face and head last Thursday night in an automobile accident, have been discharged as patients at the Backus hospital. The automobile in which the two men were riding belonged to Krupinski, but it has not been learned whether either man has yet been presented on any charges of violation of the motor vehical law.

Abraham Agranovitch, with whose sedan the Krupinski roadster was in collision near the state hospital, is credited with stating after the crash that he could not avoid the collision because the Krupinski car was wobbling all over the road before it hit his. A young son of Mr. Agranovitch had to have seven stitches taken in a cut in his forehead.

BROUGHT HERE ON FRAUD CHECK CHARGE

Charged with issuing a check for $27 on the Industrial Trust Bank of Westerly and payable to the Richmond Radiator company this city, for which there were no funds in the bank, Orrin E. Lewis, 26, of Wyoming, R. I., was arrested at the latter place early Wednesday night for the Norwich police. The arrest was made by Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Westerly, on a warrant issued here. Lewis was taken to Westerly police headquarters and Captain Thomas P. Murphy was notified that the man was being held.

Captain Murphy sent Sergt. Matthew Delaney and Officer Patrick Murphy to Westerly in the patrol wagon and Lewis was brought to this city and locked up at police headquarters. He will be presented in the city court this (Thursday) morning. The check was drawn January 5th, 1926.

APPEAL FROM PROBATE IN LOUISA PALMER ESTATE

Audrey A. Palmer of New York, has taken an appeal from the probate court of New London, according to papers filed Wednesday with Clerk George E. Parsons of the superior court.

She alleges that the probate court would not grant her a further limitation of time to present a claim against the estate of Louisa T. Palmer, late of New London.

Death of William Johnson

Charles A. Johnson of Franklin street has received word of the death of his brother, William Johnson, about 50, at his home in Passaic, N. J., Monday evening. Before he removed to Passaic, N. J., a number of years ago he made his home in Jewett City.

COMMERCE BUREAU REPORTS BIRTH AND DEATH RATES

Deaths under one year per 1,000 births, Norwich, 66.5 in 1925 and 70.3 in 1924; New London, 69 in 1925 and 69.2 in 1924; Windham, 74.8 in 1925 and 49.1 in 1924; Stonington, 31.8 in 1925 and 58.1 in 1924.

SETTLEMENT MADE IN SUIT FOR $500 DAMAGES

Settlement out of court was effected Wednesday morning in the case of John Siedel of this city against Arthur Mericks, also of Norwich. The case was to have been tried before Judge Charles B. Waller and a jury in the court of common pleas at New London.

Attorney C. V. James represented the plaintiff and Attorney Arthur T. Kelly the defendant. The case arose over an automobile accident in Glastonbury, July 5, 1925, when the cars of the contestants figured in a collision, resulting in the plaintiff bringing the present suit for damages of $500 to his car. The defendant denied that was driving negligently and carelessly as charged.

School Field Day

Pupils of all grades in Colonel Ledyard school, Groton, will participate in field day exercises to be held this (Thursday) afternoon at Nejseco field, Eastern Point road. They will assemble at the school at 1.30 o'clock and will march to the field.

NORWICH TOWN

With an attendance of about a dozen, the first quarterly conference of the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church was held Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick H. Bushnell, Huntington avenue. Rev. Myron E. Center, of Norwich, district superintendent, presided and offered prayer. The report of the recording secretary, Frederick H. Bushnell, was submitted by Mrs. Bushnell, and with the report of the new pastor, Rev. Albert E. Whitten, was approved. The committee on auditing the church records, reported that the books had been examined and found correct.

The president, Mrs. Richard Carter, read a long and interesting report of the activities of the Young People's Christian Endeavor society.

The name of Mrs. William Weaver was added to the board of stewards, and the name of Miss Florence M. Brown to the music committee.

Frederick H. Bushnell, who is treasurer of trustees, treasurer of the board of stewards, and Sunday school superintendent submitted his annual report for these three offices, which upon approval, were ordered on record. Mr. Bushnell has been superintendent of the church school and recording secretary for this church for about 35 years, always fulfilling his duties with fidelity and never ceasing interests.

Following is the report of the pastor:

On April 16th, of the present year, we arrived in Norwich Town. We found the parsonage warm and some good things to eat. First impressions are often lasting. Mrs. Whitten and I are happy in this place. There appears to be a good spirit of unity among the people of the church which is a chief asset to the life of a church. I have made 50 pastoral calls. For the past two Sundays, the World's Service has been presented, and last Sunday morning we received pledges aggregating about $160, for the ensuing year toward that great enterprise. The Christian Endeavor society and the Sunday school are in a healthy condition; the Sunday school with an average attendance of 49 since I came here. The report was signed Albert E. Whitten.

"The Farmerette," a play in three acts was given at the First Congregational chapel Wednesday evening, before a large and enthusiastic audience, by a company of young women members of the Gleaners' class of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Sunday school, under the leadership of the teacher Mrs. Ernest M. Newbury.

The setting was the old sitting room of the Wellington homestead. Following were the characters according to their entrance: Jane Wellington (16, and still unkissed), Grace Murphy; Jocelyn Wellington (age 14, the little bucolecist); E. Fay Hill; Elnora Wellington, (a girl of 13 and a born homemaker). Henrietta Frink; Mrs. Beckwith (an unfriendly neighbor) Mary Phillips; Nan Wellington, (a fairy blonde of 22, the "Farmerette") Evelyn Wheeler; Minnette Wellington Lawson (about 24, married sister and admirer of soulful eyes), Reita Greenlaw; Gracious Ann Bean (middle aged colored pusson and a believer in calithenics) Mrs. Jennie Newbury.

The play, which was given under the auspices of Ever Ready Circle of the Kings Daughters, Mrs. Philip B. Whaley leader, is the experience of a family of women who bought a farm and set out to seek their fortune by developing it. The ups and downs of their fortune good and bad, were emphasized mainly for the benefit of modern agriculturalists.

During the evening instrumental numbers were given by Miss Bessie Whaley, piano, and Miss Dorothy Heath, violin. Mrs. Charles R. Learned was in charge of the sale of home-made candy. The vice leader, Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe assisted Mrs. Whaley in the preliminary arrangements and a number of others.

Mrs. Ida Connell, who recently enrolled as a member of the Johnson Home family was for 17 years assistant matron at Rock Nook Children's home, instead of seven years as stated.

The mid-week service for conference and prayer of the First Congregational church, which was scheduled for Friday evening, is to be omitted, because of an executive meeting that evening of Norwich Christian Endeavor union.

A large delegation of enthusiastic voters from the Norwich Town district is planning to attend the town meeting Friday evening in the city hall when one of the important questions to be discussed is to whether or not Norwich Town is to have a new school-building.

Among several locations suggested for such a building is the beautiful plot on Pleasant street, owned by Mrs. Charles F. Geer which adjoins at the rear, her house plot on West Town street. The land is level, high and dry, within easy access of Yantic trolley line and situated a little off the state highway. As to size it extends back as far as a section of Sturtevant St.

Women Secure

against lost charm, this new way of solving oldest hygienic problem—offers true protection; discards like tissue.

SHEER gowns and ill-timed social or business demands hold no terror for the modern woman. The insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended.

BULKELEY TRACK TEAM WINS EASY MEET FROM NORWICH ACADEMY TEAM

Bulkeley took a well earned victory from the Academy on the cinder path and in the field at the Academy campus, Wednesday afternoon taking the dual meet by a point score of 59 1-4 to 39 3-4. Coach Hamlet brought up a squad of real athletes to compete against the local school w- led by Gray was too much for the wearers of the Red and White. In Gray Bulkeley has a brilliant track man who took the 100 yard event in 10 1-5 seconds and the 440 yard run in 56 seconds.

Armstrong of the Academy was the outstanding star of the meet taking three first places, the 220 yard dash, the 220 yard low hurdles and the broad jump, and placed second in the 100 yard event. Armstrong was given a hard rub by Gray who took three first places and finished first in the 220 yard dash but was disqualified for cutting-in at the start of the race.

In the field events Bulkeley took everything but the pole vault which went to a tie, and the broad jump won by Armstrong. In the shot-put Bulkeley took all three places and likewise in the high jump which went to a tie between four Bulkeley men. Bulkeley also took all places in the mile run.

Bulkeley was strong in the distance events entering a large field with several fast pace-makers to kill off the Academy runners and allow their star men to come through at the finish. There was a noticeable lack of Academy entrants in all the events.

The summaries:

220 yd. low hurdles—Armstrong A. first; Marshall E. second; Courtois A. third. Time 28 seconds.

Discus throw—Gray B. Tombari A. Collins B. Distance 83 feet 3 inches.

880 yd. run—E. Olsen B. J. Moore A. Egarian B. Time, 2 minutes 17 seconds.

Running high jump—Decker, Looke, Pendleton, Crawford of Bulkeley tied at 5 feet, 1 inch.

100 yard dash—Gray B. Armstrong A. Courbois A. Time 10 1-5 seconds.

Shot put—Pendleton B. Collins B Wilson B. Distance 34 feet 1 inch.

220 yard dash—Armstrong A. Courbois A. Marshall B. Time 23 3-5 seconds.

Pole vault—Krohon, Mousley, Circo of Academy and Gentilello of Bulkeley tied.

Mile run—Parks B, Belden B, E. Olsen B. Time 5 minutes, 15 3-5 seconds.

Running broad jump—Armstrong A. Locke B. Pendleton B. Distance 17 feet 3 inches.

440 yard run—Gray B Courbois A. Disco A. Time 56 seconds.

Point score for meet: Bulkeley 59 1-4; Academy 39 3-4.

Officials—Starter, Charles C. Colt; Clerk of the course, James P. Madden; Timers, William Atchison and William McKnight. Judges Sidney Shebscoff and A. Furlong.

TAFTVILLE OPENS TWILIGHT SEASON WITH VICTORY

Taftville A. A. opened its twilight season by defeating the Jewett City Stars by a 4 to 1 score at the Providence street grounds Wednesday evening. Gauthier pitching for the winners held the Jewett City boys in check until the last inning when they scored their only run on an error. He held them to two hits. Yerrington was again the hitting star with 2 hits out of as many times up. This boy has just begun to hit and it will take a good man to stop him The Taftville team showed the fans that they are without a doubt one of the fastest teams in the eastern part of the state. Several Academy stars have signed up with the Taftville team. Lloyd Jarvis and Goldblatt, the battery, and three infielders Tombari, Cimikoski and Yerrington, who will be seen after the Academy season.

Stanley pitched good ball but errors at a critical time lost him the game. The score:

HURRICANES BEAT SCOPWICK IN POLO SEMI-FINALS

HURLINGHAM, England, May 26—(AP)—The Hurricanes defeated the Scopwick four 3 goals to 7 1-2 in the semi-finals of the Whitney cup polo tournament today The Hurricanes allowed the Scopwicks a handicap of 4 1-2 goals.

The American polo player Stephen Sanford and Robert Strawbridge, by their exceptionally fine playing, enabled the Hurricanes to come up from behind after being apparently beaten. Halfway through the match the Hurricanes were 2 1-2 goals behind, but by scoring three goals in the last period, they were able to pinch off the victory. Sanford scored the final goal for the Hurricanes.

SO. MANCHESTER ITALIAN TEAM WILL BE A STRONG CLUB

The Sons of Italy team of South Manchester that plays at the state hospital on Monday will be a fast club and in the lineup are many players who formerly played with the South Manchester town team. Pompreht, Kotch and Buckholtz are some of the players on the South Manchester team that have played in Norwich many times.

ACADEMY PLAY WINDHAM AT WILLIMANTIC TODAY

The Academy baseball team fresh from their impressive victory over Bulkeley last Saturday will clash with the Windham high team at Recreation park in Willimant this afternoon. The game is scheduled to start at 3.45 (D. S. T.) Coach Brigham will probably use Jarvis against Windham and will save Greene for the league game with Chapman Tech on Saturday.

In their last meeting Jarvis held Windham without a score until the ninth inning when errors allowed two runs to score the final score being 3 to 2. Windham has been going strong since their last meeting with the Academy and today's game will be no walk away for the local team.

HARDIGS TO CLASH WITH WARRIORS SUNDAY

Sunday afternoon at Duwell field, local fandom should be afforded the opportunity of witnessing a fast game when the Hardigs and Warriors clash Both of these teams have some very fast men included in their rosters and this game should be a hummer.

Ellie Segal will pitch for the Hardigs with Tombari behind the bat. The rest of the lineup includes Donegan, Heebner Rankin, Jones and many other fast players.

The Warriors will present the regular lineup as has performed creditably to date this season. Lefty Pavalak will pitch with Jab Burns catch. Kampf will cover first with Leo Morin at second, Bill Burns at short and Leo Hamil at third. In the outfield Couture, Fitzgerald, Courbois and Healey will perform. Couture will be saved for mound duty Monday when the Old Mystic Orioles will probably be met.

TAFTVILLE A. A. OPENS SEASON ON SATURDAY

Everything is all set for the opening game of the season when the fast Taftville A. A. team clashes with the fast Putnam team at the Providence street grounds, on Saturday. Putnam is coming down strong and expects to take the first game of the series. In the Putnam lineup will be seen many who have made a name in that part of the state. A. Dugas, who last year played with the Taftville team, will be seen in the opposing lineup.

Taftville will present a fast team with such men as Eccleston, who will again do the catching; Rabbit Gauthier will do the pitching. Bob Cardie at first; Leo Jarvis at second Merritte of the fast Pioneers c Grotton will take care of third in place of Yerrington, who is playing a good game for the N. F. A. team; shortstop is undecided, Gaudette Dona and Lucier will take care of the outfield

Putnam will have Dugas 1st. Bennett 2nd, Nelson 3rd, Kirby ss, McCoy rf, Carey cf, Murphy c Caffrey Johnson or Coffey, pitch, Chase or McLean, catch.

Umpire John H. Murphy will call the game at 3 15 sharp d. s. t.

HASTE WINS RICH STAKE AT BELMONT TRACK

NEW YORK, May 26 (AP)—J. E. Widener's Haster, with Earl Sande astride, earned $22,800 by winning a sensational victory in the Withers stakes at Belmont park today.

Crusader, owned by the Glen Riddle farm, was second a length and a half behind after a terrific brush with William Ziegler's Espino. Poinpey, Sarmaticus and Navigator were among those in the field. The time for the mile was 1.37 3-5.

Louisville saw a dead heat with Brierhill and Rose Mist finishing as one in the second race. Sandalwood came next. The seven furlongs were covered in 1:26 4-5.

The Joliet handicap at Aurora went to Cartoon with Crosshow and Cogwheel behind. Geo De Mas and Duck Week were unplaced. The time for the mile and seventy yards was 1:46 2-5.

Hot Pepper won the Prince of Wales handicap of six furlongs at Toronto in 1:13 1-5. Arno was second and Robert Maxwell third.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL LEAGUE Taftville Noses Out Broadway

Still mindful of the close defeat they suffered at the hands of the Elizabeth streeters last Monday, the Taftville team entered yesterday's contest against Broadway with a real determination to win with the result that the latter found themselves one point behind when the final scores were added up. The game proved interesting throughout, especially in the final inning when Broadway threatened to spoil Pitcher Gero's earlier success. The batteries were Gero and Dugas for the winners and De'Atri, McFarland and Busch for the Broadway team. C. P. LaVarge umpired the game in a very satisfactory manner. Score by innings:

YANKEES HAMMER OUT SIXTEENTH STRAIGHT WIN

BOSTON, May 26—(AP)—Stemming a late rally by the Red Sox, the Yankees hammered five Boston pitchers for their sixteenth consecutive victory today, 9 to 8. Lee Fohl's players sailed into Sam Jones' curves in the fifth and sixth to overcome an early New York lead, driving the Yanks' hurler from the mound, but the Hugmen closed with a finishing punch which tucked the game away safely.

Garland Braxton, succeeding Jones, proved effective, while the quintet of Boston moundsmen yielded fourteen safe blows. Gazella's single in the seventh drove in Ruth with what proved the winning run. The score:

WESTERLY

FRAZIER-YORK WEDDING SURPRISE TO MANY FRIENDS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 26—A quiet wedding which came as a surprise to their many friends was that of Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, when Miss Flora A. York of Ayondale, R. I., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. York of Plainfield, Conn., was united in marriage with Earle D. Frazier, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Frazier of Westerly. The wedding took place at the parsonage of the Pawcatuck Seventh-day Baptist church on Main street, the pastor, Rev. Clayton A. Burdick, officiating. The couple were unattended and following the ceremony left immediately upon a motor trip, destination not announced.

The bride wore a gown of rosewood georgette and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses and lilies of the valley. The single ring service was used. Mrs. Frazier is well known in Connecticut and Rhode Island through interest taken by her in the activities of the grange. She has held the office of Ceres in the Connecticut State grange for several terms and is now a member of the Connecticut State Home Economics committee.

Mr. Frazier is the carrier from the Westerly post office on Rural Free Delivery route, No. 1, well and favorably known to its many subscribers, having been on the route for many years. During the World war, although holding a government position, Mr. Frazier enlisted and went to training camp, but never saw overseas service. Returning he again assumed his carrier duties from the Westerly post office. Many friends will be found to extend felicitations to Mr. and Mrs. Frazier on their return to Westerly from their wedding trip.

Mary Mullaney; Gold Star Mothers, Civil war veterans and the Spanish war veterans in automobiles.

On arrival of the line at River Bend cemetery Memorial exercises will be concluded, the program being as follows: Commander Samuel E. Tefft, of Budlong post No. 18, G. A. R. presiding; music, Nearer My God to Thee Westerly band; prayer, Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of Broad Street Christian church; G. A. R. Memorial service Budlong post; address, Rev. Orlo M. Breed, pastor of Bradford Baptist church; necrology, Past Commander Shelby C. Nicholas, V. F. W. music, America, Westerly band; taps, Boy Scout buglers; benediction, Rev. Arnt L. Schoning.

Washington county superior court returned to the Westerly courthouse on Wednesday morning with Justice Antonio A. Copotosto on the bench to complete the remainder of the Westerly trial calendar, April term. Inasmuch as eleven new petit jurymen reported, Judge Copotosto said, when he found they all qualified, that he could listen to further requests for being excused. Superior Court Clerk W. Herbert Caswell said that there were now 32 jurymen on hand for duty. Thomas J. Gahan, printer of South Kingstown, said that next week was town election week in South Kingston and a busy one with printers, for which reason Judge Copotosto excused him.

Attorney George R. McKenna of Pawcatuck was given a date as a week from next Monday when he could be heard upon a demurrer.

The docket was gone over and it was found that at least four cases were ready for jury trial—Israel Barg vs. Raymond W. Champlin, Mary B. Cashman vs. John Donofria, alias, Pasquale Furcolo vs. Generoso Gallucci and Edith Gregory vs. Joseph Stedman, the last being the case taken up for hearing and a panel drawn. The case was one in which suit was brought for wages alleged due for work of her daughter, Edna, in 1920 and 1921 for the defendant who conducted a printing plant, the amount due claimed to be $88.00. The jury was empanelled as follows:

Antonio Nardone and William Davidson, Westerly; Lewis Wall, Thomas W. Nye, James R. Edwards and Rensselaer S. Palmer, Hopkinton; Clarence A. Church and Eugene O'Donnell, Charlestown; Roger W. Taylor, South Kingstown; Herbert E. Standeven and George F. Ruth, North Kingston and Herbert F. Kenyon, Narragansett, Mr. Kenyon was appointed foreman of the jury.

Edna Gregory, the daughter of Mrs. Edith Gregory, was the first witness to take the stand and she was followed by her mother, Mrs. Edith Gregory, the plaintiff.

Before the jury case was taken up Washington County Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell, who told Judge Copotosto that Assistant District Attorney Louis V. Jackvony of Rhode Island had directed him to have John Haverick of the town of Hopkinton arraigned on a suspended sentence. The suspended sentence was that when he committed an assault upon Frank Knight, a deputy game commissioner, on April 26th and this disposition was left of the case at that time.

The court was further told by Sheriff Mitchell that when he started for the Haberech home Monday evening he met Haberech on the road. He found that Mrs. Haberech and one of the children had gone to the Puckas home. The sheriff said that Mrs. Haberech had a lump on her head about the size of a hen's egg.

Attorney John J. Dunn, who had previous represented Haberech in two appeal cases from the third district court, one for assault and the other for snaring wild animals, said that he had found the man a most devoted husband and father in the past and he couldn't account for something that had come over the man. He said it would seem that the man was not in his right senses. Sheriff Mitchell stated to the court that Haberech had been examined on Tuesday by Drs. J. H. Scanlon and John Champlin, Jr., as to his mental condition and they pronounced him sane.

Haberech admitted to the court that he had struck his wife on the back with a bag of corn and that he had slapped one of the girls. Frank Haberech, a son of the respondent, told of his mother hiding in the woods for fear of his father.

Before imposing the sentence, Judge Capotosto said it appeared that Haberech had been given a deferred sentence in the superior court on April 26 on an assault charge on his plea of nolo and the court had gone so far as to give him until the first of June to pay the costs.

Recorded in the office of the Westerly town clerk appear the following transfers:

May 24. Angelo Di Pietro to Maria Raffalla DiPietro an undivided one-half interest in a lot or parcel of land with dwelling house and other improvements on the east side of Pierce street.

Is 60 Miles an hour fast enough?

Then, here's a performance "thrill" you'll never forget

HERE is a remarkable new-type of car, different in performance, comfort and ease of driving from anything you have ever known before.

It is a complete new departure in automobile engineering.

The whole car is designed as an integral harmonious unit. All parts are co-related with other parts. It is unit-engineered to meet modern performance standards.

You can drive the Overland Six hour after hour at high speed without wear and tear on the engine. It was designed for an average road speed of 45 to 50 miles an hour. Its low gravity center gives you a feeling of security never found in any car of this type before. Without side-sway or slipping or wandering... the car fairly hugs the road.

Buy a Modern Car

The radical difference between the Overland Six and other cars built today is this new-type of unit-engineering.

It is an actual fact that 8 out of every 10 cars now being sold in the Overland Six price class were designed anywhere from 5 to 12 years ago. Their modern bodies conceal chassis engineering that is obsolete and antiquated in fundamental design.

But today the Overland Six has established an entirely new set of performance standards.

This big sturdy Six will outpull, out-run and out-perform anything else of its size, or weight, or price-class.

It is a car of exceptional comfort. The big, broad door openings are 32½ inches wide.

You can get in or out with the utmost ease.

Seats are wide, luxuriously comfortable. There is more cubic feet of inside space than in any car of this price . . . with plenty of room for five full-size passengers. Room to stretch your legs without feeling cramped or crowded.

The rear springs are extra long . . . and underslung. They are 52 inches long and are made of Chrome Vanadium Steel . . . a costly metal, but it's the best for absorbing the jolts and jars of the road.

Nothing has been spared to make this car a positive comfort-revelation.

Simply in fairness to yourself, see this wonderful car.

OCEAN BEACH MERCHANTS, N. LONDON, MUST LAY DOWN $650 AS A STARTER

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 26—There is liable to be a lesser number of itinerant vendors at Ocean Beach this summer than ever before, for City Manager William A. Wolf has started action to cause all of the itinerant merchants at the shore resort to comply with both the state and city laws requiring the payment of fees for the conduct of their business. The statute provides that the itinerant shall pay a fee of $100 to the state and $50 to the city for the privilege of conducting business at a summer resort and besides the payment of the two fees a cash bond of $500 must be deposited with the state treasurer before the merchant can start doing business. In other words it means that the itinerant merchant must release $650 in cash before he can open his place to sell his goods. Today notices were being prepared by City Clerk Julian D. Moran and will be forwarded to the numerous itinerant merchants ordering them to pay the two fees and deposit the cash bond at the state capitol, Hartford. With the merchants having but about three months to do business at the beach, it is more than likely that some of them will decide to discontinue, rather than pay the $150 additional expense, to say nothing of paying $500 as a bond, for which they will have no use of the money during their stay in business.

CRUEL JOY-RIDERS LEAVE MAN WITH FRACTURED HIP

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 26—The state police are continuing their endeavors today to ascertain the identity of the driver of the automobile that ran down and terribly injured Albert Hathaway, 56, residing on Gilead road, Waterford, last night. Today it was revealed that Hathaway, instead of having sustained a compound fracture of the right leg has sustained a triple fracture. One of the fractures is just below the knee, the second is at the knee and the third is between the knee and hip. There is also a possibility that the man is injured internally, but that fact will not be determined before tomorrow or Friday. There is also a possibility that the three fractures may eventually result in the amputation of the limb. The state police are entirely without a clue that might lead to the identity of the owner of the automobile. It is believed that the occupants of the machine were joy riders, for when the driver alighted from the car immediately following the accident, a female voice was heard to say, "Come on, let's go!" The driver then entered the car and drove away, leaving Hathaway helpless beside the highway.

Eugene W. Jones, proprietor of a garage in Groton, and a most prosperous business man in that town, was in the police court this morning charged with reckless operation of an automobile. He was accused by State Policeman George Sisson, but the accusation was strong enough to convict Jones when the lone testimony of Officer Sisson had been heard. The substance of the testimony was that Jones was driving across the Thames river bridge and got to the underpass where he drove ahead of one car and tried to get ahead of another. Sisson declared that Jones was driving at a speed of 35 miles an hour. He admitted on cross-examination, that his estimate was a guess. Sisson said the underpass prevented a driver from seeing 200 feet ahead. He also admitted that Jones could have looked into the Sisson car and there could have observed that a state policeman was at hand had he been driving at the speed estimated. Judge Crandall, who was on the bench, decided that the evidence did not prove reckless driving and declared Jones not guilty.

John Bjordal made his third appearance in the court in a very short time, each time being charged with intoxication and on each visit claiming that he took the liquor that intoxicated him because he was not feeling well. As the court had before been very lenient with John he was given a dose that will perhaps prove a remedy. He was fined $5.

Percy Powers, a Fall River millhand who said he had been idle much of the time of late, was taken from the cannonball train on the New Haven railroad last night. He was charged with trespass on a railroad train unlawfully. His defense was that he was penniless, that he was beating his way here to get to Fishers Island where he had heard there was work to be had. He was allowed to keep going, but was told to travel with a ticket when he went upon a railroad train again.

William O. Nelson has sold to William A. Park and Hetty K. Park a parcel of land on Vista street.

George T. Dickinson and wife have sold to Archibald S. MacFarlane a dwelling on Montauk avenue.

Master Howard Pope of 25 Grove street; Master Herbert Burdick, Norank; Master John Hayes, 54 West Pleasant street and Mrs. Mary Chapman, 33 Pleasant street, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

The funeral of James C. Bence, Civil war veteran, was held this afternoon at 5 o'clock at 42 Shapley street, the services being conducted by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge, rector of St. James' Episcopal church. The body was forwarded to New Haven, for burial in Westville cemetery.

The funeral service for Anna C., wife of Ferdinand Hunger, was held this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the residence of her son-in-law, Nelson L. Cone, 118 Willetts avenue, and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Members of Norwich lodge, O. D. H. S., of which Mr. Hunger is a member, acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Funeral services for Thomas M. McLaughlin were held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. Joseph's church attended by a large assemblage of mourners. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, with Rev. William C. Fox, of Groton, deacon and Rev. Raymond J. O'Callahan sub-deacon. The bearers were Jeremiah Twomey, Marge O'Neil, Nicholas Duggan, Cornelius Twomey, Jerome J. Colling and David Reagan. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal prayers were read by Rev. Fr. Fitzsimons.

The funeral of Robert W. King, former conductor in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, was held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at Brainard lodge Masonic temple, Green street and was attended by many mourners, including a large representation of employes of the railroad. Officers of Palestine commandery conducted the services. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Charles F. Fitch, 85, one of the oldest residents of Groton, died late yesterday at his home, 80 School street. Mr. Fitch had been in ill health a long time and his condition had been critical for many weeks. Mr. Fitch, so far as is known, is the last of a large family. Mr. Fitch was born in New London, son of the late Thomas and Annie Smith Fitch. He resided in New London until a young man, when he moved to Groton and where he was at one time engaged in the meat business. He was also prominent for a number of years in the conduct of the borough's business affairs and had held several town offices.

Mrs. Alma Whipple, Groton; Mrs. Isadore Siller and infant daughter, 6 Thompson court and Paul Comrie, of Groton, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Three men concerned in a drunken breach of the peace were in court today, but they were not penalized. Their case had come over by adjournment. They are men of respectibility usually, but they strayed from the path of rectitude because of bad associations. One of the men is to move from New London to Groton, where he is employed at the Ship and Engine company plant that he may avoid the associates he has made in this city.

Mrs. Betty McKenna, a young woman, who has been making her residence for some time at 11 Brewer street, was taken in charge late last night by Patrolman Frank Philopena because of the predicament in which the woman was left through her husband deserting her. When Mrs. McKenna discovered that her husband had left the city, she was possessed of but meagre means, but she had sufficient money to pay her fare to New York by steamer and reaching New York, she could go to relatives to Staten Island. However, Mrs. McKenna reached the pier of the New London line a few minutes too late for board the steamer. She told her troubles to Officer Philopena, who escorted her to the police station and a short time later, arrangements were made for keeping for the night. This morning Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield provided the young woman sufficient funds to enable her to reach the Staten Island relatives.

Street Sergeant Samuel Hick is absent from the police force having his vacation of a fortnight.

Patrol Boat Gallatin, another of the 100-foot type of patrol boats similar to the Eagle now stationed at this port and for use by the local United States Coast Guard, is en route to this port from Bay City, Mich., at which place she was recently constructed. The craft which is built of steel and propelled by a Diesel engine, will be used in patrolling the area of this port in search of rum-runners.

Announcement is made by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Burrows, 726 Williams street, of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Caroline Burrows, to Clifford Winters, of Poquyough, Waterford. Mr. Winters is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Winters.

Mrs. C. A. Carr, of Montauk avenue, has returned, after having spent several days with friends in New York and New Jersey.

Announcement is made of the engagement of Roger Burbee, of Lyme, to Miss Bernice Morgan, 724 Williams street, formerly of Lyme.

The death of Della Follansby, widow of George A. Hoyle, formerly of Danielson, occurred Tuesday evening at Lawrence Memorial hospital, after an illness of some duration. She was born in Machias, Me., April 11, 1852, the daughter of James and Mary Follansby, but had been a resident in Danielson for many years. She was united in marriage with George A. Hoyle, in Putnam, in 1875. During their residence in Danielson, Mr. Hoyle conducted a hotel and restaurant, his death occurring in that place in 1908. Surviving her are two grandchildren and four great-grandchildren. Her body will be taken to Danielson for burial in Westfield cemetery.

About 20 past exalted rulers of New London lodge of Elks are planning to attend the annual State Past Exalted Rulers' association, which will take place at Savin Rock, New Haven, on Sunday, June 6. A banquet will be an important part of the programme.

The members of the city council and guests will not review the annual Memorial day parade, which will be held next Monday afternoon, from the steps of the municipal building, as has been the programme in years past, but will inspect the soldiers and sailors and war veterans from a grandstand being constructed for that purpose on Williams Memorial park. The stand will be erected to take care of about a hundred men and women.

The work of attempting to salvage the submarine S-51, which went to the bottom of Block Island sound last September when rammed by the Savannah liner City of Rome and in the hull of which are 24 bodies of officers and members of the undersea boat's crew, was abandoned temporarily at noon today because of a terrific wind. As soon as the wind abates, divers will resume the task of placing pontoons beneath the submarine.

John Maloney, for 35 years a resident of New London, has moved to Huntington, L. I., where he will continue to remain in the employ of Mrs. C. S. Guthrie, for whom he was employed in New London and prior to the death of Mrs. Guthrie's husband, was in the employ of Mr. Guthrie. Mr. Maloney is a skilled gardener and landscape expert and laid out the outdoor decorative features when Mr. Guthrie had erected the mansion on Lower Boulevard and Parkway, recently sold to a realty syndicate.

The funeral of Mrs. Lillian P. Parks, whose death occurred in Baltimore, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock. Services were conducted in Beckwith Memorial. Cedar Grove cemetery by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

WOMAN DRIVER BLAMED FOR BUMP NEAR STATE PIER

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 26.—An automobile driven by George A. Williams, Williams street, Mystic, and a machine owned and driven by Mrs. Harley Brogan, 28 Thames street, this city, were in collision this evening at the approach to the state pier. Williams' car was considerably damaged, but none of the four occupants sustained injury. Williams lodged a complaint at police headquarters against Mrs. Brogan charging her with reckless driving. She will be summoned to appear in the police court tomorrow morning and answer to the complaint of Williams. Williams was driving his machine along the approach to the pier and on his way to the Thames river highway bridge, intending to go to his home. As the car neared the bridge approach he observed the car driven by Mrs. Brogan coming at such an alleged high rate of speed that he believed the car was to continue across the bridge and caused his car to come to a stop. Instead of crossing the bridge, Mrs. Brogan's car was turned to the state pier approach and because of the narrowness of the road at this point and the alleged speed that the car was traveling, Mrs. Brogan could not make the turn in safety. Her car crashed against the side of Williams' auto and forced it against a protecting fence.

Connecticut College

An unusually good program was given on Friday evening by the music department of Connecticut college in the college gymnasium. There were violin, vocal, and piano selections by the music students. The program was a most varied one, ranging from Haydn, a representative of the old classical period, to Dohnanyi, a modern Hungarian pianist and conductor.

On Thursday evening an enjoyable banquet was given by the Connecticut College News for its staff and honorary members. The banquet was held in the Mohican hotel. Dr. Jensen of the Connecticut college English department, Dr. Lawrence of the history department, Miss Polly Warner, graduate secretary of the college, and Miss Barbara Tracy, editor-in-chief of the news spoke. Dr. Lawrence resigned as faculty advisor for the publication and Dr. Jensen accepted the position. To those who had been on the News staff for a full year gold quills were awarded for meritorious work. Altogether the News banquet was a great success. This is the first year that cub reporters have ever been asked to attend.

A most enjoyable banquet was held in New London Tuesday evening, May 25, by the Connecticut college press board. Dr. Gerard E. Jensen, of the English department of the college, and Dr. Henry W. Lawrence, Jr., head of the history department and faculty advisor for the club, gave very interesting addresses on the work that the press board can accomplish in getting out accurate, well written, and concise news of the college.

The president of the club, Miss Hazel Pendleton of New London, then read the list of girls who had completed their full year of service on the board. These are Dorothy Davenport of Rochester, N. Y.; Hazel Gardner of New Rochelle; Josephine Henderson of Hartford; Dorothy Pasnik of Norwich; Eleanor Pendleton of New London; Lillian Supove of Middletown; and Isabel Grinnell of Mystic. These girls are all eligible for the Press Key, awarded for faithful and untiring effort.

Miss Mildred Beardsley of Oakville; Elizabeth Leeds of Newton; Lois Parker of Bridgeport, Lucy Gilman of Bozrahville, Gertrude Johnson of Waterbury, Abbie Kelsey of Jersey City, Delgracia Kent of Glen Ridge, N. J., Jane Hall of New Milford, and Frances Huling of Bennington, Vt., all upper classmen were elected to the board as official correspondents for various papers and are also entitled to receive the Key. Only three freshmen were chosen for their untiring effort and well done year of apprenticeship; these are Miss Jean Hamlet of New London; Lillian Ottenheimer of Willimantic, and Julia Rubenstein of Hartford.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Closing Out McGrory Bros.

Announcement is made that the entire stock of McGrory Bros., Franklin square, is to be sold at bargain prices and must be closed out by Saturday night as the firm is going out of business. It will be the rarest opportunity to secure most attractive bargains in electrical fixtures, lamps, carpenters tools, paints, etc., that has been seen here in a long time.

The fixtures in the store are also for sale and include a large safe, adding machine, cash register, steel filing cabinet and other fixtures.

Lyceum Theater, New London

The story of Babies Ala Cart which appears at the Lyceum, New London, on Friday and Saturday matinee tells of the girl stenographer, who recommends to her boss a divorce case, that of her cousin whose husband's craving for offspring is in conflict with her idea for strict birth control. And to which idea the girl stenog too, is a staunch adherent. The farce carries its auditors through three acts of intense breathless excitement, and at the finish motherhood has triumphed. In the cast of Lionel Chalmers, Stokes McCune, Charles Tazewell, Harry Lyons, Ruth King and Helen Curtis, each having portrayed prominent parts in Broadway successes.

The Academy Orchestra

The Academy orchestra will give its wenty first annual concert on Wednesday evening, June 2nd, at Slater Memorial hall.

It is confidently believed that this will be one of the best concerts ever presented by this organization. There are some 40 players in the orchestra and the instrumentation is more diversified and in much better balance than usual.

Tickets can be secured from members of the orchestra or at Cranston's store at 50c each.

Breed Theater

When you say "the most beautiful girls in Hollywood" you mean beautiful and "nothing else but," because Hollywood, among other things, is recognized all over the world as a abode of the fairest of the fair.

Nearly 100 girls who were selected on just this description form the personnel of the spectacular beauty ballet in the circus sequence of The Devil's Circus, Benjamin Christianson's first American production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer coming to the Breed theater, today, Friday and Saturday.

Whether they were beautiful but dumb, as their critics have so fearlessly stated, was not considered in their selection. The only qualification mentioned was that they be girls whose beauty had been recognized by prizes in beauty contests, bathing suits and like contests.

The harem scene in the circus sequence in which these shapely beauties parade their charms before the sultan, is one of the most beautiful ever conceived for a motion picture.

The jewels in the picture's crown of beauty are Norma Shearer and Carmel Myers. The cast of the picture includes Charles Emmett Mack, John Miljan, Joyce Coad and the dog Buddy.

Broadway Theater

The management of the Broadway theater, promises in enthusiastic terms that the super-attraction, Stella Dallas which opens next Sunday for a limited engagement is as distinctive and as out of the ordinary a brand of entertainment as ever thrilled the patrons of any theater.

Stella Dallas, by Mrs. Olive Higgins Prouty, first appeared as a serial story in the American Magazine; later as a best seller novel, and then 75 newspapers throughout the country ran it, and Mrs. Leslie Carter starred in it as a stage play. It has been broadcast over the radio and now Samuel Goldwyn sponsors Stella Dallas as a Henry King production, adapted for the screen by Frances Marion.

Stella Dallas on the screen is an exact pictorial translation of the novel, according to the producer. It unfolds a story of a typical American girl, to whose heart tumult rages and seeks romantic expression. Stella's love-life, her rise to the heights and her fall to the depths, is a dramatic X-ray, full of emotional climaxes and colored with vivid realistic revelations.

Belle Bennett, chosen as the seventy-third candidate for the role, plays Stella to the life. Ronald Colman, romantic and manly, plays Stephen Dallas, Alice Joyce, gracious and refined, plays Mrs. Morrison. Jean Hersholt, the great character actor, plays Ed Munn, the wise-cracking, show-off riding master. Lois Moran, the child wonder, is the strange girl beautiful Laural, and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., as a child of the block, plays the carefree collegian, Richard Grosvenor.

Stella Dallas is the first production of Samuel Goldwyn's to appear in United Artists Corporation schedule, and considered to be the most ambitious entertainment of his career.

This is the same great production that recently closed in New York city, after a seven months run at the Apollo theater at $2 top prices.

The Broadway management promises this film will be presented at prices within the means of any person in Norwich. Also an augumented orchestra to accompany a picture of such worth.

HAIR COMING OUT?

Dandruff causes a feverish irritation of the scalp, the hair roots shrink, loosen and then the hair comes out fast. To stop falling hair at once and rid the scalp of every particle of dandruff, get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little in your hand and rub it into the scalp. After a few applicatoins the hair stops coming out and you can't find any dandruff.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

No question of doubt remains with local lovers of vaudeville that Keith-Albee attractions are the best obtainable. The five act program that opens at the Broadway theater today will further tend to bring this out even more forcibly than formerly. The management guarantees three glorious days of merriment.

If you want to see how the people who have plenty of money and time enjoy themselves go and see the Tiffany production "Pleasures of the Rich" which will be seen for the first time here at the Broadway theater today. Also if you want to see a crackingly good film entertainment don't miss this picture.

The picture was adapted from a story, The Wrong Coat, by Harold MacGrath, by A. P. Younger, who also supervised its screen production. The megaphone was handled by Louis Gasnier who is to be commended for his work.

Helena Chadwick, Jack Mulhall and Hedda Hopper lead an exceptional cast of players, including Julanne Johnston, Mary Carr, Marcia Asher, Lillian Langdon, Dorothy Wolbert and Katherine Stott.

New Mystery Grips City

Someone once wrote—Al' the world loves a mystery.

Truer words were never said than here for at this particular moment Norwich is gripped with a thriller. All because the newspapers of this city carried the startling announcement that shining new automobiles of some unknown make were to be offered to the general public at a price that was less than it costs to make them.

On the street, at the clubs, in the homes or wherever folks meet and talk over the topics of the day—the one question is—"What make of cars are these?" and "what automobile agency has selected this novel means of holding a sale?"

Reports from our leading automobile dealers show that many, many telephone calls have been made at their places of business inquiring whether or not this mysterious organization was theirs. Interested and inquisitive people have fine tooth-combed the city. No one seems to know the first thing about this startling plan and it has developed into a deep, dark mystery, that has caused clever guessers no end of joshing by their friends. Inquiries have been made of those who are up on motor car sales and as each question is asked—no answer of tangible weight seems to be given.

The atmosphere is crammed and jammed with rumors. One well known motor enthusiast claims that it is a big warehouse that has won a law suit and is liberating brand new cars for the high dollar mark. When asked what the warehouse was going to do with the used cars traded in on these new automobiles—the authority suddenly found that he had an appointment of much importance in another section of the city and hastily took leave from his questioner without even bidding him a farewell.

Another well known authority on the activities of local motor car dealers offered a possible solution in the suggestion that it might be a big dealer who found himself overstocked. The dealer was phoned and when questioned claimed the joke a good one—stating that his cars were going like proverbial hot cakes and if the party phoning him didn't believe it—he was offered an invitation to call and look over his mail for the last two weeks to see whether or not he was clamouring for new cars to keep up with the public demand.

By last evening the mystery had developed into a man sized proposition. The same questions—were asked all over town. "What car"—and "What dealer" everyone wanted to know.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Well Child Conferences

The normal child, as well as those that are underweight, should have some period of rest during the day and should go to bed early, as growth is best accomplished during the sleeping time. Often all that is needed to bring a child up to normal weight is longer hours of rest. All children should go to bed early regardless of the possible change in the sun time.

All these measures for child health are discussed at the well child conference. The next conference in Waureagan will be held on Tuesday afternoon, June 1st, in Company hall, from 2 to 4 o'clock, and in South Coventry on Thursday afternoon, June 3, in the public library from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Palace Theater

Today welcomes a great bill of vaudeville and feature attraction at the Palace. There are to headline acts on the vaudeville program the first being the Kam-Tai-Chinese sensational Chinese wonder workers in a bit of the Orient. Libby-Sparrow Revuette, diversements of 1926 with lots of pep and personality. John A. Crawford and Rita Desimona in great moments from Broadway, Morgan and Ott two gloom chasers and Kings of Hokum. Billy Carmen in a musical melange backed by a pretty setting.

If you're just a little tired of comedy, if Westerns bore you the least bit, if spectacles no longer make you leave your comfortable seat by the fireside; if you are one or the large army who have one, or many of the above symptoms—then you're going to enjoy the new Herbert Brenon Paramount picture, Dancing Mothers, which is at the Palace the— today.

For the benefit of those who did not see the Selwyn-Goulding stage play, it might be wise to explain that Dancing Mothers is described as a "society drama." But it is much more than that description would seem to imply.

Dancing Mothers is the tale of a pretty woman who was almost cheated out of life by a heartless husband and a thoughtless daughter. As the mother who started outin order to save her child from throwing herself at a notorious bachelor, and ended by falling in love with him herself, Alice Joyce gives the finest performance of her career. And Conway Tearle in his role as the bachelor, rises to new heights. Clara Bow, known as the screen's perfect flapper, does her stuff as the child, and does it well. Taking the picture as a whole, Dancing Mothers has been characterized by those who have seen it as "perfect entertainment."

LEGAL NOTICES

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Montville, within and for the District of Montville, on the 26th day of May, A. D. 1926.
Present, DAN D. HOME, Judge.
Estate of Louis Holt Jerome, late of Providence, R. I., deceased.
The Administrator exhibited his administration account with said estate to the Court for allowance; it is therefore Ordered, That the 2nd day of June, A. D. 1926, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, at the Probate Court Room in Montville, in said District, be, and the same is, appointed for hearing the same, and the said Administrator is directed to give notice thereof by publishing this order once in the Norwich Bulletin, a newspaper having a circulation in said District, at least 5 days prior to the date of said hearing, and make return to the Court.
DAN D. HOME, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, SUSAN F. PLOUFFE, Clerk.

AT A COURT OF PROBATE HELD at Norwich, within and for the District of Norwich, on the 26th day of May, A. D. 1926.
Present NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
Estate of Eliza T. McDonald, late of Norwich, in said District, deceased.
William H. Shields, of Norwich, Conn., appeared in Court and filed a petition, alleging that he is the Executor of the will of said decedent, and praying, for the reasons therein set forth, that he, as such Executor, be authorized to settle, compromise and adjust a disputed claim against said estate in favor of one Julia McGregor of Norwich, Conn., as on file more fully appears.
Whereupon, it is ordered, That said petition be heard and determined at the Probate Court Room in the City of Norwich, in said District, on the 29th day of May, A. D. 1926, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, and that notice of the pendency of said petition, and of said hearing thereon, be given by the publication of this order one time in some newspaper having a circulation in said District at least two days prior to the date of said hearing and that return be made to this court.
NELSON J. AYLING, Judge.
The above and foregoing is a true copy of record.
Attest, HELEN M. DRESCHER, Clerk.

WARNING
Special Town Meeting
The legal voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Norwich are hereby warned to meet in a Special Town Meeting, to be held in the Town Hall, in Norwich, on
at Seven O'clock, P. M. (Standard Time) for the following purposes: To determine what action they will take upon a certain petition signed by 20 legal voters of said Town requesting the calling of a Special Town Meeting for the following purposes:
First: To decide whether or not said town will purchase a tract of land and build a school house thereon in the northwesterly portion of said town, within the limits of the Fourth Voting District in said town, at a cost for said land and the erection and equipment of said school building of not more than $235,000, and to appoint a committee to do all things necessary in connection therewith.
Also, to authorize the Board of Selectmen of said Town to borrow such sums of money upon such terms and at such times as may be, in their judgment, necessary, not to exceed said sum of $235,000, to pay for said land and for the erection and equipment of said school building and to give the notes or other interest bearing evidences of indebtedness of said town therefor, provided it is determined to build said school building.
Second: To act upon a certain petition signed by 20 legal voters of said Town requesting the appropriation of a sufficient sum of money for the erection and maintenance of a suitable number of electric lights on the New London Turnpike southerly of West Main Street from the residence of Sir. John McWilliams to the residence of Mr. Charles Conrade.
Third: To decide whether the Town would appropriate a sum, not to exceed $50.00, to reimburse Frank J. Hill of said Town for the transportation expenses of his son, Frank A. Hill, to the Putnam Trade School.
Fourth: To determine whether the Town will discontinue six sections of highway on the Gallows Hill Road, so called, leading from Norwich Town to Taftville, said sections being shown on a certain lay-out of said highway, recorded in the Land Records of the Town of Norwich, in Book of Plans, No. 2, at pages 93 to 99 inclusive.
Also, to do any other business proper to come before said Meeting.
Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 21st day of May, 1926.
WILLIAM S. MURRAY,
CHARLES P. BUSHNELL,
PATRICK T. CONWELL,
Selectmen of the Town of Norwich.

Cattle steady to strong.

Hogs lower.

MARKET SHOWED STRENGTH

NEW YORK, May 6—(AP)—Constructive forces were again at work in today's stock market, which moved to higher ground under the leadership of the oil, steel, chemical, and railroad shares. One of the significant features of the day was the increase in public participation, the day's sales of 1,327,300 shares being the largest since May 9.

Bullish sentiment was created by the lowering of call money rates at an advance of $3 a ton in the United States Steel corporation's price for steel bars, the announcement that freight car loadings crossed the million mark for the first time this year in the week ended May 16, and the American Petroleum Institute's report of a decrease of 12,700 barrels in the daily average of gross crude oil production last week.

The weekly steel trade reviews reported that May business continues to run ahead of April figures. United States Steel common closed a point higher at 122 1-2, after having touched 123.

Pan-American "B" was again the leader of the oil group, closing nearly two points higher at 71 3-4.

There was nothing in the day's news to explain the sudden spurt in the chemical issues. Commercial solvents "A" and "B" soared five and 8 points to new high levels at 158 and 160, respectively and Allied Chemical closed 2 1-4 points higher at 118. Considerable mystery surrounded the spurt in the Central Leather issues, the preferred jumping five points to 93 3-4.

The advance in the local tractions which has been one of the features of recent markets, was slowed up by profit taking, although Manhattan modified guaranteed crossed 60 to a new high. Motors were again heavy despite the optimistic statement on conditions in the industry by John N. Willys, one of the leading manufacturers.

Specialties for which there was a good demand include American zinc preferred, Colorado Fuel, National Distillers, Remington Typewriter, Southern Dairies "A" and U. S. Cast Iron pipe.

Buying of the rails centered in such issues as New York Central, Erie first preferred, Norfolk and Western, Chesapeake and Ohio, and Missouri Pacific preferred.

Squeezing of the "shorts" in May wheat, sending that option up 8 1-2 cents a bushel to $1.70 1-2, featured the commodity markets. Cotton advanced 7 to 9 points on reports of unsettled weather. Raw sugar advanced 1-16 of a cent of a pound with a firmer undertone also noted for futures. Coffee declined 15 to 30 points in sympathy with the easier South American market.

Call money renewed at 4 per cent and then dropped to 3 1-2, closing at the low figure. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Foreign exchanges were irregular, with a jump of 17 points to 14.73 cents in Spanish pesetas as the chief feature. Demand sterling ruled firm around 4.86 and French francs ruled six points higher, just under 3.30 cents. Italian lire and Belgian francs were slightly easier.

TAFTVILLE

Kerin Nolan has returned to his home in Long Branch, N. J., after spending several days in town.

There was a meeting of the Taftville Athletic association, Monday evening, with Dr. George M. Thompson, the president presiding. It was voted to hold the opening game of the season on Saturday. A board of directors was elected, including Arthur J. Roy, Archie Molleur, George W. Weller, Richard B. Snow, Dr. George M. Thompson, James Troland, Roderick Molleur.

Work on the two apartment houses of Victor Fontaine and Edward Kelley on Merchants avenue has been started.

The members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society did not hold their regular weekly meeting Wednesday evening.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Following several days' stay in New York, Miss Maud Carew Buckingham returned Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Joseph S. Whelan, of Greene Avenue entertained with three tables of bridge Tuesday evening.

Henry W. Kent, of New York will spend the holiday with his sister, Miss Katherine Kent, at Norwich Town.

This (Thursday) evening, Mrs. William H. Palmer, Mrs. Albert Lewis and H. Reynolds Palmer will motor to Boston, to remain over the holidays.

The Wednesday afternoon Club met with Mrs. Albert H. Chase, of Sachem Terrace. The hostess gave a talk on Madame Tussaud, which was discussed during the informal tea which followed.

Norwich relatives have received invitations from Miss Lorna Noyes, daughter of Charles Floyd Noyes, of New York, to attend her graduation today (Thursday) at 10:30 a. m., from National Park Seminary, Forest Glen, Md.

When Dr. and Mrs. Clarence G. Thompson entertained at cards Monday evening, Mrs. Thompson giving a miscellaneous shower for Miss Mary L. Higgins, the prizes at bridge were won by Mrs. Harry E. Higgins and Mrs. John Griffith, the latter of Hartford.

Miss Henrietta Browning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Browning, sails from New York Saturday on the Scandinavian-American liner Hellig Olav for Denmark and will devote a month to the study of physical education in Copenhagen later touring the continent. She will return late in August.

The Monday Study Club ended its season with the annual luncheon, held with Miss Lucas and Miss Mary Crosby Lucas, of Sachem Street. The fifteen members had as their guest Mrs. William B. Douglas, of Madrid, Spain. Miss Mary H. Paddock will be president of the club for the coming year, when the study topic is to be Holland.

In New York Tuesday, Miss Elizabeth Detwiller, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence J. Detwiller, of 580 Park Avenue, gave a luncheon at Sherry's for twelve prospective brides. One of these was Miss Helena Porteous Crosthwaite, of Pelham Manor, granddaughter of John Porteous, of Norwich, a frequent visitor at the Porteous residence, on Broadway.

FIRST RETURNS IN SALVATION ARMY CAMPAIGN SHOW $2,155.15 RAISED

With only two-thirds of the workers reporting pledges and cash amounting to $2,155.25 at the Salvation Army campaign supper Wednesday evening at the Wauregan hotel, indications are that the entire amount, $4,500, will be raised by the time the campaign ends Friday evening. Pledges and cash secured by the remaining one-third of the workers in the past two days should bring the total to date well over the halfway mark.

Announcement was made Wednesday evening that "open territory" will be declared after noon today (Thursday). So far the team captains and members are working on the card system but in order to give everyone a chance to contribute, the workers, after noon today, will be free to solicit any and all prospects.

Wednesday night's supper marked the first official report on the campaign. The nearly 100 captains and team members gathered in the hotel dining room at 6:30 o'clock and were served a delicious luncheon menu. William A. Anderson acted as song leader for the spirited singing. At the close of the supper Chairman Earle Taggart urged the workers to renewed effort in order to reach the $4,500 goal by Friday night. He called attention to the fact that there are only two days left. With cooperation we are sure to reach our goal, he said.

E. J. McKay, campaign secretary, told the workers they must have confidence in themselves in order to put the campaign across. We must be careful to see all the prospects. In compiling our lists we have not copied them from the telephone directory but we have used the names of those who have given in previous years. We want to reach all who want to give. It is very necessary that we keep working until Friday night.

Max Hanover addressed the meeting briefly and suggested the "open territory" plan so that all who wish to give can be solicited.

Chairman Taggart then presented James L. Case who has taken a prominent part in many local campaigns. The only thing necessary for the success of the campaign, Mr. Case said, is to "see more people." Go after $10 and $25 contributions, he said. Don't be afraid to ask people for certain sums of money which you believe they are able to give. Classify your own prospects and ask accordingly. To be a sucessful campaign worker you have got to believe in the cause. We must sell this campaign to those who perhaps may be inclined to be a little skeptical.

General McCabe deserves the support of every one here, said Mr. Case. He has worked hard on this campaign and it is the best organized campaign the Salvation Army has put on in Norwich. Earle Taggart and your captains deserve your support.

Mr. McCabe called attention to the fact that the campaign will close Friday night and announced that "open territory" will be in force after noon today (Thursday).

The team reports were then given as follows:

Team No.	Captain	Amount Reported
1.	Louis M. Crandall	$ 169.00
2.	J. C. Macpherson	234.00
3.	C. W. Taggart	339.50
4.	E. D. Rodier	82.00
5.	Abner Schwartz	222.00
6.	T. A. Sage	148.00
7.	Mrs. E. A. Peyson	65.00
8.	Mrs. D. M. Dean	338.50
9.	Mrs. C. W. Burton	110.25
10.	Miss Ruth Eaton	113.00
11.	Mrs. Kallila Taggart	176.00
12.	Miss Mary E. Richards	169.50
	Total	$2,155.25

The board of directors of the Connecticut chamber of commerce has selected the nominating committee of 15 which will place before the members and delegates of the chamber at the approaching annual meeting a suggested list of new directors for the next year.

President Rogers has called a meeting of this committee at Hartford on the afternoon of Thursday, June 3rd.

The committee follows: Representing basic groups of business: Agriculture, Joseph W. Alsop, Avon; banking and insurance, John M. Wadhams, treasurer Torrington Savings bank; industries, Stanley H. Bullard, vice president Hartford Electric Light Co.; trade and commerce, Frank H. Johnston, president City Coal & Wood Co. New Britain.

WILL TAKE POSITION AT WILLIMANTIC THEATRE

Haxing resigned his position as organist and assistant manager at the Palace theatre, Harry A. Walker will next week assume a position as organist at the New Gem theatre in Willimantic. Illiam S. Jeffs, formerly leader of the Palace theatre orchestra and organist at the theatre, and at present representative for the Hoffman theatre enterprises in this section will soon assume his new duties as solo organist at the Capitol theatre in South Manchester. Mr. Jeffs has been temporary organist at the Gem theatre in Willimantic. Mr. Walker will reside with Mr. Mr. Jeffs and his family for the summer at South Manchester. The two men have been associated with each other in the musical world for the past seven years since Mr. Jeffs' arrival in this country from England.

RUNAWAY HORSES MADE STOP AT THEIR STABLE

Wednesday morning about 11:30 o'clock a double team of horses owned by the Yantic Grain company became frightened at the corner of West Main and Forest streets and ran away in a wild dash down West Main street. Telephone employes were at work at a manhole on West Main street and had guard rails up. The horses paid no attention to the guard rails and ran into them, tossing the about 20 feet. The horses, reaching North High street, turned sharply to the left and collided with a Ford automobile driven by Frank Hazelton of the Inland Paper company, Versailles. The machine received bent mudguards and a broken wheel. The horses ran down North High street where the kingbolt of the wagon broke, freeing the wagon. The animals continued on to the barn where their stable is and there they stopped.

Several bags of flour which were being unloaded at a bakery when the horses ran away, were thrown into the street.

ABNER SCHWARTZ NAMED TO REPRESENT MAYOR

Abner Schwartz has been appointed by Mayor Milo R. Waters to represent him at the National Farm school conference to be held at the Hotel Commodore, New York city, June 2 to June 7th. The conference has the endorsement of President Coolidge and is being held under the direction of the secretary of agriculture. It is planned as a gathering of the country's leaders in the advancement of farming and is the first conference of its kind.

$150 From College Club Whist

The sum of $150 was cleared at the whist given Monday afternoon at Lighthouse Inn, New London, by the Eastern Connecticut Smith college club. There were 42 tables playing.

A part of the proceeds will go to maintain Juniper lodge, a vacation house at Chocorua, N. H., for young faculty members and graduate students.

For Burial in New Haven

Walter Broadbent, 64, of New Haven, died in Preston Wednesday morning after a long illness. The body was prepared for burial by Undertakers Cummings and Ring and sent by them to New Haven on the noon train from New London. Burial will take place in New Haven.

SUPERIOR COURT CASES SETTLED WITHOUT TRIALS

Wednesday in the superior court here was another day of settlements made out of court or of postponements of cases that had been assigned for trial before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury.

The $10,000 damage suit of Doorse Neff, 12, of Mystic against Wilson & Co., with an office in New London was settled before it came up. It is understood that the sum of approximately $1,000 was given the defendant.

The suit arose out of an automobile accident, when the little girl was struck by an auto belonging to the defendant company and operated by one of its employes in Mystic. Attorney Frank L. McGuire appeared for the defendant and Attorney George Curtis Morgan for the plaintiff.

Another $10,000 Suit Settled

Settlement out of court was effected in the case of four-year-old Vivian Picken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Picken of New London against Bessie Agranovitch, also of New London in which the plaintiff sought damages of $10,000. Attorney George Curtis Morgan appeared for the plaintiff and Attorney S. Victor Prince for the defendant.

The suit was over an automobile accident which occurred when the Agranovitch car was alleged to have struck a truck, the rear end of it hitting the little girl.

The case of James Elliott of New London against David Tourtelotte of that city in which the plaintiff sought $10,000 damages for injuries alleged to have been received when working as a painter, he was thrown from a ladder when the truck of the defendant hit the ladder, did not come to trial.

Elliott made a statement to Judge Simpson in which he explained that he had intended to cite the New Haven railroad into the action as a defendant and his attorney, H. M. French, being counsel for the railroad, made things complicated and the court allowed time for the plaintiff to engage other counsel.

The two suits of Egidius Thoma and his daughter Hilda against David Feister were continued by agreement for re-assignment. The law firm of Brown & James are counsel for the two plaintiffs, who live in Norwich, and Judge A. F. Libby appears for Feister, who also lives here. Hilda Thoma sues for $15,000 damages for injuries received when she was hit by a truck driven by Feister in Taftville when he passed a trolley car from which the plaintiff had just alighted. It is claimed. Egidius Thoma asks for $1,000 for loss of his daughter's services as housekeeper.

25 DRIVERS ON LIST OF SUSPENDED OPERATORS

The weekly list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out Wednesday at the state motor vehicle department as a part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. There are 25 names on the list. Two cases were appealed. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of the suspended drivers operating motor vehicles. The following is the list:

Noble Bunday, New London; James A. Burns, Hartford; Leopold A. Campbell, Bristol; Bert S. Clark, Darien; Clayton H. Clark, Branford; William Conner, New York city; Frederick Donlik, Rockville; Charles A. Ericson, New Britain; George Forish, Naugatuck; Peter Hopkins, Plainfield; Carl M. Johnson, Collinsville; John Kauranen, Pomfret; Wyman C. Lombard, Hartford; Jacob P. Lutz, South Manchester; Patrick J. Moriarity, Windsor; Harry J. Nyser, West Hartford; Alex Pobol, Norwich; Victor Rinkevic, Hartford; John Roman, New Britain; Emery E. Sherman, Noank; Robert H. Sinclair, Groton; John Sudelkat, Buckland; John J. Sullivan, Bridgeport; Charles J. Sutter, Bridgeport; Oscar West, Bethel.

ITALIAN BIBLE STUDENTS TO MEET IN WESTERLY

Under the auspices of International Bible Students association, the Westerly Italian class will hold a three-day convention in the Italian language in Stillman's hall, Westerly, May 29, 30 and 31.

It is expected to have an attendance of nearly 100 members from the various classes from Buffalo, Rochester, Brooklyn, New York city, Boston, Springfield, Lawrence, Monson, Feeding Hills, Worcester, Revere, Lowell, Hartford, New Haven, Kensington, Norwich, New Britain, Stamford, Providence, and Newport, R. I.

Sunday at 3 p. m., there will be a public address by G. De Cecca of Brooklyn, N. Y., on the subject, "La Via Maestra Che Mena Alla Vita".

LEBANON PAID TRIBUTE TO MISS SOFIA DOLBEARE

Memorial services in honor of Miss Sophia M. Dolbeare were held last Sunday in Lebanon Congregational church.

Miss Dolbeare had lived in Lebanon nearly all her long life, and had been a member of the First Congregational church for 68 years.

Rev. F. S. Sellick in speaking of the long life which came to its close on April 24, said that the community might well pause and pay tribute to this woman who loved her town as dearly as it is possible for one to love—and the church too, which was so dear to her heart could truly mourn a loyal working member.

Under the heading "Attitudes which Live," Mr. Sellick emphasized four points in his tribute to Miss Dolbeare, who though handicapped by the loss of hearing since she was a young girl, recognized the value of attitudes and established them early in her life.

The four attitudes which she had toward life, as summed up by her pastor, were appreciation of the past; adjustment to the needs of the present, a deep sense of attachment to those things she knew to be worth while, and finally an anticipation, a looking forward with hope and faith in the future, longing, yearning, praying, planning and working for the best that is yet to be. Our good friend had an unusually keen mind, and few there are who are so well informed in regard to events both historical and current.

"Miss Sophie," as she was called by many will be greatly missed in the church activities, in the grange and in the social life of the community. Loyalty was her watchword and her townspeople may well be a bit more loyal to their church, a little more devoted to their state and town and much stronger in their faith in the good things to come, because of the wonderful example which has come to them in this strong life which they have been privileged to know and revere.

MEMORIAL SUNDAY SERVICE TO BE AT CHRIST CHURCH

The Memorial Sunday service on May 30, which is planned for a city-wide service will be held at 10.30 a. m. at Christ Episcopal church.

After Sedgwick Woman's relief corps No. 16; Clara Barton tent, No. 7, Daughters of Veterans, L. B. Almy auxiliary, No. 16, U. S. W. V.; Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., Griswold camp, Sons of Veterans; R. O. Fletcher post, A. L., and R. E. Hourigan post, V. F. W., have taken their seats while the organ is being played by Stanley Pierce, the processional hymn, Onward Christian Soldiers, will be given. After the first lesson there will be that noted hymn, Faith of Our Fathers, and after the second lesson the old battle hymn, Mine Eyes Have Seen the Glory. The sermon will be "God Bless Our Native Land" (Harmonica Anglicane, 1742) and at the close of the offertory the Star Spangled Banner will be the hymn. After the prayers for the nation, the departed dead, and the benediction by the rector, Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, the recessional hymn will be "All Hail the Power of Jesus Name."

The service is open to the general public.

PROGRESSIVE SUPPER OF FIVE COURSES ENJOYED

A progressive supper of five courses was enjoyed by the members of the Rainbow club and their guests Monday evening. The first course, fruit cocktails was served at the home of Miss Marion Larsen, second course, vermicelli soup, at Mrs. Elsie Berberich's, third course, roast chicken, mashed potatoes, and French peas, at Miss Janie Lambert's, fourth course, ambrosia salad, at Miss Anna Hoffman's, the fifth course, cake and coffee at Mrs. Helen Kenneth's. The remainder of the evening was spent at Mrs. Kenneth's where Miss Billie Lambert in sailors uniform, danced the sailors horn pipe and Mrs. Josephine Goodrow and Miss Billie Lambert gave an exhibition of the Spanish tango. They were accompanied by the club orchestra.

MAY DANCE GIVEN BY HEBREW YOUNG WOMEN

Dancers to the number of 175 attended the successful May dance given by the Young Women's Hebrew association Tuesday evening at their rooms in the Olympic building. The decorations were vari-colored streamers attractively hung about the hall and visitors were present from Hartford, New London, Colchester, Westerly and Jewett City. The music was furnished by Zimm's orchestra in their usual pleasing manner. The committee in charge was the Misses Lea Adelstone, chairman, Anna Hertz, Edith Jennis, Jennie Lowenberger and Miriam Shapiro.

ATTORNEY AT MYSTIC SUES FOR $10,000

Attorney Benjamin H. Hewitt of Mystic has brought suit in the superior court for damages of $10,000 against Harry King and Robert Soukey, doing business in Westerly, R. I., under the name of the Acme Express Co., according to papers filed here Wednesday with Clerk George E. Parsons.

Attorney Hewitt claims the damages as the result of an automobile accident which occurred April 30, 1926, when he was operating his car in a line of autos proceeding across the Thames river bridge. He claims that when the line stopped, he stopped his car, giving the signal, but the truck owned by the defendants and operated by an employe, which was directly in back of his car, crashed into it, causing injuries to the attorney's neck and back and damages to his car.

INVITATION TO SONS AND CHILDREN OF REVOLUTION

Faith Trumbull chapter has invited the Isreal Putnam branch, S. A. R., and the General Ebenezer Huntington chapter, C. A. R. to attend the memorial service for the Revolutionary soldiers buried in the Old cemetery, Norwich Town, on Saturday, May 29th. The chapter would be glad to welcome any members of the Society of Colonial Wars, who may be able to attend.

MEXICAN BANDITS KIDNAP AMERICANS FOR RANSOMS

Five Americans Have Been Spirited Away Recently—United States Embassy States That the Men Are Threatened With Death Unless Ransom is Forthcoming—A Mine Owner is Reported to Have Been Tortured by His Captors—Mexican Government Declares It is Doing Its Utmost to Rescue the Five Captured Men.

MEXICO CITY, May 27.—(AP)— The United States embassy has been informed that two more Americans have been kidnapped by bandits, bringing the number spirited away recently up to five. The most recent victims were two oil drillers in the Tampico district, Briggs and Greely.

The embassy has been informed that the bandits threatened the men with death or punishment unless a ransom were paid.

Information coming to the embassy says that the bandits in the El Potrero district have threatened to kill J. J. Shanklin, an American employe of a sugar plantation who was kidnapped Tuesday, unless a ransom of 20,000 pesos is paid by tonight. Friends offered to pay 5,000 pesos, but the bandits refused to accept it.

The embassy has made representations to the Mexican foreign office and has urged that every effort be made to save Shanklins life.

Of the five Americans who are reported captives of bandits in various parts of Mexico, C. C. Braden, a mine owner, coming from Laredo, Texas, is reported to have been tortured. No word has been heard of him today. Braden was captured in Durango on May 16, the same day that an American mining engineer named Gallagher was made prisoner.

Detail of Shanklin's kidnapping, received by the embassy says that he was taken prisoner by three armed bandits Tuesday morning while riding near the El Potrero sugar plantation in the state of Vera Cruz. The three bandits delivered him to another band of nine men who carried him off.

Briggs and Greely, whose capture was reported today, were employed by a British company. The bandits attacked their oil camp on Wednesday, burned several bridges leading to the place and retreated with federal troops in pursuit.

The bandits who captured Shanklin later sent a letter to Superintendent McLane of the El Potrero sugar plantation saying that Shanklin was safe but that 20,000 pesos were necessary as a ransom. McLane sent a messenger offering 3,000 pesos. When this was refused, McLane raised the amount to 5,000 but the bandits again refused to accept it.

When the negotiations had reached this deadlock the bandits sent a final message saying that they would kill Shanklin this evening unless they received the amount they demanded.

Shanklin is a native of Amarillo, Texas, where his family resides. The El Potrero property forms the second largest sugar plantation in Mexico. It is reported to be owned by Mrs. Virginia King of New York.

The Mexican government has declared it is doing its utmost to rescue the five captured men. The British legation refused to say at present what action it will take regarding the attack on the British oil camp at El Aguila, where Briggs and Greely were made captive.

ABD-EL-KRIM, RIFF WAR LORD H/S MEEKLY SURRENDERED

FEZ, Morocco, May 27.—(AP)—This was an historic day in France's colonial history, for the doughty Moroccan chieftain Abd-El-Krim, walked meekly into the French lines, on his way to Tazza, where it is expected he will arrive tomorrow for the formal ceremony of submission to Jules Steeg, the French resident general.

Yesterday the Riffian chief announced his surrender to the French, and today, under escort of two French officers, and six men he was brought to the Marouene, north of Targuist. Here he was presented to the commanding officers of the Moroccan division.

"He looks just like the others," was the comment of a tired, cynical Spahi, as the once redoubtable "Emir of the Rif," clad in unpretentious mantle, dismounted and stepped across a pile of stones at the edge of the road. He was accompanied only by Sherif Mamidou Guedzani, of the Sanadas tribe, who engineered his surrender.

Jumping over an extinguished bivouac fire, Krim advanced toward General Boss and Colonel Corap, designated to receive his surrender. He was presented to them by th French Naval Lieutenant Montagne.

Preserving the characteristic calmness of a Moslem fatalist, with his eyes taking in every detail of the surroundings, but without flinching, Krim engaged in conversation with the French officers about the conditions under which his suite and the convoy should proceed. He showed absolutely no emotion when it was decided that he and his escort should proceed along the military road toward Taza, where he should arrive tomorrow.

After the conditions for Krim's progress toward Taza were fixed, the troops which had been lining the route retired to their billets, and natives who until a few days ago were listed as subjects to Krim, retired to their dwellings with apparent indifference toward their somber figure of their defeated chieftain.

WOMEN'S CLUBS OPPOSED TO DRY LAW MODIFICATION

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 27.—(AP)—Enthusiastic applause which today greeted a speech for strictest enforcement of the Volstead act has inspired dry leaders of the general federation of women's clubs to plan for a declaration against modification.

Two years ago the federation unanimously declared for the 18th amendment and the Volstead act. "One-half of one per cent alcoholic content" and "no modification." The motion prepared for introduction at this convention by the resolutions committee reaffirmed the "unequivocal stand taken at the chautauqua and Los Angeles biennals for loyal and uncompromising support of the 18th amendment and the Volstead act."

But today Mrs. Edward Franklin White, of Indianapolis, chairman of the division of law enforcement received the greatest ovation of the convention, with her plea for not only observance and enforcement of the present law, but a fight to the finish to keep the law unmodified.

THREE BANDITS ROBBED BANK OF ABOUT $25,000

WINFIELD, Kansas, May 27.—(AP)—The state bank of Winfield was robbed this afternoon by three bandits, who locked officials in a vault, scooped up about $25,000 in currency and an unknown amount of bonds, and escaped in a motor car.

The robbers are believed to be the same band that yesterday held up the Montgomery National bank of Cherryvale, Kansas, taking $55,000 in cash and securities.

OBITUARY

Dr. Wallace Buttrick

BALTIMORE, Md., May 27.—(AP)—Dr. Wallace Buttrick, chairman of the general education board of Johns Hopkins university, died today of cerebral hemorrhage in Johns Hopkins hospital.

Dr. Buttrick came to Johns Hopkins from his home in Scarsdale, N. Y., on May 23 for a general examination. He was suffering from high blood pressure but had not considered himself ill. He was 72 years old.

DR. THOMPSON MODERATOR OF PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

BALTIMORE, May 27.—(AP) — Dr William O Thompson of Columbus, today became moderator of the 138th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America, riding into office on a heavy majority of votes by the modernist side of the church.

Dr. Thompson is known as a fundamentalist, but his attitude toward the members of the church leaning toward a more liberal interpretation of the scriptures had set him distinctly apart from the fundamentalism expressed by his defeated opponent, Dr. Lansley Moore.

The vote of 439 to 337 was in sharp contrast to last year when Dr. Charles R. Erdman was elected moderator over the same defeated candidate by scarcely a score of votes.

The new moderators only official pronouncement on the taking of the gavel as presiding officer was on prohibition. When he made the following statement:

"As newly elected moderator one of my first official acts will be to proclaim to the world, sympathy with and approval of the 18th amendment to the constitution and the Volstead act," and its enforcement.

FOUND WITH HIS LEFT WRIST AND THROAT CUT

BOSTON, May 27.—(AP)—Thomas A. Fox, Boston architect and friend of the late John Singer Sargent, famous artist, was found in a room in Young's hotel today with his left wrist and throat slashed. Mr. Fox was found after he had telephoned for a physician. Prompt aid was administered and at the hospital to which he was removed his condition was not considered serious.

An air of mystery was thrown about the affair by the unwillingness of the hotel management and the police to discuss it.

Mr. Fox is a member of the firm of Fox & Gale, architects. With Mr. Edwards J. Gale, he began his association with Sargent years ago when they were together in the office of designers of the Boston Public Library. Sargent at that time was called upon to design the Mural decorations of some of the main room of the library.

SUMMARY OF YESTERDAY'S EVENTS IN WASHINGON

Passage of the McNary farm relief bill was urged by Senator McKellar.

General debate began in the house on the rivers and harbors bill.

Delegates to the Northern Baptist were received by President Coolidge.

The crown prince and princess of Sweden arrived to attend the dedication of the Ericsson Memorial.

A new bid of $5,000,000 for the five American Oriental ships was received by the shipping board.

Impeachment of several federal officers in Pittsburgh was asked in a petition presented to the house.

President Coolidge's prohibition order again discussed in the senate as a house committee condisered legislation to tighten enforcement.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF CREW OF THE SCHOONER MORRISEY

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Fear for the safety of the crew of the Schooner Morrisey, on which the American Museum of Natural History Greenland expedition was to sail early in June, was expressed today by George Palmer Putnam, director of the expedition.

The Morrisey left Brigus, Newfoundland, May 11, under command of Capt. obert A. Bartlett, famous ice navigator who was skipper of vessels for Admiral Peary on his polar explorations. Capt. Bartlett had expected to reach New York May 21.

The schooner has no wireless aboard, Putnam said he had received messages from Capt. Bartlett's sister saying she feared for the ships safety.

COURT DECISION IN FAVOR OF SOVIET GOVERNMENT

DRY PROGRAM REMAINS TO FOREFRONT IN WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON, May 27—(AP)—Prohibition again was to the fore at the capitol today, Assistant Secretary Andrews of the treasury appearing before the house judiciary committee in behalf of a bill to tighten the Volstead act and a number of senators discussing the subject in the senate.

The senate judiciary committee also met and at a brief session appointed its chairman, Senator Cummins, republican, Iowa, to head a sub-committee to consider the legality of President Coolidge's order to permit employment of state, county and municipal officers in the enforcement of the national dry law.

Meanwhile, Secretary Mellon reiterated that the executive order was intended for the present at least, for California, applying there only to local officers who voluntarily offered to assume federal authority.

During another round of senate debate on the order, Senator Dill, democrat, Washington, suggested it might have been issued by the president to divert attention from recent primary defeats of three administration senators, Pepper, of Pennsylvania, McKinley of Illinois and Stanfield of Oregon.

He then assailed the proposal of Senator Edge, republican, New Jersey, for a national referendum on the wet and dry issue, contending that it would be unconstitutional. He was supported in this contention by Senators Borah, republican, Idaho, and Glass, democrat, Virginia, while Senator Edge vigorously defended his position.

In his testimony before the house judiciary committee, Mr. Andrews asserted the new bill would plug up leaks in the Volstead law and had been drafted in his own office. He said it was designed to check the diversion of industrial alcohol into unlawful channels and also to give him control over the brewing of cereal beverages.

"It is common knowledge," he said, "that in wet areas real beer is being sold. It can be stopped. It should be stopped, if for no other reason, than that the people throughout the country may know what the national prohibition law means."

PLANS COMPLETED FOR SALE OF THE WHITE STAR LINE

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Plans for the sale of the White Star Line by the International Mercantile Marine Co., to a British syndicate headed by Furness, Withy & Co., Ltd., for approximately $36,000,000 which have been held in abeyance since the general strike in England, have finally been completed and will be presented to stockholders for approval on June 17.

P. A. S. Franklin, president of the company, in issuing the call for a special meeting, announced today that the proposal called for the sale of the entire capital stock of the Oceanic Steam Navigation Co., Ltd., (the White Star Line) for not less than £7,000,000 for cash or for part cash and part credit, with a provision limiting I. M. M. competition in the trade routes of the Oceanic company on terms which might be necessary to consummate the transaction.

Proceeds from the sale will be used by the International Mercantile Marine either for the purchase of new ships or for the reduction of the company's bonded indebtedness.

COURT ACTION ADVERSE TO DEPOSED BISHOP BROWN

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—Efforts of William Montgomery Brown, deposed bishop of the Protestant Episcopal church in Arkansas, to have New York courts review the action of the church in deposing him failed today.

The deposed bishop began proceedings several months ago, seeking to enjoin the church from carrying out its sentence of deposition. He said Mr. Skiddy was the general treasurer of the church, which, it was admitted, is an unincorporated membership religious body. The defense contended that the church as such owned no property; had no treasurer and that the court, which had acted in the Brown case was an ecclesiastical body, composed of the bench of bishops, in whose hands lay the final disposition of matters of discipline.

The defense said church property and rectories are owned by the individual parishes; that schools, hospitals, etc., are owned and controlled by separate corporations created for this purpose and that the Protestant Episcopal church in the United States does not own a cent of assets as such. He said its functions were wholly and exclusively religious.

WEATHER PREVENTS FLIGHT OF PLANE BUENOS AIRES

MIAMI, Fla., May 27.—(AP)—Delaying here today by weather after an unsuccessful start, Bernardo Duggan and his two companions in the seaplane "Buenos Aires" were forced late today to postpone their hop to Havana, Cuba, en route from New York to Argentina. They plan to leave at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning.

Decrease In Number Of Auto Accidents

Twelve Persons Killed in 415 Crashes Reported in the State Last Week.

HARTFORD, May 27.—(AP)—All weekly automobile accident records for the year were broken last week when 12 persons were killed in crashes included among the 415 reported to the state motor vehicle department. The number of fatalities is greater than in any week of the present year and equals that of any week in 1925. Hartford, reporting 74 accidents also had the greatest number in any seven day period this season.

The 12 victims and the places where the fatalities occurred follow: Maybelle Hubbard, Wethersfield; Stephen Jordan, Hartford; Frank Blanes, Waterville; Philip Curray, Unionville; Bertha Murowski, West Hartford; Edward Murphy, New Haven; Elzear Maisly, Dayville; R. D. Hopkins, West Haven; Thomas Newhall, New Haven; Frank E. Atwood, Waterbury; John Vallett, Montville, and Frank Lickteng, West Haven.

Fourteen cities reported 271 of the total of accidents as follows: Hartford, 74; New Haven, 31; Bridgeport, 41; Waterbury, 35; New Britain, 21; Stamford, 16; Meriden, 13; Norwich, 8; New London, 5; Middletown, 6; Greenwich, 5; Danbury, 8; Norwalk, 6; Winsted, 2.

PARKER CLOCK PLANT TO SUSPEND OPERATIONS

MERIDEN, May 27.—(AP)—William H. Lyon, president of the Parker Clock company, announced today that the plant of that concern in the western part of the city will suspend operations Friday evening. The reason given is that the character of the goods manufactured is too high priced to successfully compete with the large number of so-called nickel alarm clocks of a cheaper grade, now on the market.

Ever since the fidod of cheap clocks from Europe has flooded the markets of this country, the business has been declining, and the force of workers, which formerly was about 75, has gradually dwindled to about 30. Mr. Lyon said the company had kept the nucleus of its organization at work, hoping conditions would improve, but the company has now decided to close. He said the company might open the factory later to produce goods of some other line, but nothing has been decided in this regard.

The Parker Clock company was incorporated in 1893 to succeed the Parker and Whipple Clock company, which had been in operation many years before that.

CELEBRATED SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

BRISTOL, May 27.—(AP)—In the same room in which they were married in 1866, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Matthews, of 35 Prince street, were today given a reception as part of the celebration of their sixtieth wedding anniversary. The reception was tendered them in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick E. Scudder, of 89 High street where they were married more than half a century ago by the late Rev. Dr. Leverett Griggs, then pastor of the Congregational church.

The couple received many gifts and flowers and the congratulations of more than 150 relatives and friends. They have spent all their lives in this city, where Mr. Matthews has been a painter and interior decorator. He is well known in Odd Fellow circles and was one of the incorporators and a director of the lodge in Groton. He is a member of the Grand Lodge.

Hero Saves Lives of 63 Trapped Miners

Courage and Quick Wit Displayed by Assistant Mine Foreman.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 27.—(AP)—Sixty-three men, trapped in the 11 foot vein of Mount Lookout colliery of the Temple Anthracite Coal company, at Wyoming, near here, were saved from death by suffocation today through the heroism of Thomas Hislop, assistant mine foreman, whose quick wit and courage made successful the only possible plan to spare the lives of the entrapped men.

The fire broke out in the timbering about 20 feet from the mouth of the shaft, a dangerous spot for a mine fire, as it received the full impact of the forced air pumped into the mines for ventilation. It was discovered by men working in the lower levels who notice dthe smoke being drawn into the shaft.

Hislop was outside when the fire was reported and immediately went below. His son, Robert, employed at the foot of the shaft, was fighting the blaze when the father rushed through the flames to give warning. The son followed and aided in the rescue.

Realising that it would take only a matter of minutes to fill the entire workings with the suffocating smoke, Hislop and his son battled their way through until they reached the doors leading from the main tunnel to the chambers. They threw open these doors, on right and left of the main tunnel, diverting the air current and causing it to carry the smoke back to the shaft.

Hislop then rushed from chamber to chamber on each side, covering a distance of almost 3,000 feet, warning the workmen and herding them through the smoke filled tunnel, preventing panic and finally reaching a place of safety.

The foreman held the 63 men in the abandoned section for more than five hours, when rescue crews succeeded in getting through the flames and fire fighters extinguished the fire.

In the meantime, word has gone to every part of Wyoming Valley of the trapped men, the stories in many cases being greatly exaggerated and drawing thousands to the head of the mine shaft. Women, mothers, wives and children, waited at the head of the shaft for some word that would tell them of happenings below.

After Hislop and his son had gone through the fire and succeeded in getting on the other side of it, the heat and smoke became so severe that other officials and mine workers, brought to the scene, were unable to follow them.

It was known that Hislop had "gone through" but the success of his heroic effort was not known. Workers finally succeeded in penetrating the tunnel and discovered Hislop and his band of workmen standing by for some signal that all was safe.

13 WITNESSES EXAMINED IN WRECK INVESTIGATION

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 27—(AP)—Thirteen witnesses were examined as the triple investigation into the responsibility for the wreck of the Owl express at Mansfield Monday morning when one man was killed and three seriously hurt, began here today. The hearing was held in the office of Division Superintendent George A. Poore, of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, with investigators of the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities and the interstate commerce commission also taking part.

Thomas A. Manning, Providence college student and part-time railroad man in the signal tower at Mansfield when the wreck occurred, gave his testimony in the afternoon, but J. W. Durley, engineer of the Owl, the other principal figure in the smashup, is still in the Rhode Island hospital here and investigators will interview him tomorrow.

At the end of the session, which was closed, C. N. Woodward, assistant general manager of the eastern division of the road, said that the matter was "pretty well cleaned up."

TRINITY STUDENTS HELD FOR THEFT OF WHISKEY

HARTFORD, May 27.—(AP)—Judge Richard H. Deming, of the West Hartford town court tonight continued for one week the cases of five Trinity college students and one former student who were charged with breaking and entering and theft of ten quarts of prewar Scotch whiskey from the home of Alfred B. Pimm, of Stratford road, West Hartford, Sunday.

The continuance was granted on motion of U. S. Commissioner Frederic J. Corbett, attorney for the students, who said he wanted more time to investigate the complaints against the boys. William J. Burke, of the law firm of Stoner and Burke, appearing for Malcolm L. Stephenson, the one member of the sextet who is not now a student at the college, agreed to the continuance, as did Prosecutor John P. Harbison. Bonds and recognizances were continued on agreement of bondsmen and attorneys.

MANY YALE STUDENTS PLAN EUROPEAN TRIPS

NEW HAVEN, May 27.—(AP) — A large number of Yale students will take European trips this summer, it was learned from records released by the Yale travel bureau here today. More than 150 have made arrangements through the bureau and it was said that an equally large number plan to go abroad with their parents.

The Students Third Class association facilities are proving popular and the favorite sailing date is June 26, the day following the Yale-Harvard boat race at New London. About 50 men will sail on the New Amsterdam and 25 on the Belgenland on this date.

The majority plan motor trips in small groups through at least three countries in Europe. About 30 seniors will leave in the middle of the summer for trips around the world which will require the greater part of the year.

SWEDISH ROYAL COUPLE WELCOMED IN NEW YORK

Streets Were Jammed to Greet Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and Crown Princess Louise—Both Chatted and Jested With Interviewers and Photographers—Are En Route to Washington to Attend the Unveiling of Memorial to Captain John Ericsson.

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—The hearts of New Yorkers were captured without a struggle today in a friendly foreign invasion.

The "invaders" were the Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden. They arrived to pay honor to Capt. John Ericsson, inventor of armor plate and native of Sweden.

Broadwayites jammed the streets, cheered themselves hoarse, threw confetti, kisses and streamers, as the royal pair were escorted from Battery park to city hall to be welcomed by Mayor Walker to the city in which Capt. Ericsson lived for 50 years.

It all happened in less than two hours. The royal couple stepped on American soil for the first time at 11.30. At 1.00 a train whisked them away to Washington to attend the unveiling of Capt. Ericsson's memorial.

The sun shone on Battery park and its crowd as the royal party landed. Band, infantry, marines, navy men in land dress, mounted police and glittering officers awaited the crunch of gravel as royal feet stepped ashore. Twenty-one times the guns on Governor's Island boomed in salute.

The winning of New York was begun before the crown prince and princess stepped ashore. Prepared for aloofness and diffidence, 50 reporters and an equal number of photographers were swept into audible admiration at the reception given them when they boarded the Gripsholm as quarantine to interview the crown prince.

"Good morning, gentlemen," the crown prince greeted them in English as he appeared with the crown princess for his first interview ever given reporters.

The crown princess wore a biege cloche hat, coat and slippers of the same color. She smiled her welcome. The crown prince, in morning coat, striped trousers and spats and wearing pince nez, was much taller than the crown princess. He seemed the athlete rather than the scholar.

"Look this way, please," shouted 30 photographers encircling the royal circling the royal couple.

The crown prince smiled.

"Gentlemen," he said, "I have only one face and it is so arranged on my shoulders that I can only look one way at a time."

From that point on for half an hour the crown prince and his princess chatted and jested with interviewers and photographers. Reporters ringed the royal couple close. Guards shouted "Stand back from the prince," but no one heeded.

With the princess seated quietly near him, the crown prince read a prepared speech. It expressed their joy at arriving in the United States, conveyed their feelings to Swedish Americans and told the purpose of their visit.

By this time the crown princess was also being interviewed.

"I am so glad I have got to America," she said, smiling graciously.

"I have always wanted to come. My brother (marquis of Milfordhaven) has told me how wonderful your country is."

She chatted on, telling how Swedish women are beginning to assert themselves, branching out from schools and universities to business and professions. Jazz, she said, was virtually all the music used for dancing in Sweden.

"I love to dance," she exclaimed. "I dance every opportunity I have. I think it is healthful. I have also learned to ski, but not to skate."

The interviewers left the crown princess. Did the crown prince dance the Charleston, they wished to know. No, but he would like to learn. Both smiled, something at the interviewers and sometimes at each other.

The prince declined to answer questions of a political nature and classified the Geneva conference and prohibition as political topics.

"I never drink," the crown prince said, "because of principle and lack of desire. I am interested in sports, and I like to coordinate the training of my mind and body."

"Know Babe Ruth?" he was asked.

"It seems I've heard the name," he replied. A member of the royal suite explained who Babe Ruth was. "Ah, I am going to a baseball game if I can while I am in New York," he said. "I am much interested in it. You have wonderful athletes. They have caused us much trouble in the Olympic games.

WELCOMED BY PRESIDENT AND MRS. COOLIDGE

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP)—Sweden's heir apparent, Gustavus Adolphus, and the Crown Princess Louise, his wife, were welcomed tonight as royal visitors to this country by the President and Mrs. Coolidge.

The welcome extended by America's chief executive, coupled with the less formal honors bestowed upon the crown prince and princess on their arrival early today in New York, caused them enthusiastically to express their gratitude for the "friendly welcome given us."

It was a strange life the visitors from Sweden embraced for a two month's time period. From the early morning disembarkation in New York harbor until late tonight in Washington their wonderment increased as new sights were unfolded in rapid succession. The prince spoke of the strangeness and newness of the things he saw, mentioning in particular the "great city rising from the water like a phantom," the "unique architectural canyons," the "swirl of industry" and the "vastness of it all."

"It all has been a sight unforgettable," he said. "It is with the keenest expectation that we look forward to the enjoyment of our visit and the freedom offered us."

State department officials who went to New York to accompany the royal party to Washington were relieved of their assignment by Secretary Kellogg when the special train arrived here. He took over the guides' task at the union station and escorted the prince and princess to the Swedish legation which will be their home during a four day stay in Washington.

The formal call at the white house was made soon after the distinguished couple, led by mounted cavalry troops, reached the legation from the railway station. The prince was received by the president while the princess met Mrs. Coolidge in another chamber of the executive mansion. The four gathered for a brief chat before the callers returned to the legation, there to be interviewed by newspapermen for the fifth time today.

SENSATION PROMISED IN $5,000,000 STOCK FRAUD

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—A New York society woman was sought by police tonight in connection with an alleged $5,000,000 stock fraud for which two men are being held.

First information that a woman of social prominence was sought as the "queen of the swindlers" was given by Deputy Attorney General Lewis in Jefferson Market court during the arraignment of Harry Acton of No. 770 Riverside drive, who was arrested earlier in the day as one of the swindlers.

Acton was arrested by state troopers at the Cornell club on a charge of grand larceny arising from a complaint made by Emile Brigaud, who is said to have been swindled of $500. Acton was described by Mr. Lewis as the head of the Home Deposit company, at 59 Wall street. Mr. Lewis stated that Acton conducted his activities throughout the state with 15 helpers, several of them women.

Paul Sarasen, arrested on May 19 was said to be connected with the swindling gang.

"This will develop into one of the biggest exposures of gang operations in the history of the attorney general's office. We have been working on the case for six months and expect 16 arrests," said Mr. Lewis in claiming that Acton was identified with the selling of unlisted stock in the Bidd Lake Mining Co.

Mr. Lewis asked that Acton be held in nominal bail, explaining that he had been helpful to the attorney general's office in giving information in the case. Bail was fixed at $2,500 and date for examination set for next Tuesday.

In refusing to divulge the name of the society woman, he expected to have under arrest, Mr. Lewis said the gang's operations also included the establishment of fake banks and deposit companies, the sale of fake stocks and rackets whereby farmers and even large New York bankers were mulcted out of huge sums.

Among the complainants against the Home Deposit Company was H. A. Bullar resident of the Multi Vane Construction company of Callicoon, N. Y. Mr. Bullar told the attorney general his company had been swindled out of $14,000 by the Home company.

FRENCH CHAMBER VOTED CONFIDENCE IN M. BRIAND

PARIS, May 27.—(AP)—The Briand cabinet obtained a new lease on life from the chamber of deputies today after a turbulent session in the course of which the radicals and socialists made a surprise attack which at times appeared serious.

The government raised the question of confidence when the opposition demanded an immediate hearing of interpellations on the financial and debt situations. The chamber upheld the cabinet by a vote of 326 to 309. The center and right voted with the Briand ministry and the socialists, part of the radical group and communists voted against the cabinet.

The chamber was thrown into great turmoil by the clashes between the two wings of the radical group and the Herriott supporters shaking their fists at the radicals who insisted on voting with the government.

Although the government raised the confidence issue on the question of postponing the financial interpellations until after the debate on electoral reform, it later was decided that the normal discussion on financial measures should come before taking up the electoral measures.

As a result of this parliamentary juggling, the calendar has been turned topsy turvy, leaving uncertain the moment when the Washington debt settlement is likely to come up.

The socialists centered their attack on the overnment because of its frequent conferences with American bankers. They insinuated that Finance Minister Peret's plan of providing for monetary stabilization with the advice of a committee of technical experts really meant applying a sort of Dawes plan with foreign banking influence uppermost.

Premier Briand denied vigorously that foreign influences came into the matter at all and said that the government would make no excuses for seeking the advice of competent authorities to help solve the monetary problem.

ARCHITECT COMMITTED SUICIDE IN NEW ROCHELLE

NEW ROCHELLO, N. Y., May 27.—(AP)—Lawrence E. Barnard, prominent Westchester county architect and former football captain at Audubon university, Columbus, Ohio, committed suicide in his office here today half an hour after being served with a dispossess warrant for failure to pay rent.

A stenographer and two draughtsmen found his body with a bullet wound in the right temple. Police said he committed suicide because of financial difficulties.

BURNSIDE WHISKERS CASE WAS DISMISSED IN COURT

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—The suit of Miss Ella C. Patterson, of Milwaukee, a niece of General Ambrose Burnside, seeking to restrain Colgate and Company from featuring pictures depicting the whiskers peculiarly her distinguished relative in advertisements for shaving cream, was dismissed in supreme court today.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS CARNIVAL IS A SUCCESS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 27—The Knights of Columbus carnival opened in a most auspicious manner at the state armory on Pleasant street here tonight, the initiatory remarks being made by Mayor John C. Tracy. The drill shed was crowded and there was every evidence that success will attend the indoor festival.

At 7:30 o'clock members of San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus, led by Warden John Sugrue and the B. P. O. E. and St. Joseph's Boy Scout bands, formed in a street parade on Main street and marched to the state armory via Bridge and Mountain streets, the procession acting as an escort to Mayor John C. Tracy and various city and town officials.

The large drill shed of the armory was resplendent in decorations and well filled booths which encircled the hall. F. D. Donahue was in charge of the decorating. Every part of the hall presented a scene of uninterrupted activity throughout the evening the call of the booth tenders halting only during an excellent program of entertainment by professionals. While some patronized the booths others received much valuable information from the various trade exhibits. Then there were those who were content to listen to the selections by the Peerless orchestra and another element enjoyed dancing. Refreshments were served in a delightful tea room in the basement. Grand Knight Patrick A. Connor, general chairman of the committee on arrangements, expressed himself as highly pleased with the first night's results. The annual carnival was postponed last year after preparations had been started due to local industrial conditions at that time. After much consideration it was decided to stage an indoor carnival this year that would outstrip any indoor endeavor of its kind, ever attempted in Willimantic. There are no denials that the goal has been reached and probably just a little over-stepped. The attractions offered at the K. of C. carnival are by far more numerous and pleasing novel than anything ever seen here.

PLANNING TO DECORATE GRAVES OF ALL VETERANS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 27—The annual exercises marking the observance of Memorial day, May 30, will be carried out on the following day, Monday, with the usual program of decorating the graves and addresses, with prayer for the deceased veterans. The cemeteries in Windham Center, North Windham and St. Joseph's cemetery will be visited in the forenoon by veteran organizations, Company G, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard and Boy and Girl Scout troops.

But three veterans have entered the chronology list through death since May 30th of last year. They are Daniel Sullivan, Civil war veteran and member of Francis S. Long post No. 39, G. A. R., Samuel J. Mullen, Spanish war veteran and member of A. C. Tyler camp No. 3, U. S. W. V. and Thomas Ogden an allied veteran who was buried in the new Willimantic cemetery during the year. His grave is to be cared for. The first two are buried in St. Joseph's cemetery. Sixteen veterans of Windham are buried in nearby cemeteries, nine from the Civil war, six Spanish-American, and one World war veteran.

This Saturday forenoon a delegation of veterans will motor to the various cemeteries and place small American flags in the markers at the foot of the graves to be decorated during the exercises. There are now 455 such graves in local cemeteries, 337 graves being those of veterans of the Civil war. 221 of the graves are in the Willimantic cemetery where the afternoon exercises are held following a street procession from the town building.

The following is a tabulation of the graves of veterans in the various cemeteries which are, Willimantic, Windham Center, North Windham and St. Joseph's cemeteries.

Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton gave one of his interesting and enlightening talks on The Spirit of Florida at the weekly meeting and luncheon of the Willimantic Exchange club held here Wednesday night. President Exbert A. Case was in charge and introduced the speaker. Captain Fenton, an annual visitor to the Southland and a keen student of commercial, industrial and social conditions presented interesting statistics and gave many descriptions of Florida. In his opinion that much advertised state could be prosperous without the tourists and citrous fruit industry merely through the development of its natural resources.

It was announced that Robbins B. Stoeckel, state commissioner of motor vehicles would be the speaker at the next meeting, which will be held in Mansfield Center at the invitation of Rev. T. Hawthorne Jones. The week of June 13 the club will hold an outing, probably at Storrs. George H. Gorley and Patrick J. Twomey were appointed as representatives of the club to the meeting to be held this Friday evening for the preparation of plans for a field day for boys.

Players of the Epworth league and the Sorority of the local Methodist church staged a distinctive success in the presentation of Take My Advice, a dramatic comedy in three acts by Eugene Hafer, of New York, in the church vestry Wednesday night. Mrs. Charles H. Beebe was the able coach of the play. Incorporated in the program were a series of highly appreciated selections by the newly organized orchestra of the church under the direction of Leslie Nichols. The events gmarked the dedication of a permanent stage building in the church vestry. Mrs. Beebe, coach, was presente dwith a handsome bouquet in recognition of her work by the Sorority and Epworth league. The cast of characters were: Bob Mannion, Howard Saling; Jimmy Samson, Carl Webber; Jud Fenton, Channing H. Morrill; John Wargrim, Walter H Parkhurst; Peggy Acton, Mrs. Carl Rice; Virgy Mannion, Miss Nellie Dainton; Mrs. Nelson Dodd, Mrs. Albert Spellman; Marcia Wargrim, Miss Ruth Webber. Time, president. Place, office of The Eureka News in Eureka.

Funeral services for Marion Eileen Johnson were held at the late home, 413 Main street at two o'clock Thursday afternoon. Burial was in the family plot at St. Joseph's cemetery. Killourey Brothers had charge of the arrangements.

Charles Tresto and Thomas Weber were charged respectively with violation of the automobile law by operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor, not having an operator's license and not having his automobile registration and the latter with intoxication. Tresto pleaded not guilty to driving while under the influence of liquor but guilty to the other two charges concerning his failure to have an operator's license and registration. Judge Foss found the man guilty on the three counts. For driving while intoxicated he imposed a fine of $100 and costs and $3 and costs each on the other charges, the total assessment being $114.15. Tresto gave notice of his appeal to the superior court and a bond of $500 was named. Welles was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $17.15 which was paid.

State Policeman Henry Heinold acted as inspector of applicants seeking a motor vehicle operator's license in this city Thursday. About 15 prospective drivers were examined by him during the day, the officer finding it necessary to reject about half of the number for their lack of knowledge of the rules of the road.

Miss May L. Shepard gave a piano recital for her pupils Wednesday afternoon. Taking part were, Margaret Monahan, Harold Lewis, Margaret Barstow, Junior Scranton, Elizabeth Sullivan, Robert Abbe, Lillian Segar, Helen Johnson, Marie Steiner, Edmund Sundell, Gladys Bowen, Earl Potter and Marion Maynard.

The choir of the Baptist church held an entertainment in the vestry Wednesday night giving two plays and several instrumental numbers. A social time followed.

Archibald W. Buchanan Sr., of Mansfield Center, agent of the state board of education met with seven children between the ages of 14 and 16 applying for employment certificates during a session which he held in this city Thursday forenoon at the town building.

Miss Gertrude Tootell was tendered a miscellaneous shower at the close of the regular meeting of Purinton Temple No. 2, Pythian Sisters, recently. A mock wedding was staged with a card of entertainment.

John J. Yeunge, motorman-conductor on the South Coventry-Willimantic trolley line of the Connecticut company has resumed his duties after a six weeks' absence during which he was confined at a Hartford hospital.

The Misses Ruth Spellman and Hazel Jones of the class of 1925 of the State Normal school have accepted positions to teach next year in Rockville and West Hartford, respectively.

Dr. H S. Campbell of Norwich will hold a free chest clinic at the Visiting Nurse association rooms here this Friday morning at 10 o'clock.

Friends of Allen Jewett of Clark's Corner, Hampton are grieved to hear of his critical illness at his home.

Mrs. Clarence A. Bowen is confined to her home here with a badly sprained ankle sustained in a fall.

Mrs. Raymond A. Parker entertained the Hill Auction club at her home Wednesday afternoon with three tables in play. Mrs. Kenneth N. Hillhouse won first prize, Mrs. Louis H. Arnold, second. Mrs. Arnold and Miss Myrtle Jordan were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Case motored to Boston, Mass., Thursday to attend a Boston Symphony concert combined with the Wellesley College Choral club of which their daughter, Miss Elizabeth H Case is a member.

Mr. and Mrs Harold Nichols of South Windham, Mrs. Wilfred L. Carlson and Miss Elisabeth Peacock of this city were recent visitors in Boston.

Mrs. Alma Bullock and son Richard motored from their home in Cambridge, Mass., to visit with Mr. and Mrs. M. Eugene Lincoln.

Mrs. James W. Sadie of Brookline, Mass., with her sister, Mrs. Carl R. Alford of this city are in Atlantic City, N. J., for two weeks.

Mrs. Carrie A. Fox and Miss Kimball of The Ridges were visitors in Hartford Thursday.

Rev. David W. Lovett, pastor of the Baptist church here is attending the Northern Baptist convention in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Merton E. Phillips was in Stonington Thursday where she attended the Past Matrons association meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star.

JUNE ASSIGNMENTS IN THE SUPERIOR COURT

Windham county superior court, assignment of cases, at Willimantic at 9 o'clock a. m. (standard time). Christopher L. Avery, judge, on the bench.

To court, 1st Tuesday, June 1. Prudence Israel vs. Irving E. Frink; 2nd Tuesday, June 1, Celia Israel vs. Irving E. Frink; 3rd Tuesday, June 1, Florence Horwitz vs. Irving E. Frink; 4th Tuesday, June 1, Charles H. Corey vs. Henry O. Preston; 5th Tuesday, June 1, William B. Sherman vs. Orlo B. Carpenter; 6th Tuesday, June 1, Wilfred J. Benoit vs. Ernest B Kent.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

CUT WORMS NUMEROUS; WAYS OF KILLING THEM

This year cut worms are probably more plentiful than common and for that reason more stringent methods should be used. Cut worms generally stop their attack upon the plants when they become fully grown. This is generally before the last of July. They are called cut worms because they generally cut off the plants near the surface of the ground. They are especially fond of newly set out plants such as tomatoes, peppers, cabbage, etc., but they also will work on most any plant that comes within range.

A poisoned bait may be applied to the soil in the late afternoon or early evening. The Massachusetts agricultural college recommends the following:

For large areas: Twenty pounds of bran, one pound of Paris green, two quarts of molasses, six oranges or lemons.

For small gardens: one quart bran, one and a half ounces of Paris green or white arsenic, one-half lemon, two teaspoonsful of molasses, water to make a crumbly mash.

For the large areas stir the molasses into a gallon of water, add the juice of the fruits and their rinds finely chopped. Stir in the Paris green and bran, adding enough more water to make a crumbly mash; so it can be spread broadcast by hand; spread the whole over the field at or after sunset. In gardens considerable protection may be obtained for such plants as tomatoes, egg plants, etc., by sinking a stiff paper cylinder into the ground around the stem of each plant to prevent cut worms from reaching the plant.

SEED POTATO BUYERS VICTIMS OF VARIETAL SUBSTITUTION

Potato growers who purchase seed potatoes do not always get the particular varieties they order. There is so much substitution or varieties by seed potato dealers that the growers are seeking the passage of control measures which will correct the evil. Substitutions, either careless or willful, are more apt to be made, says William Stuart, potato specialist of the United States department of agriculture, for the newer or less known varieties. Purchasers who order "fancy names" or "new and highly advertised" varieties are more likely to be victimized, he says, than those who stick to the widely known varieties.

Mr. Stuart ordered 123 different varieties last year from 61 different seedsmen. Many firms replied that they were "just out" of that particular variety. Of the 98 named varieties that were received, 26 per cent proved to be varieties other than those specified in the order. In one instance, three varieties were ordered from a dealer advertising himself as "reliable." Three different packages were received all of which proved to be the same variety, but not of any of the three varieties ordered.

SOY BEANS GAINING GROUND

Soy beans are engaging the attention of experiment station workers over the country. The West Virginia station reports that soy beans are rapidly becoming one of the most important leguminous crops in that state. It has conducted tests of a large number of varieties with a view to securing the most adaptable varieties for its climate. A bulletin detailing the experiments says in part:

Soy beans are adapted to a wide range of both soil and climate. They will thrive on almost any soil but seem to give best results on good corn land. They are less sensitive to cold than such legumes as alfalfa, sweet clover and red clover. The characteristics make them especially well suited for West Virginia conditions. Soy beans are grow successfully all the way from Canada to the Gulf states and therefore it is not surprising to find that they grow well at both the higher and the lower altitudes in West Virginia.

Stock farmers are well aware of the importance of leguminous roughage in raising live stock but under certain conditions it has not always been feasible to produce the desired amount. The soy bean often affords an easy way out of this situation. The crop is easily grown and it possesses a high feeding value.

Perhaps one of the most frequent causes of failure in first attempts to grow soy beans may be attributed to the lack of proper inoculation. Soy beans will grow without inoculation on a very productive soil but under such circumstances they behave like any non-leguminous plant and draw practically their entire supply of nitrogen from the soil. On unproductive soil inoculation is essential to grow soy beans successfully. Once a field has been inoculated there is evidence which indicates that the bacteria may live in the soil for several years even though soy beans are not grown during that time. Soy beans apparently are not cross inoculated with other legumes commonly cultivated that is the bacteria which live in the nodules of soy beans will not inoculate the other legumes and the bacteria found in the nodules of the latter will not inoculate soy beans.

There are two general ways of inoculating soy beans which may be classified as the pure culture method and the soil method. If the former is using a pure culture containing the soy bean bacteria may be purchased from almost any of the commercial seed houses or a limited supply of the inoculum may be obtained without cost from the United States department of agriculture, bureau of plant industry, soil bacteriology investigations, Washington, D. C. Complete directions for inoculating are sent with all pure cultures.

DEPENDS ON ALFALFA AND SILAGE

Alfalfa hay and corn silage, with limited pasture during summer, have been the only feeds used by David A. Clarke, Milford, in maintaining his dairy herds for the last three years. The cows have been given full feeds of alfalfa hay throughout the year and silage for a little more than one-half the year, but not a pound of grain was used during this time.

Mr. Clarke asserts that his cows have remained in good flesh on this ration while milking 20 quarts daily and have gained weight when milking ten to 15 quarts. His herd carried more flesh when the writer visited Mr. Clarke in January than the ordinary herd which is fed a ton of grain per cow per year.

Though accurate milk records have not been kept, Mr. Clarke estimated his receipts from the sale of milk to be approximately $2,000, from ten or 11 cows, during 1925. In addition to the milk sold, milk used for his and other families on the place would have brought between $400 and $500, making an average value of milk per cow for the herd above $225 for the year. Mr. Clarke's principal farming enterprises are the production of sweet corn seed, potatoes, etc., with dairying as distinctly a minor project. He usually has five or six men working on the farm and any one of these does the milking and feeding who happens to have the time, either in the morning or evening. Under such conditions he encountered so much trouble in the feeding of grain that he decided to discontinue its use, but found to his considerable profit that there was little appreciable difference in the production or his cows.

Mr. Clarke stated that he has been growing alfalfa for about ten years; he has never failed to secure a fairly good stand in the fields which he has seeded to this crop. He was careful, however, to state that he only put alfalfa on well drained, limed, thoroughly prepared soil, and that good seed was used. He is purchasing both seed and lime through the Farm Bureau committee which handle these products. Mr. Clarke is president of the New Haven county farm bureau. Mr. Clarke says that he has averaged about four tons of hay per acre from his alfalfa since the first was planted. He estimated that he could sell it at a nice profit at $15 per ton and that one acre was sufficient to feed a cow for 185 months, with hay being full feed during the entire time.

Several years ago Mr. Clarke planted potatoes on an acre of light sandy soil with the ordinary potato fertilizer which he uses. This land did not produce enough potatoes to replant. He followed the potatoes with a heavy coat of manure, lime, etc., and planted alfalfa. His average alfalfa yield was about four tons per acre for four years, at the end of which time he plowed in the alfalfa sod and replanted in potatoes. His yield of potatoes, following the alfalfa, was fully 250 bushels per acre and these potatoes were as fine quality, he stated, as he has ever grown.—John A. Simms in Connecticut Agricultural College Review.

WAR ON RATS

If it costs a farmer $2 a year to feed a very live rat on his premises, and the U. S. department of agriculture estimates that it does, the Fairfield country farm bureau are reasonable accurate there seems every reason to believe that a lot of $2 bills are now going down rat holes. We read that females produce their first litters at three and a half months of age, that only six weeks elapse between litters and that ten rats in a litter is not unusual. One pair of rats, barring fatalities from any source, can produce 4,580 descendants in a year, it is claimed.

To start the campaign against rats, four demonstrations were held late in April. A company manufacturing a rat exterminating gas, loaned the farm bureau the use of an expert for these demonstrations. If the tests prove practicable, a determined campaign will be launched to rid the county of rats. Incidentally, demonstrations in woodchuck control will be carried on at the same time.

STAFFORD SPRINGS

Miss Alice Day, assistant superintendent of the Johnson Memorial hospital, has resigned and will go to Battle Creek, Michigan for further study.

Joseph Brunelle has sold his property on West Main street to Louis Orazi.

Mrs. Martin Brown and daughter Miss Bessie Brown are spending a few days with relatives in Manchester.

Fred De Dalt has returned to town after spending the winter at his old home in Italy.

The Central garage on West Main street has incorporated with a capital of $15,000. The officers of the corporation are Benjamin Campo, president; John Campo, vice president and Angelo DeCleo, secretary and treasurer.

Invitations have been issued for the wedding of Miss Celinda Mitchell, daughter of Mr and Mrs. A. I. Mitchell to Alwyn Miles Rees, son of Rev. and Mrs. Levi Rees. The wedding will take place at the Mitchell home on June 12th at 6:30 o'clock in the evening.

The Memorial day program is being arranged along the same lines as in recent years. Sunday morning the G. A. R. veterans, Sons of Veterans, Spanish war veterans and other patriotic organizations will attend Grace church where the rector Rev. George D. Wilcox will preach a memorial sermon. Monday morning the same organizations will meet at the Library building and accompanied by the Phoenix band will march to the outlying cemeteries where the graves will be decorated. A lunch will be served in the hall over the library at noon, and the line will then form and proceed to the Stafford Springs cemetery where Rev. F. W. Tholen of the Stafford Baptist church will deliver the address of the day. After the address a return to the hall and dismissal of the various organizations will close the exercises. The schools, mills, stores and other business places will be closed all day Monday.

RADIO USED IN SPREADING THE GOSPEL

CHICAGO, May 27 —Radio has become the "right hand" man of many a parson.

Adoption of this vehicle of gospel spreading by a large number of church dignitaries has resulted in religious programs commanding a greater block of the ether. Where congregations were counted by hundreds, the message now goes to millions. Where a few pulpits timidly ventured into the air, their pastors now preach by the wholesale.

How extensively this messenger has been employed in behalf of religion is disclosed in country-wide reports.

"Properly used, radio presents an amazingly wide field for reasonable propaganda of the great truths we hold in common," said Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, Brooklyn, president of the Federal Council of Churches, who each Sunday is heard over a chain of stations that stretches nearly across the United States.

"I have found it an immense help in reaching countless numbers of people who have no definite affiliations with the churches. They are not irreligious. Far from it. They are deeply moved by spiritual realities and are a very large group presenting a fascinating field for religious enterprise.

"The radio also has been of untold good to those who through age or physical infirmity are unable to participate in stated religious services. Their testimony to the benefits they have received is of such volume and quality as to convince me that if the radio industry existed for this purpose alone it is amply justified."

The Greater New York Federation of Churches has been a consistent sponsor of the use of radio in church work. Three hundred and seventy-four ministers here broadcast special services in 1925 and this number will be increased this year.

Dr. John Roach Straton, pastor of the Calvary Baptist church; Dr. Daniel A. Poling, Fifth Avenue Marble Collegiate church and Bishop William T. Manning, Episcopal diocese of New York, have been among the leaders. Rabbi Stephen S. Wise speaks in behalf of charitable and educational causes, but does not broadcast synagogue services.

Broadcasting of church services has developed rapidly throughout New England, with encouraging reports. One Boston church, Tremont Temple Baptist, controls its own station. The Chase Memorial Baptist church, Philadelphia, recently selected a new pastor and immediately broadcast the call to the minister.

Philadelphia has an undenominational radio church with John W. Stickwell as minister. He gave up his pastorate to devote all his time to the new work. Rev. Howard O. Hough recently was installed as pastor of a similar parish in Portland, Me.

After two years of broadcasting, Dr. A. Gordon MacLennan, pastor of the Bethany Presbyterian church, Philadelphia, said his morning audience had shown noticeable chance "either up or down," but that in the evening approximately 200 strangers, the majority of whom have "listened in" previously, are met in the congregation.

When the pastor of the Church of God, Pittsburgh, was called from the city, his congregation installed a loud speaker in the pulpit and picked up the sermon of Dr. J. A. Orr, preaching in the First United Presbyterian church.

In Washington, the Federation of Churches has been broadcasting two and a half years. Church officials are pleased with the results.

Church broadcasting was inaugurated in the middle west as early as 1923, when a noted divine addressed the Chicago Sunday Evening club with a microphone before him. Humorists immediately pictured lazy householders lying abed Sunday morning and attending church by twiddling the dials. Radio services generally outlived the jests however, and spread to other sections of the country.

The Sunday Evening Club received a contribution from invalid miners on the U. S. Battleship Texas, harbored at Martinique in the Carribean sea, after they had listened to services over the radio.

An alliance between a church and a playing card manufacturer fostered other evangelism in Cincinnati.

Radio as a medium for the development of spirituality is proving a force so tremendous that its powers cannot yet be defined or appraised, said churchmen of th western states, where the microphone is widely used. The general opinion is that eventually radio will bring into the church thousands who have drifted away and many others with no denominational connections.

One of the numerous western stations is KSL, Mormon Temple, Salt Lake City. Old St. Mary's Roman Catholic church, in San Francisco, occasionally broadcasts through nonsectarian stations.

What is true in the east, north and west is true in the south. The radio broadcasting is generally endorsed.

It costs twice as much to live now as it did a hundred years ago—but it is worth every cent of the difference.

CONSTIPATION CAUSES INDIGESTION—

Get prompt and permanent relief with Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Constipation sends the backwash from the intestine into your body to torment you with deadly poisons. Headaches, pimples, fatigue and sleeplessness can be traced to it. Rid yourself of this body-torturing disease. Begin today. As Mr. Kelly writes:

"Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is the best remedy for constipation I ever used, and does all that you claim. Before I started using it, being constipated kept me sick with indigestion, but I find that ALL-BRAN stops constipation and relieves indigestion."

DANIELSON

MAIL PLANES WILL SOON MAKE THEIR REGULAR TRIPS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 27—A plane that zoomed over Danielson this morning fixed special attention on a news story that appeared in the day's Boston editions telling of a statement by W. Irving Bullard president of the Colonial Airways, Inc., and a former resident here, that regular air mail service between Boston and New York would be established July 1. This is the daily service that is to take the planes directly over Danielson and eventually make them almost as ordinary a sight here as automobiles. The trial trips of this service are to be started June 1, which happens to be next Tuesday.

The planes are to leave the East Boston airport at 6.30 p. m., a half hour after the close of business for the day and sufficient late to allow of carrying late mail for New York and points west. These planes, passing over Danielson, will be due in Hartford at 7.45 p. m., an hour and fifteen minutes after they leave Boston, and will get away from Hartford at 8.00 p. m., arriving in New York at 9.15 p. m., in time to transfer the mail they carry that is destined for western points to the night planes for Chicago. Returning the planes will leave New York at 6 a. m., Hartford at 7.30 a. m. and arrive at Boston at about 8.30 a. m.

Establishment of this Boston-New York air mail service revives the interest in the proposed emergency landing field that it is proposed to develop on the borough farm, off Dyer street. This field on the borough farm is one of the few suitable landing places on the route of the air mail between this place and Boston. Its development is not improbable, once the air mail service begins to function. In view of the fact that the borough is to enlarge its sewer beds on the farm and that the removal of much soil will be necessary in carrying out this program, it will be an easy matter to take this soil and so distribute it on one of the fields of the farm in a manner to make a very satisfactory landing place for planes that have to come down in an emergency, as planes do at times.

In developing such a field Danielson will be taking a step that likely will win it considerable prestige in the future, for aviation is but in its infancy and the time may come, when regular landings will be made by the planes to receive or discharge mail or passengers. The expense involved is trivial in comparison to the possibilities there are in making Danielson even a minor airport for the men who fly on their missions of business or pleasure.

EIGHT LENGTHS OF HOSE FAILED TO MEET TEST

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 27 — Eight lengths, 400 feet of fire hose, have gone into the discard as the result of a test conducted Wednesday evening by members of the fire department under the direction of Chief A. P. Woodward. Some 1100 feet of hose that it was desired to test that its serviceability might be determined was run out at Connecticut Mills village and the Captain Pin pumper set to work shooting water through the line. All of this hose had been in the department for a number of years and its resistance qualities uncertain. Eight of the lengths succumbed to the pressure of the power-driven water and, therefore, is of no further use to the department. This old hose goes to the sewer department and to the water company for use in flushing purposes. The discarding of it leaves no shortage of hose in the department, for replacements are made from year to year and an adequate supply always kept at hand.

Members of the Danielson Rotary club foregathered Thursday evening at the clubhouse to the Putnam Country club, of which many of them are members, to feast in sash and every instance, but at the expense of another in every other instance. Which may be explained by stating that some time since, a contest was inaugurated, with the membership of the Rotary club. The members were divided into groups respectively designated as the Pie Eaters and the Clam Diggers. The losing group was to pay for a feed for the members of the winning group. Well, Pie Eaters are indigenous to New England and are a tough combination to beat. They won. It has been claimed that Clam Diggers are also an almost exclusive New England product, but it has been held that they are largely a Rhode Island clan and not so much a thoroughly New England organization—witness the absence of Clam Diggers in Vermont—as the Pie Eaters, the founders undisputed of indigestion and dispepsia in every nook and corner of the six states. The Pie Eaters strutted a bit Thursday night over their well earned victory and the Clam Diggers paid with good grace. The Clam Diggers may lose again but if they do there will be sweet revenge in taking the Pie Eaters down to "the shore" and feeding them on sea shells. Even Pie Eaters' stomachs can be blasted into submission at the proper time and place.

Chowder, steamed clams, fried eels and many other good things to eat, Sunday and Monday at Meadowbrook Inn, South Killingly, on Danielson-Providence road. Camping space for 200 cars.—adv.

Wednesday night of next week Goodyear will have its visitors night at the school in that place. There will be a night session of the schools, the same as was held here Thursday evening, that all interested in educational matters may have an opportunity to see the school engaged in routine work.

A prominent local party has said that it would be a lot healthier for business in this and surrounding communities if this and that calamity howler stopped repeating absurd gossip about this and that plant going to shut down, when, as a matter of fact, the talkers know nothing at all about what is going to be done. This will be a prosperous summer in this territory if the talking machines can be muzzled—and "try and do it."

A section of Mechanic street is dug up just now as the work of putting in new and larger water mains is being carried on by the Crystal Water company in its program of keeping pace with the growing needs of the borough as to water supply. This really is a continuation of the work undertaken last year when a larger main was run from a point in Elmville toward the northerly line of the borough.

Rev. Leonard R. Richards and more than a score of the men of St. Alban's parish were at Norwich Thursday evening to attend the New London Archdeaconry Laymen's dinner—an annual event—that brought together churchmen from various parts of eastern Connecticut.

GIRLS MUST BE CAREFUL WHO THEY SLAP IN FACE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 27—A young married woman who, without cause, slapped a young man in the face, has been before the Killingly town court and has been sentenced to six months to the state farm for women, this sentence being suspended during her good behavior. It would appear that there is some limitations to woman's rights after all, but few men would press for a decision before the court in a case of this kind even for the satisfaction it might afford. Which is not saying the court was not justified in this particular case in doing what it did. There is much behind this incident which need not be related here. Anyway, women cannot slap men any more without justification in this town without assuming a very serious risk.

While here on a business trip on Thursday, Charles Seder of Putnam and Boston recalled that he got his first start in business here 30 years ago.

Repeated narrow escapes from motoring accidents at the intersection of Broad and Reynolds streets again brings forward the matter of some adequate warning at the approaches of this dangerous cross-over, for Rev. holds street is part of the heavily trafficed Danielson-Providence highway. Last year a device imbedded in the street surface at the intersection was tried out, but was found unsatisfactory. As yet, nothing has been found with which to replace it.

Of more or less interest here is the fact that the state of Rhode Island has undertaken the construction of another new state highway running southward from Hopkins crossing, 9 miles east of here, southward to Foster Center and across to the Fairbanks Hill-Clayville state highway. This route when completed will afford another pleasant option for pleasure rides to motorists traveling out of this territory.

Mrs. Helen Racine, 79, a native of Canada, but many years resident in this country, is dead at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Timothy Jones on Mechanic street. Frederick Racine of this town and Andrew and Nelson Racine are step-sons of Mrs. Racine, and there is a son, Theophile Racine.

A. Sherwin and company have visited the Blumenstein building on Windham avenue and will start in at once manufacturing leather goods.

Was in despair over stubborn eczema

Seemed like a miracle when Resinol healed

Barrington, R. I., Dec. 2—"I wish the whole world to know what Resinol Ointment has done for me and my baby. I had given up hope of ever finding anything to cure the eczema on my ears. I was troubled with it for two whole years, using different kinds of ointments without showing any good results. Many of them—even prescribed remedies—only made the trouble worse. My mother-in-law, who had used Resinol Ointment for many years, told me she had used it on her children when they were babies and had never been without it. I then tried it on my ears and found that it worked like a miracle. After the third day my ears were better and within a week my skin was its natural color again. I use it on my baby whenever he needs it. Only one application will heal." (Signed) Mrs. Sebastian De Stefano, 35 County Road.

PUTNAM

JOSEPH IGO HAS RETURNED TO HIS HOME IN PUTNAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, May 27—Joseph Igo, the 16 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Igo of Church street, who left home Sunday afternoon, November 1st, has returned to his home. Extensive search was made for the boy then but no trace of him was found until a letter was received from him from Philadelphia a short time ago.

The boy says that when he left home that Sunday afternoon he meant to take only a short walk. He went up Woodstock avenue and across by the Tourtellotte pond to Pomfret street. The driver of a New York truck stopped and asked him if he wanted a ride. He climbed into the truck which proceeded towards New York, slept in the truck that night and found himself in New York the next morning.

Young Igo found employment the first day with a radio concern in Brooklyn and worked there for several months, made and sold four radios and also attended night school. When work in the Brooklyn factory became slack he went to Philadelphia and secured employment with the General Electric company. He thought many times of writing to his parents but was afraid that they would insist on his returning home. This he did not want to do until he had bought some new clothes and saved enough money for his fare home.

He feels that he has seen enough of the city life and says that he intends to stay at home with his parents and will reenter high school next fall. When he left home last November, Joseph weighed 125 pounds and now weighs 135, looks well and feels fine.

Mrs. Exilda Theroux of Woodstock avenue died Thursday morning at the Woonsocket, R. I., hospital where she had been a patient for the past four weeks. She leaves two sons, William, of Chicago, who came from there a week ago to see her; the other lives in Woonsocket.

Mrs. Theroux was an old time resident of Putnam, and was widely known and admired for her many estimable qualities. The news of her death will cause wide spread regret.

ISSUE MEMORIAL DAY ORDERS FOR VETERANS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, May 27—The following general orders have been issued by the commanding officers of the Spanish war veterans, and the American Legion posts:

A. Wilder camp, United Spanish War Veterans, and Anselm Mayotte post No. 13, American Legion will assemble at the chamber of commerce rooms Monday, May 31, Memorial day, at 2:45 daylight saving time. Automobiles will be provided for all Civil war veterans and other comrades taking part in the exercises at St. Mary's cemetery at 3 a. m. and at the Soldiers monument on Grove street at 10:30.

A general invitation is extended to all the citizens of Putnam and vicinity to take part in the exercises of the day.

Signed, William H. McCoy, commander A. Wilder Merriam camp, United Spanish War Veterans, Edward F. Perry, commander Anselm Mayotte post, American Legion.

Walter Janket, 14, of Powhatan street is at the Day Kimball hospital as the result of a collision with an automobile on South Main street. The boy was coasting down hill on his bicycle and turned the corner to go south on South Main street, when he came into collision with an automobile driven by Mrs. Portland D. Arnold which was going north. Mrs. Arnold was driving slowly and tried to avoid the accident, the boy was unconscious when taken to the hospital but soon revived. He has a number of bruises but is not thought to be seriously injured. Dr. Perry was in his car near the accident and he and Mrs. Arnold took the boy to the hospital. Mrs. Arnold is not thought to be at fault in the matter.

The Elizabeth Porter Putnam chapter D. A. R., is invited to attend Memorial day services at the Second Congregational church, Sunday, May 30, at 10:30 a. m. daylight saving time. It is thought that a large number will attend and all who are doing so are requested to meet at the chapel before 10:30 o'clock.

For this same service, the veterans of the wars and all patriotic societies of Putnam are also invited to attend in groups and occupy reserved sections in he church auditorium.

Lwis F. Battey, superintendent of the Putnam evening schools gave a very interesting talk on Moral Astronomy at the assembly of the Israel Putnam school this week. He opened his remarks by mentioning several well known stars which stand out much brighter in the heavens than the rest. Then drawing a parallel in the lives of men he named Lincoln, Washington and others well known.

On a piece of paper he illustrated five important points of a star. The first point represented health, the second knowledge, the third industry, the fourth honesty and the fifth spirit. Mr. Battey spoke at some length on these points and showed how each one has its part in making up the character of a star. Mrs. Warner will speak at the assembly next week.

The Israel Putnam school orchestra played at the meeting of the Putnam grange this week. James Tatem, Jr., has become efficient enough on the saxaphone to join the orchestra.

Dr. E. R. Pike of Woodstock with his daughters, Misses Eunice and Sarah, motored to Brentwood, N. H., a few days ago bringing back with him his father, Rev. Ezra Pike. Rev. Mr. Pike although 93 years old is still hale and hearty and when he feels the need of exercise, can weild an axe with the best of them.

Miss Nellie Chandler has returned to her home at Woodstock after having spent the winter at San Antonia, Texas, wit hher sister-in-law. While there she stayed at a home for elderly women who had once been rich, but had lost their money. This home was founded by her late brother, Louis Chandler, who also left a large endowment fund for its maintenance.

Memorial exercises at Woodstock for the Civil war veterans will be conducted at the Congregational church on the Hill on Sunday and will be followed by the decoration of the sodiers' graves by the Sunday school scolars.

Several members of the Hamilton Holt family have been at their home at Woodstock for the past week.

At the last meeting of the Putnam grange, a shower was tendered Miss Elnora Fisher who is soon to marry Earle Spencer of Boston. Grace Bosworth and Helen Mongeon, dressed as cupids, walked into the hall drawing a car in which were the gifts for the bride-to-be.

The Israel Putnam school orchestra under the direction of Mr. Merrill played several selections, Mrs. Lamondy accompanied by Miss Esther Rouse sang and Mrs. Lamondy and Miss Winifred Harper played a piano duet.

A Maybasket was hung to Richard R. Richmond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Richmond and it being Mr. Richmond's birthday he also received a Maybasket from his friends. During the evening, music and dancing was enjoyed and fruit salad, cake, coffee and candy were served. The guests were: Mrs. O. Thatcher, Mrs. D. Chase, Miss E. Prentice, Miss L. Richmond, Mr. and Mrs. John Richmond, John Whitelaw, Miss Evelyn Shaw and Marvin Thatcher.

Louis Provencal, the sailor from the New London barracks, who was fined $50 and costs in the Putnam city court did not leave town until Tuesday night, although the fine and costs had been paid by relatives in the morning and he was immediately released. He was arrested on Saturday charged with tampering with a parked car belonging to Fred Ashton of West Gloucester, R. I. As Provencal had but one day's leave of absence his troubles are probably not over.

Dr. F. A. Morrell and son, Frederick Morrell of New York city, left Thursday for a two weeks' fishing trip on the Rangeley Lakes, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown and little child and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Turgeon of Waterbury, Conn., have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Booth of Grove street.

Miss Eva Benoit and Miss Augusta Bresnic have returned from a visit to friends at Boston and Norwood, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon T. Wilson were at Wellesley college to visit their daughter, Miss Esther Wilson, who is a junior at the college.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Rankin of New York city have arrived at Pomfret to spend the summer.

Professor and Mrs. Waldo S. Pratt of Hartford are at the Ben Grosvenor inn at Pomfret for the summer.

Mrs. Mary Pray of Springfield, formerly a resident of Putnam, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Ellis of Farrow street.

Miss Emma J. Dutton, teacher of the fourth grade at the Israel Putnam school, has returned to her duties after having been called to her home in Maine by the illness and death of her sister.

LEBANON

At the First Congregational church Sunday morning, Rev. Stanley Sellick preached a very fine sermon as a memorial to Miss Sophia Dolbeare, who was one of the oldest members of that church.

The C. E. meeting was led by Miss Mary Chappell; interesting reports of the C. E. convention in Hartford were given by Misses Beatrice Littlefield, Cora Chappell, Mary Chappell, Elmer Chappell, Mary Underwood and Abraham Aspinall.

Miss Ellen Huntington has returned to her home after spending the winter with her niece in Granby.

Miss Harriet Hewitt has been spending several days with Mrs. Emma Danielson, in Brooklyn, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Pultz, Miss Beatrice Littlefield and Miss Helen Taylor spent Sunday in Worcester, Mass., with Mr. and Mrs. Pultz's son, Laverne Pultz.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bruce and daughter Arlene of East Lyme, and Mrs. Wilfred Scott and son Allen, of Niantic Hill, spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Bruce.

Mrs. Clayton Williams and son Errol returned home with Mrs. Scott Sunday and remained until Tuesday.

Mrs. Hattie Kneeland returned home Saturday after spending a week at her son's in Hartford. Her son William Kneeland returned home with her and remained until Sunday.

Mrs. Clark Standish called on Mrs. Daniel Tucker at St. Joseph's hospital recently and found her as comfortable as could be expected. Mrs. Tucker has been a patient at the hospital for several weeks, suffering from a broken hip.

Mrs. Rodney Hewitt has returned from the hospital in Wakefield, R. I., where she underwent an operation for appendicitis.

Mrs. C. M. Geer, Miss Myra Geer and Leroy Geer spent Tuesday afternoon and evening with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hoxie.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Bruce were in New London Tuesday to attend the funeral of the former's brother, Fred Bruce.

Mrs. Austin Wade, of Clark's Corner is at the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. P. Abel, helping to care for her as Mrs. Abel and three of her children have been ill with measles.

Vernon Boothby of Woodmont spent the week end with his parents Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Boothby.

Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Bruce and Mrs. C. S. Goodwin called on Mrs. A. T. Gregoris in Manchester Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Squires has returned home, after spending two weeks with her son and daughter-in-law, Dr. and Mrs Merwin Squires, in Manchester.

Several of the young men, under the direction of Mr. Nourse and David Pitcher, were putting the ball nine grounds in condition Tuesday.

WILSONVILLE

Charles Towne was in North Grosvenordale Wednesday.

Willis Wakefield of Worcester was a recent week end guest of Nellie Dodge.

Quite a number of local people attended the play at Tourtellotte Memorial high school Tuesday night.

Mrs. Handy was in Webster Tuesday.

Mrs. Laporte entertained relatives from out of town over the week end.

Adrien Pelequin, who has been working in Wauregan, is home for a time as the mill has shut down.

COLOR AND HUMOR ADD TO LONDON'S OMNIBUS WAR

LONDON, May 27.—(AP)—Color and humor have been added to London street life by the bitter omnibus war.

The London Omnibus company, against which the independents are struggling, has all its buses labelled "General."

Rival lines have their vehicles named as variously as Pullman cars in the United States. One of the lines calls its buses "Admiral."

The independent buses have combined to get business away from the dignified old "General," whose employees refuse to solicit passengers while the rivals keep up a constant bullyhoo.

The "General" buses are all red. Many of the independent lines also have red, vehicles. "Try the brown boys," is the cry of the Chocolate Express company, limited. "Have a green one," is the call of another line.

JEWETT CITY

URGE SPEED IN CATCHING FIRST FLIGHT MAIL PLANES

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 27.—In view of the fact that local stamp collections are ever alert to come into possession of new and rare stamps, and also considerin that a new air route is to be put into operation between Boston and New York within a few more days. The followin information from the government to Postmaster William T. Crumb is of special interest.

Moreover, it is pointed out that although the regular lane will pass over a few miles north of Jewett City, yet, on many days, when coast flying is clearer, with up country air pockets eliminated on account of the steadier air of the seaboard, the big Fokkers will pass over this section.

Concerning the air-mail instructions from Washington mention that when a new air mail route is to be inaugurated philatelists and many others throughout the country send mail in considerable quantities to the postmasters of the offices on the new route, especially the terminal offices, for dispatch on the first flight.

The purpose of this, of course, is to obtain first flight covers or envelopes bearing the regular postmark and date, as well as the impression of the special first flight stamp.

In view of the value of these envelopes to philatelists, and the fact that these mailings are the source of considerable revenue to the department, it is desired that postmasters and employes concerned give special attention to first flight mail of this character to see not only that it is actually dispatched on the first flight in accordance with the request or instructions appearing on the envelope, regardless of destination as shown by the address, but that it is properly postmarked, stamped, and dated as first flight mail, and backstamped with date of receipt at all post offices at points of landing.

By direction of the postmaster general, John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general.

At a meeting of Orville LaFlame post No. 15, American Legion, details were completed for the memorial exercises to be held Sunday, May 30th, at Finn's opera house.

The various committees reported that everything was in readiness for the parade and exercises to be held Monday the 31st.

The parade will start at 9 a. m., daylight time, and the usual line of march will be followed, taking in all the ceremonies and the distribution of flowers into the Quinebaug river at Lisbon bridge where a volley will be fired.

The firing squad in charge of Commander P. W. Chase will be as follows:

Irving Thornton, Victor St. John, Edward Blanchard, Wilfred Leclaire, George Wilcox, Fred Raill, Walter Benjamin and Carl Benjamin.

Adjutant Gilbert Miner will act as color bearer with Adelbert Babcock and Edward Knox as guards.

William Maynard will sound taps at each of the cemeteries.

Doctor George H. Jennings will be marshall of the day and will choose his own aides.

Elphage Jarvis has been appointed to command the men in line, in years past the firing squad has been seriously handicapped in their efforts to fire volleys in the impressive manner which the ceremonies require owing to children scrambling for empty shells. Mr. Jarvis has been instructed to secure his own aides to see that this condition does not manifest itself this year, thereby relieving the firing squad of the handicap of having boys crawling between their legs while executing a ceremony which means so much to the ex-service man. Few people who have not had military experience can fully appreciate the meaning of the sound of taps and the firing of a volley to the ex-service man.

On Tuesday evening Charles Saunders was given a surprise party by his grandmother. He was invited to take a ride to camp but the ride was turned into a birthday party. Cake, sandwiches, ice cream and soda were served. He was presented a sport coat and was taken so by surprise that he was unable to find words to express his thanks. The party included the family and sight friends. A birthday cake with 20 candles which were lighted, was a pleasing feature of the refreshments.

Miss S. K. Adams and Mrs. E. H. Hiscox attended the fifth annual convention of New London County League of Women Voters at Niantic on Thursday.

May 26th and 27th will pass as anything but a heated term of weather. Fires and fur coats were the rule both days in this vicinity.

Mrs. Mariett Tinker celebrated her 78th birthday on Monday evening. She received many gifts. Cake, sandwiches and ice cream were served. Those attending were her family and Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Boyens and their grandson, Robert Gray and Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Ladd and family of Norwich.

EKONK

STERLING HILL

Mr. and Mrs. John E. Tanner attended the funeral of their cousin, Albert Saunders at Rockville, R. I.

Rev. Lydia Hartig of Saybrook occupied the pulpit at Ekonk Congregational church Sunday morning and was listened to by an appreciative audience. She is expected to come again. She was entertained at Edwin Gallup's.

Walter Congdon has moved his family to a tenement in the house with his son, Henry, on Sterling Hill. They will be much missed in the Community. It is reported that Mr. Congdon has sold his farm here.

George Cole is very ill.

Mrs. Benjamin Hall has been suffering with neuritis.

There will be no services at Sterling Hill church next Sunday, as all will attend the Memorial day service at Oneco.

A. W. Noone of Paterboro, N. H., has been spending a few days at the Gallup homestead.

Miss Mary Jurnak is assisting Mrs. Harold Geer of Griswold.

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gallup and two children of Berwick, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Gallup and children of Plainfield were callers Sunday at George Gallup's and Edwin Gallup's.

All were saddened to hear of the sudden death of Mrs. Harry Owens, Saturday night, at her home on the Moosup road.

William Devoive of Providence visited at Charles Gardner's Saturday night and with relatives in Plainfield Sunday.

An interesting Grange meeting was held Monday evening.

Mrs. Sayles entertained her brother and his family from Providence on Sunday.

Mrs. Frank Gallup with her son Frank and daughter Edith also Helen Congdon, of Danielson, were callers at Henry Congdon's Sunday.

Myron Young and Mrs. H. Mary Gallup attended the annual convention of the Windham County W. C. T. U. at Central Village last Thursday.

Charles Barber of Plainfield and Charles Tanner of Sterling Hill are building a cattle shed for Warren Tanner.

A birthday surprise party was given William Gardner Saturday evening. Dancing was enjoyed.

NOANK

Marian Carson was given a surprise planned by her mother on her birthday. The room was decorated with yellow and black paper. When the little girl entered her school friends were sitting around the room. It was her tenth birthday. The afternoon was spent in playing games. She received many gifts. A birthday cake held ten colored candles and each candle was blown out by a guest. Refreshments were served. Those in the party were Helen Clark, Betty Brown, Hazel Trahan, Louise Wilhelms, Pauline Wilhelm, Wally OBrien, Mabel Bracci, Doris and Dorothy King and Marie Carson.

Raymond Sistare is in New York for the remainder of the week.

Raymond Jones has returned from New Jersey after spending several weeks.

Lyle Chesbro has won the championship at the fire company, defeating Rollin Rathbun at pool. The score was Chesbro 95, Rathbun 80. The game kept the crowd on edge all the way through. Rathbun made a run of 14 balls, while Chesbro got a run of ten. The series has been going on nearly all winter and created great sport among the fire-fighters. Each man had a cheering section. Ice cream, punch and cake were served.

The weekly meeting of the Silver Link society of the Methodist church was held Wednesday in the vestry. The president, Mrs. Charles Butson was in the chair. A busy hour was spent in sewing. Later refreshments were served.

George Moore of Littleton, Mass., is visiting relatives in the village.

The bridge at Groton Long Point is under repair. New girders are being put in and new planks are being laid. The work is being done by the Scott Co. of New London. This bridge was inspected by the selectmen of the town of Groton who found it unsafe for trucks with heavy loads of lumber. It will take some time before the repairing is done. Meantime trucks and automobiles will have to drive slowly if they don't want to have a swim so early in the season.

New trolley poles are being erected on Lamb avenue near the waiting room. New ties are replacing the old ones.

William Chappell has left for New Bedford, Mass., on a week's fishing trip.

The road at Brook street hill is being cut down by the state men. The road from Noank to Mystic has received a coat of tar.

Several from the village attended the supper and play by Ledyard grange Wednesday evening.

TONIGHT'S SPECIAL TOWN MEETING

This is the night for the special town meeting at which there will come before the townspeople the question as to whether a new schoolhouse site and building will be authorized in the Norwich Town section at an expense of not over $225,000.

A new schoolhouse in that part of the town was previously sought at the same time that the Bishop school on the East Side was authorized, but it failed of approval. It is proposed now with the idea of abandoning the present schools at Yantic and Bean Hill and transporting the children to the new school.

Education is a matter in which everyone is or should be interested. The same may be said concerning the buildings where educations are obtained and it should not be overlooked that the meeting tonight is one which should be largely attended.

It is a time when Norwich must decide whether it is ready to proceed with the construction of a quarter of a million dollar building, whether the conditions in the present schools are such as to warrant the outlay, and whether in the face of existing high taxes this is the right time to undertake such a large outlay.

Likewise it is a time for the people whose children will be specially affected to say whether they favor a consolidation of the schools, the transportation of the children and the taking them away for all day instead of maintaining existing schools which are so situated that they can walk to and from school and be at home for dinner.

It rests with the townspeople to say whether the change petitioned for shall be made. It is not a matter that should be left to the judgment of a few. It calls for a large and representative gathering of the people who must bear this expense in addition to other taxation burdens which are already high and which will not be decreased by this proposed change, and who are not unmindful of the fact that, as city taxpayers, other and perhaps less worthy tax increases are staring them in the face.

CHILDREN IN THE STREETS

The lives of children are being snuffed out daily because of the disregard which seems to exist for the danger in the highways. At Williamstown, Mass., a six year old boy was instantly killed by a bakery truck, the driver of which was exonerated. It was apparently one of those cases where the youngster was either playing in the street or trying to catch a ride.

On the same day a seven year old girl was struck by a machine in a Springfield street and taken to the hospital with the extent of the injuries unknown.

These are characteristic cases of what is happening all too frequently under the present day uses of the highways. Last year in this state there were 2,465 children injured by motor vehicles and 108 cases were fatal.

That these accidents were to a large degree preventable is by no means an exaggeration. There is no telling when a child is going to dodge out into the street from behind another car, or when a youngster is going to run backward in front of an automobile without having giving any thought to the seriousness of the act. There are children who delight in taking chances, who stump each other to see how close they can come to passing machines without being hit, but it is the heedless child, who gives no thought to the peril he is headed for who makes so many and so frequent additions to the list of injured and killed.

Too much attention cannot be given to impressing the children with the necessity of looking where they are going before stepping into the street and looking in both directions before crossing the road. There must be a constant hammering on the subject in order to have children make use of the instructions at the right time but through keeping everlastingly at it results are obtained. It is timely that parents, teachers and recreational leaders are being strongly urged to do all in their power to cooperate with the safety movement in the highways. It is the preventive work which is preferable to such measures as have to be taken after the ambulance or the undertaker has to be called.

CORRECT MEASURES

Out in Ohio an investigation is underway by federal authorities concerning the measures that are being used at filling stations. They are finding out whether the fellow who buys five gallons of gas is getting all he pays for or whether he is being given short measure.

The investigation proceeds because it was found that through the short measure pumps in one city alone gas buyers were being robbed at the rate of over $600 a day. Where large quantities of gasoline are sold it takes only a small shortage in each instance to mount up to a large total in the course of a day. Just why it should be federal rather than state authorities which are looking into this situation is not disclosed, but so long as it is thorough, and the situation is relieved it can make little difference.

This is of course only one way in which the consumer is used by the tricksters to get abnormal profits, but it is proper that the buyers should be given the protection that comes through thorough and systematic tests and investigations. The fellow who pays his 20 or 25 cents a gallon for gas is entitled to receive a gallon, not a pint or a gill less. There should be no more difference between fair measure in the purchase of gasoline than in the buying of milk, or sugar or potatoes. There may have been the old time storekeepers who were charged with sanding their sugar and watering their vinegar, but there is no justification for giving short weight any more than there is for misrepresenting the quality of goods.

Reliance is placed upon the accuracy of the pumps and such may be justified if the pumps are not tampered with, but Ohio is not the only state where short measure has been heard of. Perhaps it makes little difference to the buyer of five gallons of gas if he lacks a half teacup of what he has paid for but certainly that amount multiplied by the daily sales in a city means a substantial amount and certainly it belongs to no one but those who have paid for it. The occasional test at every station is an excellent thing and part of the duty of the sealer of weights and measures for public protection.

TEST FOR NEW RAIL LABOR ACT

The Watson-Parker bill has but recently become law. It wiped out the railroad labor board in spite of opposition. The plea has been made that it does not give protection for the public such as is needed, but the plea was persistently made that it could be no worse and was entitled to a trial in the belief that it is better.

That test is not going to be far away if we are to judge by the action of the brotherhoods of the locomotive engineers and other rail workers which have voted to seek an increase in wages.

That step should mean the bringing into operation of the various provisions of the new law which are intended to use in the prevention of a strike. Under the law there is provision for a series of committees to take into consideration the demands that have been made, or will be made, and go through the various stages in the expectation that an adjustment will be effected by a favorable, adverse or compromise decision.

Whether the new legislation is going to do all that is expected of it, whether it is going to be better than the board that has been ousted, whether it is going to be able to have decisions respected is of course awaited. The chance of testing it may or may not have been anticipated, but from the results obtained it will not be difficult to decide whether congress has disposed of rail labor legislation for some time to come or whether it will be quickly confronted with it again. Whether it leaves the public more at the mercy of the railroads and the employes, in that higher rates will be more readily passed along to it is not the least point at stake.

PENALIZING THE CRIMINAL

Apparently under the belief that the time has come to provide legislation which will serve to discourage the illegal possession of firearms, the senate in the Massachusetts legislature has adopted a bill which makes it impossible to purchase a revolver without first obtaining a license to carry it and which prohibits the sale or rental of revolvers to those who do not have permits. But in addition an amendment was attached which provides that a person convicted of committing a felony while unlawfully carrying firearms shall receive a penalty of from four to five years in addition to the penalty for the felony.

There has for some time been a growing disposition to legislate against small arms. There have been so many homicides and so many instances where criminals have depended upon firearms in carrying out their evil plans that there is a desire to apply restrictions which are regarded as necessary.

In view of the crime in which small arms figure so prominently, it is not surprising that the Massachusetts senate recognizes the need of doing something to prevent it. The dangerous criminal deserves opposition on every side. If it is impossible to keep firearms away from him it is certainly advisable to make the penalty for employing it in his business sufficiently stiff to get some heed.

If adequate reason can be advanced for the possession of firearms it is possible to obtain them, but whatever can be done to disarm the criminal is in the interest of public protection and welfare.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Town meeting night. Don't miss it.

This is the day when Will Rogers and Mussolini meet. Now watch for the sparks to fly.

Lest you forget it is well to bear in mind that there is a city election coming on the seventh of June.

The man on the corner says: Everything seems to come to a standstill occasionally including the weather machinery.

Tonight's special town meeting is one of unusual importance. It calls for the attendance of the townspeople in large numbers.

The last heard of Abd-el-Krim, he was on the run going northwest. Looked for a time as if he, too, was headed for the north pole.

Pilsudski is trying to be so many things in a short space of time that he isn't getting the confidence and support he needs to succeed.

Perhaps that St. Louis father, who was told to take his 16 year old son home and give him a good thrashing instead of paying the court's fine for careless driving and who told the court he would rather pay, knew better than to attempt the impossible.

EXCEPTIONAL MAN

"What chance has a fellow got?" demanded the cynical man with great feeling. "Not a nickel's worth in the United States mint! We are goofs and only a few of us bright ones know it and profit! If ever I had the remotest glimmering of a touching belief in the words of any sweet young thing my expectipace, today in the football game would have yanked it out by the roots!"

"Was she pretty?" demanded the young man trying to read two books at once and look out of the window at the coeds simultaneously.

"Yeow!" howled the cynical young man, "They're all pretty! You never see any other kind! They take all the homely girls out at dawn once a week and shoot 'em or else they're all locked up somewhere. Why, this girl was extra deadly because besides being a combination of angel child and vamp in looks she had a velvet voice and knew when not to laugh.

"She said her young man, only he was not so young, sat back of me and I went to their party whether or no. There may have been a game going on out in the gold, but she wasn't occupying that 18 seat for the sole and only purpose of hustling things up a bit and assisting it to percolate into Reynolds' dumb brain that he was about to ask her to be his.

"She said the seats were lovely and he certainly always got the right place to sit, no matter where they went, and Reynolds coughed in a gratified way and began telling her what the game was going to be. She said she thought he was just marvelous working it all out like that and that it must be his legal cast of mind. He simply never stopped being a lawyer, did he? Well, all successful men were that way—they just lived their business.

"No," said Reynolds in a deep, firm voice, she was mistaken—they shut their business out of their minds when they closed their desks—why, from the time he left his office till he greeted his stenographer the next morning business was not allowed to enter his mind. It was the only way he could maintain poise and a clear mind.

"She gasped wordlessly in admiration and switched instantly. She had just known it was something like that—what a wonderful system, and he certainly must tell her exactly how he did it, so that she could tell her brother. Eddie was just starting out and advice like that would be so helpful to him coming from a successful man like Reynolds.

"Out on the field six giants had just landed in a heap on a rabbitlike runner and downed him, the stands were rearing their heads off and a touchdown had been saved, but Reynolds didn't know it. He coughed again and his voice grew deeper and more judicial than ever. Now, now, simply because she was a sweet little thing and prejudiced about her friends she must not exaggerate! What he had accomplished in the world was very little compared with what some men did—look at Andy White—

"Andy White! she repeated in scornful accents. The idea! If Andy White had not had $500,000 left him when he was 21 he would today be a 15-a-week clerk! He had no brains, no ambition. Boosted from all sides!

"What she admired," the girl went on, was the man who by his own efforts had climbed the heights and shown his worth—yes, Reynolds, his very great worth. It positively angered her to hear him depreciate himself in such a way! Did she really feel like that, he wanted to know in cooing dove accents. Yes, Reynolds, she did!

"Alice!" he cried in deep tones, and grabbed her hand. 'Alice listen!'—and just then, confound it, McCarty made a touchdown and the whole works blew up in such a yell and roar that I never did learn what Alice listened to, but I'll bet it was sufficient and that poor simp is landed! He just drank it up!"

"Look!" said the young man who had one eye on the window, "there's that little peach who wanted to have you introduced—the one who said you looked so interesting and sort of different!"

"Did she really?" asked the cynical young man, looking hard. "Say, she's all right that girl! Looks bright as well as pretty! Is she going to be at the dance tonight? Good!"—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

Richard Henry Stoddard, the Blacksmith, a Great Author

In New York city, about 1840, a young blacksmith hammered away at his anvil and made the sparks fly. To all appearances he was an ordinary blacksmith, strong, experienced and willing to work long and hard. In one way or another he worked in iron until he was 24 years old. Then, suddenly, he gave up his grimy work and became a writer for magazines, a poet.

The change was not as sudden as it seemed. "Dick" Stoddard, the blacksmith, had had to work for a living. He was ten years old when his father, the New England sea captain, died and left him and his mother to make their own way in the world. The two had come to New York city, and the boy had gone to school. When he grew old enough to work he had become a blacksmith. People saw him working at the anvil; they did not see him in the evenings reading the best books he could find, and trying to write down the thoughts that filled his mind. In the daytime he worked so well that he made himself a good blacksmith and a good iron molder; in the evening he worked so well that he made himself a good writer.

At 24 the young blacksmith published a book of original poems and definitely turned to literature. He lived 54 years after that and wrote and edited so many books that his works, brought together, would fill several shelves. He gained recognition as one of the best of American poets, a lover of beauty and of gentleness, a master of the art of versification and a profound scholar. The life of such a man shows what any man with real ability can accomplish, if he will only make the effort.

The material that the young blacksmith sent to magazines won him friendships. Of Nathaniel Hawthorn who aided him to become Custom House inspector at New York. In this employment, and in other public positions, he worked faithfully for 22 years. In his later years he was an editor of various publications. He made himself great because he was willing to work both long and hard.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Owen D. Young, whom the democrats of New York are talking of drafting for the gubernatorial nomination in the event Governor Al Smith declines to run again, is a noted financial and industrial leader and best known as coauthor of the Dawes reparation plan. Mr. Young was born 58 years ago in Herkimer county, N. Y., and brought up on a farm. By borrowing $1,000 he went through St. Lawrence university and by tutoring and library work he paid his way through Boston Law school. In 1895 he began the practice of his profession in Boston. Soon he attained a reputation as a specialist in public utility law. In 1912 he became head of the General Electric company's legal department and, thereafter, his rise was rapid. He is now chairman of the board of that great corporation, a director of the International Chamber of Commerce and of the Federal Reserve bank of New York.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SHALL WE BUILD NEW OR IMPROVE THE PRESENT SCHOOL ACCOMMODATIONS?

Mr. Editor: In considering the present condition of the schoolhouses at Yantic, Bean Hill and Norwich Town and what should be done to better the school accommodation at these three places, resolves itself into two questions.

First, whether or not these three schools should be merged into one, the cost thereof and where the one should be located, or second, whether improvements, additions and repairs to the present buildings would better accommodate the school children than if such three schools were merged into one and such changes would be at a lesser expenditure of the town's money.

These three localities are at the present time some distance apart entirely separated from one another and dependent upon their own teachers and the children can easily walk to their own school which makes a considerable less expense than if the three schools were merged in one place and the children transported from their homes to this one school. It has been found that in many of the smaller towns where schools were merged that the transportation cost alone for a locality was more than the cost of a teacher so that the smaller schoolhouses have been opened again and teachers are teaching the pupils at their home school rather than have the taws transport them and teach them where several schools are merged. The transportation cost here would be very large if these three schools were merged into one as well as the additional cost for pupils from points on the Scotland road, Canterbury turnpike and other places.

If the three schools were merged into one it would necessitate the children carrying their dinner to school with them and being away from their homes during the noon hour. Many parents as well as the children prefer to be at home together for their mid-day meal.

It is asserted that one new school building for the three schools would cost $250,000 and no doubt this amount could be raised by a bond issue and paid off over a term of years. This would necessarily raise our tax rate and if the tax rate is raised it would mean that rents would likewise be raised so that the cost finally comes out of the users of the property as well as the property owners. Added to $250,000 would be the interest annually until the principle sum had been paid.

We have recently expended:

1.—The Elizabeth street school cost approximately $100,000.

2.—The Bishop school cost approximately $160,000.

3.—The Proposed school to cost approximately $250,000.

4.—And also proposed which is kept from view at the present time the Falls school $200,000.

5.—The Broadway school needs thorough overhauling, $100,000.

6.—The Greeneville school $250,000.

Many other expenditures are made and have to be made which are greatly needed.

Many persons advocate the revaluation of our present assessment list as a cure for the needed funds for improvements. While this may more evenly distribute the tax among the owners and second by the tenants and users of the property. Has anyone advocated a reduction of taxes in the last five years?

In considering this matter we have the present school buildings at Yantic, Bean Hill and Norwich Town where additions could be made and so enlarged and brought up to date with modern improvements that each building in its locality would serve the children and satisfy the parents better than one new building and at a far lesser cost. The present size of the Norwich Town school is 60 feet front by 46 feet deep and the lot on which it stands is 86 feet front by 175 deep. On the rear or south side of the school there are about 100 feet which can be used for adding to the school building. On the west side of the school house is a vacant grass plot upon which no buildings have been erected, which can be used for a playground, and the addition made.

If $45,000 on the Norwich Town school, $25,000 on the Bean Hill school and $20,000 on the Yantic school were expended, it would cover the necessary changes to bring all of these buildings up to date, save the cost of transportation and the children losing away from home at noon as well as the larger expenditure and the larger amount of interest.

The taxpayers of the town of Norwich and the parents of the children consider carefully before the decision is made to expend $250,000, that it is necessary or advisable to do so in one school building rather than to modernize the present three buildings for the three localities.

CARL M. WELTE.

Norwich, May 27, 1926.

The Pleas For More Pay

Mr. Editor: Are the people of Norwich aware of what is being asked of them in the way of increased taxation through increases in pay at a time when the city is way over its head in taxation?

Another mill tax would be required to furnish the increase for the policemen and firemen who rank well with those of other cities of similar size where taxation is much less. In Norwich the police are getting $5 a day or $1825 a year. In New London they get $1800 a year. In Derby $1800 a year and nine hours a day. In Middletown it is $1800 for a nine hour day. In Torrington it is $1820 for nine hours a day. In Ansonia it is $5.00 a day of ten hours. In Norwalk it is $5.50 a day. In Stamford it rises to $1925 after two years. In Meriden it is $5 and in Danbury the rate is $2,000 after the first year.

As for the firemen, their pay is practically the same as the police in Middletown, Torrington, Danbury, Meriden, New London, Stamford, while in Ansonia, Derby, Shelton there is a volunteer fire department and New London has only paid drivers for each company.

Norwich has paid a city tax of 34 mills for 1925 and is now paying a town tax of 24 1-2 mills or a total of nearly five per cent or greater than the interest to be obtained in the savings banks.

It is time for Norwich to sit up and take notice where it is headed for and get busy in behalf of less taxes instead of greater. Norwich is hurt and it is time to holler.

DOUBLE TAXPAYER.

Norwich, May 27, 1926.

Fire Insurance Rates

Mr. Editor: May I call the attention of the Norwich people to the advance in price of insurance imposed upon us by the fire insurance companies.

Are we really going to pay such an outrageously high price for insurance? I cannot believe that the Norwich people will be so easy as not to act upon this.

We have a public utilities commission that are protecting us from the railroads, car lines, etc. Why do they not protect us from insurance companies too? Is there no legislation to affect insurance? If there is none, a bill should be brought in at once to the legislature in order that we may let the insurance companies know that they may own Hartford but the capitol is still ours. Imagine a group of people sent out by the insurance companies for the insurance companies, and of the insurance companies, responsible only to them and looking only for more profits for them, coming to Norwich and telling us what to pay and what not to pay, without a hearing and without authority.

They bestowed the honor on the citizens of Norwich of paying the increase on insurance first. Why pick on Norwich? Why don't they go to New London or any other city of this size? Oh well, Norwich has a highly efficient fire department with no fire losses, and it stands to reason that if Norwich complies with the new high rates and pays them, they will then go to the rest of the state and use Norwich as an example.

Now are we going to permit the fire insurance companies to obtain still higher profits? Are not their back dividends paid on stock enough? The fire insurance companies pull out from Norwich over a million dollars a year in insurance. They have not paid that out in this city for the last 25 years. Should we then pay higher insurance? Why not form our own mutual fire insurance company? We have our own fire department, why not our insurance company?

I hope that all who are interested in this will express their opinions in this column.

A CITIZEN.

HURDY GURDY GOES WAY OF CHIMNEY SWEEP IN ORLEANS

NEW ORLEANS, May 27 (AP)—The hurdy gurdy is following the chimney sweep into limbo. With the high hats of the chimney sweeps seldom seen on the streets of New Orleans, the notes of the street organs are becoming fainter and fainter.

When Adelina Patti as a child sang to the accompaniment of the hurdy gurdy in the Vieux Carre, they were here, there and everywhere. Now they are few and far between in the French section as well as uptown New Orleans.

Hundreds of street organs are stored here where a few years ago there was a waiting line. The hurdy gurdy scale of rent is from a minimum of $1 up and they can be kept from 10 a. m. until 10 p. m. In the heyday of the street organ's popularity a comfortable living could be realized for the musician and his monkey, who collected the coins. Now the monkey is rarely seen for the few hurdy gurdies left are pushed about the streets by negroes, who have no "time" for monkeys.

Simple Remedy For Bad Stomach Gives Quick Relief

No need of Strong Medicines or Diet—Famous but Simple Old English Recipe Keeps Stomach in Fine Condition, Banishes After-Eating Distress

If you are a victim of Stomach Troubles—Gas, Sourness, Pain or Bloating—you may have quick and certain relief by following this simple advice.

Don't take strong medicines, artificial digestants or pull down your system by following unnecessary starvation diets.

Never hurry your meal or overeat of anything, but within reason most folks may eat what they like—if they will keep their stomach sweet, clean and active and free from the souring acids that hinder or paralyse the work of digestion.

And the best and easiest way to do this is to follow every meal with a small amount of pure Bisurated Magnesia—a pleasant, harmless and inexpensive form of Magnesia that promptly neutralizes acidity and keeps your stomach sweet and clean.

A week's trial of Bisurated Magnesia, which may be obtained from any druggist for only a few cents, will easily convince you of the great value of this old English recipe.

Be sure and get BISURATED Magnesia—not a laxative.

FOREIGN WAR VETERANS TO SELL POPPIES SATURDAY

Members of R. E. Hourigan post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are making extensive plans for the annual poppy sale which will be held Saturday, May 30. Poppies are sold throughout the nation during the period just before Memorial day, the proceeds being used solely for relief work and funerals.

The local post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars anticipates a hearty response from the public. Every cent of profit from the sale is held intact in the funeral and relief fund, so that every wearer of a poppy can be assured that he or she is helping to take care of the living who are in need or to give a soldier's burial to the dead. The poppies sold in this city this year are made under the direct supervision of the Veterans or Foreign Wars and Commander Leo L. Jacques of the local post says that he and his comrades will appreciate the cordial support of the people of the city.

The committee in charge of the campaign in Norwich includes Chairman Leo L. Jacques, Comrades Richmond, Cook, Marcial, Peloquin and Fitzgerald. The treasurer is Post Quartermaster Paweleo.

STAFFORD SPRINGS TEACHER GETS HERMIT'S ESTATE

An Associated Press dispatch from Oxford, Mass., Thursday said: Miss Edith Nellie Turner, 53, daughter of Selectman Charles N. Turner of this town and a teacher in the Stafford Springs, Conn., high school, was surprised, she said, when she learned of the bequest made her by Edmund M. Bond, known at Oxford as a hermit.

Mr. Bond died recently and his will just filed in probate court revealed he had left his estate to Miss Turner to be held in trust for ten years. Mr. Turner said that Mr. Bond must have left the money to his daughter in gratitude for financial favors done for him by Mr. Turner in the past. The value of the estate is not known but it is not thought to be large.

TO HOLD FAST CHRISTIAN CHARACTER

Bishop Coadjutor Edward C. Acheson was a guest of honor and Rev. Charles D. Tinker, rector of Grace church, Middletown, Jr., was the inspiring speaker Thursday evening at the fourth annual dinner of the laymen of the New London archdeaconry, which was held at Overlock at the Wauregan hotel with attendance of 125. Archdeacon F. Morse Brown of this city and the rectors from all the churches in the archdeaconry were among those attending.

The tables were attractively decorated with small baskets of lilacs and tulips which had been provided and arranged by the ladies of the Norwich churches. Carr's orchestra of five pieces played during the dinner hour and Fred G. Prothero as song leader kept the melody flowing.

The following menu was served:

One Half Grape Fruit
Celery Olives
Vegetable Soup
Roast Lamb
Mashed Potatoes Green Peas
French Bread
Ice Cream Assorted Cakes
Demi Tasse

Enjoyable solos were rendered by James Jackson, bass, and Arthur Blackledge, tenor, of Christ church choir, and Rev. Theodore Martin of Hebron was called on for two encores after he had sung a solo at the invitation of the song leader. The accompaniments were by Frederick C. Geer.

Favor Forming Church Club

After a report had been presented by John W. McKinley for a committee that had been considering the matter of a church club, the meeting voted in favor of the committee report which approved the formation of such a club and recommended that each church and mission name a delegate for a meeting which would discuss the organization plans. The committee which made its report consisted of Archdeacon Brown, E. Allen Bidwell, Francis Gilman and Mr. McKinley.

Francis Gilman, chairman of the arrangements committee, presided acceptably as toastmaster, introducing as the first speaker Bishop Acheson who was given a rising greeting by the men.

Bishop Acheson spoke earnestly but briefly, commending the idea of the church club and the speaking of the binding tie of Christian brotherhood. He urged the men to be loyal to their ideals and declared that there is nothing in the world today that contributes so much to the happiness of the world as the Christian church. He strongly advocated that the church and the individual should have a missionary spirit, and interest declaring that the church without missionary activity was doomed to death, and he recommended that whether the church be a Richmond Radiator company or this city. In court it was claimed that the check was dated several days ahead but that it had been cashed ahead of the date on the check and that there was at that time no money in Lewis' name at the bank. The check was made good Thursday morning. It was dated January 6 last. In view of the circumstances as explained in court Judge Libby entered a nolle in the case.

JUDGE WILL CHARGE JURY NEXT WEDNESDAY MORNING

Trial of the $3,000 damage suit of Jacob Solomon against Harry M. Shalett, both of New London, was begun in the superior court in this city Thursday morning before Judge Earnest C. Simpson and a jury and was concluded, except for the judge's charge to the jury, by the time court adjourned in the afternoon. As one of the jurors comes from Colchester and did not want to stay any later than about 5 o'clock, Judge Simpson decided to put the charge over to next Wednesday morning. On Tuesday there is to be a naturalization session in court.

Solomon, in his suit, alleges that on or about April 19, 1920, the defendant, who was principal owner of the capital stock of the Shalett Cleaning and Dyeing Inc. and who was executive officer and manager, wanted to borrow from the Union Bank and Trust Co., $5,000, to be used in the conduct of his business. He alleges that in order to induce the plaintiff to endorse said note as an accommodation endorser, the defendant falsely and fraudulently stated to him that Attorneys Marion R. Davis and Arthur T. Keefe had agreed to endorse the note and also that the lawyers would be jointly liable with him. Solomon alleges that the defendant also agreed to secure the note with a mortgage which was never given, although he signed the note.

Solomon also alleges that he endorsed a number of renewals but when the note was presented for payment it was protested, and the lawyers paid the money. They, according to the allegations, they sued Solomon as he was the prior endorser and obtained a judgment against him for $6,177, which he paid. He now seeks to recover.

Solomon was the first witness to be placed on the stand.

He was followed by Attorneys C. Hadlai Hull, Arthur T. Keefe and Marion R. Davis, after which the plaintiff rested at 11:51 a. m.

For the defendant's side, Harry M. Shalett and Carlos Barry, cashier of the bank, were the witnesses. Both sides rested at 2:15 p. m., and the arguments were made by Attorney Thomas E. Treland for the plaintiff and John C. Geery for the defendant, the latter concluding about 4 o'clock.

The jury in the case is the following: James G. Ayer, Appleton, Maine; Daniel Lyden, Robert A. Peckham, William McKelvey, all of Preston; Arthur E. Foster, Colchester; Patrick F. Driscoll, Georges H. Norman, Chesterfield; J. Lee Gardiner, Albert A. Kenyon, Lebanon; Oliver C. Gardiner, Bozrah; Ernest H. DeWolf, Salem.

VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT IN AUTO DAMAGE SUIT

A defendant's verdict was brought in by the jury in the court of common pleas at New London Thursday in the $300 damage suit brought by Rito Bartolucci against Albert Corey of Center Groton. The jury was out about 15 minutes. Judge Charles B. Waller accepted the verdict.

Arguments in the case were made in the morning by Attorneys Frank S. Shea and John F. McGarry for the plaintiff and Attorney George Curtis Morgan for the defendant.

Bartolucci alleged that on Dec. 14, 1924, the defendant operated his car into the plaintiff's car in Benham road, off the Pequonnoc road, damaging it extensively.

Corey set up that the Bartolucci car, driven by Enzo Filippetti, cut into his machine on the right hand side and in so doing sideswiped it.

Eagles Play Pinochle

The first session of the Eagles weekly pinochle play resulted Thursday night in E. P. Mullins taking first prize with 7400; John Leirich 7310, and E. J. Mullins 7160.

Episcopalian settlement or any place in the state except Simsbury and this part of the state was historic ground for the church, which should well repay study.

Rev. Mr. Tinker, who spoke upon Tightening the Belt or Easier Ways of Being Good, referred at the opening of his address to his pleasure at coming back to his native state and congratulated the men of the archdeaconry for the cooperation they were showing in their gathering.

The speaker said he felt that there were but two subjects for men to discuss—progress and character. Happy Van Dyke has said that if you are keeping your best the world is getting on and the world is progressing as far as you are concerned. President Wilson, when asked to give in a sentence a recipe for success, said: "Choose a great leader and follow him blindly. If we take Jesus Christ as leader, we progress and the whole world progresses.

Rev. Mr. Tinker went on to speak of character, or virtue, declaring that it is not easy to achieve virtue, or character. It is a hard job that requires all the ability, all the brain power, all the spiritual consecration of the man every day and every hour of his life. But it is the only job that is worthy and full of joy. Our main business in life is to be good. We should tighten our belt and stand our ground. This is the great call of the hour.

This job of living lives of character is a real effort in achieving complementary virtues till the whole rounded orb of virtues is attained. The speaker went on to compare the double virtue of character and reputation, and spoke of the heritage of humility that belonged to the Episcopal church but said the belt should be tightened against snobbishness. Two other virtues which he said should be tied together were liberty and fraternity and there should be plain speech with love and affection.

He closed with a tribute to Bishop Acheson, of whom he said that the "tightened belt is as much represented in Bishop Acheson as in any man I ever know."

Long continued applause greeted the conclusion of his address, following which a vote of thanks to the ladies for furnishing the flowers was passed on motion of Allen Bidwell.

A duet, Excelsior, was rendered by Mr. Blackledge and Mr. Jackson, with Lartoard Welch as encore and the meeting adjourned after singing the doxology and the benediction by Bishop Acheson.

The arrangements for the dinner were successfully carried out by the committee, which was organized as follows:

Chairman, Francis Gilman; secretary, Herbert M. Hitchcock; treasurer, Allen Bidwell; menu, Walter E. Gilbert; tickets, Edward V. McKinley; speaker, Archdeacon F. Morse Brown; decorations, Francis Gilman; song leader, Fred G. Prothero.

A 7,000,000 FAMILY IN ONE NORWICH MAN'S CARE

Here's a man who has family cares! To look after seven would be quite enough, but seven million—

Even though they are only bees, it is some chore which John H. Sherman of 112 West Thames street has facing him this season.

Mr. Sherman estimates that each one of his hives houses seventy thousand bees—and he owns a hundred hives, some in his neighborhood in his home, others in Colchester, some in Uncasville—and these are doing very well this season—some in Bozrah, distributed about, wherever there is a possibility of getting honey and pollen.

As long as a month ago, his bees on the George Dolbeare place on West Thames street, began to stir and a number of the bees have been flying since the apple blossoms commenced to appear. Some honey was obtained from the maple buds, but continued cold weather during May has given the season a serious set-back. However, when Mr. Sherman opened two of his hives in Colchester Thursday he discovered the colonies in extra fine shape.

He has been anxious to learn just how he would find the bees, as he has been introducing new young queens from Indiana.

Not only has Mr. Sherman 100 hives of his own, but he has 40 other hives under his care in various locations favorable to honey getting. In each hive there must be left from 20 to 40 pounds of honey, to guide the hungry bees through the winter, but a hive owner can expect, when he starts to extract the sweet stuff about July 15th, from 75 to 100 or even 150 pounds to a hive, if the spring proves unduly late. The bees must be provided artificial food in the shape of sugar and water.

It is a wonderful fact that each queen displays such an instinct of prudence that, in case food is short, she will not add to the number of young bees, but will regulate the number by the food supply.

Naturally, Mr. Sherman does not think much of keeping bees in a city, but would have the hives located where blooms are abundant and suitable. A chilly, backward May like the present month is not apt to the taste of the man amiquote about an apiary.

PASTOR ICIEK ENTERTAINS VETERANS AT SMOKER

Over one hundred veterans of the world war were guests, Thursday evening of Rev. H. A. Iciek, pastor of St. Joseph's church, at a smoker and entertainment held in the church club rooms. While the boys were gathering at the club rooms there were selections on the orthophonic Victrola, loaned through the courtesy of the Hanover-Curland company. About 8 o'clock the programme opened with the singing of America, followed by the singing of old war time popular songs, Nicholas J. Spellman presiding at the piano. Rev. Father Iciek made a brief address of welcome, after which there were vocal solos by Walter Fontaine, stories and Scotch songs by Fred Powers, stories, jokes and songs by Edward T. Connelly and vocal selections by J. Warren Kane.

Just before the boys adjourned to the dining hall for refreshments of sandwiches, cheese, doughnuts and coffee served by members of the Ladies' auxiliary of Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, Rev. Father Iciek made a short address to them. He urged all present to honor the memory of the Civil war and World war veterans by turning out strong in the Memorial day parade Monday morning. Rev. Father Iciek, who is chaplain of Fletcher post, said it was the duty of every veteran of the world war to participate in the Memorial day programme. He made an earnest plea in behalf of the American Legion for new members stating that the legion here should be 500 or 600 strong. The legion should be a live wire organization, he said. All you boys here are live wires and it is your duty to get those who do not belong to the legion to sign up. Father Iciek entertained the boys with several humorous stories of his experiences in the World war. He closed by offering the use of the splendid club rooms to the legion whenever they wanted them and expressed the hope that Thursday evening's smoker would be the forerunner of other events of the kind.

The veterans then adjourned to the dining room where the ladies' auxiliary of the legion served luncheon. After the luncheon there were six exhibition boxing bouts, Mich. Carroll acting as referee and Edward T. Connelly as timer. The first bout was staged by Kid Kapteyns and Fred Vad Hook. This was a three two minute round go, and Referee Carroll declared it a draw. Then followed two eleven year old coming champions of the state, Harry Wills and Young Fiske, who brought down the house in their three one minute round exhibition. This was as fast and exciting exhibition as any on the evening's card. Young Dompski and Bob Shaw followed in a fast exhibition going three rounds of two minutes duration. Jack Butova and Pete Bergeron were seen in a three round go after which Shiek Leonard brought the show to a close by appearing in two bouts, one with Mush Moriarty, and the other with Young McCarthy. Both of these were three round, two minute goes.

William L. Anderson was in charge of the programme for the evening. The members of the ladies auxiliary who prepared and served the luncheon were Mrs. William F. Boeue, Miss Evon M. Broadhurst, Mrs. George Fraser, Mrs. Ruth Raymond, Mrs. John Allen, Mrs. Lila Oat, Mrs. Ruth Geetson, Mrs. Louise Liepold, Mrs. F. L. Kimball, Mrs. Alvin Fairbanks and Mrs. F. House.

ARTHUR L. PEALE ON STATE FORESTRY COMMISSION

HARTFORD, May 27.—(AP)—Arthur L. Peale, of Norwich, treasurer of the New London County Mutual Fire Insurance company and an active worker in forestry and recreational work, was appointed to the state park and forest commission by Governor Trumbull today to succeed Fayette L. Wright, formerly of Pomfret, who has resigned. The latter has become a resident of Florida.

Mr. Peale is a native of Norwich and a graduate of the public schools there and the Norwich Free Academy. He has held several political posts in the city including a term as Alderman. He was formerly president of the New London County Boy Scout council and is a director of the city playground. He has been instrumental in securing several valuable tracts of land for the state for park purposes.

He has been with the New London County Mutual since 1914. He is a trustee of the Dime Savings bank of Norwich, treasurer of the Norwich Red Cross, a member of the local Historical society and is an authority on life and habits of the American Indians.

Lieut. J. F. Callahan, Lieut. Johnathan L. Johnson of Battery B, 192nd. Artillery, Lieut. Richard Peale of Battery B, 192nd. Artillery and Lieut. Charles Bentley. The aides have been instructed to report at Buckingham Memorial at 9:30 o'clock Monday morning.

Statement On Cooky Sales

With regard to the sale of cookies this week by Olsiza and Pequot councils of the Camp Fire Girls, Misses Dorothy Holden and Beatrice Freeman, the two guardians, issued the following statement Thursday. The girls of the two councils are holding Cooky Week in Norwich this week and are selling cookies at the Central building as a means of raising money to go camping this summer at Groton Long Point. Our intention was to sell homemade cookies but we couldn't get enough of them. The mothers of the girls were to make the cookies for the sale. We filled orders with the homemade cookies and decided to sell Loftus's cookies in the store. The money we are trying to raise is to be used to enable the girls to enjoy their annual summer camp.

HORSES POISONED AS PART OF BETTING COUP PLOT

AURORA, Ills., May 27.—(AP)—Two of the four men arrested in connection with the poisoning of four horses at Exposition park today, resulting in the cancellation of the feature race and the death of one of the thoroughbreds, late tonight were said by police to have confessed they fed poison to the horses as part of a betting coup plot.

The Record for cooking a hot breakfast —3 to 5 minutes

"HOT oats and milk" is the dietetic urge of the day.

It's the "balanced ration" of protein, carbohydrates and vitamines—plus the "bulk" to make laxatives less often needed — that world's authorities are advising.

Now you cook it in 3 to 5 minutes. That's faster than plain toast. No kitchen muss or bother.

Why go on, then, with less nourishing breakfasts? Today get Quick Quaker . . . food that stands by you through the morning.

ACADEMY STAGES NINTH INNING RALLY TO BEAT OUT WINDHAM, 7 TO 6

Staging a belated rally in the ninth inning which netted them five runs the academy baseball team nosed under the wire a 7 to 6 winner over Windham high at Recreation park, Willimantic on Thursday afternoon. Trailing the Windham team for eight innings the Academy in their final stand at bat loosed a vicious attack on Haggerty who had pitched brilliant ball, and aided by two costly errors the Academy pushed five runs across the plate for the victory.

The Academy team that faced Windham was not the same team that blanked Bulkeley on Saturday and six errors which figured in the scoring of Windham's runs made the wearers of the Red and White look pretty bad. It was the bat of Ray Yerrington that pulled the game from the fire and turned what had been a forlorn hope into a victory. Eddie Brewer drove the winning run across the plate. Not alone was it the hitting of the Academy team that won yesterday's game but a large factor was the brilliant pitching of Lloyd Jarvis who fanned 13 men and allowed but 8 scattered hits. But one earned run was secured off Jarvis in the game, this coming in the third inning.

The Academy opened the game by threatening to score but bad base running spoiled their chances of crossing the plate in this frame.

Windham in their half of the first inning swung into the lead which they held through eight innings only to lose it and the game in the ninth. Jarvis walked the first man to face him and E. Nichols singled to left field. With a man on first and second Meikle popped out to Goldblatt. Gadarowski hit to Tombari at short and Tombari let the ball bounce off his glove and roll to left field while J. Nichols crossed the plate with Windham's first run. Dillon fanned and with two down Sawicki drove a sharp single to left field but Sadinsky played the ball poorly and let it get away from him and roll to deep left. E. Nichols and Gadarowski scored on the error and Sawicki pulled up at third. On the next play Sawicki scored when Burke missed a throw on Rychling's roller. Connor fanned ending the inning.

The second inning was uneventful for both teams either getting a man on. In the first of the third the Academy tallied their first run when after Greene was fanned. Cimikoski was hit by a pitched ball. Cimikoski stole second and Sadinsky was out when he was hit by a batted ball. Umpire Sullivan ruled Sadinsky out although the batter was on foul territory when hit. Cimikoski scored when Meikle let Jarvis' roller go between his legs to center field, Burke fanned.

Windham got the run back in their half of the inning. Meikle singled over second and stole on the first pitched ball. While Gadarowski was being thrown out at first by Tombari, Meikle went to third. Dillon and Meikle worked a perfect squeeze play, Meikle scoring before Jarvis could make a play on the perfect bunt in front of the plate. Dillon was thrown out. Sawicki was hit but Rychling was an easy infield out. Windham scored their last run in the fourth inning. Connor hit to deep short, Tombari making a nice stop of the ball but he attempted to throw to Burke but heaved the ball wild and Connor went to second. On the next play Haggerty tapped to Jarvis and Burke missed the peg and Connor scored. J. Nichols sacrificed and Haggerty went to second. E. Nichols singled but Haggerty was held at third. Nichols stole. Meikle attempted the squeeze but filed to Jarvis and Nichols was doubled off second, ending the inning.

The Academy threatened in the fifth and sixth innings but brilliant pitching and fielding cut down any chance of a score. Johnny Greene opened the seventh inning with a mighty crash to left field and had circled the bases before the ball was returned to the infield.

Entering the ninth inning with the score 6 to 2 against them the Academy began to get the breaks. Greene the first man up drew a walk, and promptly stole second. Cimikoski singled but Greene was held at third. Cimikoski stole second but Mish who had batted for Sadinsky popped out to Haggerty. Jarvis drove out a long fly to Rychling and Greene scored on the catch. With two down it looked like a sure defeat for the Academy. Burke came through with a single to left field scoring Cimikoski. Tombari hit to Sawicki who heaved wild and Burke went to third and Tombari to second. Then Ray Yerrington, hero of the Bulkeley game came through with a sizzling hit to left field that sent both Burke and Tombari scurrying across the plate, tying the game at six all. Brewer smashed one of Haggerty's shoots to left field and Rychling let the ball drift through his legs and Yerrington scored from first and Brewer went clear to third. Yerrington's run proved to be the winning run for Johnny Mela who replaced Haggerty at this point in the game tossed out Goldblatt at first leaving Brewer stranded on third.

Windham made a stand in the ninth but could do little. Jarvis fanned the first man to face him. E. Nichols was thrown out. Cimikoski making a pretty stop of the hard grounder. Meikle rapped out his third hit of the game but Gadarowski flied out to Mish in right ending the game. The score:

YANKS PLAY TIE GAME WITH SPRINGFIELD E. L. CLUB

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 27.—(AP)—New York of the American League and Springfield of the Eastern League played to a 10 to 10 tie in an exhibition game here today before the largest crowd that ever saw a ball game in this city. Babe Ruth, center of attraction, did not make any homers to the disappointment of the crowd, but Gehrig and Lazzeri hit the ball over the left field fence. Score by innings:

Taylor Re-Appointed at Yale

NEW HAVEN, May 27.—(AP)—George Taylor, of Waterbury, coach of the Yale basketball team, has been re-appointed for a three-year period. It was announced here tonight by the Yale Athletic association. He will also act as coach of the class football teams and coach of the junior varsity baseball.

WAGNER GETS DECISION OVER PHIL M'GRAW

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—Eddie (Kid) Wagner, Philadelphia lightweight, tonight rallied sensationally in the final round of a ten-round fight at Madison Square Garden to win a Judges' decision over Phil McGraw of Detroit.

The result was an unexpected jolt to the championship aspirations of McGraw, rated a strong mid-west contender. The Detroit man carried the fight to his foe in every round of the contest, but was beaten to the punch repeatedly, the Quaker veteran's right handers turning his foe around and frequently driving him to the ropes.

Wagner, off to a fast start, outpunched his rugged rival in the early rounds. McGraw spurted and carried the eighth and ninth by terrific infighting, but could not ward off the Philadelphia boy's hurricane finish in the tenth.

McGraw weighed 134, a half pound more than his opponent.

George Courtney, sensational young Oklahoma middleweight, tonight decisively out-pointed Frank Moody of Wales in the 10-round semi-final.

Courtney who leaped from the saddle of a bronco to invade the roped square a few years ago, floored his foe in the second and ninth rounds, while he punished him severely in the others sessions to win the judges' decision finally.

The western boxer split the lower lip of his foe in the first round and made him the target for a lightning jab and a jolting right cross in every round. The weights were: Courtney 161¾, Moody 164.

Arnold Rykin, floored four times in an opening ten-rounder between New York featherweights, managed to go the limit with Lew Hurley, the latter receiving the judges' verdict.

Nick Quagerlli, New York featherweight, knocked out Ray Taylor of New Orleans in the second round of a six-round match, while Bert Lawes of England outpointed Mickey Gill of California, in a whirlwind four-round fist fest preliminary.

AGGIE BALL TEAM OFF ON THREE GAME TRIP

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., May 27.—The Connecticut Aggie baseball team left here today for a three game trip to Maine and New Hampshire, where the nines of Colby college, University of Maine, and the University of New Hampshire will be played.

Coach Dole's men will play the first game tomorrow at Waterville, Maine, against Colby. On Saturday, the University of Maine will be played at Crono. Then following a layoff on Sunday, the Aggies will meet the strong University of New Hampshire team at Durham, N. H.

Makofski will probably pitch against Colby tomorrow, and also against New Hampshire next Monday. Eddy will be held in reserve in those games and he will probably draw the mound assignment for Saturday in the Maine game.

Connecticut's probable lineup in the three games will be Ahern, 3b; Makofski, p or cf; Schofield, ss; Eddy, cf or p; Ajello or Watson, rf. Others making the trip include Kennedy, outfielder; Johnson, catcher; and Spears, pitcher. Captain Seymour, who has been unable to play because of illness last winter, is also with the team.

NEW BASIS FOR AWARDING LETTERS AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, May 27.—(AP)—Yale Athletic association tonight announced a new basis for the award of the major Y for trackmen, whereby a man winning a full point against either of big three rivals, Harvard or Princeton, will receive a major Y.

In the past it has been necessary for a track man to win a first against Princeton or either a first, second or third against Harvard. The award of the major Y for crew requires that a man compete against Harvard in football and baseball, the major Y is awarded to men getting into either the Princeton or the Harvard games.

It was officially announced that hockey was a major sport, win or lose, instead of one in which only championship teams were awarded major insignia, and the letter will be awarded to men competing against either of the big three.

Men winning intercollegiate championships in any sport will be awarded the minor Y, while men winning for two years in succession will be awarded the major Y.

FOUR MEN HELD FOR POISONING RACE HORSES

AURORA, Ill., May 27.—(AP)—Four men were held by police tonight pending an investigation of an alleged race horse gambling coup which is believed responsible for the death of one horse and serious illness of three others at the local track this afternoon.

Apology, five year old black mare owned by E. E. Sterrett of Kentucky, died, race officials claim, from poison administered by feeding lump sugar. Three other animals, Elizabeth K., owned by J. Keller, Maryland, and Gheen Woods, owned by the Sanola Stock Farm, Chicago, were also poisoned. The Sanola Stock Farm is reported to be owned by Eddy Druggan and Frankie Lake, prominent Chicago beer runners.

WHITE SOX WIN FROM TIGERS IN TWELFTH

CHICAGO, May 27.—(AP)—Red Wingo's fumble and two Sox hits in the twelfth inning gave Chicago the first game of the series with Detroit today, 5 to 4. Ted Lyons let the Tigers down with seven hits but his wildness and an error by Barrett enabled Detroit to tie the score in the ninth.

Holloway was hit freely by the Sox in three innings and finally retired for Wells. Score:

ATHLETICS BEAT OUT SENATORS IN NINTH

WASHINGTON, May 27.—(AP)—Relief pitcher Pate's double in the ninth with one on base and two out, coupled with a bad relay from the outfield to the plate, enabled Philadelphia to defeat Washington today, 3 to 2. The Athletics got to Walter Johnson in the late innings for enough singles to wipe out his lead while the Senators were unable to cash in on their superior hitting. Score:

TILDEN BEATS HYDE AND WILEY AT MIDDLETOWN

MIDDLETOWN, May 27.—(AP)—Despite the rain, William Tilden, 2nd, tennis star, played a series of exhibition matches on the Wesleyan university tennis courts here today. In the singles he defeated Hyde, of Hartford, 6-4, 6-0. He then played Hyde and Wiley, former captain of Yale tennis team, who together with Hyde holds the New England doubles championship, single handed, defeating them 6-2.

Tilden paired with Snieder, of Hartford, defeated Hyde and Wiley 6-2, 6-4. A large crowd watched the games.

On Saturday a group tennis match with thirty Wesleyan and an equal number of Amherst students competing will been held on the Wesleyan courts.

REDS TAKE BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE BILL FROM CARDS

CINCINNATI, May 27.—(AP)—Cincinnati showed a complete reversal of form today and won two games from the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 to 3, and 2 to 1.

Both games were marked by tight pitching with Pete Donahue getting the verdict over Sherdel and Carl Mays beating Johnson and Sothoron. In the first game the Cardinals had the tying run on third base with one out in the ninth but Donahue fanned two succeeding batters and caused the third to fly out.

Mays pitched himself out of several tight places in the second game while the Reds held their slender lead.

PHILLIES DIVIDE DOUBLE PROGRAM WITH DODGERS

PHILADELPHIA, May 27.—(AP)—Philadelphia divided a doubleheader with Brooklyn today, the Phillies winning the first game, 3 to 1, and the Robins taking the second, 5 to 1. Fournier's pinch single drove in Brooklyn's only run of the first game and the victory represented Mitchell's third of the season over the Robins.

McWeeny allowed but five hits in the second game, three of which the Phils bunched for their lone run in the second inning. McWeeny fanned seven. Score:

PIRATES LOSE FIRST GAME OF SERIES WITH CHICAGO

PITTSBURGH, May 27.—(AP)—Pittsburgh dropped the first game of the series to Chicago today, 5 to 1 after raising the world series pennant with appropriate ceremonies in which Commissioner Landis and President Heydler of the National league participated.

Tony Kaufmann held the Pirates in check and hammered in three of the Cubs' five runs.

Oldham and Sheean were both knocked from the mound. Songer finished the game and held the visitors scoreless.

MCCARTY, DETROIT BUSINESS MANAGER, DIES AT NEW YORK

NEW YORK, May 27.—(AP)—L. E. McCarty, business manager of the Detroit American league baseball club, died here today following illness contracted during the last New York-Detroit series in this city three weeks ago.

McCarty arrived in New York on May 6, his 51st birthday, one day ahead of the Detroit club. He was stricken with a heart attack and had since been confined to his bed. He appeared to be gaining but yesterday pneumonia developed and he died in his hotel room this afternoon.

He was a native of Port Huron, but had been business manager of the Detroit club for the last 16 years. The body will be shipped to Port Huron tonight and the funeral will be held there Monday.

GRAMMAR SCHOOL LEAGUE.

Broadway vs. Elizabeth St. Today.

One of the snappiest games of the grammar school baseball league series is expected for this afternoon, when the Broadwayites take on the Elizabeth Streeters, with the hope of restoring themselves to the leading position in the league standing. The Elizabeth street team has been playing good ball and have convinced the fans that they are earnest contenders for The Bulletin trophy cup. Nevertheless, both Broadway and Elizabeth Street realize that they are facing a real tussle in this afternoon's game, and fans interested in schoolboy sports should make a real effort to attend this contest. No admission is charged and the game will begin promptly at 4:30 at the Duwell field.

BOBBY JONES PLAYS BRILLIANT GOLF AND ENTERS SEMI-FINALS

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 27.—(AP)—Bobby Jones of Atlanta, Ga., American amateur golf champion, came into his own in British competitive play today and now looms as favorite among the eight remaining in the title tournament, in his second match today he overwhelmed Robert Harris, this country's amateur king, with as fine a display of golfing prowess as has been seen in the classic's half century of history.

Besides Jones in the last eight survivors stands Jess Sweetser of New York, former American intercollegiate and amateur champion, who today scored two victories over British opponents. They are the last of the American host that started play Monday, four of their compatriots having been eliminated today.

Jones' youthful friend and fellow Georgian, Watts Gunn, cracked under the cruel strain of tournament play this afternoon and fell before the Honorable W. G. Brownlow, son of an Irish nobleman, 3 and 2. This defeat came after the young American had decisively beaten the Scotchman, Seymour Noon, 5 and 3.

The other Americans went out in the opening round of the day, Jesse Guilford of Boston bowing to Ormo Bristowe at the 18th green, Grant Peacock of Garden City, N. Y., losing to Brownlow, 2 up and Harry Breyer, former Princeton university student, suffering defeat at the hands of Lieutenant Commander H. C. McMaster by the same score.

TO INVESTIGATE CASE OF MISSING EVANGELIST

LOS ANGELES, Cal., May 27.—(AP)—District Attorney Keyes announced today that if the body of Aimee Semple McPherson, missing evangelist, who disappeared at Ocean Park beach last Tuesday, did not come ashore by tomorrow he would start a vigorous investigation of the case. Kenneth O. Ormiston, formerly radio operator and Mrs. McPherson's Temple and one of her close friends, would be sought for questioning as one of the first moves, Keyes said.

Ormiston superintended installation of the Angelus Temple radio station in 1923 and operated it until a few months ago. On January 23, he disappeared and later appeared in Seattle as an automobile salesman.

Friends of Ormiston report him as having returned to Los Angeles as late as two weeks ago, but lately all trace of him has been lost.

Keyes stated that he had been impelled to enter the case by scores of letters received at his office, urging a thorough investigation of Mrs. McPherson's disappearance.

The district attorney declared he could not overlook the fact that Ormiston had been a close friend of the lost preacher. He said that he felt their close association might prove a valuable lead in tracing the woman.

Mrs. Ormiston and her children recently returned to their former home in Australia.

AGRICULTURAL PROBLEM A HUMAN PROBLEM.

(Written Special for The Bulletin)

If you have noted them carefully, you'll have observed that practically all discussions of the omni-present "farm problem" revolve around the subject of money income.

If there is one thing which seems to be settled about as surely as anything in the way of "fax and figgers" can be, it is that farmers didn't get as good pay for their work or as much pay for their time or as high pay for their output as other workmen.

The latest statistics I've seen bearing on this subject indicate that the farmers gets, on an average, about 39 cents where persons engaged in other lines of work or business get a dollar. This comes fairly close to The Rural New Yorker's famous thesis that the farmer's dollar was a 35-cent dollar. And it is in close corroboration of scores of other deductions from different sources.

I think it may be accepted as proved with reasonably certainty that farming is more poorly paid, in money income, than any other major industry in which men engage.

The National Industrial Conference board reports that the farmer's operating costs, covering all material and products or other industries necessarily brough by him, labor, etc., rose 300 per cent between 1900 and 1920, while taxes increased in the same period almost 600 per cent. Yet, during those 20 years, the wholesale prices of farm products increased only 120 per cent.

From all of which it would seem to follow naturally that the man whose chief ambition is the acquisition of money and a big money income shows extremely poor judgment in going in for, or in sticking to farming.

So far as my experience goes, a big majority of actual working farmers, who have had neither time nor opportunity to work the problem out in percentages, but who have felt its nippings and prickings in their own persons over a series of years, would heartily indorse that conclusion.

What then?

Shall we all give up farming and make a wild dash for the city, the town, the factory village, for the store, the ship, the office, for the policeman's uniform, the conductor's cap or the chauffeur's livery? Each and all of them promise more money, a bigger income, than farming. If income and money are what we're after, first, last, and all the time, why not?

Business men are rather fond of saying, with cynical emphasis, that they're not in business for their health nor for the enrichment of other people. They're looking out for Number One. They surely could not find fault if farmers should do likewise.

But,—

Is money-income the sole or even the chief end of the farmer's life? Is that all or even the bigger half of what the farm gives him?

Or,—

Does it reward him in other ways, with payments admittedly non-receivable at the bank cashier's window, but weighing heavier in the scales of ultimate value?

We're so accustomed to measuring things in dollars and cents that we're in danger of coming to think that dollars and cents are real standards, instead of merely conventional counters. That leads to false estimates of real values. And he who builds a scheme of life upon false estimates is no more sensible than he who should try to rear a pyramid upon its tottlish apex rather than upon its broad base.

May I ask you, this morning,—or this evening if, like me, you like to read your paper in leisure after the hurry of the day is over,—may I ask you to consider one or two features of farm life which are not dwelt upon so often as they might be?

The non-farmer in practically every case is working for somebody else's money. Whether he's engaged in trade or in transportation or in manufacturing he's expecting to get his pay out of the other fellow. He gets it either in the pay envelope which that other fellow fills, or in the prices secured for the supplies he makes or handles for that other fellow. And his "profit" depends, every time, on his getting a little more of that other fellow's money than what he gives is actually worth. Stripped to its bones, that is all that "profit" is. It is the excess which one takes in over that which one gives out. If every one, in every trade, always gave as much as he received, there would be no more "profit" in the exchange than in taking a dollar from one pocket and putting it into another. In neither case is any addition whatever made to the wealth of the world or the resources of the race. When A buys something for a dollar and sells it to B for a dollar and ten cents, A is ten cents richer, of course. But B is just as surely ten cents poorer. Nothing has been added to the original two dollars. They are no bigger and worth no more than before. Only they are distributed less equally and evenly. Whereas, at the start-off, A and B had a dollar each, now A has a dollar ten and B has 90 cents. That's all.

But when the farmer puts his work and his time into raising wheat or potatoes or cabbages, he is actually producing something of value which didn't before exist. He has put something of himself into his acre and, between the two, has added to the world's wealth half a dozen barrels of flour or 100 bushels of potatoes or a few tons of cabbages, things which didn't exist till he produced them.

Now, I'll leave it to any open-minded man if selling even a half dollar by actual production or real values isn't a bigger and worthier job that sweating one's neighbor out of a dollar in a trade or beating him out of two dollars in a bargain!

Finance, business, trade,—all are devoted, not to the making of new products, but to the swapping of them around. Farming, on the other hand, has for its main purpose the addition of previously non-existent wealth to the world's store. Where they simply seek a redistribution of existing wealth, farming aims to add to that existing wealth. Where they exploit their fellow-men for their own profit, farming transmutes soil and water into bread for the hungry. They seek gain from their neighbors; farming steers the otherwise erratic and wasteful processes of nature into useful and wealth-creating productiveness.

You may recall how Dean Swift quoted a very wise man as of the opinion "that whoever could make two ears of corn or two blades of grass grow where only one grew before, would deserve better of mankind and do more essential service to the country, than the whole race of politicians put together."

The good farmer makes a thousand times 10,000 ears of corn grow where none would have grown before. And doesn't he, then, deserve better of mankind and do more essential service to his country than the men who merely throw from hand to hand the bags of grain he produces, adding nothing whatever to their contents or value, but, instead, taking out a handful for toll with every toss?

If all this seems too fine-spun and even transcendental for some to appreciate, consider the other payments which the farm makes in kind if not in money. I have frequently said, and I know it to be true, that the average New England farm, if managed with foresight and worked with industry, will come very near to providing for all the needs of the farm family.

I have, myself, carried a family of four adults through a farm year, with a total money outgo of less than $150. We had to buy sugar and tea and coffee and spices and some other things. But the farm gave us all the flour and meal and cereals we wanted from farm-grown grains. With a little judicious exchanging among near neighbors, it gave us beef and veal and pork and poultry and lamb. Its private fish-pond supplied a mess of trout whenever wanted. It gave us all the milk and cream and butter and eggs we could ask for. It gave us constant supplies of such vegetables as parsnips and rhubarb and asparagus and lettuce and spinach and beets and onions and cabbages and tomatoes and peppers and beans and peas and corn and potatoes and celery and squashes, etc., fresh in their order from April to November and canned or binned from November to April. We didn't buy grapefruit or oranges or bananas or kumquats or hothouse grapes. But we had plenty of home grown strawberries and raspberries and blackberries and blueberries, fresh from the vines during their seasons, and sweet from home-canned jars when out of season. To say nothing of apples and pears and grapes and plums. We didn't buy ice-cream made from the-Lord-knows-what ingredients. But we had it just the same, all we wanted, made from our own real cream flavored with our own fruit juices, frozen with ice from our own ice-house. All it cost us in money was perhaps ten cents a gallon for the sugar and a cent or so for the salt. We had as ample nourishment, in greater variety and of higher quality, than we could have bought in the markets for ten times what it cost us.

Now, what was my real income that year of test and experiment? Was it just the money I took in? Or was it also the food and supplies the farm generously poured forth, without money and without price? Is the farm had brought in only the $150 cash, and the supplies which would have cost me $1,650 had I been forced to buy them in city markets, wasn't my real income mighty close to $1,800?

And all the time I had a home,—which is worth more than everything else on earth combined! a home in which I was there free and independent than the president, and a farm around it on which like Bothick, I was "monarch of all I surveyed." There were no traffic regulations to be obeyed under peril of life; no signs bidding me keep off the grass; no neighbors to complain if I played a saxophone or blew a fish-horn; no one with authority to bid me do this or that, or go or come at his calling.

"The agricultural problem is essentially an economic problem," says the National Industrial Conference board. I beg to dissent. It is essentially a human problem. It is one of the life rather than of the meat; of the heart rather than the pocket.

It is a problem to be met and overcome by fully developed and evenly rounded men and women,—not by adding machines.

Basketball, unknown in Italy before the war, bids fair to become the national game of the country, says Samuel Ybarguren, physical director of the Turin Y. M. C. A., on leave in this country. A national basketball federation of 50 clubs, corresponding to the A. A. U., has been formed. Last year 2,000 members received cards entitling them to participate in the national championship games.

On New Year's eve, 1921, George Levy, of Chester, Penn., was robbed by a pickpocket in Philadelphia. The thief stole, among other things, a bunch of keys. A short time ago Levy received a brass name plate, which had been attached to the keys, from a Hamburg junk dealer, who explained that the brass check had been received in Germany in a cargo of junk from the United States. The junk dealer asked if there was any reward. There was not.

A reminder of the first attempts at "modern" conveniences" in Lincoln, Neb., was found when a hollow-log gas pipe laid in 1873 was unearthed recently in excavations for a new building. The pipe was made of an eight-inch log. The walls were two inches thick and had been soaked in pitch. According to gas company officials, all of the gas mains were made of wood. The pipe unearthed was still in use and in sound condition. It was replaced with iron pipe and has been put in a local museum.

The Turkish national dance, the Zebek, has been reformed to include women participants. This wildly vivacious peasant dance has been performed for centuries by men only, the forms differing in different parts of the country. The creation of one form from the many dance variations and the introduction of women dancers have been effected by Selim Sirri Bey. He has studied folk dancing throughout Europe. His two daughters are accompanying him on his tour of lectures throughout Turkey and are demonstrating the newly reformed Zebek. They are the first Turkish girls to take up dancing professionally.

SAYS WEATHER IS CONTROLLED BY LAWS

BOSTON, May 27.—(AP)—Weather is cast for the immediate future. Long range forecasts are not attempted.

Weather is controlled by laws and some day people will discover these laws and the "why" of the weather, C. A. Loveland, chief of the Boston weather bureau, thus expressed his opinion today after making known the fact that New England has suffered, since last fall, two of the coldest months on record. This record as a whole, he said, has had an abnormally cold spring and added that as yet, scientists do not know enough about weather to explain why.

"We haven't been studying meteorology long enough to get the laws," he said. "Astronomy was studied for hundreds of years before the laws were discovered. We now have a whole lot of very fine scientists studying meteorology and discoveries will be made."

The weather bureau, he explained, has so far been able to concern itself only with immediate causes and forecasts.

Last October, he said, was very cold. In fact it was the coldest October recorded in the 49 years since the Boston bureau has been making observations of mean temperatures for the whole of New England. March and April of this year also were abnormally cold, taking New England as a whole. Readings were particularly low in the northern states, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont. Last month brought the lowest mean temperatures recorded for April in 40 years. In only two years has the month of March averaged colder, those years being 1916 and 1923, but the winter months, November, December, January and February, averaged nearly normal.

In northern New England temperatures averaged seven degrees below normal November, December and January found average temperatures only slightly above normal. February was slightly below.

March and April brought very low temperatures, particularly in northern New England where the average was six degrees below normal. Southern New England averaged about three degree below normal. This resulted in a delayed spring while figures for May have not yet been compiled and analyzed, it has been indicated that the month may have been a little below normal.

MYSTIC

The spring conference of New London county W. C. T. U. was held in Grand Army hall, Wednesday. Mrs. Walter M. Slocum of New London county president presided. The meeting was opened at 10:30 with singing O Let Me Walk With Thee, scripture reading, prayer and singing of another hymn. The W. C. T. U. creed was read by Mrs. Cutler. Mrs. Slocum then presented Dr. James H. Weeks of Stonington who explained the work needed to be done to get the women registered as voters. He is registrar of Stonington and at present only 340 more men than women are registered, and the vets have secured a large percentage of the women voters. He said that the W. C. T. U. should endevor to have all woman registered and get them to vote. He has lived in Stonington for 37 years and has been engaged in politics and emphasized the importance of having the right men hold office and represent the town in Hartford and at the national capitol.

Mrs. George Kramer spoke for scientific temperance instruction in the schools and of her efforts to get posters made at Chapman Technical school. They were "The Devil's Charlotte" by Margaret Holmes, "The Sacrifice to Alcohol" by M. Flowerfelt, "Think, Does it Pay," by R. I. Carter, "Such is the Result of Smoking Cigarettes" by Olive Church, "Help Uncle Sam Conquer Liquor" by Evelyn G. Stewart which took first prize. She had 12 Total Abstinence essays. Prizes had been given by the New London union and a collection was taken and enough given so that the one who submitted the best poster and essay will receive a $2.50 gold piece. The meeting adjourned for lunch. At 1:30 p. m. the service opened with singing of America. It was voted not to appoint any delegate to the national convention which meets in Los Angeles, California on account of the distance and expense. A nominating committee was appointed, Miss Nellie Starr, chairman, Mrs. Lucy Fields and Mrs. Carrie Fraser. Reports were given by Miss Starr on Literature; Flowers, Mrs. Getchell; Child Welfare, Mrs. Fraser; publicity, Mrs. Phillips; Union Signal subscriptions, Mrs. Dunbar. Miss Edith Lathrop of Stonington sang two groups of songs very pretty with Mrs. Elwood Lathrop as accompanist. The latter was pianist for the day. Mrs. Chrisholm of Saybrook, state organizer spoke in a bright witty manner, in regard to her work.

Francis Burtch of Stonington when introduced, answered questions and gave real facts about the druggists' business and read from statistics that were gathered that show the situation today. His talk was greatly appreciated. Rev. F. G. Chutter, Rev. Walter Davenport and Rev. Francis Mitchell made short address. The last one invited to speak was Mr. Reynolds who is 90 and has been deeply interested in temperance work all his life. About 30 were in attendance and all were pleased with the program of the day.

At the Wednesday evning meeting at the Union Baptist church, Mrs. Julia B. Coates read the annual letter, to be sent to the clerk of Stonington Union association, to be held at the Baptist church, Sterling Hill, in June. The statistics give the present membership as 451. During the year death has taken ten members. Miss Susan L. Fish being 91 who was baptized at the age of 8; others were Miss Emily F. Denison, Benjamin C. Brown, Miss Hannah Miner, Dr. John K. Bucklyn, Mrs. Nettie Johnson, Mrs. Caroline W. Latham, Mrs. Mary J. Irons, Eldred K. Earnshaw, Mrs. Ida W. Brown. The following were appointed delegates: Mrs. E. F. Wilcox, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Thorp, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hall, Miss Emeline Fish. A vote of thanks was given Mr. and Mrs. William Freeman, who have been here during the construction of the post office; the former has taught the Men's Bible class and attended the church. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman left Thursday afternoon for their home in St. Louis, Mo.

Joseph Stott of Worcester, Mass., is visiting his brother William Stott.

Friends have received cards from Miss Nellie Beebe and Mrs. R. H. Wilcox who are attending the Baptist convention in Washington, D. C.

Apple Blossoms

Have you seen an apple orchard in the spring? In the spring?
An English apple orchard in the spring?
When the spreading trees are heavy
With their wealth of promised glory,
And the merles pipe the story
In the Spring!

Have you plucked the apple blossoms in the spring? in the spring?
And caught their subtle odors in the spring?
Pink buds starting at the light,
Dropping petals out of sight,
Just to touch them is delight
In the Spring!

Have you walked beneath the blossoms in the spring? in the spring?
Beneath the apple blossoms in the spring?
When the pink cascades were falling,
And the silver brooklets brawling,
And the cuckoo bird is calling
In the Spring!

Have you loved in merry bridal in the spring? in the spring?
In an English apple country in the spring?
Where the brides and maidens wear
Apple blossoms in their hair,
Apple blossoms everywhere,
In the Spring!

If you have not, then you know not, in the spring, in the spring,
Half the color, beauty, wonder of the spring
No sight can I remember,
Half so precious, half so tender,
As the apple blossoms render
In the Spring!

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck Has a Wish Gratified It is a fact that wishes do— Though rarely, I confess—come true. —Johnny Chuck.

When Johnny Chuck got back to his new home in the Old Pasture he was pretty well tired out. Yes, sir, he was pretty well tired out. He found that Old Jed Thumper, the old, gray Rabbit who had lived all his life in the Old Pasture, hadn't exaggerated any when he had said that he knew every bit of the Old Pasture. Johnny had followed him about from one hiding place to another until it seemed to him that his legs would drop off. He was glad when at length he got back home.

"OH," squealed Johnny Chuck, and turned somersault in his hurry to get into his house

For two or three days thereafter Le was quite satisfied to go only far enough from his own doorsteps to get enough to eat. The rest of the time he spent sleeping or sitting up on his doorstep or taking a sun bath.

Now, while he was doing this Johnny did a lot of dreaming and wishing. He had day dreams as well as night dreams. People who have little to do usually do a lot of dreaming. Now that he had seen the Old Pasture and some of the people who lived there, including Buzztail the Rattlesnake, Johnny began to wish that he might see certain others who had never come down on the Green Meadows when he lived there. "I wish," said Johnny, "that while I am up here in the Old Pasture I might see Buster Bear—how big he is and all that—that I should like to see him. I don't believe he's as big as they say he is. He must be bigger than Old Man Coyote, because the latter always speaks of him with respect; but I don't suppose he is very much bigger. Yes, sir, I wish I could see him."

That very afternoon, as Johnny sat on his doorstep, yawning and trying to make up his mind whether or not to go down inside for a nap, he heard the bushes rustling up above him and a little off to one side. Johnny pricked up his two little black ears and listened. His heart began to beat a little faster. Who could be coming down that path? The bushes rustled a little more and a little louder. Whoever it was must be big! Johnny didn't know whether to dodge back into his house or to sit right where he was. He decided he could afford to sit right where he was. Between where he sat and that path down which some one was coming the bushes were quite high. Johnny tried to peep under them. Presently he made out some black things moving. There were four of them. Johnny caught his breath. He knew they were feet, but he didn't believe there were any feet as big as those in all the Great World. His eyes popped out of his head. That is, they looked as if they were popping out. He held his breath. Suddenly two of those feet disappeared, and then a great black paw rose up above the tops of the bushes and there was a mighty "Woof! Woof!"

"Oh!" squealed Johnny Chuck and turned a back somersault in his hurry to get into his house. He had had many scares in his life, but none like this. Not until he got clear to the bottom of his house under the rocks did Johnny draw a long breath. "I—I—it must have been Buster Bear," said Johnny, and his teeth chattered. "I—I—I wonder if he saw me. My goodness! How big he is! He's bigger than Farmer Brown's Boy."

THE GOLD SERVICE STAR AS DR. PENNIMAN SEES IT

In advance of Memorial day the National Security league, New York, Gen. R. L. Bullard, president, issues the following by a graduate of Norwich Free Academy:

The Gold Service Star by Dr. James Hosmer Penniman (Dr. Penniman who is a well known author is brother of Dr. Josiah H. Penniman, president of University of Pennsylvania.)

The stars in the service flag were all true blue, but some have turned to gold.

As each blue star represents a man who is doing his duty for his God and his country; so each gold star is the shining emblem of a heroic soul who has done his duty and gone to his immortal reward. Per aspera ad astra might better be said of the gold service stars than of any other stars since the world began, for there can be no service without sacrifice and those who have won them have given all.

No nation has ever dedicated its young manhood to a nobler cause. Hitherto we have enjoyed the liberty which others have died to secure for us; now our own boys have been privileged to shed their blood that we and those who come after us may be free.

We did not realize the heroism that is all about us. Every man is noble and brave; the coward and the slacker must get off the earth, for there is no place on it for them. Marshal Joffre carried in his pocket this letter which a French mother wrote to her son in Canada:

"My Dear Boy: You will be grieved to learn that your two brothers have been killed. Their country needed them and they gave everything they had to save her. Your country needs you, and, while I am not going to suggest that you return to fight for France, I will only say if you do not come at once, never come."

Those boys who sat on the same bench at college with Nathan Hale had no idea that he was a hero. Nathan Hale has been living over again today; as he leaned from the car window on his way over there we took him by the hand and looked into his honest eyes, and now that he has given his one life for his country his symbol is the gold star.

We do not appreciate fully what Duty is. We see it now in the light of the gold star, and it is holier and grander than we know. Self-denial and self-sacrifice are on all sides. Mothers with a smile and a blessing on their lips have given their boys and the prayers and the tears have been revealed to God alone. Abraham Lincoln wrote this letter to an American mother:

"Dear Madam: I have been shown in the files of the war department a statement of the adjutant-general of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and futile must be any words of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I can not refrain from tendering to you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save.

"I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of Freedom."

Though each gold star is jeweled with proud and holy tears, it is the deathless star of eternal youth. It is the beautiful visible emblem of American sacrifice.

In it are concentrated, like the sun's rays passing through a burning-glass, all that is most sacred in our national existence. As the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church, so the gold star is the hope of America. It sheds its beams over our whole land; it shines for every creed and for every condition of life. It represents the boy from the mansion and the boy from the tenement. It stands for all that is purest in the civilization of the world.

The gold star in its course has illuminated the path of Liberty. The same star of freedom that looked down on the Spartans at Thermopylae shone on the Americans who were making the world safe for democracy at Chateau-Thierry.

The gold star is the morning star of a nobler day than the world has yet seen.

Pray God that wars have now ceased forever from the face of the earth; but if the time comes again when the weak are oppressed by the brute, our gold stars will shed their holy radiance on another generation of Americans who, like Nathan Hale will regret that they have but one life to give for their country.

The state board of examiners in optometry cannot prohibit the sale of eye glasses or spectacles in stores where no supervision as to improvement of vision is made in the ordinary course of the sale. Attorney General Frank E. Healy has advised George A. Comstock, secretary of the board.

EARL CARROLL FOUND GUILTY PERJURY

NEW YORK, May 31—(AP)—Earl Carroll was found guilty of perjury today in telling two grand juries that he once occupied a bathtub on the stage of his theatre at a Washington's birthday party. He was found not guilty of perjury in telling the same grand juries that no liquor was served at the party.

Through his counsel Carroll expressed confidence in a quick reversal of the guilty verdict when the case is taken before a higher court.

During the trial, which lasted five days, the witness who created the most general interest was Joyce Hawley, 17-year-old chorus girl, who testified she had sat undressed in a bath tub at the Carroll party and that she had been drunk at the time on liquor served her in the theatre. Defense witnesses testified she had threatened to harm Carroll on that witness stand unless he gave her money.

The government called numerous witnesses who testified to seeing Miss Mawley enter the tub, had seen no liquor, and who testified to the producer's reputation for veracity.

The case went to the jury this morning after Judge Goddard had charged the jury and had included instructions, at the instance of Carroll's attorney, that in order to find the defendant guilty of perjury in his testimony on the bathtub incident it must find that he had wilfully lied to escape punishment for violation of the liquor laws. The grand jury hearings was occasioned by reports that liquor had been served at the party.

After the verdict Carroll's attorney based his confidence of a reversal in the fact that in finding Carroll not guilty of perjury for his liquor testimony it had by influence admitted that he could not have lied about the bathtub incident to conceal a non-existent liquor violation.

Carroll was accompanied today, as he has been throughout the trial, by his wife and the trained nurse who is caring for her.

As the jurymen filed back into the courtroom after deliberating only an hour and five minutes Carroll smiled slightly and leaned toward them.

"Gentlemen, have you agreed upon your verdict?" the clerk asked.

"We have," the foreman replied.

"What is your verdict?"

"Not guilty on counts two and five." (The liquor testimony count).

Carroll still leaned tensely forward, the ghost of a smile set on his placid face.

"On counts three and six," (the bathtub counts) the foreman continued, recalling with a wheel of groans, "guilty."

Carroll's smile faded and he relaxed in his chair. Mrs. Carroll swayed and the nurse placed a steadying hand on her arm.

Carroll's chief attorney was on his feet to demand a poll of the jury, and the roll call brought confirmation from the twelve men. Judge Goddard then doubled Carroll's existing bail of $2,500, which was immediately paid and set date for sentence a week hence.

The producer was originally charged with perjury on six counts but two of them were dismissed during the trial on recommendation of the prosecution. Before the February grand jury Carroll swore that no liquor was served at his party, that he had no list of guests and that no one occupied the bathtub. Before the March grand jury this testimony was read to him and he confirmed it. This resulted on two indictments on each statement.

The two relating to the list of guests being later dismissed.

MYSTIC WHITE WYANDOTTES LED 19TH WEEK

Production in the Storrs egg laying contest fell off during the 29th week, the 1,400 pullets laying 5,988 eggs, or 299 eggs less than the total for the previous week. This was a production of slightly over .56 per cent. and compared with the total for the corresponding week a year ago, it represents a gain of eight eggs. The contest flock has laid a grand total of 136,035 eggs in the 29 weeks of competition, which is an average of 93 eggs per bird.

The Winlay White Wyandottes from Mystic, Conn., made the best score for the week with a lay of 43 eggs. The Barred Rocks entered by Ontario Agricultural College from Guelph, Ont., finished second for the week with a score of 41 eggs. Following close behind to take third place was another Barred Rock pen, the entry of Merritt M. Clark from Brookfield Center, Conn., with a production of 40 eggs. Fourth place saw a tie between two pens, each with a lay of 37 eggs each. They are the White Wyandottes entered by The Locusts from West Cornwall, Conn., and the White Leghorns entered by Spring Brook Poultry Farm from South Wethersfield, Conn.

Three changes took place among the leading pens. The Barred Rocks entered by Ontario Agricultural college, which have consistently appeared on the honor roll during the past few weeks, went up in to first place in their class, displacing the entry of Edgar Stoughton from Wapping, Conn. In the White Wyandotte class, the Winlay White Wyandottes went up into second position, displacing the entry of E. A. Barker from Mazon, Ill. In the White Leghorn class, the entry of the Marquis Poultry Farm from Toms' river, N. J., went up into fourth position, displacing the entry of Mount Hope Farm from Williamstown, Mass.

The Rhode Island Reds entered by John Z. LaBelle from Ballouville, Conn still leads the entire contest, and their total up through the 29th week was 1424 eggs. This is 89 eggs more than the second pen, the White Leghorn entry of Toivonen Farm from Girard, Pa. Each week now sees the Toivonen Leghorns cut down the lead held by LaBelle's Reds and unless the Connecticut pen can increase the rate of lay, its chances of remaining in first place diminish as the race proceeds.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

White Wyandottes
The Locusts West Cornwall, Conn.	1142
Winlay White Wyandottes Mystic, Conn.	1090

Snow Problem

The snow problem on the world's northernmost electric railroad, which crosses the Swedish peninsula almost entirely north of the arctic circle, has now been solved by the introduction of two rotating electric snow plows, whose whirling steel knives cut through any drift that may pile up on the tracks overnight. Built chiefly to carry the Lapland ores to the sea coasts of either Sweden or Norway, the line runs most of the way through a semi-arctic desert, where not only snowstorms are violent, but where shoveling crews are hard to recruit, the region being practically uninhabited, except by Laps and their reindeer herds. This year the winter has been particularly hard and freight trains loaded with iron ore got stuck in snowdrifts near the Swedish-Norwegian border as early as October. Since the arrival of the special snow plows, however, the route has been kept clean.

Roald Amundsen and 15 of his companions in the trans-polar flight in the dirigible Norge, are expected to arrive in Seattle, June 22.

Secretary Of Treasury's Daughter To Wed

Miss Alisa Mellon, daughter of the Secretary of the Treasury, Andrew W. Mellon, and one of the most beautiful girls in Washington's official set, will marry David K. E. Bruce, son of Senator and Mrs. William Cabell Bruce, of Maryland. Miss Mellon has served as hostess for her father during his official residence in the capital. Numerous previous reports of her engagement have proven merely rumors, but her betrothal to the Senator's son is regarded as official.

And now

from scores of women come statements like these:

"Has such a delicious flavor. It must be made differently."

"My family like the firm, creamy grain of White Rose. We think it is excellent bread."

"It stays fresh longer and keeps its sweetness."

"It makes wonderful toast because of its firmness."

IT is not surprising to us that careful housewives and mothers should say these things about White Rose Bread. For this loaf was perfected to meet the critical standard of just such women.

And it was produced only after the most thorough study of the needs of growing children, the demands of wise and careful mothers, and the tastes of exacting housewives.

Leading authorities on home cooking and nutrition have helped us to perfect White Rose Bread. Experts who know better than anyone else what food elements bread should contain, how it should be made, just how it should look and taste.

Use White Rose on your own table. You will know at once that only the finest, purest ingredients could go into bread so delicious, so sweet and rich and full-flavored. You will add your enthusiastic approval to that of hundreds of other women.

White Rose Bread is baked not once but twice each day and rushed to your grocer. Whenever you buy you get it fresh in its immaculate wrapper of blue and white like a checked tea towel. Order a loaf from your grocer today.

OAKDALE MAN COMPLAINS CRASH AT NEW LONDON VIOLATED LAW

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 27—Joseph Perry, of Oakdale, complained to the police this morning that his automobile was hit by a car on Broad street earlier in the day and that the driver of the colliding machine was guilty of violation of the automobile law, inasmuch as he refused to reveal his identity by showing his operator's license to Perry. The latter obtained the registration of the colliding car, which was L-227 and the police then ascertained that the car was the property of Francis DeGange, 60 Ocean avenue. DeGange was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning.

WARNS OF FORGED CHECKS OF AM. RAILWAY EXPRESS CO.

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 27—G. W. Goodwin, local agent of the American Railway express company, informed the police today that crooks were circulating forged American Railway express company checks in the eastern states. Goodwin declared that all of the checks that were negotiated were for $50 and requested that the several banks be notified of the operations of the crooks.

An auto truck, owned and operated by Reuben Lubchansky, 217 Main St., and a machine owned and operated by John Chickowitz, collided this morning at the intersection of Learned and Morgan streets, the latter machine being overturned and damaged. Chickowitz, however, escaped injury.

The United States Coast Guard got rid of four undesirables this afternoon, when that number of sailors stationed at local section base, No. 4, state pier, were given dishonorable discharge because of misconduct. The men, three of whom have police court records, were brought to the police station immediately after they were discharged so that the civil authorities might have knowledge of the fact that the sailors were no longer in the federal service.

Alexander Wieczorek of 32 Sixth street was in the police court this morning for violation of the Volstead law in keeping liquor in his home. But Alex was not convicted. He was accused by the father and brother of one Louis Pelletier of having furnished liquor to the young man which intoxicated him, but the accusers did not come within a mile of producing evidence that would convict. Pelletier was found drunk in the home of Wieczorek but he got there and was so drunk he couldnt get away, though he was ordered out by the family. Wieczorek is a freight handler and has ten children. The prosecutor was told that Pelletier was an interloper when he visited the house. He did ask for liquor, but it was denied him and he was ordered out. The police found some

Mrs. Blair Cregar, the wife of a chief at the submarine base, was charged with reckless operation of an auto at the approach to the Thames river bridge. She asked for a continuance of the case and it went over till the 2nd of June.

The automobile she was operating collided with a car owned and driven by George A. Williams of Williams street, Mystic, the latter car being damaged. Williams complained against Mrs. Cregar.

Miss Julia Cowles of Niantic, Ernest Santangelo, 3 Griswold court; Henry Lewis, 41 Bingham street, and Miss Jennie McCoy, Niantic, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Capt. William Burkee of Boston, formerly master of Central Vermont railroad line steamers from this port, was a visitor in this city today.

Albert Porta, of the Avon hotel, Hartford, is scheduled to be in the police court tomorrow morning charged with violation of the automobile law in failing to supply herself with registration. Porta was arrested this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff J. H. Tubbs when that officer detected Porta operating an automobile without having registration.

Louis Pearson, 21 Clark lane, was arrested this morning by Patrolman George Perkins on complaint of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who charged Pearson with intoxication and violation of parole. The accused will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. Pearson was observed about the street in an intoxicated condition by Probation Officer Mansfield, who sought Pearson's arrest. In March he was fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in jail, but the execution of the sentence was suspended.

James N. Reed, colored, about 65, died this morning at his home in New Haven. Mr. Reed formerly resided in New London, moving to New Haven about ten years ago. Prior to leaving here Mr. Reed for a number of years was proprietor of the Hotel Bristol, then in operation on Bank street. He is survived by his wife and one son, Leonard Reed.

Mrs. Martha Armstrong, 66, wife of David Armstrong of 300 Thames St., Groton, died at her home early this morning, death being caused by a chronic disease of the heart. Besides her husband, Mrs. Armstrong is survived by several children. Mrs. Armstrong had been a sufferer from a weakened condition of the heart a long time and of late she has been unable to occupy a bed, being compelled to obtain rest by sleeping in a chair. It was while she was slumbering in the chair that Mrs. Armstrong suffered a sinking spell, death following a short time later.

Adolphe Francini of 10 Shapley St., and Gene Serverini, 27 Summer street, reported to the police this morning that last Saturday when their automobile was parked on Walbach street a thief visited the car and stole the former's coat and a blanket belonging to both. As nearly a week has elapsed since the theft occurred there is slight chance of the property being recovered or the thief arrested.

The making of Bank street a one-way street June 1, as predicted a fortnight ago by City Manager William A. Holt, will not materialize on that date, though it probably eventually will take care of traffic in but one direction, to the north, within a short time. Today, City Manager Holt made it known that it was impossible to carry out his plans to make the busy street a one-way street the first of the month because of the Connecticut company being unable to cope with the situation and maintain anything like a regular schedule as the trolley company will be forced to make certain changes to its tracks in order to comply with the edict to handle traffic in but one direction. Already the street is daily becoming congested and one day last week four officers had to be stationed between State and Pearl streets, three blocks, in order to keep traffic open.

All is in readiness for the official test of the Ahrens fire pumper, the latest apparatus to be purchased by the city and which has been in New London since Monday. The test will take place at the municipal pier tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock. City officials and two members of the National Fire Insurance Exchange will witness the demonstration. If the test prove successful the apparatus will be put into commission at once and will be housed at the quarters of Pequot Hose company.

Daniel Fraser, a farm worker, who originally hails from New London, but who is employed in Waterford and East Lyme when he is in the mood to work, apparently would rather be in jail than at liberty, for after being released from the county jail today he started in and was found intoxicated and as a result he is now locked up in a cell at the police station awaiting his presentation in the police court tomorrow morning. Fraser was fined $5 and costs the 10th inst on a charge of vagrancy and today obtained his freedom as he had worked out his fine and costs. He immediately started to get intoxicated and his desire was gratified for shortly after 6 o'clock when Patrolman Patrick Sheehan was passing through Main street to go to his home he came upon Sheehan beastly drunk and creating a nuisance. Officer Sheehan placed Fraser under arrest and the latter displayed fight with the result that he was roughly used.

David A. Baldwin, 966 Chapel street, New Haven, was arrested this afternoon by Patrolman Clyde Murphy, charged with violation of the city parking ordinances in parking overtime on State street. Baldwin was ordered to appear in the police court tomorrow morning.

Reubin Lewis, a lodger at 19 Elizabeth street, complained to the police late this afternoon that his room had been [illegible] by a thief during his absence and that a gold Waltham watch, 15 jewels, and a gold ring with red stone and three links, insignia of the Odd Fellows, had been stolen. It is believed that some one with knowledge of Lewis' movements, together with the fact that the watch and ring were secreted in the room, is guilty of the theft.

Councilor James A. May, of Montauk avenue, returned to New London this afternoon having been absent from the city several weeks on an automobile trip through New York state, the middle west and Canada. Altogether Mr. May traveled 2,600 miles and in visiting cities of importance, the councilor had an opportunity of obtaining ideas that will prove instructive to him, inasmuch as some of the laws of cities he visited may, in part, be applicable in New London.

John C. Geary has sold to William Tripp a house and lot on Huntington street, the deed transferring title in the property having been filed with the city clerk this afternoon.

James A. McDonald, of Coleman street, and Miss Elizabeth M. Comeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Comeau, 15 Coleman street, were married at 8 o'clock this morning at St. Mary's Star of the Sea church. The marriage was solemnized by Rev. Dr. Timothy M. Crowley. Walter E. Comeau, brother of the bride, was best man and Miss Flavilla Comeau, sister of the bride, was the bride's attendant. Mr. and Mrs. McDonald are on their wedding trip and upon its conclusion they will reside for the summer on the shore of the Niantic river.

Announcement is made of the wedding the 22nd inst. of Harry C. Kuhn and Miss Alice Beeney, both of 46 Truman street. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Philip M. Kerridge at the parish house of St. James' Episcopal church.

Poppies will be on sale on the streets of this city tomorrow, the proceeds to be applied to the fund for disabled members of the American Legion. That there will be a demand for them is certain. Girls and women will have the poppies for sale.

There never was a greater number of automobiles parked on the principal business streets of the city than this evening. State street was lined with them along the curbings and on Bank street and all the lateral streets machines filled the space. They were of every variety of make and shape and in all conditions of serviceability.

The gutters along Montauk avenue have received their spring cleaning today. Other gutters and crossings have received attention that puts them in repair.

Another barber shop is to open on Bank street.

Cool weather has affected the business of the fruit dealers and they are expressing their disgust.

All the demand for sewers on Mohegan Heights appears to have subsided as unceremoniously as it commenced. The Bulletin predicted at the time when the property owners came to realize that the sewers were to cost them a large sum of money the idea that the section might be unhealthful would convince them that they would prefer to do without the sewers and be content to allow conditions to exist as they had during all the years that have preceded 1926. How the impression got abroad that the laying of sewers was an inexpensive undertaking, or that the property owners could obtain them by setting up the demand for them on the ground that conditions were not what they should be, is a mystery.

INQUIRY FROM ROCKAWAY FOR TWO MISSING BODIES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 27.—The New London police today received a telegram from Mrs. George Zimmerman, 10417 Boulevard, Rockaway Beach, N. Y., requesting information tending to identity of two bodies that may be washed ashore in this vicinity. The message read as follows: "Anybody found to identify the following: Age 35, 190 pounds, five feet 11 inches, dark brown hair, blue suit with fine stripe, B. V. D. drawers, cotton undershirt, on belt letter 'G,' lost at sea from five to seven months, black oxfords and black socks, name George Zimmerman. Also William Barnhardt, 35, 160 pounds, five feet, nine inches, dark brown hair, dark brown suit, B. V. D. underwear, brown oxfords, tattoo mark on arm, 'W. B.,' and emblem scar on lower part of stomach. Wire collect immediately." Mrs. Zimmerman was notified that no bodies had been recovered from the sea for off this port is a long time, but should one or either of the bodies be recovered and brought into port that she will be notified to that effect.

Palace Theatre

There is a great vaudeville show at the Palace the last half of this week, one of the best variety bills seen in Norwich in a long time. The feature picture is Dancing Mothers which pleases 100 per cent of the audience.

The vaudeville opens with Billy Carmen in a novelty musical instrumental act called chords on the woodpile. Crawford and Desimona follow with a comedy singing act which pleases most highly, both having wonderful voices. Libby and Sparrow hold number three on the bill with a snappy dance revue just full of pep. It is a full stage act with a beautiful setting. Morgan and Ott come into number four with a barrage of nohum, these boys having played the Palace before and are great favorites and have come through this time with an entirely new act. The best honors of the bill are given to the Kam Tai Chinese act of five people, a very sensational novelty act doing such tricks as spinning plates on a stick, hanging from their wigs and jumping through a frame of knife blades.

It's not very often that the much looked down upon, lowly movies produce something which everyone seems to like. Yet a capacity house at the Palace yesterday greeted Dancing Mothers, the new Paramount picture with a hearty welcome. And from this it can be taken that even in this age of well-advertised degradation, adult drama—that is, dramas that can be understood by the adult mind—are still popular and sure to prove money-makers for the conscientious exhibitor or theatre owner who shows them.

Broadway Theatre

Four months of intensive writing was employed by Frances Marion in the preparation of the scenario for "Stella Dallas" in an adaptation of Olive Higgins Prouty's famous novel. This production, sponsored by Samuel Goldwyn, and directed by Henry King, is a coming attraction at the

Broad Theater

The Devil's Chorus, the first American production of the Russian director, Benjamin Christianson, opened at the Breed theater yesterday and was accorded the acclaim of a signal success.

Norma Shearer, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, has the leading feminine role, and the cast includes Charles Emmett Mack, in the leading male role; Carmel Myers, Claire McDowell, John Miljan, Joyce Coad, the latest child find of the screen, and the popular trick dog, Buddy.

It is a simple story simply told, and therein lies its greatness. The director has taken characters that are thoroughly plausible, that really might exist and be acquainted with you and me, and then put them to working out a drama in which colorful and entertaining bits of detail and convincing characterizations successfully sustain interest.

Old Gold

Very few persons realize that more than 75,000,000,000 cigarettes are consumed in the United States each year. And that number is constantly on the increase, it is disclosed in figures made public by the research department of the Lorillard company, the tobacconists whose cigarette "Old Gold", has just been added to the popular brands.

American cigarettes, such as "Old Gold," which are a combination of American and Turkish tobaccos carefully blended to provide a smoke that is fast becoming a favorite both with men and women, are fast displacing the purely Turkish cigarette with American smokers. The figures compiled show that last year of the 75,000,000,000 cigarettes consumed in the United States only about 5,500,000,000 were of the Turkish type. And this year, according to the statistics already assembled, the percentage of pure Turkish will be much lower.

The war, investigation discloses, was responsible for a great increase in cigarette smoking. Men who scoffed at what they used to call "coffin nails", started to smoke cigarettes because they couldn't get cigars or proper tobacco for their pipes in the trenches. And physicians have long since disposed of the theory that the cigarette was a harmful method of smoking as compared with the pipe and the cigar.

The makers of "Old Gold", the cigarette which is fast becoming one of the most popular of the American brands, have also ascertained through extensive tests and research that both men and women today want a cigarette that is slow-burning, cool and one that doesn't leave any "after taste" in the mouth. "Old Gold", its makers assert, and their contention is based on actual tests made by smokers all over the country, is the "last word" in a pleasing smoke at the popular price of 20 for 15 cents. And the statistics show that more than 75 per cent of the money spent for cigarettes is spent for the 20-for-15 package that is a familiar sight today both in the pockets of men and the handbags of women.

The Academy Orchestra

A real improvement in tone quality will be noted at the concert of the Academy orchestra, which will be given at Slater Memorial hall on Wednesday evening, June 2nd.

A two-bank, pedal organ has been added to the instrumentation during the current year, and the addition of the heavy bass notes from the organ has made a great change in tonal effect; all of the instruments sounding to better advantage.

Tickets for the concert can be secured from members of the orchestra at Cranston's store at 50 cents each.

Three persons charged with murder and another with assault to murder a Hartford policeman are on the docket of 131 cases which will be tried at the June term of the criminal superior court before Judge Leonard J. Nickerson, which opens next Tuesday afternoon in the county court house, Hartford.

WESTERLY

MISS GREGORY WINS SUIT TO COLLECT WAGES DUE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 27.—Superior court for Washington county with Justice A. A. Capotosto on the bench, was again in session in Westerly Thursday. In the absence of High Sheriff Fred T Mitchell of Westerly, who left on the Quaker express for Hackensack, N. J., to return with George Courtmarsh of Richmond, R. I., who is charged with the abduction of Josephine Nicosia of Shannock Dept. Sheriff Fred T. Bull of Kingston acted as court officer.

About 1 o'clock Thursday noon, after being out 55 minutes, the jury returned with a verdict for the plaintiff to recover $98 wages and overtime, without interest, in the case of Edith Gregory vs. Joseph Stedman. The action arose from a dispute in the amount of wages due Edna M. Gregory, daughter of Mrs. Edith Gregory, who worked for the Stedman printing establishment in Westerly in 1921 and 1922. Trial in this case was resumed on Thursday morning with the defendant, Joseph Stedman on the witness stand and he was followed by his wife who testified that but on one occasion had the girls in the employ of the establishment worked until 10 p. m. that being when a rush job was delivered to the Knights of Columbus. The defense rested at 11:20. Attorney Roche recalled Miss Gregory and evidence was introduced for the claim for $89 for wages for Oct. and Nov. 1921; 32 hours overtime at 40c per hour, amounting to $33 and interest of $17.64 for a total of $113.64.

Israel Barg of Franklin, N. H., vs. Raymond W. Champlin of Ashaway, R. I., was then taken up. This was a damage case resulting from an automobile accident on the first of last October, near Big River bridge, on the state road from Westerly to Providence, 6 miles from Washington Village, R. I.

The jury to try the case was empaneled as follows: Ralph G. Bliven, Edwin B. Kenyon, John Payne, Allen S. Whitford and Harry W. Gaylitt of Westerly; Fred A. Lane of South Kingstown; Albert E. Kenyn and Arthur B. Ladd of North Kingstown; Albert G. C. Brewer of Exeter and John A. Tucker and Robert M. Mills of Charlestown. Arthur B. Ladd of North Kingstown, was named foreman.

Accompanying Mr. Barg on Oct. 1 1925 when he was returning to his home in Franklin, N. H., from a visit in Westerly was Dennis Sullivan, an attorney of Franklin, when Mr. Barg claims that no warning was given him by a watchman stationed at the new construction work, and as he continued on the right side of the road the truck approaching continued on the left until the crash followed.

Israel Barg, 23, of Franklin, N. H., was the first witness to take the stand and he gave the details of his operation of his Reo touring 7-passenger car claiming he was going on an up-grade at a rate of speed of 7 or 8 miles per hour.

As trial in the case will occupy the rest of the week and next Monday, Memorial day is a holiday, spare jurors were excused to report on next Tuesday at 10:45 a. m.

Twice during the past two days has the plant of the hot mixing establishment of the Western Highway department in the gravel bank between Varnetyville and White Rock been on fire. On Wednesday night 400 gallons of oil caught fire and with the use of extinguishers hastily secured from the Westerly Fire department the blaze was extinguished.

About 8:30 o'clock on Thursday morning the Fox-Ahrens pumper was telephoned for when the tar heating in the middle furnace of a battery of three caught fire and with a heavy blaze sent up large clouds of thick black smoke. Driver Knight soon had the pumper out of the Westerly fire station and at the gravel bank the hose from the booster tank was directed by Gus Paig of the highway department and even after the tank had been exhausted an auxiliary supply was necessary to put out the fire.

Before Judge Oliver H. Williams in a special session of Third district court in Westerly on Thursday morning, Mestioli Celi of New York state was arraigned on a vagrancy charge. This was the second time that he had come into police tolls during the past week. He was sentenced to one year in the Rhode Island Reformatory for Men.

Among local people who attended the funeral at South Manchester, Conn., of Dr. Joseph Ambrose Higgins on Wednesday were: Dr. and Mrs. M. H. Scanlon, Miss Mary Scanlon, L. C. Purtill, Al. J. Twomey, Joseph L. Lenihan, Martin McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Burke, Miss Katherine Murphy, Mr and Mrs. G. D. Beebe, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fallon.

Westerly Forest, Tall Cedars of Lebanon, recently installed, observed the first social event of its existence on Thursday evening when a public dance was held at the Atlantic beach casino. Out of town guests attended from Providence, New London, Norwich and Mystic. A special bus left New Haven railroad station at 8:30 o'clock for the convenience of those who did not use private automobiles.

The committee in charge was as follows: Charles Bowe, Henry Langworthy, Daniel Ashworth, Louis Carr and Robert Carr.

For the third year pupils of Miss Mary Gertrude Driscoll, numbering 50, presented at the Westerly town hall on Wednesday evening their annual dance recital.

The aides were Dr. Herman S. Atwood, William Crandall, Attorney John Dunn, William H. Browning, Walter Krebs, Raymond Stillman, Attorney M. Walter Flynn, William Lord, Joseph Lenihan and Clarence Stenhouse. Miss Jessie Hughes was the accompanist of the evening.

The program follows:

Grand March, classes; Yes, Sir! That's My Baby, baby class; Fleecy Clouds, ballet class; Swanee Blues, Genevieve Smith; Stylish Paris Ladies, Irene Traggis, Anna Vardilos, Frieda Freestone, Annastacia Vardilos, Elizabeth Whalen, Florence Ferraro, Eleanor Fusaro, Catherine Chapman and Ethel Soloveitzik; Charleston, Eunice Hughes and Lavina DePerry; The Dancing Dream Doll, Hilda Nowell; Blue-Eyed Baby, Irene Monti; Pas de Deux, Bessie and Mildred Goldfadden; Raggedy Ann and Andy, Margaret Whalen and Margaret Sawyer; That Certain Party, Madeline O'Keefe, Margaret Anderson, Evelyn Ferraro, Matilda Long and Hilda Nowell; novelty song and dance, Helvie Jokinen; Gypsy Maid, Evelyn Ferraro; Polkette, Matilda Long; Dutch Kiddies, baby class; Nola, Florence Ferraro, Eleanor Fusaro, Ethel Soloveitzik and Lavina DePerry; Vivacity, Margaret Anderson and Madeline O'Keefe; Naughty Dollies, baby class; Jass Rondo, ballet class; How We Dance, baby class; Finale, Uncle Sam's Navy, ballet class.

The cantata Martha was presented in the Westerly high school auditorium before a large audience Thursday evening. The annual high school cantatas have brought out many people who delight not only in hearing the chorus work, but also the soloists who come from out of town.

This year exceptional soloists were Miss Kathleen O'Brien, soprano, Providence; Miss Alice West, contralto, Providence; Byron Hudson, tenor, Woonsocket, and Ray Gardiner, bass, Providence.

The funeral of Mrs. Catherine C. Duprey, whose death occurred Monday, was held at 8:30 o'clock Thursday morning from her late home on Main street, White Rock. The funeral mass at the church of the Immaculate Conception was celebrated by Rev. J. F. Vincent, S. M.

Interment was in St. Michael's New cemetery, where Fr. Vincent read the committal service.

John L. Frazier of Providence, accompanied by Mrs. Amos Brown of Westerly, motored to Westerly on Thursday afternoon when they were guests of Mrs Brown's daughter, Mrs. L. Ward Alger.

John Healy, accompanied by Herbert Costello, were Westerly visitors on Thursday, motoring from their home in Central Falls and Pawtucket, R. I.

Corp. William Riddell and Trooper Ernest Stenhouse, Westerly members of the department of Rhode Island state police, returned to the Scituate barracks on Thursday evening after a furlough spent at their homes here.

Mr. and Mrs. Poyntelle Staley left Westerly on Thursday morning for Geneva, N. Y. They will remove their residence to Providence, R. I., about June 1st.

Mrs. Edna C. Northup of Westerly was a Providence visitor on Wednesday.

The family of Thomas O. Thacher of New York city are expected to arrive in Westerly to visit their summer home, Intermere, Watch Hill.

Inspector William Ahearn was a recent visitor in Wakefield, R. I.

Mrs. Albert Senior of Pawcatuck, having returned from a visit in Lowell, Mass., has been the guest of relatives in Central Falls, R. I.

Some 20 members of Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. C., (H. D.) stationed at the state armory on Dixon street, journeyed on Thursday by automobiles to Fort Carney at Saunderstown, where they were taken by a tug to Newport to participate in the ceremonies at Fort Adams.

Pawcatuck Lodge, No. 80, F. and A. M. of Pawcatuck, T. Edward Peabody, worshipful master, held a special communication in the Masonic rooms on High street on Thursday evening when work in the second degree was exemplified.

PROMOTERS PLAN RAILROAD FOR FLORIDA WEST COAST

PENSACOLA, Fla., May 27.—(AP)—West Florida will have a railroad equaling the one operating along the east coast if plans of leading business men throughout this section materialize.

A committee of three has experts at work assembling data on tonnage now available along the proposed route and that capable of development. Moving pictures will be made of the Gulf shore, Santa Rosa Sound, Choctawhatchee Bay and other waterfront territory. With this information the committeemen will confer with land owners and obtain pledges of land donations of sufficient size to make it worth while for a railroad company to build the line in return for the land gifts.

It was on this basis that the Seaboard Air Line Railway company built the West Palm Beach-Coleman connection more than a year ago. The same arrangement has been made building the Seaboard line north from Tampa.

Women always enjoy hearing of some other woman who has been ill that she must undergo a surgical operation or die, and who got well without it.

LEGAL NOTICES

WARNING
Special Town Meeting

The legal voters in Town Meeting of the Town of Norwich are hereby warned to meet in a Special Town Meeting, to be held in the Town Hall, in Norwich, on

at Seven O'clock, P. M. (Standard Time) for the following purposes: To determine what action they will take upon a certain petition signed by 20 legal voters of said Town requesting the calling of a Special Town Meeting for the following purposes:

First: To decide whether or not said town will purchase a tract of land and build a school house thereon in the northwesterly portion of said town, within the limits of the Fourth Voting District in said town, at a cost for said land and the erection and equipment of said school building of not more than $225,000, and to appoint a committee to do all things necessary in connection therewith.

Also, to authorize the Board of Selectmen of said Town to borrow such sums of money upon such terms and at such times as may be, in their judgment, necessary, not to exceed said sum of $225,000, to pay for said land and for the erection and equipment of said school building and to give the notes or other interest bearing evidences of indebtedness of said town therefor, provided it is determined to build said school building.

Second: To act upon a certain petition signed by 20 legal voters of said Town requesting the appropriation of a sufficient sum of money for the erection and maintenance of a suitable number of electric lights on the New London Turnpike southerly of West Main Street from the residence of Mr. John McWilliams to the residence of Mr. Charles Conrade.

Third: To decide whether the Town would appropriate a sum, not to exceed $50.00, to reimburse Frank J. Hill of said Town for the transportation expenses of his son, Frank A. Hill, to the Putnam Trade School.

Fourth: To determine whether the Town will discontinue six sections of highway on the Gallows Hill Road, so called, leading from Norwich Town to Taftville, said sections being shown on a certain lay-out of said highway, recorded in the Land Records of the Town of Norwich, in Book of Plans, No. 2, at pages 92 to 99 inclusive.

Also, to do any other business proper to come before said Meeting.

Dated at Norwich, Connecticut, this 21st day of May, 1926.

WILLIAM S. MURRAY,
CHARLES P. BUSHNELL,
PATRICK T. CONWELL,
Selectmen of the Town of Norwich.

NOTICE
Special Town Meeting

The legal voters in town meeting in the Town of Colchester are hereby warned to meet in special town meeting in the Grange Hall in the Town of Colchester at two o'clock (standard time) in the afternoon on Wednesday, June 2nd, 1926, for the following purposes:

To determine whether the Town will appropriate a sum of money not to exceed fifty-six hundred dollars to pay certain unauthorized indebtedness incurred for school purposes by the Town School Committee of the Town of Colchester, said indebtedness being in excess of the appropriation made by the Town of Colchester at its last annual town meeting for school purposes.

To determine whether the Town will instruct the Town School Committee of Colchester to make a written and itemized report of the expenditures made by said Committee for school purposes during the school year of 1925-1926 and submit said report to the Selectmen of the Town of Colchester.

To determine whether the Town will authorize the Selectmen to borrow not to exceed the sum, if any, that may be appropriated by the town under the first paragraph hereof, to defray the indebtedness mentioned in said first paragraph, and further authorize said Selectmen to deliver the notes or other obligations of the Town therefor as may be for the best interest of said Town.

Dated at Colchester, Connecticut, this 27th day of May, 1926.

SAMUEL McDONALD,
EDWARD H. NORTON,
WM. K. RAYMOND,
Selectmen of the Town of Colchester.

Bonds: Steady, traction and oil issues strong.

Foreign exchanges: Higher, Spanish pesetas soar almost 50 points.

Cotton: Rarely steady; better spot demand.

Sugar: Easy, Cuban selling

Coffee: Lower, importers selling.

Chicago

Wheat: Weak, beneficial rains.

Corn: Lower, predictions increased receipts

Cattle: Higher.

Hogs: Irregular.

RECOVERY IN MARKET

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—Stock prices continued their recovery today despite rather heavy pre-holiday profit-taking in several sections of the list. Public participation was on a broader scale, with buying orders distributed over a wide list. Both the rail and industrial averages closed higher on the day, with the day's sales aggregating 1,457,600 shares.

Bullish sentiment was created by the relative cheapness of money, the stiffening tendency of certain basic commodity prices record breaking freight traffic and publication of another series of favorable April railroad earnings reports. A more optimistic tone also was noted in the comment of bankers and business men on the future business outlook.

A sharp upturn in many motor shares was believed to represent the running-in of an over-crowded short interest. Mack Trucks, whose earnings are reported to be running at record levels, was bid up 6 1-2 points.

Realising sales were particularly heavy in the oil shares, but closing quotations generally showed only small fractional changes. Lago held firm throughout, advancing to within a small fraction of its high record on the "big board."

Steels were firm on buying influenced by the belief that the recent advance in steel bars would stimulate forward business on the part of consumers who were withholding orders because of the recent declining price tendency for that commodity.

Atchison, Missouri Pacific common and preferred, Delaware & Hudson, Lehigh Valley, "Nickel Plate" Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred and the "Soo" issues recorded the best gains in the rail group.

The boom in May wheat collapsed today when plenty of the product became available for deliveries on short contracts, the price dropping 6 cents a bushel to $1.64 1-2. Other options showed more moderate recessions, with selling inspired by reports of favorable weather in the northwest. Cotton fluctuated within extremely narrow limits, closing unchanged to 4 points higher.

Raw sugar was unchanged but futures were easier. Coffee prices were slightly reactionary.

Call money renewed at 3 3-4 per cent. and held steady at that figure all day, despite the usual heavy demands for holiday currency. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Another sharp advance of nearly 50 points in Spanish pesetas, which carried them to a new high record for the year at 16.25 cents, featured the firm foreign exchange market. The jump in the Spanish currency reflected Moroccan victories of French and Spanish troops. Demand sterling was slightly firmer just above $4.86 and French francs ruled a few points higher just under 3.40 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 27—(AP)—Wheat for May delivery plunged wildly downward 8c a bushel today, arrival of a liberal amount of wheat here from Kansas City with more due in Chicago tomorrow both from Kansas City and from Omaha revealed that urgency of buyers seeking wheat to fill May contracts here had come to a sudden halt, for at least the time being. Widespread rains affording relief from drought weakened wheat prices for deliveries other than May. Closing quotations on wheat were nervous 2 5-8c to 7c net lower. Corn finished 3-8c to 1 1-8c down, oats unchanged to 3-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 15c.

For the first time in a long while, premiums offered for wheat available to made immediate use of here were entirely wiped out, and elevators were the only purchasers in sight. When the market first opened today, however, a temporary rush of buying in the speculative pit carried the May delivery price up well above yesterday's top figures.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness. July and September corn touched a new low-priced record for the season.

Provisions had a downward trend influenced by the action of grain.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—Forced to compete with nearly $50,000,000 of new offerings, trading in the bond market today fell off in volume without hindering the forward movement of prices. Investment orders were more easily filled in the field of new issues but enough speculative interest was aroused in listed securities to bring about several substantial gains.

Interest in new financing centered mainly in the offering of $25,000,000 Province of Ontario 4 per cent. notes. The bankers reported that all of the $10,000,000 issue of one year maturities and more than $5,000,000 of the remaining two year bills had been sold.

Because of the bus line possibilities recently opened to the traction companies, these issues continued in demand today. Several of the B. M. T., Interborough and other local transit bonds reached new top prices for the year and Chicago Railways 5s spurted up more than a point.

Railroad liens moved quietly ahead with a scarcity of high grade offerings restricting dealings. Favorable earnings statements stimulated buying of New Haven convertible 3 1-2s, Norfolk & Western 4s, Central of Georgia issues, Canadian Pacific 4s and Wabash second 5s.

Oil and sugar company obligations were the most popular features of the industrial list, with accumulation in both instances promoted by the prospects of better earnings as a result of higher prices for their products.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 27—(AP)—The usual pre-holiday evening-up of speculative accounts imparted some irregularity to the price movement in today's curb market, but the main tendency continued upward. Trading broadened somewhat in volume, but the oils were again the center of speculative interest.

Rumors of increased dividends for some of the Standard Oil shares accompanied the latest buying movements in those issues. Standard Oil of New York "when issued" stock touched a new high at 32 5-8 and Humble and Standard Oils of Kentucky and Nebraska showed net gains of a point or more.

Industrials were spotty. Stutz Motors was bid up nearly 3 points on what appeared to be a run-in of the short interest, but the other automotive issues showed little change. A two point gain in Lehigh Valley coal and navigation was the only change of consequence in the coal group. Baking shares moved within rather narrow and irregular limits.

Usually heavy trading in Way Copper, which closed fractionally higher, was the only feature in the mining list.

DIRECTOR THINKS WOMAN UNSUCCESSFUL AS VILLAIN

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., May 27.—(AP)—Theda Bara, in the belief of James Cruze, Paramount director, was the only woman who ever scored a success as a screen villain.

Fifteen years experience has taught casting directors and producers generally that women are things to be loved, not hated. So they have given up the search for an actress to duplicate the feat of Theda Bara in The Vampire filmed more than a decade ago.

"The public cannot hate a feminine villain," Cruze says.

Walter Woods, Lasky scenarist, explains it this way:

"On the screen you will notice that here, there and everywhere. Now they the strongest villan characters are portrayed by huge, brutal appearing men. No woman can appear brutal and incite fear by her very sight. We have been taught for hundreds of years to protect them and treat them with courtesy. We have always felt that women need man's protection. It is impossible to make a motion picture audience believe this is not true."

WROTE CREDITABLE HISTORY OF TRAVEL THEN VANISHED

INDIANAPOLIS, May 27.—(AP)—After devoting five years to preparing a History of Travel in America, regarded as an authoritative work on transportation, Seymour Dunbar, an itinerant newspaper worker, disappeared. A four-year search by the Bobbs Merrill publishing company has failed to locate him.

The company expects to republish the history and desires that it be brought up to date.

Dunbar came to the publishing house in 1909 and showed to Hewitt Howland, editor at that time, a collection of 400 book plates, dealing with American transportation from the 18th century. Collecting book plates was a hobby with him. Howland bought the plates and commissioned Dunbar to write a history to go with them.

FAIR AND WARMER TODAY AND TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., FRIDAY, MAY 23, 1924

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Friday, May 23, 1924

THE WEATHER

Conditions

The northern area of high pressure has spread southward to Kentucky and North Carolina and eastward over New England and the eastern Canadian provinces. Apparently this is a part of vast high pressure area that extends northeastward over Davis Straits, Greenland, Iceland and Spitsbergen.

Generally fair weather will probably prevail Friday and Saturday east of the Mississippi river. The temperature will rise slowly Friday and Saturday in the north Atlantic states.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh northeast and generally fair weather Friday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Fresh northwest and east and generally fair weather Friday.

Forecast

For eastern New York and southern New England: Generally fair with slowly rising temperature Friday and Saturday.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Thursday:

8 a. m.	56	30.00
12 m.	66	29.90
8 p. m.	44	30.40

Highest 66, lowest 44.

Comparisons

Predictions for Thursday: Generally fair.

Thursday's weather: Cloudy and cold, light rain in late afternoon.

TAFTVILLE

Under the direction of Scoutmaster Victor H. Davis, the members of Troop 3, Boy Scouts held a first aid contest after an open air meeting at the top of the sand bank on Occum road. The contest was won by the Rattlesnake patrol. Next Sunday the troop is to attend the morning service at the Taftville Congregational church in a body.

The basketry class met Thursday evening in the Red Cross rooms in the Ponemah building.

Cards are out announcing the marriage of Miss Florence Barbara Lukoff of Norwich Town to William Henry Whitehead of Boswell avenue.

George Gauthier has resigned his position with the Ponemah mills.

A meeting of Court Wequonnoc, No. 88, Foresters of America, was held Thursday evening in the court rooms on Dion street. Chief Ranger Joseph E. Benae presided.

George H. Young of North Third avenue has been a visitor this week in Boston.

Lewis A. Brown of Boston, was a business caller in the village Thursday.

Members of Boy Scout troop No. 4 sold Buddy Poppies in the village Tuesday night under the direction of their scoutmaster, Joseph Waldron. Scout Dugas led in the number of sales and Scout Chenette was second. Scouts participating in the sale were Lavigne, Dugas, Chenette, Waldron, Lemoine, Shaneuf and Mahew. The scouts were complimented for their fine work which was greatly appreciated by members of the auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The drive was in charge of Mrs. Victor J Plante.

NORWICH TOWN

At the Wauregan House Wednesday evening when the teams on the drive for funds for the Salvation Army met, and reports were given concerning the first two days' work, the Norwich Town team was able to state the largest amount pledged of any of the teams. This was very gratifying to the active workers on this team, which comprises the following members: Captain, Mrs. David M. Dean; Lieutenant, Mrs. Michael Buckley; and Mrs. Clyde M. Beebe, Mrs. Henry F. Frazier, Mrs. Walter A. Heath, Mrs. Ruby Fenton Jordan, Mrs. Charles P. Learned, Mrs. John O. Olsen, Mrs. Charles Schwenk, Mrs. Mabelle Scott and Miss Mary Wattles.

The musical hour at Backus hospital Sunday afternoon, will be under the auspices of the First Baptist church, Norwich, with Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler in charge. The participants will comprise the three original members of the Gulle Trio of Norwich.

The proceeds from the play "The Farmerette," given Wednesday evening in the Norwich Town chapel amounted $43.13. This was divided equally between the participants, Mrs. Ernest Newbury's Sunday school class (The Cleaners) of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, Norwich and Ever Ready Circle of the King's Daughters of Norwich Town, under whose auspices the play was given. From the sale of home-made candy, plus the one half proceeds of the entertainment the circle netted $37.55.

A service for Memorial day, will be held at the Norwich Town Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. Albert E. Whitten, pastor, Sunday morning.

The district superintendent, Rev. Myron E. Genter, is to preach at this church, Sunday evening at 7.30, following the Christian Endeavor service. Miss Charlotte Fowler will be the vocal soloist at the evening service.

Rev. Samuel H. Howe, D. D., pastor of Park Congregational church, accompanied by the choir of that church, will conduct the Sunday afternoon service at the Sheltering Arms.

"Rev. Dayton Up-to-date." M. E. church vestry, tonight, 8 o'clock—adv.

Representing the Connecticut Humane society, district agent, Frederick H. Wyant, of Norwich Town, early this week visited the Norwich schools also schools in many suburban towns and presented prizes in the interests of the Humane society, to those pupils who were victorious in the recent Humane Poster contest. Instead of cash prizes as heretofore, this year the awards were gold, silver and bronze medals showing the seal of the society in the center, and a border in enamel, with the Humane slogan: "Kindness, Mercy and Justice." Many of these medals were distributed to pupils in Norwich district and a large number of contestants received honorable mention.

Beginning Sunday afternoon, June 8th, Rev. Albert E. Whitten, pastor of the Norwich Town M. E. church, will conduct a religious service at the Gardner Lake church each week. The time scheduled for the service is 3.15 (daylight saving time).

The meeting this (Friday) evening in the Norwich Town Congregational chapel is to be under the auspices of the Lookout committee of Norwich Christian Endeavor union. This conference is to have for its leader Mrs. Madilene Kruse of Hartford, formerly field secretary of Christian Endeavor in Kansas. Of the 21 societies in Norwich union, pastor, officers, chairmen of committees or representatives from each society will be included among those present.

BRINGS $10,000 SUIT FOR INJURIES

RECEIVED IN AUTOMOBILE CRASH

The following new suits, which are returnable in June, in the superior court, were filed here Thursday at the office of the clerk George E. Parsons:

Damages of $10,000 are sought by Frank Davis of Stonington in a suit against Maria Guillery of Jamaica Plains, Mass., for injuries in an automobile accident in April, 1926. Davis was riding in an automobile on the road from Mystic to Stonington, when, it is claimed, the defendant was driving a machine in the opposite direction in the opposite direction and turned out in such a way that there was a collision with the Davis machine. Davis was thrown out and injured and disfigured about the face and head.

Stonington Foreclosure

Foreclosure of a mortgage for $22,500, on which it is claimed a balance of $18,000 is due, is sought in a suit brought by Frances Dunlop of Concord, Mass., against A. A. Greene of Providence. The property covered by the mortgage is real estate of the Braided Thread corporation in Stonington, which was sold on April 30, 1926, to Greene by B. H. Hewitt, receiver of the thread corporation.

Railroad Man Injured

George F. Isaacs of New London, a former Central Vermont railroad employe, sues Angelo Drago of New London for $5,000 damages for injuries received March 27, 1924 when he was struck while walking on Main street, New London, by the automobile of the defendant, which was operated by the defendant or his agent. Isaacs claims that he has been permanently injured and will not again be able to follow his occupation with the railroad at which he earned $4 per day.

Sewer Assessment Appeals

Joseph N. Lapointe, owner of property on Pequot avenue, New London, appeals from the sewer assessment made against the property of $649.50, alleging that this assessment is not in due proportion which should have been assessed against the property. He alleges that the sewer will be four feet above the lower floor of the apartment building on his property, so that unless he discontinues the use of four apartments in the building he will be obliged to continue to use his private sewer. Furthermore, all the piping in the building now runs through the walls to a point many feet below the Pequot avenue point sewer and enters the private sewer at the rear of the premises and any attempt to rearrange the plumbing to connect to the two upper floors with the new sewer would be a very expensive matter and permanently injure the arrangement of the building.

J. Harry Meadnis, also owner of Pequot avenue property, having 107 feet on the westerly side and 114 feet on the easterly, also appeals against the sewer assessments on his property which were $488.38 and $519.84. He claims that the benefits were assessed at the rate of $4.56 per front foot without regard to grade or value of the various lots or the circumstances tending to enhance or diminish the benefit to specific lots. The larger part of his property on the easterly side of Pequot avenue is very narrow and below the street level, so that he claims the assessment rate on this property is unjust and unreasonable and this property is not directly and appreciably benefitted by the sewer.

In an appeal to the superior court for relief from a sewer assessment in Pequot avenue, New London, Annie C. Mitchell, a property owner who was assessed $2,899.92 on property having a frontage of 526.3 feet, alleges that the sewer will be of no use to her because her property is a shore lot and that she already has a sewer into the harbor.

Seeking Divorce

Walter L. Blain of New London sues for divorce from Jewel Lynn Blain of Van Buren, Ark., whom he married March 2, 1921. He alleges desertion on Dec. 10, 1923 and asks the custody of a four year old daughter.

Foreclosures in Waterford

Two foreclosure suits against the estate of the late James Sweeney of New London are brought by the Savings bank of New London. One contains three counts, viz.: a $5,500 mortgage, dated July 29, 1912 on property in Waterford; $1,500 mortgage, dated Feb. 5, 1914, on Waterford property; and $2,000 mortgage, dated Feb. 24, 1917 on Waterford property. The estate of Joseph A. Dolan claims an attachment for $3,000 and Alex Pionetti claims a $750 attachment.

The other suit is on a mortgage for $2,750, dated June 13, 1917 on property in Waterford. The National Bank of Commerce and W. Don Lundy, administrator with the will annexed of the estate of Frank B. Brandegee claims a mortgage for $2,750.

NORWICH LIONS AGAIN ELECT ANDERSON PRESIDENT

At the annual election of the Norwich Lions club Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel, William A. Anderson was re-elected president for the coming year. There was the usual large attendance and the song leader was Tyler Stanton. The principal business was the election of officers. Dr. Clarence G. Thompson, chairman of the nominating committee presented the following list: President, William A. Anderson; vice presidents, John T. Barry, Louis Fontaine and Max Hanover; secretary, Earl Taggart; treasurer, Joseph A. French; lion-tamer, George Madden; tail-twister, Charles Frink; board of directors, William R. Frisbie, Kopland K. Markoff and Dr. Clarence G. Thompson.

The nominees were unanimously elected and will assume their duties July 1st. President Anderson announced the programme committee for June as follows: Joseph A. French, Abe Agranovitch and Louis Crandall. The chairman of this committee announced that the speaker for next week's meeting will be Rev. A. H. Abbott and the song leader Earl Taggart.

R. H. Montgomery was welcomed into membership during the meeting and a report of progress was made relative to the ladies night to be held July 1st at Ownegatchie. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner followed by the salute to the flag.

SEYMOUR PLAUT BUILT BUSINESS IN JAMAICA

"The man who built a great business on a hunch" is the way the Queens county (Long Island) News describes Seymour Plaut, a former Norwich boy, who is now one of the firm of Plaut Bros., proprietor of a large retail store in Jamaica, Long Island.

Seymour Plaut was a son of the late Joseph Plaut and lived at 34 Washington street when his home was in this city. He is a cousin of Rutherford C. Plaut and was well known as "Red" Plaut. At one time as a boy he worked on the steamer Block Island for Charles F. Noyes, now a millionaire real estate broker in New York city, and for several seasons young Plaut was a bellhop at the Plimpton house, Watch Hill.

The Long Island newspaper sketches Mr. Plaut's career as follows:

"Plaut Brothers department store, a business that was made from a hunch!" That may be a bold way of saying it, but it is true, nevertheless. Plaut Brothers opened their first store here just because Seymour Plaut had heard of Jamaica, came to see the town, saw the possibilities and was confident that here was a community that could not fail to grow. Here is the way it happened, as told by Mr. Plaut to an interviewer for The Queens County News this week:

Mr. Plaut was born in Norwich, Conn., on March 26, 1883. He began his education there and attended New England schools until he reached the age of 12, when the family moved to Harlem. Here he continued his schooling. At an early age he entered the brokerage business, traveling through the west, having headquarters in Denver. Col. Mr. Plaut had heard much about the "Go West, Young Man" idea and thought it worthy of a trial. Today his motto is: "Come East, Young Man."

The local merchant traveled practically through the entire country. Everywhere he kept his eyes open for an opportunity to enter the retail field, for he had always liked that line of work. But the west seemed to offer no such possibility, so the young man returned to the east and accepted a position in Manhattan.

The Name Stuck

One evening he was discussing with a group of men possibilities in the retail field in or around New York. Someone who had once visited Jamaica told what he knew of the town. Mr. Plaut listened. Here, he decided, was just the place he had searched the country for. The name 'Jamaica' stuck in his mind through the night and was still there in the morning when he started for business.

At the 125th street subway station he had the "hunch" that meant so much to him in later years, he decided to go over to Jamaica and look over the field. He asked the guard how to reach this section—that was long before the "L" ran to 168th street—and he was told to ride to Atlantic avenue and take a train. Forsaking business for the day he made the trip to Jamaica and walked up what was then Fulton street (now Jamaica avenue.)

"I saw the number of people that were here," said Mr. Plaut, "close to Manhattan and what was destined to be a beautiful home community, and immediately recognized the possibilities in the retail game here." Returning to Harlem, he talked the matter over with his brothers and they decided to accompany him here the following day. They did and on that day they entered the real estate office of F. K. Meynan and the late John Booth.

Rented in 48 Hours

A store on Jamaica avenue, on the site of their present building, was vacant. It was between a Chinese Mundry and Jamaica's first theater, the original Comedy Playhouse. It was owned by John Wyckoff, of the Queens County Trust Co., now the American Trust, and the Plaut brothers rented it. And this, bear in mind, was less than 48 hours after they had first heard of Jamaica.

From the very beginning the business was successful. The little ground floor store, 40 by 100 feet, was soon too small and they kept expanding until today Plaut Brothers require approximately 7,000 square feet of space to carry on their retail business. The first store, by the way, was opened on May 8, 1909, just 17 years ago this month.

After Mr. Plaut had told this story to the interviewer, he stopped talking and appeared to be in deep thought. The writer expected to hear something about "the good old days" being better than today, but nothing like that happened. In fact, it was just the opposite. Today, said the merchant, there are all kinds of possibilities on Long Island. The west, at the time he was traveling through it, could not, nor can it today compare with Long Island. "There is probably gold in the west if you know where to dig for it," he said, "but on Long Island you can see it."

A Likeable Man

Mr. Plaut is a likeable man. He possesses a pleasing personality and a smile that goes a long way. He is an interesting talker, too. The desk at which he sat while telling this story to the writer was immaculate. There were no piles of papers scattered about. Everything was in its place. Even the tray which held the ashes from the cigar which he was smoking was emptied as soon as it became filled.

Mr. Plaut resides with his family a wife and two children, at 5 Hillcrest avenue, Jamaica. He is affiliated with various civic and fraternal organizations and has one hobby (that of many business men.) What is it? The answer is: golf.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE IN ITS CLOSING DAY

The appeal to raise $4,500 in the city of Norwich for the Salvation Army maintenance fund will close tonight (Friday). The captains and workers will gather at a luncheon to be given at the Wauregan hotel at 6.30 p. m. sharp. All the division commanders, team captains and workers are very earnestly urged by the campaign leaders to be present and to bring in their reports. An appeal is also made to the workers to make an extra effort during the day to see the prospects they selected to visit. With the opening of the territory to all workers they have the opportunity of appealing for contributions from their friends and acquaintances who have not been solicited in behalf of the campaign, and thereby materially helping the cause. The Salvation Army again appeals to the kindness and generosity of the people of Norwich who were not solicited by the workers of the campaign to send in their subscription today to John R. Tarrant, treasurer, and address it in care of the Banker's Trust Company, Norwich, Conn. Mr. Tarrant will be very glad to receive contributions from donors who desire to bring their subscriptions in person at the bank. Every subscription fills a worthy need and will help some unfortunate, not reached by any other organization. Subscriptions may also be sent to the Salvation Army headquarters, 10 Cliff street, Norwich, Conn.

Earl G. Taggart, chairman, and Mr. McCabe, manager of the campaign, pin their faith for the success of the drive on the zeal and enthusiastic effort of the ladies' division taking part in the drive. The opening of the territory to all workers will enable the ladies to bring many contributions which would not have been obtained otherwise. Mr. McCabe in speaking of the campaign said, "I have been connected with campaign work in numerous cities during the past four years and in no place have I witnessed such noble sacrifice and sincere effort made by the women as is put forth by the fine ladies of Norwich. I shall ever remember the kind courtesy and co-operation given to me in this campaign by Mrs. Ebenezer Learned and her lady co-workers. It was both a pleasure and an inspiration from the first day I came to Norwich to take charge of the campaign work. Mr. Case also spared no effort and gave me a great amount of his valuable time and advice and has contributed a great deal to the success so far made by the campaign. The hospitality of the people of Norwich made me feel among friends from the first day I came here and I can find no words of thanks sufficiently appropriate of expressing my appreciation and gratitude to all the people of Norwich."

DRY LEADERS ASSUMING OFFENSIVE IN THE SENATE

They Are Preparing to Force at This Session the Administration Bill For Tightening Up the Volstead Act—The Wets Declare They Are Ready For the Battle and Will Press Several Amendments, Including One For a National Referendum on the Prohibition Question.

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Aroused by the repeated onslaught of the wets, some of the outstanding dry leaders are preparing to force the issue in the senate at this session on the administration bill for tightening up the Volstead act.

The wets said today they are ready for the battle and will press several amendments, including those for a national referendum on the prohibition question and translating into law. The language of the 18th amendment permitting the manufacture and sale of beverages "non-intoxicating in fact."

While lines are being drawn up for this fight, the uproar over President Coolidge's executive order authorizing the employment of state and local officers as federal enforcement brnis continues. The order was defending today in the senate by Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina, who declared that the fewer federal prohibition agents there were in the state the better for law enforcement.

The senate judiciary sub-committee appointed to inquire into the legality of the order, failed to meet today, but Chairman Cummins hopes to have a session not later than next Tuesday. There is little probabily that any hearing will b eheld.

BUSY DAY FOR CROWN PRINCE AND PRINCESS OF SWEDEN

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)— The crown prince, and princess of Sweden were kept on the move throughout the first full day of their visit to the capital by a continuous round of activities which gave them an insight into social, political and scientific phases of American life.

After breakfast at the Swedish legation, they went to the national museum, then to the capitol to watch congress function. They were luncheon guests at the British embassy, visited the bureau of standards during the afternoon and late in the day attended a reception given in their honor by John Hays Hammond. Tonight they were guests at a white house dinner.

Today's schedule left the prince and his consort tired but enthusiastically waiting for tomorrow's events which will culminate in the unveiling of the memorial to John Ericsson, designer of the Monitor of Civil war fame. It was chiefly to attend this ceremony, at which President Coolidge will deliver an address, that they came to the United States.

At the national museum, the royal couple bent studiously over glass cases filled with curios, ranging from American, Mexican and European antiquities, sandstone slabs marked by fossil fotprints, to gigantic skeletons of prehistoric reptiles, mastadons and numerous paleontogical specimens.

"What a pity" the prince said at his second finally persuaded him to leave the museum. He was reluctant to go without seeing more of its wonders which were of particular interest to him because of his own archeological researches.

GENERAL ASSEMBLY OF THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

BALTIMORE, May 28.—(AP)—Reiteration of fundamentalist doctrine, tempered slightly by moderatism, comprised the body of the report of the committee of 16 presented to the 138th general assembly of the Presbyterian church in the United States of America today.

The report, prepared by the committee at the order of last year's general asembly, did not touch upon primary points which have separated the fundamentalists and modernists. Neither did it recognize either body of the church as such.

The main points of diversion have been a strict interpretation of the virgin birth the resurrection in body and in spirit, and different ideas regarding the observance of the Westminister articles of faith, with modernists have held might be observed better by the application of present day modern viewpoints.

Recognizing that in some religious there is a tendency to ridicule the bible, considering it only traditional literature. The committee came the nearest to treating the modernist cause.

"As for as the commission has been able to learn," it reported, "there is in the Presbyterian church so second party such as has been described."

SAILOR HELD FOR MURDER COMMITTED TWO YEARS AGO

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP) — The shadow of an old gallows, unused for years, on the top floor of the federal building here, today hung over Joseph Maro, seaman, who was held without bail on a federal charge of murder said to have been committed two years ago aboard a Mallory line steam in Lake Horn harbor, Italy.

Maro, who gave his home address as 293 East street, New Haven, Conn., is accused of killing Joseph Coonts, a fellow seaman, who died in an Italian hospital from knife wounds. Maro disappeared from the ship at the time but federal agents later arrested him in Philadelphia.

He told Federal Commissioner O'Neal, before whom he appeared in the federal building today, he was 31 years of age and a naturalized citizen.

The penalty for murder under a federal trial is death by hanging. In a state case the condemned person is sent to the electric chair. It was said that while there have been several trials for murder on the high seas, there have been no federal convictions for first degree in recent years.

IMMEDIATE TRIAL OF C. W. MORSE ORDERED

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Immediate trial of Charles W. Morse, of New York and others, under an indictment returned in New York in 1922, was ordered today by Attorney General Sargent.

The indictment charged conspiracy to use the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of stock of the United States Steamship company.

Fletcher Dobyns, of Chicago, has been designated as a special assistant to prosecute the case. He probably will be assisted by Sylvester R. Rush, of the department of justice.

The Morse corporation was organized and controlled by Morse and his sons, Harry F., Benjamin W., and Edwin A., who, the department of justice said, are the principal defendants. It is expected the case will be brought to trial within sixty days.

LIEUT. RICHARD E. BYRD CAUGHT COLD IN LONDON

LONDON, May 28.—(AP) — By a strange irony of fate, Lieutenant Commander Richard E. Byrd, none the worse from 15 hours in the air, facing arctic breezes on his recent flight from Spitsbergen to the north pole, has come to London only to catch a cold.

He is still full of energy, however, and is already laying plans to revisit the north pole, with the hope of discovering land. Then, after he has fully satisfied himself as to that, he will begin work on another airplane expedition to the antarctic.

Lieutenant Commander Byrd told "The Associated Press" he was more convinced than ever after his pole flight that unexplored lands exist somewhere between Ellamere Island and the Axel Heiberg Island and Alaska. He reached these conclusions after studying the currents and conditions generally during his recent flight. He said he might make his next north pole flight in 1927, but the date of his south pole expedition is indefinite.

Asked what was the greatest thrill of the flight, Byrd replied:

"Well, it was not what most persons might imagine. It was not after we had taken our calculations showing we had reached the pole, nor when Bennett and I shook hands warmly over our accomplishments; nor was it when we landed back after completing the flight. The truth is that the most supreme thrill of my career came when we took off from Spitsbergen and I realized that at last I was bound for the pole sure as fate. It was more than a thrill; it was a tingling, shrivelling sensation throughout my body which I won't ever forget."

SUSPECT LEFT BY PLANE TO AVOID SERVING OF PAPERS

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP)—David J. Allen, manager of the Gilt Edge Beverage company of Lawrence, this afternoon left Massachusetts by airplane for his home in Jersey City to avoid service by federal officers on a Chicago indictment charging conspiracy to ship intoxicants.

Allen yesterday in United States court here was granted a renewal of a permit to manufacture near beer at Lawrence. It was said here that the federal commissioner in New Jersey had refused to order his removal to Chicago to face the charges there. The local court made it safe for him to come here for the permit hearing by granting him a writ of protection.

Today when the officers seeking him contended that this writ expired when he left the court, Judge Anderson granted him a few hours extension. Allen then chartered a plane in which he could soar free from service seekers over the intervening states of Rhode Island and Connecticut to his New Jersey home where sanctuary had already been given him.

Should he return to Massachusetts to oversee his brewery business he would face possible arrest under the Chicago indictment.

WOMEN TO REPRESENT CONN. AT THE SESQUICENTENNIAL

HARTFORD, Conn., May 28.—(AP)—Seven prominent women have already been recommended to Mrs. Clarence H. Wickham, regent of Ruth Wyllys chapter, D. A. R., as eligible to be among the four selected to represent Connecticut at the Philadelphia Sesqui-Cenntennial exposition. Mrs Wickham has been appointed to arrange for the selection of the four women who in the opinion of Judges she will name have done most for this state cultural and civic pursuits during the last fifty years. The four chosen will be honored on "Connecticut Day" at the exposition.

The seven names submitted so far are those of Mrs. George Maynard Minor of Waterford, Mrs. John Laidlow Buel, of Litchfield, Miss Clara A. Pease, of Hartford; Mrs. Emily H. Russell, of New Haven, Mrs. F. W. Gerard, of New Haven, Miss Katherine Ludington, of Old Lyme and Mrs. Mary Longman Batcheider, of Windsor.

STATE'S PRISON SENTENCE HANGS OVER CHARGES PONZI

BOSTON, May 28.—(AP)—Exceptions taken by Charles Ponzi, postal coupon money maker, to his sentence for conviction of conspiracy to convict larceny were overruled today by the full bench of the state supreme court.

In July, 1925, Ponzi was sentenced in superior court to a seven to nine year term in state's prison as "a common and notorious thief" following his conviction of larceny from investors in his coupon scheme. Ponzi who is now in Florida, will have to serve the sentence should he come within the court's jurisdiction.

MUSSOLINI DECLARES ITALY PEACEFULLY IMPERIALISTIC

ROME, May 28.—(AP)—Italy is an imperialist nation, Premier Mussolini told the senate tonight.

But, he added, her imperialism, far from being aggressive, explosive or in preparation for war, is the peaceful, intellectual, cultural and economic expression of a great national arriving somewhat late at its maturity.

The arrested man gave his name as Rosenberg.

Negro Bandit Wounded In An Attempt to Hold Up Two State Policemen

HARTFORD, May 28.—(AP)—One of three Negro bandits was severely wounded in a gun fight with two state policemen tonight on the Berlin turnpike in Wethersfield when the Negroes attempted to hold up the officers, after having successfully robbed the occupants of another car. The wounded man was taken to Hartford hospital, but is still unidentified. The other men escaped and a squad of state policemen were searching the vicinity late tonight.

The policemen, who opened fire as soon as they were stopped by the armed Negroes, were Paul Lavin and Joseph Kamenski, of the Hartford barracks. Herbert F. Bauer, of 135 Broad street, and Miss Harriet Cannon, of 478 Hillside avenue, were held up prior to the attempt to hold up the state policemen.

The affair tonight was one of a series of hold-ups believed to have been perpetrated during the past week by the same men. Superintendent Robert T. Hurley of the state police said that numerous complaints have been received from motorists in the past several days of being held up. The assailants in each case were reported to be Negroes, and the police believe that the same hold-up men have been concerned in the srie.

The men are extremely vicious characters from the reports, Superintendent Hurley said. Nearly all of their victims were subjected to thorough searching for valuables. The amounts obtained have varied from small sums to considerable amounts, the superintendent said.

Among those making a search fo the escaped bandits were State Policemen Lavin and Kamenski, who resumed the search after taking the wounded man to the hospital, Grand Juror Joseph Maurice, his son, William Maurice and Constable Nowak, of Wethersfield and State Policemen Watrous and Kelley.

WOMEN'S CLUBS SUBDUE LOUISVILLE REBELLION

ATLANTIC CITY, May 28.—(AP)—The "Louisville rebellion" aginst majority control within the general federation of women's clubs, was officially put down today. The federation board in an executive meting unanimously decided that a resolution of the Louisville delegation asking that this policy be rescinded was not an "emergency measure," and therefore could not be considered at this convention.

The point at issue has been defined by Mrs. John D. Sherman, national president, thus:

"When a resolution has been adopted either unanimously or by a majority, is should be considered the action of the organization. State federations or individual clubs opposed to the action taken should not conduct campaigns in the name of the state or club in opposition to that of the general federation."

Mrs. Gilbert Davis, chairman of the legislation department, characterized the Louisville controversy as simply a move to secede from the general federation.

The board was also called upon to vote to abolish the office of corresponding secretary, transferring these duties to the Washington headquarters and authorized appointment of an assistant treasurer, who shall be a salaried officer.

CAUGHT AT GRADE CROSSING TURNED AUTO DOWN TRACK

STAMFORD, May 28.—(AP)—Andrew Troneck, of 163 Washington avenue, may not be a movie dare-devil, but he has taught the movies one good way to beat death in front of a train at a grade crossing.

Late today Troneck was driving his touring car at a fair rate of speed toward the New Canaan branch line crossing. He evidently did not hear the ominous howl of the locomotive, for when he reached the crossing, it was too late for him to shoot ahead and he could not stop. It seemed that another tragedy was about to be suddenly added to the daily harvest of death in the unequal struggle between auto and train.

But Troneck did not lose his head. When he saw that it was too late to go ahead or stop, he quickly steered onto the track, turned a sharp right, stepped on the gas, and dashed down the track a foot ahead of the on-coming train.

When Engineer David Moore, saw what seemed to him to be an unavoidable accident, he threw on the brakes of his engine and yanked frantically at the whistle and waited for the crash. Fortunately for Troneck the suddenly reduced speed of the engine inflicted no more than a broken wheel on the impromptu dare-devil's scare, and after bumping ahead of the train for about 100 feet, the auto wheled over to the station platform and ripped a slice from the flat structure. Troneck was unhurt and, after he recovered from his perturbation, called a wrecker and had his automobile towed from the track. His sole comment was "whew!"

CAUGHT IN WILLIMANTIC WITH ALCOHOL IN CAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 29.—Joseph H. Saba, formerly of 290 Summit street, this city, now of New London, was arrested here by the police at 12:30 this morning on a charge of transporting liquor. His consignment of booze, it was reported, was to be delivered to Joseph Colorada of 209 Mansfield avenue, this city, who had been arested previously in the evening after a raid at his home, on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell. Alcohol and a bottle of Scotch was found at his home. The roadster driven by Saba in which six five-gallon cans of alcohol were found, was registered under the name of Joe Parcl, 50 Smith street, New London. Both Colorada and Saba will be arraigned in police court this morning.

RIFFIAN WAR LORD HAS FORMALLY SURRENDERED

FEZ, French Morocco, May 28.—(AP)—Abd-El-Kirm, the deposed reffian chieftan, who on Wednesday announced his submission, made formal surrender today at Taza, to representatives of General Bojchut, French commander-in-chief in Morocco.

The ceremony, which took place at Camp Giradot, was not imposing. Krim was treated like any other ordinary tribal chieftain laying down his arms, in accordance with the request of the Spanish government. The French announce Krim's brother, El Mahammed, and his uncle are expected also to come within the French lines in the near future. Tribesmen ready ready to surrender are continuing to approach the French outposts.

DRY LEADERS OUT TO DEFEAT SENATOR WADSWORTH

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—New York state "dry" leaders declared today they are out to defeat U. S. Senator Wadsworth, republican, even if that splits the republican party and elects a democratic candidate, who, they said, would be less dangerous because "he would be in minority at Washington."

The announcement followed a conference today of representatives of the Anti-Saloon league, the W. C. T. U., the prohibition national committee, and the Methodist Laymen of the New York conference.

The question of naming independent dry candidates for Governor and other officers was left in abeyance for the time being, but the state prohibition leaders said they would not be diverted from the contemplated split with the G. O. P. persuasions to concentrate on the forthcoming rum referendum.

MIDDLE OF ROAD BAPTISTS VICTORIOUS IN CONVENTION

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—The "Middle of the Road" element of the northern baptist convention was victorious today in the only test of strength against the ultra-fundamentalist groups, and it is asserted only a few centres of resistance are left in the Mrala region. Tomorrow M. Steeg, the French resident general, plans to visit the subdued tribesmen in their country to promise them generous treatment.

FIVE GIRLS PERISHED IN A FIRE AT ROCKFORD, ILL.

Eight Other Persons Are Known to Have Been Seriously Injured in Blaze Which Swept Building Occupied by Dealers in Automobile Accessories—The Bodies of the Dead Were Burned so Badly They Could Not Be Recognized

ROCKFORD, Ill., May 28—(AP)—Five girls are dead and eight persons are known to be seriously injured as the result of a fire which swept a building occupied by the Sutton Toy shop, a concern dealing in automobile accessories. The bodies were burned so badly they could not be recognized.

One of the injured girls, Catherine Wood, was burned so severely about the face that it is feared she may go blind. All but five of the 13 girls employed on the second floor succeeded in finding their way out of the smoke filled room down the only stairway. The bodies of the five were found by firemen who fought their way into the building.

The fire started when a strip of celluloid being sawed in a machine, on the ground floor, burst into flames.

SCHOONER EFFIE M. MORRISSEY IS STILL UNACCOUNTED FOR

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—With all the principal ports of call along the coast heard from, the schooner Effie M. Morrissey, on which the American museum of natural history Greenland expedition was to sail, was still unaccounted for and a week overdue at New York tonight.

The schooner left Brigus, N. F., May 21 under command of Capt. Robert A. Bartlett, veteran ice navigator who commanded ships for Admiral Peary on two of his polar dashes. She was due at New York, May 21. She is without wireless.

At Eastport, West Quoddy, Rockland, Bar Harbor, Boothbay Harbor, Machias and Portland, the principal ports of call along the coast, the Morrissey has not been seen. It was reported today. At the navy yard here it was said no report of the schooner being in distress had been received.

George Palmer Putnam, director of the Greenland expedition, said the schooner was of sturdy construction, being built of oak and known to be seaworthy.

The expedition was scheduled to leave early in June. Its purpose is to obtain specimens of narwhal, tusked whale, walrus, musk oxen and other creatures for the American and Denver museums. The Morrissey was to be equipped with wireless and diesel engines on her arrival here in preparation for her voyage to subpolar regions.

QUEEN OF SWINDLERS CAPITALIZED HER CHARM

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The "prominent society woman," sought by the state attorney general's office as "the queen of the swindlers" was said today to rely more upon "her great beauty and charm" than upon any social prestige in luring prospective victims in an alleged $5,000,000 stock pool swindle.

The attorney general's office, which announced yesterday she was one of the ring leaders in the swindle, said today that although she was well known along Broadway, her social standing was not such as to admit her into every sphere.

The officers still searched tonight for the head of the band, who they said was a business man widely known in this city, and for the woman, and a "prominent" lawyer, described as the business man's chief assistant.

The woman is reported to have presided over a luxurious apartment where prospective victims were lavishly entertained.

COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND BY MAINE CENTRAL ROAD

PORTLAND, Me., May 28—(AP)—After a lapse of nearly six years the first dividend on the 120,000 shares of common stock of the Maine Central railroad was declared by the directors today. It was a special dividend of $1 per share, payable June 15, to holders of common stock of record on June 1.

Three months ago the company completed the payment of four years' deferred dividends, amounting to $600,000, on the $3,000,000 five per cent cumulative preferred stock. President Morris McDonald stated today that further dividends on the common stock would be paid as the earnings and cash position of the company would warrant. Previous to 1920, $6 was paid annually.

SENATOR SMOOT SEIZED WITH ACUTE INDIGESTION

WASHINGTON, May 28.—(AP)—Senator Smoot, republican, Utah, was taken ill with acute indigestion in his office at the Capitol today and a physician summoned.

Suffering intense pain, Senator Smoot was placed on a couch and physician and office attendants worked vigorously to afford him relief. Concern was felt over his condition because he had a similar attack last fall, from which he recovered after a long rest.

The physician summoned to the office said Senator Smoot's condition was not critical. It was some time, however, before he felt able to go to his home.

STEAMER DAMAGED IN COLLISION WITH ICEBERG

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 28—(AP)—Collision with an iceberg 150 miles southeast of Cape Race was reported by officers of the steam Westlea on arrival here today. The forward compartment was set a leak, although the pumps worked satisfactorily. Heavy ice, fog and stormy seas caused the captain to make harbor here until the weather improved.

The steamer, bound from Montreal to the United Kingdom with grain, was going dead slow through a dense fog last Wednesday when the collision occurred.

ESTIMATED FIRE LOSS AT $1,500,000 AT BOYTERTOWN, PA.

BOYTERTOWN, Pa., May 28.—(AP)—A loss estimated at $1,500,000 was caused today when fire wiped out the interior of the seven story metal department building of the Boytertown Burial Casket company. The blaze was started by sparks from a polishing machine which ignited fumes from a spraying machine.

If the other fellow is bound to worry reduce it 50 per cent by cheerfully letting him do so.

NORTH PLATTE VALLEY FARMERS FEAR FOR CROPS

SCOTT'S BLUFF, Neb., May 28—(AP)—With no immediate agreement in sight and with their crops in dire need of moisture, the North Platte valley water controversy assumed an ominous aspect tonight reports indicated.

Some leaders in the fight fear the more radical farmers would resort to violence which was openly intimated late last night when Secretary of the Interior Work and Reclamation Commissioner Mead were hanged in effigy here.

The disagreement between the valley farmers and officials of the irrigation project, virtually the sole source of moisture for the valley crops, came over payment of operating and maintenance costs of the project. Reclamation Commissioner Mead holds that all past dues must be paid or payment secured by proper notes while the farmers claim all payments should be deferred until a reclasification feature of the recent omnibus water bill, providing for downward readjustment of about $23,000,000 on construction and other charges levied against 18 western projects, is made.

Pending a settlement the dammed up waters are stagnant and the growing crops are without water.

Today, teigerams of protest from Nebraska leaders were wired to President Coolidge, Secretary Work and Commissioner Mead. Governor McMullen wired that something must be done immediately to save the crops.

The North Platte valley project comprises almost 200,000 acres of land, lying on both sides of the North Platte river, and extending from Lingle, Wyoming, to North Port.

FIRE IN THE BERENGARIA MEZZANINE DINING HALL

NEW YORK, May 28—(AP)—When passengers in the main dining saloon looke dcaimly on as at a display of fire works the ceiling of Mezzanine dining hall burned away on the liner Berengaria while the third largest liner on the seas, carrying 1,104 passengers, was midway of its trip from Cherbourg which ended today.

During the dinner hour Tuesday night there was a sudden explosion above the heads of the Mezzanine diners and sheets of flame spouted from the wooden panels of the ceiling. Momentary excitement was quickly subdued by stewards and ship's officers and diners near the fire, caused by defective wiring, were led to tables in the main dining room where they could look up at the blaze.

The crew piled the flames with extinghishers and hacked away the burning panels with axes. The fire was brought under control within an hour.

Among passengers dining when the fire broke out were Thomas W. Lamont, partner of J. P. Morgan. Ellis Kimbel, vice president of Gimbel Brothers Department store, and John E. Dockendorf, president of the American Diamond line. They all sat quietly at their tables.

BOSTON CITY CENSOR CLOSES STAGE DOORS TO BATHTUB GIRL

BOSTON, Mass., May 28—(AP)—The stage doors of Boston were closed today to Joyce Hawley, nude bather in Earl Carroll's stage bathtub, by City Censor John Casey after a consultation with Mayor Nichols and Police Commissioner Wilson. North Adams today did the same thing and the selectmen of Lunenberg decreed that the young artists' model could neither swim nor dance at Whalom park, summer resort of the neighboring cities of Fitchburg and Leominster.

Yesterday Mayor Welch of Northampton said "any young woman who will jump into a bathtub nude before a crowd of men is not the type of attraction we want in Northampton," and a few days before a scheduled appearance in Pittsfield was banned by the authorities.

NEWSPAPER "SOB STUFF" NOT READ BY WOMEN

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 28—(AP)—"Sob stuff" and women's interest slush" in newspapers are not read by women, but by men, who get "Advice to the Lovelorn" and "Confessions of Wives" their ideas of women.

This is the belief of Mrs. Louis Stringfellow Read, of Fayetteville, Arkansas, press chairman for the 2,000,000 women of the General Federation of Women's clubs.

"The women of the country feel strongly that the papers are carrying entirely too much "advice to the lovelorn" and "unhappy wife' copy" said Mrs. Read

"I assure you that women do read it. Men do and from such copy form their ideas of women."

FITZGERALD BOY RELEASED; BOND PROVIDED BY FATHER

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 28—John Fitzgerald, Jr., 17, of 12 Russell street, Cambridge, Mass., son of a prominent government employe in Cambridge, has been released on bail of $2,000 furnished by his father. Young Fitzgerald had been bound over to the next term of the Windham county superior court on a charge of a theft of an automobile belonging to Albert L. French in this city last Sunday afternoon. John Fitzgerald Sr. and a lawyer were in this city late Thursday and placed the bond with Judge Frank H. Foss. Fitzgerald's downfall is said to have been brought on from bad associations. The boy was a senior in one of the Cambridge high schools when he got into bad company. His habits became such that he had to be taken from school and put to work. He failed to hold any of the positions secured for him and he went on his last escapade after an altercation with his father. The boy with two friends, Ernest Beaudry, 18, of Cambridge and Robert Hanna of Somerville, stole a Hudson coach in Belmont, Mass., and drove it all night. They reached this city late last Sunday afternoon and their machine being crippled with a punctured tire they abandoned it and stole the French car which they also abandoned when chased by the police.

Ernest Beaudry, one of the companions, had been on parole from the Lyman Reform school for some time. He was brought before the Belmont, Mass., police court and given a sentence to take effect on June 19, following his graduation from grammar schools on June 16, when he will be returned to the reformatory. Robert Hanna is to be brought before the Belmont police court this Saturday for being implicated in the theft of the first automobile.

GIVE FINAL INSTRUCTIONS FOR MEMORIAL DAY PARADE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 28—Further announcements show that the exercises of the town of Windham in tribute to its soldier and sailor dead which are to be carried next Monday are to be appropriate in detail. All business and industrial activity will be suspended for the day.

The exercises this year are the 57th annual in honor of deceased veterans of the Civil war, and will include the decoration of the graves of veterans of the Revolution, War of 1812, Spanish American and World wars.

For the pilgrimage to the Windham Center, North Windham and St. Joseph's cemeteries the delegations of the veterans' organizations will start in motor trucks and private automobiles from the G. A. R. headquarters at the town building at 7 o'clock in the morning. The B. P. O. E. and St. Joseph's Boy Scout bands will accompany this body. The first halt will be at the entrance to South Windham and then at the three cemeteries mentioned. In the Windham burial grounds prayer and short addresses will be delivered by Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector of the St. Paul's Episcopal church here, Rev. Henry E. Quinn will offer prayer and benediction and deliver an address at St. Joseph's cemetery after which the procession will disband. At the G. A. WILLIAM J. SWEENEY DIED FRIDAY IN WILLIMANTIC

WILLIMANTIC, May 2—William J. Sweeney, 67, one of the leading citizens of Willimantic, died suddenly at his home, 233 Jackson street, at 2:45 o'clock Friday afternoon. Death was caused by the settling of a blood clot near the heart. Although made a cripple by the amputation of one leg in Aug. 1924, and having suffered another operation for a blood clot in the hand since that time, Mr. Sweeney had apparently rallied in health. With the use of crutches he had gone with his son, William R. Sweeney, into the latters flower garden in the rear of the family home. While looking at the flowers, current topics were discussed, Mr. Sweeney giving them his customary interest. As he entered the house he was stricken with a weak spell. He was assisted to a chair by his son where he lapsed into unconsciousness. While members of the family attempted to revive him with stimulants a physician and Rev. Henry E. Quinn of St. Joseph's parish were called, but death had overtaken him before they arrived. All of the members of the family were at the bedside when the end came.

The deceased is survived by his wife, Hannorah McDonough Sweeney, two sons, William R. and L. Vincent Sweeney, four daughters, the Misses May L., Helen L., Mildred R., and Alice G. Sweeney and two grandchildren John and Marion Sweeney, all of this city and one brother, David Sweeney of Providence, R. I.

In the death of William J. Sweeney the community suffers the loss of one of its oldest and most highly ethical business men, an outstanding leader in the promulgation of education and a highly esteemed citizen.

Born in Broomfield, Conn., Sept. 1, 1858, the son of John and Mary O'Donnell Sweeney, he removed to this city with the family when he was seven years of age. He was one of five sons. He received his schooling in the local public school and at an early age entered the employ of the Willimantic Linen company, now the American Thread company. Enterprising and ambitious he left the mill when a young man in his early twenties and opened a tobacco, confectionery and magazine store at Thread Mill square. Success attended this endeavor and within a few years he formed a partnership with the late ex-Mayor Daniel P. Dunn, the firm being known as Sweeney and Dunn.

The first store was conducted in the old Brainard block on Main street. When this was torn down to make way for the Murray block the concern moved into a building where the J. F. Carr store is now located. This establishment was destroyed by fire and the store at 3 and 5 Railroad street, which is still a news stand, was opened. That was in the days of the famous Ghost train, when newspaper deliveries in eastern Connecticut were made by pony express. The firm also bought out the James Walden store at 772 Main street and Mr Sweeney took charge at the latter location. A few years later the partnership was dissolved and the late D. P. Dunn took over the Railroad street store and Mr. Sweeney became the sole proprietor of the store on Main street in 1887, or 39 years ago. Sixteen years ago he took into partnership his eldest son, William R. Sweeney, who, for ten years, has managed the stationary and insurance business.

Mr. Sweeney was a member of the school committee of the town of Windham for about 27 years and chairman of the board for some years past. A number of years ago he served a term as first selectman of the town. He was a trustee of St. Joseph's parish for a quarter of a century. He was president of the board of incorporators of St. Joseph's hospital and vice president of the board of directors of the institution. Although he had been a member of several organizations in years past his fraternal affiliation of late consisted of membership in San Jose council No 14, Knights of Columbus.

His natural propensity for altruistic work led him into many charitable movements for which he claimed no reward but the contentment which comes of rendering a service. At work or play he upheld high ideals and he had an unmitigated faith in humanity. As a public official his struggles for modern standards, especially in the educational facilities in the town, were conducted in a united spirit with his co-workers, winning their esteem as well as that of those for whom he worked. As a business man he was one of the successful pupils of the old school and gave the fundamental training to many men who entered his employ as boys and have established themselves in the business world using his ethics as a foundation.

MEMBERS OF THE N. E. L. A. HOLD ENJOYABLE MEETING

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 28—The final meeting of the woman's committee of the N. E. L. A. composed of employes of the Rockville-Willimantic Lighting company was held at a local tea-room Friday evening with a luncheon. Had skin trouble so bad was ashamed to appear in public. Resinol completely healed it Hatboro, Pa., March 8—"Last summer I had a skin affection on my face, hands and arms. It kept spreading until I could not shave and hated to be seen in public. The itching was very annoying and nothing I tried gave me any relief. A friend recommended your Resinol Ointment and I bought some at once. The first application gave me relief, but I continued using it freely and in a very short time the itching disappeared and the trouble was completely cured. Needless to say, I have great faith in 'Resinol' for skin troubles." (Signed) J. H. Patterson.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap stop itching instantly, and clear away pimples, blackheads, redness, roughness and dandruff, in most cases, when all else fails. Physicians have prescribed the Resinol medication for 20 years. Resinol Soap is splendid for shampooing. For free sample, write to Dept. 2-R, Resinol, Baltimore, Md.

The seal that protects you. The Tydol dealer will gladly show it to you.

TYDOL

The only gasoline sold under a seal of protection

PROTECTING the quality of a gasoline is a difficult problem. Gasoline is colorless, and to the average motorist all gasolines look alike. Substitution is an easy matter. Especially when the quality of a gasoline is as high as that of Tydol, the risk of substitution looms big.

In New York City, for example, such dishonest substitution did take place—on a large scale. So-called "bootleg gasoline"—cheap, third-rate stuff was unloaded on the public through pumps plainly labelled with the trademarks of well-known quality gasolines.

Such a condition was intolerable to Tide Water, and to the Tydol dealers. To end the fraud which was being practiced on the public, a method of sealing Tydol pumps was devised so that Tydol and nothing but Tydol could be sold from a Tydol pump.

The sealed pump in this vicinity

And now the Tydol dealers in this vicinity have united in sealing all Tydol pumps. They want to prevent any possibility of inferior gasolines being substituted for Tydol. They believe that the high quality of Tydol deserves the seal of protection.

Therefore, a seal has been affixed on the intake pipe of every underground tank which feeds a Tydol pump. This seal is only broken when the dealer's tank is being filled with Tydol. Then the intake pipe is immediately resealed and remains sealed until the pump again needs to be refilled. Only genuine Tydol can enter a Tydol tank, only genuine Tydol can flow from the pump.

When you buy Tydol you get Tydol

Stop at the nearest Tydol dealer. Ask him to show you the seal that assures you that you get Tydol when you pay for Tydol. Your dealer is proud of his Tydol seal. And proud of Tydol, the only gasoline sold under a seal of protection.

DANIELSON

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS ARE NOW COMPLETED

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 28.—Details of the programs for observance of Memorial day in Danielson and surrounding communities on Sunday and Monday include the following information: On Sunday at 1:30 p. m., there will be an assembly at G. A. R. hall of the members of patriotic societies that are to go to South Killingly for the exercises to be held there. The South Killingly exercises will begin in the church at 3 o'clock, with Rev. Harding W. Gaylord in charge. Following the service there will be a procession, headed by the East Killingly band, to the cemeteries, where short exercises are to be held and the graves of the honored dead decorated.

Sunday evening union services attended by members of patriotic societies will be held in the Danielson Methodist Episcopal church, this service in charge of the pastor, Rev. Roger C. Stimson.

Monday morning patriotic societies of Danielson will go to Brooklyn to participate in the Memorial exercises to be held there and beginning at 9 o'clock. The procession at Brooklyn will be headed by St. James' band. DeForest Wells is chairman in charge of the arrangements in Brooklyn. Rev. H. W. Gaylord of Danielson will make the address at the exercises to be held in Unitarian hall.

Danielson's exercises are to be held Monday afternoon. The line will be formed at 1:15 opposite G. A. R. hall, with Thomas Beckett as marshal, Bernard Casey and Arthur Barnard as aides, and proceed to the Orpheum theatre, where the exercises will open at 1:30. St. James' band will head the line with the Service battery, 192d F. A., Captain F. O. Armstrong commanding, and the Sons of Veterans as escort for the G. A. R. Various patriotic organizations will be represented among the marchers.

Following the exercises in the theater, the line will be re-formed and proceed to Davis park, where brief exercises will be held at the soldiers' monument. From the monument the parade will go to Westfield cemetery, stopping at the bridge over the Assawaga river, where flowers will be strewed upon the waters in memory of those of the nation's defenders who have died at sea. From Westfield cemetery the line of march will be to St. James' cemetery and thence to G. A. R. hall, where the procession will be disbanded. The W. R. C. will then provide a lunch for all who have taken part in the procession.

All East Killingly exercises are to be held Monday morning beginning at the church at 10 o'clock, daylight saving time. Attorney Warren D. Chase of Southington is to be the orator of the day.

Funeral services for Mrs. Ida Vachon Marchessault, wife of Samuel Marchessault, were held at St. Joseph's church in Dayville Friday morning at 9 o'clock in the presence of a congregation that filled the church. Rev. John Cotter, M. S., was celebrant of the requiem high mass. Burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. The bearers were Daniel Page, Aime Godreau, William Beaudriers, Eugene Lucier, George Lucier and Arthur Marchessault. There were many beautiful floral remembrances. Martin T. Burns was the funeral director.

H. H. Ellis, director of the State Trade school at Putnam, is endeavoring to interest school authorities in eastern Windham county towns that have high schools in establishing a co-operative course, such as is now in effect in Putnam and North Grosvenordale. Such a course opens an opportunity for students to do both academic and manual work and is generally regarded as a very attractive proposition. The Putnam trade school is a splendid institution, ably directed and administered, and is to be enlarged at once that its value may be still further enhanced. Number of its graduates are now filling fine positions. There is no charge for tuition for students resident in Connecticut.

A number of relatives and friends attended the funeral services conducted Friday afternoon at L. E. Kennedy's funeral parlors for Mrs. Della Hoyle, widow of George A. Hoyle, who died in Mystic. Rev. C. J. Armstrong of the Baptist church conducted the service. Earl Winslow sang "Abide With Me, and Asleep in Jesus. Burial was in Westfield cemetery.

Business halts in memory of those dear departed friends and relatives of ours, and all of those who fought that this country might live. The Windham County National Bank, Danielson, Conn.—adv.

David Hebert, 80 years of age, died Friday at his home in Plainfield.

At the home of his daughter, Mrs. Fred A. Cole in Foster Friday afternoon funeral services for Theodore B. Cook were conducted by Rev. Gilbert B. Cutler of North Scituate. There were many relatives and friends at the service. The bearers were four grandsons, Howard Wood and Byron Wood of Foster, Irvin Blackmar and Howard Blackmar of Providence. Burial was in Clayville cemetery. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

At Killingly high school effort is now being concentrated on the construction of the new north wing. This wing is to be completed and ready for occupancy when the new school year opens next September. The south wing, which is to contain the auditorium and gymnasium, is expected to be completed by October 1. A large force is employed with the construction operations at the present time and from week to week material progress is being made. Bricklayers and carpenters are now carrying along the work of erecting the north wing, which is rising rapidly.

J. M. Mellor of Broad street, who has just returned from a motoring trip into northern Maine, where business interests called him, told Friday of seeing snow along the edges of the highways in some sections and of large areas of floating ice in lakes near Augusta and other places in that section. The snow remains from the storms of the past winter and late spring.

Between 200 and 300 people visited the Danielson grammar school Thursday evening at a special session arranged to permit of parents and other visitors seeing the schools engaged with their routine work. The visitors were delighted with the opportunity afforded them. They went about the building at will and observed the various grades carrying on their work. Friday evening Dayville had its visiting night session and Goodyear will have one on Wednesday evening of next week.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Manhattan Beach company held in the Brooklyn Savings bank it was voted to close the affairs of the corporation and dissolve its existence. This concern was organized years ago to deal and develop real estate at Manhattan Beach, near New York city. As a Connecticut corporation it was required to maintain an office in this state. It has not undertaken any new business in a number of years, so in taking the necessary legal steps to pass out of existence.

Joseph Christini of the Captain Put Engine company has a cut under one eye, an injury sustained when a section of hose burst while the company was having a workout. The injury is not of a serious nature.

A social hour followed the final meeting of the season of the Sewing society of St. Alban's parish at the parish house Friday afternoon.

The holiday exodus begins today. Many motoring parties have plans for trips to various parts of New England.

Chowder, steamed clams, fried eels and many other good eats Sunday and Monday at Meadowbrook inn, South Killingly, on Providence-Danielson road. Ample parking space and recreation grounds.—adv.

L. S. Ingalls, patient at a Worcester hospital, where he underwent a major surgical operation, is making very satisfactory progress toward a complete recovery.

Miss Mildred G. Burns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Burns of Riverview, was graduated Friday as a member of the class of nurses who have completed their course at the Hartford Hospital Training school. Miss Burns composed the Ivy song for the class.

Henry E. Church and a party that includes members from Danielson are at the Church place near Phoenixville to spend the holiday season.

George C. Bellerive has gone to New Bedford to spend the holiday season with relatives.

From one of the ponds near East Killingly Nason (Doc) Oatley has recently taken a pickerel that weighed three pounds and five ounces.

The Killingly High "Y" club has presented to Killingly high school for its trophy collection a silver cup won in the early spring in the county basketball tournament. The Killingly "Y" team was almost exclusively made up of Killingly high school players.

A meeting of representatives of various teams that are to make up Danielson's Twilight league was held Friday evening to work out a schedule and perfect other arrangements for the season.

JEWETT CITY

MEMORIAL DAY EXERCISES ARRANGED FOR SUNDAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 28.—The Memorial day exercises on Sunday will be held in Finn's Opera house at 2 o'clock, daylight time. Rev. John Landry will be the speaker. The singing of patriotic hymns will be led by the choirs of the four churches, directed by James Olson at the piano. There will be a duett by the Misses Verna Tarbox and Emma Dearnley. The usual public exercises at Pachaug cemetery will not be observed this year as illness in the community makes it inconvenient to carry out this plan. The graves, however, will be decorated under the direction of Frank Morgan.

The alarm for fire was sounded at 4:30 o'clock Friday morning for a blaze at the home of Bolek Ambot on Oak street. Mrs. Ambot discovered the flames coming through the roof. The firemen did excellent work, saving the house. The roof was destroyed and the upper rooms and furniture burned. The lower part of the house was damaged by water. The fire was particularly disheartening to the family, for the house had just been remodeled and furnished. One of the daughters was sleeping in her newly furnished room for the first time. A sum of money saved for a trip to New York had been placed in a silver jewel casket, which the heat melted and the money was burned. The house and furniture were insured. The cause of the fire is not known.

Postmaster and Mrs. W. T. Crumb entertained over the week end, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Larcher, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Larcher, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Haskell and daughter, Doris, of Springfield.

Richmond P. Gardner of New York who has been on tour with the Rose Marie company, is at home for a few days.

The post office closes Monday morning at 9 o'clock for the remainder of the day.

There is no service at the Baptist church on Sunday evening, as the Memorial service in Finn's Opera house takes the place of the evening service.

CANTERBURY GREEN

The meeting of the Ladies' Aid society at the Appley homestead was well attended Tuesday afternoon. Besides other work two quilts were tied. The next meeting place is undecided.

Mrs. Hale Bennett is spending the week at Washington, R. I., a guest in the home of her brother-in-law, A. N. Smith. Her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Bennett, and Judge Bennett accompanied her on the trip there Monday, though they returned that day.

The friends of James Towne are glad to see him again, as he is spending a few days at his home here.

Mrs. C. C. Frink is visiting in Brooklyn with her son, Marshall Frink and with her daughter, Mrs. Charles Hyde. Mrs. Harrison, who has been her companion the past year, has gone for a visit with relatives in New York.

Miss Lydia Lathrop of New Haven spent the week end at her home here, accompanying her father on his return from a trip to that city.

Mrs. Hiram Hawes has been in Avon this week, a guest of Rev. and Mrs. Ralph Knight. She attended the graduating exercises of Mr. Knight's class from Hartford Seminary Foundation, Wednesday, at the chapel there. Mr. Knight was one of a class of 19 of that department to receive the M. A. degree. Master Allen Knight returned home with her.

LEFFINGWELL

Mr. and Mrs. Harry L. Palmer and children, Eleanor, Natalie and Harry, of Cranston, R. I., were week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse E. Rogers.

The Mission circle held its May meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. B. Leffingwell.

Friday evening of last week the Ladies' Aid society held a bean and salad supper in the church vestry, which was in charge of Mrs. C. E. Ellis and Miss Ruth J. Ellis. Following the supper the ten Peak Sisters from Norwich grange gave a playlet. James Lockhart gave a tenor solo with an encore. A reading, "The Swimming Hole in the Church," was given by Mrs. Ida Richardson, and William Rush sang a bass solo, also giving an encore. After the entertainment ice cream was sold.

PUTNAM

MERRIAM SPANISH WAR CAMP INSTITUTED AT PUTNAM

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 26—The A. Wilbur Merriam camp, United War Veterans of Putnam was instituted last evening at the state armory, Frank F. Shea, state commander, acted as installing officer. The exercises were open to the public and were attended by friends and relatives of those who enrolled themselves in the organization. Following this the officers of the auxiliary were installed by Mrs. Marjorie Flynn of South Norwalk, state department president.

Commander Shea congratulated the members of the camps on the start which they had made, gave an outline of the work that was before them and stressed the importance of regular attendance at meetings and co-operating with the officers in order to make a success of the societies.

James J. Connors of Rockville, state department inspector, and Dr. E. F. Perry of this city, Commander of Anselm Mayotte post, American Legion, also made brief addresses. In addition to his congratulations Dr. Perry invited the members of the new camps to take part with the legion in Memorial day exercises, and a motion to accept the invitation was promptly adopted. The officers installed for the Veterans camp are:

Other state officers and camp officers from out of the city who attended the affair were James Flynn of South Norwalk, James P. Cosgrave, junior vice commander, Berdett Camp, Hatrford, John Lubinski, past commander Berdett Camp, Mrs. Mary Steward, Meriden, past state president, and members of camps at Norwich and Danielson.

LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR RECOVERY OF G. A. HAMMOND

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 28—Lieut. George A. Hammond, Civil war veteran, and formerly one of the most widely known silk manufacturers in the state, is seriously ill and it is feared that he can survive but a few hours. He is 85 years of age and has been confined to his bed for several weeks as the result of a broken leg.

He took an active part in civic and political life, was for three terms a member of the general assembly and during his last term, as a member of the upper house, was chairman of the finance committee of the senate. He organized the Hammond Knowlton Silk company of this city and was president of the corporation for many years. It is now the Putnam branch of the Belding Heminway Silk company.

ARRANGEMENTS COMPLETE FOR MEMORIAL DAY EVENTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 28—Under the direction of the American Legion of North Grosvenordale with citizens generally assisting, Memorial day will be elaborately observed in North Grosvenordale and Thompson. There will be a parade on Sunday followed by a memorial service at St. Joseph's church.

What Mrs. J. E. Ready, 2 Hickory St., says:

"Rinso has solved the washing problem for me. I find that clothing lasts longer by using Rinso. The time spent in doing the family wash is shortened, and the wash is snow white. And all I do is soak the clothes in Rinso suds during the night. The next morning a little hand rubbing makes them spotless in no time. There is no hard rubbing to make the clothes wear out and to roughen my hands. Rinso certainly is wonderful. I don't know what I'd ever do without it now."

MRS. J. E. READY,
2 Hickory St.,
Norwich, Conn.

Millions use Rinso. Thousands write us letters like this.

A sweeter wash a whiter wash —this safe "no work" way

SWEET, clean, fragrant clothes—whiter than you've ever seen them!

A whole week's wash—spotless! Out on the line hours earlier! And without even touching a washboard!

How? It's easy. No weary hours over tubs and boilers. No bar soaps, no chips, no powders!

Now all you need is Rinso. Nothing else—just this amazing new granulated laundry soap.

Just soak—and rinse!

Soak the wash in the rich, creamy Rinso suds. The dirt loosens in the soaking and floats off. Then you just rinse in clear water. And hang out the cleanest, whitest, sweetest-smelling wash in the neighborhood!

Millions are doing it every week. Read above what one of many women right around here says.

Rinso is new and different

In hard water or soft, Rinso gives thick suds that loosen dirt and stains.

No hard rubbing. Even the most soiled hems and edges need only a gentle rub between the fingers to make them snow white.

Contains no acids, bleaches or harsh chemicals to injure white clothes or fast colors.

Saves hands—keeps them from getting red and wash-worn.

Whitens better than boiling. And sterilizes, too! Of course, you can boil if you like, and Rinso is fine for boiling, but boiling isn't necessary—it's just extra work.

Rinso does all the hard work of washday for you—try it and see! Get Rinso from your grocer and follow easy directions on package.

Ideal for washing machines

Rinso is so fine for washing machines that the makers of 27 leading machines recommend it.

Guaranteed by the makers of Lux—Lever Bros. Co.

GRADUATION EXERCISES

We are rapidly approaching the period of the year when there will be the closing of schools and with the closing there will be the graduation exercises. That means much or little in accordance with the grade, the school or the community. There are places where such ceremonies are made as simple as possible for the benefit of those who are governed by financial limitations, and there are others where pride is taken in the fact that the pupils themselves, in the case of the girls, even make the gowns they wear.

The approach of the graduation season, however, invariably brings forth protests against the expenses connected therewith and the first thus far noted comes from Chicago where complaint is made that "no girl can graduate with an expenditure of less than $15, while the expense to boys is considerably higher."

According to the superintendent of the Chicago schools the graduating expenses in that city are largely what the pupils make them. If they go in for pictures, rings, class books and announcements the explanation is made that it must be expected that the expenses will be according.

In such an explanation there is undoubtedly much truth. There are those among the pupils whose families are perfectly able and willing to meet the expense and there are others where the situation is different. And yet it is a case where those with less affluence are unwilling to be regarded as pikers by opposing the expenses.

Much influence rests with the principals and teachers as to what should be done at graduation time. It is a time when they can do much, as the Chicago superintendent points out, by "preaching the simple life" but it is apparently where that is not being done, or where it is not having its good results that the protests are coming from. The fact that all members of a graduating class are not in a position to meet large expenses for clothes and for class expenses is perhaps too seldom taken into consideration.

ROYAL VISITORS

It isn't often that this country has a chance to entertain royalty, but there are reasons for believing that mutual pleasure will attend the visit of Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus and Crown Princess Louise of Sweden He comes at the particular time to be present at the dedication of the statue of John Ericsson at Washington this afternoon, at which the dedicatory address will be made by President Coolidge, and advantage will be taken of the opportunity to make a circle of the country and get acquainted with America and its institutions.

It is no more than expected that he has already expressed surprise at what he has seen during the short time he has been here. It has given him an entirely different idea of the size of the country and of American methods even though it is not probable that he has gained certain ideas in various ways before coming.

The visit of the royal couple will be hailed with great delight by the many sons and daughters of Sweden in this country, for the United States has been enriched by the many who have come from Sweden and the Scandinavian peninsula. There will be various receptions arranged for him and he will have a chance to note how well those who left the homeland years ago have fitted into and become a part of the citizenship of this country.

That such a visit will be the occasion for increasing the good will and relationship between the countries is to be anticipated. It is a distinct honor that is being paid to John Ericsson not only by this country but by Sweden in sending these royal representatives. That it is deserved is demonstrated by the fact that it is being done. There is always a chance to welcome prominent visitors and this country will appreciate the opportunity afforded by the presence of the people who will some day, in the natural course of events, be the king and queen of Sweden.

WHAT INVESTIGATION SHOWS

The special grand jury at Chicago is reported as startled at the figures furnished it showing the rate at which convicts have been released on pardon or parole from the Illinois penitentiary. It has also been unearthing conditions which show the prison situation to be a disgrace to the state and a menace to the people. The need of a clean sweep and the installation of a new system and new officials has been disclosed.

Conditions which indicate a domination of those who are catering to the criminals and giving encouragement to law breaking and violence have been brought to light under careful scrutiny only after the effects of the laxiness have been publicly disclosed in other ways. In view of the conditions which have prevailed and the great amount of crime, the revelations may startle the grand jury but they can hardly be other than what must have been expected by those who have given careful thought to the situation.

When it is reported by the grand jury that prison discipline has collapsed, that prisoners are disobedient and insolent to guards, that they are constantly plotting their escape and engaged in vicious practices there is no wonder that it has been found wise to make a change in prison wardens. At the new penitentiary where the deputy warden was recently killed by a group of prisoners who escaped the plotting of that act was done at a ball game the prisoners were permitted to attend and on the average 36 prisoners escape every year. Already 17 murderers have made their get away in the past five years.

When lax prison conditions follows laxity in enforcement and prosecution there is presented a combination which makes it delightful for the prisoners and the worst of them are always the quickest to take advantage of such conditions. Illinois may not be any worse than some other states in this respect. Certainly crime conditions, although bad there, are not restricted to that state or Chicago and in the light of the disclosures which are being made in the middle west it might be well for similar investigations to be made in other states where conditions as to crime are known to be causing uneasiness.

DAWDLES AND DUCKS

It has long since been realized that getting legislation from congress that would deal with the coal industry and prevent the repetition of past hardships because of coal strikes, or at least provide a way whereby federal authority could do something in behalf of the public, is about as difficult as getting it to vote a subsidy.

When a strike is underway there is a great hue and cry in congress about something being done. Congress seems to think that the president ought to do it, knowing fully well that he has no authority and his hands are tied. Suggestions as to what congress should do are countered by the claim that too radical steps might result if legislation was adopted in the heat of the fray without due consideration as to what was really being done. The result is that nothing is done and the public is at the mercy of the miners and operators, wherever the blame may rest.

But with the strike settled, an agreement reached for a number of years and the public already being taxed to meet the losses experienced during the strike through higher prices there is that same reluctance on the part of congress to do anything. The claim is still made that haste should not be displayed in so important a matter.

That is and has been the cry during trouble or peace in the coal fields for years. The indications are that coal mining will continue for some time to come under the existing agreement but no one feels protected. Yet congress dawdles and ducks. It refrains from taking any action as it leaving it for George to do or for the coming of another strike when it can be claimed that it is not the right time to legislate. It is not a good impression that congress makes when it comes to coal legislation.

THE CARROLL CASE

A decision that will be regarded as thoroughly justified according to the evidence, will be the verdict of the public concerning the case against Earl Carroll charged with perjury in New York city, it is believed.

The party which served as the basis for action was staged with the idea of being out of the usual, and it was. That it was expected to bring profitable results through the publicity it would get can be readily understood. It was a matter that found its way before the grand jury and when it came to getting the facts it was apparent that the one who gave the party and some of his guests held decidedly different opinions as to what took place. It differed so much that the man responsible for the affair was indicted for perjury before the grand jury.

Whatever may be said concerning the party there is no dodging the fact that perjury is something which should not be countenanced. It is not always possible to bring about successful prosecutions under such a charge, but there was evidence of an incriminating character produced and whatever may be said concerning the duty of a guest to his host, the difficulty lay in the conduct of that host and his belief that he could get away with anything, even to having his guests support his false statements before a grand jury.

The unsavory case attracted its usual attention but it has been shown that even in New York it isn't possible to get away with everything everytime however surprising that may be to some.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Not very long to wait now for the June brides.

The second Poppy day is in behalf of a similar good cause as the first.

The man on the corner says: It has taken a long time for the hammocks to blossom forth this spring.

According to the claims of the New York parole board it must consider it only a rubber stamp outfit.

It is all right to long for sizzling hot weather, but what will you be saying immediately after it arrives?

This apple blossom time makes the auto riding through the country one grand round of beauty and exclamations.

Some people seem to have gotten weather conditions mixed up with the belief that there's to be a hot time in congress.

The lack of a bad debts day may be due to the difficulty of determining whether it would be an invitation or a threat.

There will be the usual chance to contribute flowers for the decoration of soldiers' graves on Memorial day. Many heads make a big showing.

The time is at hand in local government for some of that economy and better business which has been so properly demanded at Washington.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

The springtime is the season in which we realize the radical contrast between life and death. And yet that distinction is arbitrary rather than real. By that I mean that death is not a real thing in the sense that life is. From the scientific standpoint death is nothing more than the absence of life; it is life departed or withdrawn rather than a positive thing in itself. Let me use an illustration in support of this statement. There is a small pine tree in which I am interested. To all appearances it was dead. But recently fresh needles have appeared on the tips of its branches of a rich green color indicating new life. The new has simply dislodged the old. The old has simply lost that mysterious something which we call life. It has gained nothing new. Those old needles served its purpose and have passed on. But the tree is bigger because of the work they did last year.

Take if you please, another illustration, that of the human body. When life has gone out of it, what is left is only a remnant. Nothing has been added to it through the agency of death. We speak of such a body as the remains. How often do we read in obituary notices of a person dying in a certain place but his remains are taken to some other place for burial. That is the absolutely correct word to be used of the human body after life has become extinct. We often feel, and I think, very justly that in some cases death is a victory, even though of a negative character. It is a victory in the sense that it has been a release from great suffering. But you will observe that this is negative rather than positive. Nothing tangible has been gained by dying, from the material standpoint. Now I am writing thus to show that death is only the absence of life.

Science long ago did a wonderful service to humanity in discovering the philosophy of light. It discovered that it is a form of motion, and that the different hues represent its different rates of velocity. Of course the antithesis of light is darkness which represents the lack of motion. Therefore darkness stands in the same relation to light as death does to life. It represents everything that light is not. It is the absence of everything that the other has. It is not strange that benighted races should look with fear upon darkness and should personify it as an awful divinity. We can also understand why they should make so much of fire because the latter seemed so much stronger than the former. They learned from experience wherever fire went darkness was so afraid that it vanished. Hence they literally took fire with them wherever they went. From this we may learn to take the light with us when we have to go through dark places.

Tomorrow, the 30th, marks the arrival of another Memorial day, although its public observance will probably be held in most places on the day following. Even though the ranks of the Grand Army men are year by year growing pathetically thin, it will be a mistake to let the day fall into disuse. The Fourth of July seems to have lost much of its original fire and enthusiasm, which is partly due to the observance of Memorial day. But it is of the utmost importance that we keep our patriotism alive. The people who lose their love and devotion to country sooner or later are a doomed people. The past teaches nothing more clearly than this. It has been pleasing in the past to see so many of our foreign born citizens on Chelsea parade Memorial day, and may all who love their country show their colors on next Monday.

Has not nature revealed a wonder as well as a beneficence in furnishing an antidote for most of the ills of life? And if we knew her better perhaps we should find an antidote for every ill. It is a common belief with some warrant back of it that wherever a poison grows near at hand is its antidote. Be that as it may, the fact remains that curative properties are abundant. And this applies to the big world lying outside of the physical. For instance take the matter of ignorance. Has not man himself made a wise provision to meet it? To meet and overcome ignorance is education. We call it the school system from the kindergarten to the university. Children come into this world ignorant but with an innate capacity to learn, and soon this begins to assert itself. The antidote for darkness is the light, and thus it is everywhere. Our duty is to bring the two together.

In dealing however with the spiritual life of man has not Providence shown a kindness and done a work still more wonderful? The spiritual life of man reaches out after things that the material world cannot supply—"the things not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." If in the physical world there are legitimate yearnings the presumption is that not far away there is the means of satisfaction, and by parity of reasoning if the soul of man yearns for extra physical things, is it not equally fair to suppose that not very far away there is the supernatural to be found and appropriated? The Bible gives us abundant assurance of this fact. "God is not far away from anyone of us." "Because the spiritual life is intangible is no evidence that it does not exist. A mother's love is intangible but nothing on earth is more real.

It was most eminently fitting that on Memorial day, May 30th, 1922, the Lincoln memorial of Washington—one of the most beautiful structures in the world—was dedicated. It was a wise act on the part of the government of the United States to perpetuate the memory of the Great Emancipator in pure marble. While the memory of such a man as Abraham Lincoln needs no material edifice to keep his life work fresh in the hearts of the people, still as these outward memorials have an aesthetic and educational value, it is well that such a structure should be made as beautiful as possible. As it is a replica of the Parthenon, the most beautiful building in the ancient world, for many centuries in partial ruins, it is well that this work of art in the country's capital should be worthy of the great country that Lincoln reestablished on the map of the world. And this "El Dorado of the West" will see to it that the hand of no invader shall treat it as it once did the pride of Greece.

Are we well enough acquainted with the dealings of God with man to say with assurance that there is wisdom and kindness in making struggle necessary for human existence? As a matter of fact, that has been observable in all the ages of the past, there has been no great success without struggle. Man has always paid the full price for advancement in life in all its departments. Why couldn't men and women have floated into the higher regions of success without doing it with the very "blood of their souls?" It may not be easy to offer a satisfactory answer. We simply know that the idle floaters of the world are the men and women who land nowhere. Perhaps the law of equivalents solves the problem. We must pay an equivalent for what we receive.

New refrigerating methods have been developed in Canada to preserve a fish for six months or more, so that it will taste as if it had just been caught. The secret is to freeze it very rapidly instead of slowly, as heretofore.

SUNDAY IN A COTTON MILL IN CHINA

By Arthur E. Burton.

The stock on hand on one of the nine varieties of native cottons in our godown (warehouse) is getting very low, and unless I can get hold of some the cotton mixings will have to be changed tomorrow. One, after developing his chop or trade mark on a particular brand of yarn or fabric in China, hates to change his cotton mixings, for various reasons and which could not be explained in this article. I have interviewed natives in my own cotton hong (cotton brokerage house) as to probable future deliveries of the type cotton I am after and am told that there are three junks laden with such cottons coming to Tientsin and, at that moment, are somewhere on the Hai Ho river. Further, with good luck and no interference from bandits or stray soldiers the junks should arrive in Tientsin this afternoon. Still further, two natives volunteered to walk up the river banks to the outside of the native city of Tientsin and, provided they saw the three junks, inform the number one Chinese in charge of the junks and their cargo to anchor the junks at my bund. In the meantime, in my office at the cotton hong, I am greeted by two Chinese cotton crop scouts who work for me and, upon asking them why they have returned to Tientsin from Honan and Shansi provinces, they state they are tired, need a short rest, and wish to attend ancestoral worship of their families. I hustle them out and order them to scout around the different hongs and warehouses in Tientsin to look-see if they can get hold of a few bales of the particular type cotton I am after. They are successful, so I am saved for another day, even if the junks do not arrive today.

I drive back to my mill, eight miles away. The sun is blazing hot. I have missed my tiffin. My wife doesn't worry wondering where I am, she is used to China, and China ways by this time. I drop into my club on the way home, stir up a sleepy Chinaman there for a club sandwich and a cold, cold, bottle of Bass' beer. Ten minutes later I am on the way again, and after traversing a three mile stretch of Chinese road, (American motorists who have never seen a Chinese road could hardly realize what it means) I arrive at the mill. It is 15 degrees cooler inside of the mill than outdoors in the shade, yet, the thermometer registers 99 degress. A cup of tea from my office servant, a hurried rub down with hot towels, a clean white suit again, and I feel a new man. Our superintendent comes in the office and informs me there are three junks coming as they ply the enormous sweeps which flows by the mill. I go outside and see them, and not only see them, but hear the sweetest song in the world, that of Chinese coolies singing as they ply the enormous sweeps of the junks. I am sure there could be nothing more beautiful or soothing, in the music line, to a tired soul, than the singing or Chinese coolies when pushing, pulling, or maneuvering a heavy burden. At least, that's the case with me. A score of natives are working on the enormous sweeps of the junks, and despite the strong current of the river. (five feet per second) maneuver the junks into position for anchorage alongside my bund. Sweat is rolling off their bodies, brown as berries, glistening in the rays of the sun. Children are playing in the restricted spaces at each end of the junks and the Chinese mammals are hanging up the washings here and there wherever there is space. A few warnings, shoutings, sing-song hailings of ropes and the junks are fast to the stout pillars on the bund. All wave their greetings to me.

The Chinese No. 1 steps ashore shaking his own hands and bowing to me and together we walk into my mill yard and then the office. Tea is provided, hot towels to wipe one's face with, and bargaining for the cotton begins. I am in a hurry, the Chinaman never. Eventually I offer a price away below the value of the cotton. There is an indignant refusal to entertain such ideas of price on the part of the Chinese merchant No. 1, but the ice is broken and bargaining commences in earnest. Eventually I go down to the junks again when prices are arranged for best quality cotton, off type or off color bales, and check over all the cargo of cottons. My coolies go aboard the junks, and swing the bales of cotton to their shoulders (weighing one and a half piculs) about 200 pounds and walk off with such a heavy burden to my warehouse singing a marching song as they go along.

I wish to point out that Chinese coolies can carry enormous weights on their shoulders. As an instance I have taken photographs of my own coolies carrying bales of cottons weighing three and a half piculs each, about 460 pounds, and after weighing the coolies themselves I ascertained their individual average weight was but 128 pounds. They are nothing but bone and muscle apparently, refuse to use hand trucks or other methods whereby loads may be moved mechanically and more quickly, thinking that such methods mean a loss of face for them as also the discharge of workmen. These ideas are but similar to English weavers of several generations ago who refused to operate power looms.

I go to the warehouse with the Chinese merchant No. 1 and together we sit watching the cottons weighed, sipping tea at the same time. After all weights are ascertained and properly recorded, entries made on the books, etc., I take him to the Chinese city and enter a Chinese bank. Presenting my check payable to the merchant he is paid off in silver dollars. After every dollar is counted (China is a place of bad money) all the dollars are bagged up into burlap sacks, placed in the motor car and I drive him back to his junks. He hides the money somewhere near the bilge water in the bottom of the junks, decides he will spend the night alongside my bund electrically lighted — and does so. I go home and have dinner.

After dinner and a perusal of all documents of the day's doings, sales, purchases, manufacturing reports, compound reports, the night superintendent comes to see me and he gets his orders for the night. Then my wife and I go out for a walk. We go through the mill, are greeted on every side by our workers (Chinese people are irretrievably wedded to the family idea) then we walk to our office and listen to the Chinese orchestra made up of the day shift staff (overseers) of the mill. I furnished both shifts of overseers with instruments to keep them away from mah jongg, and it worked, at least it appeared to work. We sit down on seats brought to us by our police on the bund, watch the sunset, and see the moon rise, listening to the music meanwhile. They never stop playing whilst we are there, fearing it might displease us, or, make us think they are not exceedingly interested in their instruments. Suddenly the arc lights on the walls surrounding the mill are lit and the effect is brilliant, especially on the waters of the river and the junks continually passing along. Over all waves the American flag on its pole 150 high, lit up by it's own arc light. This glorious flag was not erected as a symbol of American domination in that particular spot in China, but was erected by the Chinese workers themselves to show all and sundry that they are working in a factory built by Americans, on machinery built by Americans, managed by Americans, and are not to be interfered with by bandits, robbers, or soldiers out for loot.

Such is a Sunday in China for me, yet, although Sunday in China is like every other day in the week in some respects I always tried to make it a day of rest for myself and those of my staff who could be spared. It is a busy life out there amongst Chinese, a fascinating life, but a life of complications hard for a foreigner to understand and grasp the meaning of. One must be there for years, live amongst the people before he begins to get some understanding of what Chinese life means.

Sunday Morning Talk

PATRIOTISM

If God were to bestow crowns upon earth's noblest patriots few of those called great would wear them, no, from the swamps of Chickahominy, from the tangled wildwood of the wilderness, from the ominous rows in the cemetery at Gettysburg, and from sylvan nooks in many a country churchyard, thousands of the obscure would rise for the coronation.

Patriotism ennobles any nature in which it takes root, and makes it votary, whatever his condition in life, capable of any sacrifice and equal to any deed of heroism; and no man need ever imagine himself too weak, too poor or too insignificant to be a patriot in the truest meaning of the word. Patriotism is like fidelity, inasmuch as it can be bought; but unlike it, because fidelity is personal, as between man and man, while patriotism is general, as between man and the state. Fidelity will sacrifice for a friend; patriotism will sacrifice even a friend for country.

There is courage enough in the hearts of American to insure patriotism among the masses, but courage and principle must go together. There are times when nothing but country will engross the attention, and the people of this nation have not shown themselves backward at such moments. America has records of heroism that equal those of any country.

Love your native land, revere its institutions, value its privileges, honor its flag, respect its name, rejoice in its proud history, in its unsullied liberty, its glorious past and the promise of its future. Walk in the way of the fathers, strive to do the right at whatever cost, look to God for help and guidance at all times and all places, then we shall have true Patriotism.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Former Governor William W. Stickney, who has announced his candidacy for the republican nomination for United States senator from Vermont in the September primaries, is a prominent lawyer of the Green Mountain state and has been a law partner of John G. Sargent, the present attorney-general of the United States. Governor Stickney is a native of Plymouth and has been a life-long friend of the Coolidge family. After completing a common school education he taught for a time and meanwhile studied for the profession of law. He was admitted to the bar in 1878 and some ten years later began his public career as clerk of the Vermont house of representatives. Subsequently he served as state's attorney and as a member of the legislature and in 1900 was elected to the governorship. Governor Stickney is nationally known in Baptist circles, having served for many years as a member of the executive committee of the Northern Baptist Convention.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Our Fire Insurance Situation

Mr. Editor: "A Citizen" in your issue of the 27th instant outlines a condition and expresses a conviction which should receive the most serious attention of all property holders as well as tenants in this city.

The fire losses and insurance paid last year approximated $35,000, more or less. The exact figures are obtainable from Chief Stanton's report. The amount of insurance premiums paid annually by citizens of Norwich exceeds $200,000. The fire insurance companies show large returns by ways of dividends, extra dividends and stock dividends.

In years past we were told that the reason for the high rate in Norwich was because we had no paid fire department; now the fire fighting force is paid, no volunteers, and all motorized. Another reason given for the high rate when we had simply Meadow Brook and Fairview reservoirs was our lack of water. We have doubled our reservoirs since then and our people are now being taxed in order that our supply may be trebled.

The size of our water mains was another reason given for the high rate formerly existing and in recent years many of our water mains have been increased in size notably the entire length of Laurel Hill avenue.

The best fire insurance this community has is Chief Howard L. Stanton and his corps of fire fighters. The fire insurance companies could well afford to donate liberally to this department and cut out some of the multitude of inspectors who arrive at conclusions not based on actual conditions and make recommendations predicated upon some one's else fine spun theories with no practical, common sense back of them.

With this city and town struggling under its present tax rate, then add your increased rates, how, with much less industries than it had 25 years ago, can you expect growth and prosperity?

Within the past few years a considerable number of fire hazards in the way of old buildings have been removed and replaced with new ones. It is not apparent that those who pay the insurance premiums get credit for this.

This question of insurance rates is periodical as is the question of a revision of our tax assessments list. Ask the tax commissioner of the state how he thinks this latter matter has been handled? There seems to be no sustained public opinion which lasts long enough to accomplish either fair consideration from the insurance raters or that can accomplish a simple, business like, reassessment of our property. How is the tax map progressing?

Respectfully,
ANOTHER CITIZEN

Stories That Recall Others

Meant Well, Anyway

Attracted by an illustrated label of white cherries at the grocery Mrs. X purchased the can for supper, the family being fond of white cherries. It was intended as a surprise dessert for the evening meal.

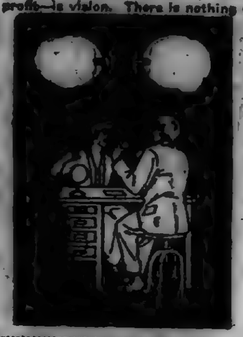
When the time came for serving it she went to the kitchen and proceeded to open the can. This formality over she glanced at the contents. Instead of nice, white cherries she was confronted with a nice, light green variety of spinach.

The cherry label had been pasted on the spinach can by some careless employe at the canning factory.

Japanese living abroad, including those from Korea and Formosa, total approximately 1,100,000, recent statistics at Tokio show. Asia has the largest number of Japanese with 626,000. In North America there are 152,000, Oceania has 127,000 and South America, 60,000.

THE GREATEST OF ALL SENSES

The one from which we derive the most pleasure and incidentally the most profit—is vision. There is nothing that breaks down efficiency in business, in social or intellectual life more quickly or more certainly than inability to see clearly and accurately the things which require quick and ready perception.



Eyes which have lost the elasticity of youth cannot be expected to do the things they used to do unless they are aided in their functions.

That is where we can help.

To the Man who gets a "Kick" out of driving a powerful car

BE PREPARED for a big surprise when you take your first ride in an Overland Six. A brand new kind of motoring experience awaits you . . . It's bound to change your whole idea of motor car performance.

Unlike other cars in this price class the Overland Six is modernly engineered as an integral unit.

It is not just a modern body on a chassis that's 5 or 10 years old. But a new and revolutionary type of car, modernly engineered and designed to give a new kind of performance, comfort and driving ease.

The motor is a new type power plant—hung low in the chassis to give a straight line drive—with more usable power delivered to the rear axle than you find in any other Six of its price or class.

The center of gravity is lower—keeping the weight of the car down close to the ground—you get an entirely new feeling of security when you drive this car.

It is designed for a road speed of between 45 to 50 miles an hour—and engineered to meet the demands of such speed without wear or strain on the engine. The old fashioned car reaches its safety peak at 35—and wears itself out in a hurry under modern traffic regulations on the highways.

The Overland Six will turn in a forty foot circle. Rear springs are underslung and 53 inches long. 141 square inches of braking surface provide an ample safety margin.

It has more inside space. More cubic feet than the average car of this price.

The result is ample comfort for 5 full-size passengers . . . with plenty of room to step in or out . . . room to stretch your legs with the utmost ease.

The seats are wider, the windows larger, the doors much broader. All features you'll certainly appreciate when you inspect rival cars of this price.

Get the utmost for your money. Ride in this car . . . test it in comparison to the value others offer. In fairness to yourself buy no car until you do.

HELD ON SUSPICION OF NIANTIC BURGLARY

A man believed to be Joseph Lumbro, 23, of Niantic, wanted in that village on a charge of burglary was picked up about midnight Friday on the West Side by Officer Frank Gwiskowski, when he was seen hanging around the vicinity of the railroad station and taken to police headquarters as a suspicious character.

He was carrying a black box containing two strands of women's or girls' hair, perfume, a fancy silk bag, and other feminine articles. On his person were found a telephone receiver, a telephone transmitter and a telephone box coil. In the box were a quantity of writing paper, bearing the seal of the Norwich Free academy, and envelopes and child's writing paper.

At first he gave the name of Sedric Canette of Niantic and said he was waiting for his brother who was going to drive him to Niantic. Later he gave the name of Joseph Canette of New York city. Captain Thomas P. Murphy got in touch with Constable Charles R. Tubbs, Niantic who said he believed the man to be Joseph Lumbro of Niantic wanted in that place for burglary. He asked the local police to hold the man for him. It is said that the man has been in the insane hospital at Middletown.

Asked where he got the strands of hair Canette said they were from his girl's head, naming a girl in Niantic. Captain Murphy got in touch with the girl's mother and found out that she is but fourteen years old and did not keep company with Canette. The strands of hair differ slightly in color.

NORWICH TOWN

Under the general supervision of the regent, Mrs. William H. Dawley, plans are completed for the Memorial exercises, this (Saturday) afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Old Cemetery at Norwich Town, in honor of the 62 Revolutionary soldiers and 20 unknown French soldiers who are buried there.

The exercises, under the auspices of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., are scheduled to take place at the old boulder, which is approached from the entrance on Old Cemetery Lane. If the afternoon be stormy, the exercises will be out in the First Congregational church chapel, on Norwich Town green.

The Children of the American Revolution, General Ebenezer Huntington chapter, will have an important part on the first half of the program, under direction of Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers.

Besides the address by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, the general speaker of the day for Faith Trumbull chapter, E. Allen Bidwell is to speak in behalf of Israel Putnam branch, S. A. R., which was specially invited to participate in the exercises. The music is in charge of Miss Annie E. Vaughn.

For the first time this season, the D. A. R. museum on the green will be open to visitors following the exercises, with members of the museum committee in charge.

New flags were placed on the soldiers graves Wednesday by Mrs. E. Allen Bidwell and Mrs. Arthur Harvey Latrop, assisted by four members of the C. A. R., Emily Bidwell, Eleanor Smith, Dolly Edmond and Betty Spear.

LEGION WILL CONDUCT SALE OF POPPIES

Saturday and Monday have been selected by the American Legion in Norwich as the days for the annual sale of poppies, a sale started in memory of their many "buddies" in the various local and state institutions. The sale is in charge of the women's auxiliary of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, who will be assisted this year by members of the Boys Scouts and Camp Fire Girls of the city. The poppies, all made by disabled veterans, in their annual sale, are made to do a double duty. In the purchasing the disabled veteran is offered a means of making a livelihood and in their re-sale, the women's auxiliary obtains money to care for the veterans in the hospitals in and near Norwich.

The American Legion is purely a World war organization, its members comprising those who served under the Stars and Stripes, regardless of whether duty called them overseas or held them in America. The poppy has long since become the recognized flower of the World war and it was fitting that an all-World organization should adopt it as its Memorial day flower. This annual poppy sale has the sanction of all public officials, from the president of the United States down the list of all officials and has been recognized as most worthy at public summons.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Alvin T. Davis

Mrs. Lydia B. Davis, widow of Alvin T. Davis, aged 92 years, passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Edward H. Crowell, 70 Nepaug street, Hartford, Friday evening, following an illness of several weeks. Mrs. Davis came of old Colonial stock her grandfather, Eliezer Jewett being the founder of Jewett City in the year 1774. Mrs. Davis was born in Lisbon and practically all her long and useful life had been spent in Norwich where she was beloved by many, being a woman of most pleasing personality, kind and generous and of the Christian character. She was the oldest living member of the First Baptist church of this city, having been a member of the church for over 73 years. She always took a deep interest in the church and its affairs and was an active worker there until a few years ago when she went to Hartford to make her home with her daughter.

She is survived by two daughters Mrs. E. H. Crowell with whom she made her home and Mrs. Sarah E. Reavey, of this city. There are a number of grand children and also great grandchildren, surviving her.

MAYOR WATERS ISSUES POPPY DAY PROCLAMATION

The following proclamation endorsing the "Buddy Poppy" sale by the Veterans of Foreign Wars was issued Friday by Mayor Waters:

I am anxious that the citizens of Norwich should support the Poppy day to be carried out by the Veterans of Foreign Wars on Saturday of this week. The cause is a most worthy one and should meet with genuine approval from the entire population of the city of Norwich. Every cent obtained through the sale of these poppies by the local post is held intact in the funeral and relief fund, so that every wearer of a poppy can be assured that he or she is helping to take care of the living who are in need or to give a soldier's burial to the dead. I am heartily in sympathy with the movement and give it my sincere support with the expectation that the citizens of Norwich will do likewise.

MILO R WATERS, Mayor.
City of Norwich, Conn.

TOWN MEETING VOTES 263 TO 153 FOR NEW NORWICH TOWN SCHOOL

A special town meeting held Friday evening in the town hall authorized the appropriation of $325,000 for a new school house in Norwich Town, voted to discontinue six small sections of highway on the Gallows Hill road, no longer in use, voted electric lights for the New London turnpike and appropriated $50 to reimburse Frank J. Hill for the transportation expenses of his son, Frank A. Hill, to the Putnam Trade school. In fact everything on the call was voted by the nearly 500 men and women in the hall.

First Selectman William S. Murray called the meeting to order at 8 o'clock and the warning was read by Town Clerk Charles S. Holbrook. The first matter taken up was the appropriation for the new Norwich Town school. Walter F. Lester of the town school board presented and moved the adoption of a resolution authorizing the purchase of a tract of land and the erection of a school building on it in the northwesterly portion of the town, (Norwich Town), the cost of land, building and furnishings not to exceed $325,000.

In remarking on his motion Mr. Lester said that the town school board felt that the need of the new school should be explained to the meeting. He said no public improvement should be made unless it is entirely warranted and necessary. Mr. Lester spoke of the community meetings held in Norwich Town recently when the matter of the proposed school was thoroughly discussed. These meetings, he said, ended in the greatest unity of feeling.

About two years ago the school board came before a town meeting with a similar proposition, he said, but at that time it seemed wise by those attending to delay action. Speaking of the crowded conditions in Norwich Town, Mr. Lester said the children are not able to get into the buildings. We have had to give up grades that we ought to be operating. The kindergarten has been abandoned, double shifts have become necessary and it was also necessary to place seats in the aisles.

Mr. Lester also made reference to the fire hazard in the old frame building and said there was always the possibility of the spread of disease owing to the unsanitary conditions.

Your school board would not come before you unless we felt that it was absolutely necessary, Mr. Lester, in explaining the plan the board has in mind, said "Our morning paper has misled you." There are three schools, the Town Street school, the Bean Hill school and a small two-room frame building in Uncasville. The board has no intention of abandoning the West Town street school nor the Uncasville school Mr. Lester said the board felt that the people were ready to abandon the Bean Hill school.

Propose 16 Room Building

The proposition is to build a fire proof, modern, up-to-date school building that you will be proud of, a building with facilities for about 16 rooms. The amount estimated as the cost is $325,000. Mr. Lester said that there appeared in a letter to the editor in the morning paper an erroneous statement, when the writer stated that the Elizabeth street school cost $100,000. The Elizabeth street school cost over $200,000. The $325,000 asked for the Norwich Town school will have to pay for the site, the erection of the building and the furnishings.

Mr. Lester called attention to the fact that the buildings the school board has built were constructed within the appropriations. The members of the school board are trying to live up to their obligations, he said. The board comes here feeling that the new school is profoundly necessary.

Following Mr. Lester's remarks Jeremiah Casey informed the meeting that he went to the schools in Norwich Town and didn't find them crowded. Mr. Lester asked him how long ago that was and Mr. Casey said about 15 years ago. Mr. Lester informed him that the school registration has increased 400 per cent since that time.

Mr. Casey then asked Supt. of Schools E. J. Graham several questions regarding the discontinuance of grades, etc. The motion then went to vote on an aye and nay vote.

In the opinion of the chair the "ayes" have it, said Mr. Murray. The opinion was doubted so Mr. Murray again called for the vote. He announced that in his opinion the motion had been carried, but added that if his opinion was doubted he would call for a vote by passing in front of the desk and registering the vote with the clerk. Several people called for the vote to be taken in that manner and it was so ordered. The result was as follows:

Total votes cast—416.
Necessary for choice—209.
For the resolution—263.
Against the resolution—153.

The motion was declared adopted, the announcement being greeted with yells and applause.

H. W. Gallup presented a resolution naming the town school board as a committee to purchase the land and supervise the erection of the building and the motion was adopted.

Serial Bond Issue

Hermon J. Gibbs offered a resolution authorizing a serial bond issue of $225,000 to run 40 years and authorizing the borrowing of the money in advance of the bond issue, on notes, the notes to be paid when the money is secured from the bond issue.

George H. Gilman said he thought 40 years was too long a time for the bonds to run. He offered an amendment that the bonds run only 25 years.

Town Counsel H. H. Pettis informed Mr. Gilman that the bonds would not all mature at the same time, 40 years from now, but would run in serial form, being retired at different periods.

Mr. Gilman said he thought the building ought to be paid for before the school is worn out.

Chairman Murray informed the meeting that the plan is to pay off on the bond issue, $5,000 a year for the first 25 years and $10,000 a year for the last five years. He said the town is already paying out $20,000 a year on outstanding bonds and that this will make the amount $25,000 a year.

Mr. Gilman then withdrew his amendment after which the bond issue resolution was adopted.

New Electric Lights

Mr. Pettis then presented a resolution authorizing the erection and the maintenance of a suitable number of electric lights on the New London turnpike southerly of West Main street from the residence of John McWilliams to the residence of Charles Conrade.

Mr. Pettis said this resolution came to the town by petition. It came in too late for action at the last town meeting and had been brought before this meeting. The resolution was unanimously adopted.

Mr. Pettis next presented a resolution authorizing the town to reimburse Frank J. Hill, a sum not to exceed $50, for the transportation expenses of his son, Frank A. Hill, to the Putnam trade school. After a brief explanation of the resolution by Mr. Pettis, it was adopted.

The final matter was that of discontinuing six small sections of the highway on the Gallows Hill road leading from Norwich Town to Taftville. A resolution to this effect was introduced by Mr. Pettis. It was explained that owing to the slightly different layout in constructing the new road over the highway, these sections of the old road are no longer in use.

Mr. Gilman asked if someone could inform him in a general way as to the locations of these sections of the highway.

Shepard B. Palmer explained that the new road cuts out several sharp curves and that it is these old curves that would be abandoned by the resolution. Chairman Murray stated that the state will fence these sections off from public travel. The resolution was adopted after which the meeting adjourned, having been in session one hour.

ST. MARY'S PARISH SOCIAL REALIZES ABOUT $1,000

The parish social for St. Mary's Memorial church Friday evening at Pulaski hall had an attendance that crowded the hall and net proceeds of $1,000 were realized from the successful event. The entertainment of the evening was an excellent vaudeville programme under the direction of William T. Connelly which included clog dancing by Chip Dugas, songs and stories by Mr. Connelly, little Lucile Bowen in the Charleston and soft shoe clog dancing, and Francis Joseph Bumont, the blind musician, harmonica and accordion solos, with Mrs. Connelly at the piano.

One of the features of the evening was the collection of beautiful May baskets which were disposed of under the direction of Mrs. James Ward, Mrs. Catherine M. Harrington, Miss Helen Counihan, Mrs. Harold Desmond, Miss Mary Carey, Mrs. Patrick McMahon, Miss Dora Moran, and Miss Mary Spelman who were the team captains.

The evening closed with dancing for which Spelman's orchestra played.

GRANGE GIVES PROGRAMME UNDER REBEKAH AUSPICES

Jointly with Hope Rebekah lodge, No. 21, I. O. O. F. an enjoyable entertainment was given Friday evening by Norwich grange, No. 172, P. of H., in Odd Fellows' hall with a large audience that applauded the fine programme.

It opened with selections by Swahn's orchestra, which were followed by the appearance of The Famous Peak Sisters, who were a feature of the evening. A solo by Mrs. George Briggs was followed by a reading. The Old Swimming Hole in the Church, by Mrs. Anna Woods and a solo by William H. Rush. A beautiful tableau, The Star Spangled Banner, given by Mrs. Clarence Smith and her court, with Mrs. Ida Richardson as soloist, concluded the programme and dancing closed the evening.

METHODIST CHURCH INVITES SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION

The official board of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church voted at its regular meeting Friday night to invite the New London County Sunday school association to hold its annual meeting in October as its guests.

Plans were made for summer activities.

The board organized with the pastor, Rev. J. Harlow Graham as chairman, John B. Stanton as vice chairman and George W. Armstrong as secretary.

Visitors From Rochester

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Maines and sons, Robert and Walker, of Rochester, N. Y., who are on a motor trip through New England are spending two weeks with Mrs. Maines' sister, Mrs. William Davis, at the Oaks farm on the Scotland road.

SEDGWICK W. R. C. CHARTER DRAPED FOR MRS. WRIGHT

Sedgwick Woman's Relief corps, No. 16, held its regular business meeting Friday afternoon at Buckingham Memorial with the president, Maud E. Moody in the chair. The regular reports were read and accepted after which the first general order was read by the new department president, Mrs. Lucy of West Mystic. The new password was given and the president appointed Mrs. Ines Hill and Mrs. Althea Brown as department aides. Mrs. J. C. Atterbury gave a very comprehensive report of the 48rd annual convention held in Bridgeport May 6th and 7th.

Announcement was made that Cromwell home day has been indefinitely postponed owing to the illness of the matron of the home. Several of those present spoke in memory of Mrs. Susan Underwood whose death occurred this week and the charter was draped for Mrs. Marietta A. Wright, past department president, and also a past corps president.

A letter was read from C. E. Champlin, a 97 year old veteran, regarding flowers for Memorial Day. The patriotic instructor, Mrs. Anhie Turner, read two selections, one on Memorial day and the other on Decoration day. Mrs. Atterbury also read a selection on Memorial day.

Announcement was made that the annual service for the sailor dead will be held Sunday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock at Preston bridge. It is desired that all school children take part in this service by each bringing at least one flower to throw onto the river.

Monday evening the members of the corps will devote to the tying of flowers for the soldiers' graves. All patriotic societies are invited to attend a special service Sunday morning at Christ church. The meeting closed in the usual form.

GAVE BIRTHDAY SURPRISE TO PASTOR'S WIFE

The Ladies' Aid society of the German Lutheran church gave a birthday surprise Friday evening in the parlors of the church to Mrs. H. Hunzinger, wife of the pastor. Many gifts were presented to Mrs. Hunzinger, including a purse of money from the society, this presentation being made by the president, Mrs. Frank Decker, with an original poem. Music and games and refreshments were included in the pleasure of the evening.

ART SCHOOL EXHIBITION AT CONVERSE GALLERY

Between 2 and 5 o'clock, standard time, Friday afternoon the 36th annual exhibition of the work of the students of the Norwich Art school was held with an informal reception at the Converse gallery. At the same time visitors were invited to view the unusually fine collection in Slater Memorial museum where students familiar with art acted as guides. The attendance for the double event exceeded anything that has been seen at the art exhibition for years.

At the afternoon reception the faculty for the art school was assisted in receiving by the following members of special classes in the school: Mrs. Henry A. Tirrell, Mrs. Wallace S. Allis, Mrs. Alexander, E. Abbott, Mrs. Flint Brayton, Charles J. Dyer, Mrs. Grosvenor Ely, William F. Habekotte, Mrs. John D. Hall, Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Mrs. Edmund W. Perkins, Mrs. Robert W. Perkins, Mrs. Frederick T. Sayles, Mrs. Allyn L. Brown, Mrs. John P. Huntington.

A musical programme, which was provided through the courtesy of Frederick H. Cranston, added greatly to the pleasure of the afternoon. Geo. Guile, leader and first violinist of the Academy orchestra, with Miss Ruth Drechsler as accompanist, gave the following programme: Cavatina—by Raff, Liebesllied—by Kreisler, Air on the G string—by Bach; Rondino, on a theme by Beethoven—Kreisler.

During the past year, Mrs. Guy Warner Eastman, director of the school since 1913, whose effective work has done much towards arousing an interest in art in the community, has been granted leave of absence. Mrs. Eastman has been studying in Paris, and her friends are interested to learn that she has a picture in the Spring Salon. Mrs. Eastman's place, as director, has been very capably filled by Miss Aida Watrous, instructor in pottery and metal work. Miss Katherine Mallett, as heretofore has had charge of the freehand drawing and the children's Saturday morning class. In the latter, she has been assisted by Miss Harriet R. Trumbull and Miss Nellie A. Loring. The classes in design have been taught by Miss Faith Stevens and Miss Margaret Heyer. Miss Leavens has also given a course in the history and appreciation of art.

Prizes Awarded

The annual award of prizes was made known at the exhibition. These were the following: Free hand drawing, Miss Sylvia Neiderman; design, Miss Ethel Willows; original work in composition, Miss Helen Tirrel, Miss Nellie A. Loring, graduate craftsman, received the award for work in gold, silver and platinum; Miss Ava Byrnes, graduate student, the prize for excellence in pottery; Miss Olive Rathbun and Daniel O'Neil received first mention, taking with it prizes for commendable work in the children's class.

The exhibition is open to the public Saturday and Sunday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, standard time.

Drawing

In drawing the work of Sylvia Niederman, a senior at the Academy is especially interesting. Her pastel drawings of heads made in the afternoon sketch class show much character and charm. During the four years she has been in the school and has shown much improvement in drawing and has developed an individual style in work from the model. Miss Niederman will continue her art education at Pratt Institute, New York, having passed, successfully, the entrance examinations recently submitted.

Composition

With the exception of the Academy Juniors, all members of the drawing classes attend the composition class, where they illustrate stories and poems, and make compositions in given spaces. Miss Helen Tirrell's compositions, illustrating children's stories and Stevenson's poems are charming. They show originality both in idea and color.

One problem during the year is to make a design for the national humane poster contest. A few of these are on exhibition.

Other compositions in color are shown by Clementine Bacheler, Ethel Willows, Blanche Wilber, Ann Moses, Helen Beckenstein, Polly Benton, Elizabeth Durie and Quintin Atkins.

Decorative flower panels and copies of Japanese prints occupy two of the smaller screens very effectively. On the first floor, preparatory drawings from casts and the early problems in perspective are exhibited.

First Year Design

Two large screens are hung with examples of the first year work in design by Academy students. The first problem, the color wheel, showing the primary and the secondary colors, the intermediate hues and their tints and shades, is followed by simple designs in cut paper illustrating the four color harmonies. Problems in space filling, the circle and the square, are worked on a larger scale in water color. Designs for upright and oblong panels in three values, simple all over repeats and borders. A smaller screen contains designs by advanced first and second year students. Several of the problems here are based on a study of Egyptian and Greek ornament.

The third and fourth year students have worked out problems of individual interest. Miss Blanche Wilber has interesting designs for leather, pottery, and pierced brass. Miss Shapiro has developed a design for a silver trinket of special interest. Quintin Atkins has an Egyptian design for a tile, and an Assyrian panel to be done in faience. Several hooked rugs are exhibited. Miss Mildred Tortoiseshell's is of exceptional interest.

The work in design of the art school students, Miss Dorothy Allen, Miss Clementine Bacheler, Miss Janet Blackstone, and Miss Ethel Willows is placed on a screen at the left of the centre. Miss Willows and Miss Bacheler show decorative flower studies, the motives for textile design. Miss Allen and Miss Blackstone problems in filling the circle and the square. Here again there are examples of Egyptian and Greek ornament, notably a design for an Egyptian tile by Miss Willows.

Miss Allen, Miss Bacheler, Miss Willows, together with the following Academy students, Miss Durie, Miss Wilber, Miss Holmberg, Miss Grabielsky, and Miss Malcolm entered designs in the Armstrong linoleum contest. The original designs are now in New York, but a section of each one has been worked out and is exhibited with the craft work on the first floor.

History and Appreciation of Art

On a floor screen are note book illustrations for the art history course. The aim of the course has been to make the student familiar with a few of the great periods in the history of art, particularly as they are illustrated by the Slater museum collections. First, the architecture and decorative art of Egypt, Greek Sculpture, Roman Architecture, Italian sculpture and painting of the Renaissance have been the subject of talks. The students take notes and illustrate these by sketches made from the museum collection of casts and photographs.

Pottery and Metalry

The craft classes offer an ideal opportunity for the advanced students to execute problems which have a definite use. Much interesting work has been done in these classes during the past year. The pottery is of particular interest in its form and color. The metal work is equally so for its originality and restraint.

A necklace, in gold, set with Australian opals and diamonds has been made by Miss Loring, to carry a watch having an opal and diamond case. The ornament is very beautiful in design and in workmanship. Other pieces of jewelry which have been executed by Miss Loring are displayed in the central case. Mrs. G. G. Grant, Miss Grace Taft, and Miss Stella Rozycki are exhibiting jewelry unique in design, interesting in detail and showing a thorough understanding of their medium. Miss Alice Sayles has been experimenting with enamels and has made delightful combinations. The work of the younger group of Academy students is original and promising.

Members of the special classes in pottery exhibit pieces of endless variety in shape, color and general character. Mrs. F. M. Lester has modelled a number of very interesting houses. These have been glazed in the colors representing the originals from which they were developed. Mrs. Allis, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Sudlow, and Miss Huntington have been interested in color particularly, and have used casts to a great extent, to produce the pottery on which to experiment with the glazes. Miss Byrnes, Mrs. J. P. Huntington, Miss H. R. Trumbull, and Mrs. Phillips have enjoyed wheel throwing or hand building as a method. The younger students have built all of their pieces by hand, using coils of clay.

Miss Ava Byrnes' work is easily distinguished by an unusual refinement in line. Several large vases and bowls varying in color and form, are to be found in the gallery. Her appreciation of form and color is keen and her knowledge of pottery as a craft is outstanding.

Children's Class

One of the most interesting features of the school is the work of the group of children between the ages of six and thirteen, who come to the art school for two hours on Saturday morning to receive instruction in drawing, design and modelling.

In the drawing class, the children have made effective studies from nature, copies of Japanese prints, of sketches in the museum, and illustrations for poems and stories. Among the older children, the work of Daniel O'Neil and Olive Rathbun, Kirkner Bailey and Fay Hill, attracts especial attention. Daniel O'Neil's drawings are strong and have lovely color, and Olive Rathbun's show much careful study and feeling for line. Vincent Grzymkowski, Virginia Brown, Patricia Howe, Germania Kocaj, Susanne Higgins, Katharine and Priscilla Mough, Jeanne France Boisson, and Dorothea Butts are showing some good copies of Japanese prints, while Esther Gilbert, Daniel O'Neil, Fay Hill and Olive Rathbun have some interesting sketches made in the museum.

In composition, the silhouettes by the older children illustrating Joyce Kilmer's poem "Trees" are interesting, as are also their sketches of Aladdin, Peter Pan and Mother Goose characters, while they later worked out as figures in the modelling class. The compositions by the younger children entitled "What I want to be when I grow up" are amusing and show imagination.

The children in the design classes worked out a number of problems in the study of color. Charts were made from black paper-cut for interesting spaces. In these spaces, the primary and secondary colors were arranged. Later they evolved with much enjoyment, tiles and repeating pattern adapting birds and animals from early German textiles. Repeating patterns made by Olive Rathbun and Patricia Howe are well executed and are interesting in color. Book plates printed from linoleum blocks and stencils on linen have been carried out by several children, those by Olive Rathbun, Germania Kocaj and Edward Jordan are particularly well executed.

The clay division of the Saturday children's class has worked in combination with the design and drawing classes, the children carrying out in clay designs made in the other divisions. Very successful tiles were executed by the children. The best examples of these are shown by Olive Rathbun, Katharine Hough, Daniel O'Neil, Vincent Grzymkowski, Germania Kocaj.

Interesting little figures representing the characters in the story of Cinderella, including the pumpkin coach, and mice are shown, also Huckleberry Finn, Peter Pan, Aladdin and his lamp, Mary with her lamb, Bopeep and others. Of these, the Peter Pan by Daniel O'Neil is perhaps the most artistic. The firing of his plays tricks with the glaze producing color combinations and effects not intended by the young artist.

A variety of bowls, candle sticks and vases have also been done by the children.

Allyn Brown shows a well made wall vase of original design. Charles Colt, as a first year student, has done excellent work in clay. He also shows a wall vase. Priscilla Hough has a well modeled rooster. Dolly Edmonds, Roy Robbins, Anna Guglielmetti, Arthur Dawley show creditable bowls. Dorothea Butts has made an ink well and Olive Rathbun two elephants, designed for book ends.

Edward Jordan shows an ash tray and candle sticks of good workmanship. Several of the popular little mushroom flower holders were made by the children, the best of these being shown by Dorothea Butts, Anna Guglielmetti, Virginia Chase and Vincent Grzymkowski.

PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS TO ATTEND CHURCH SERVICE

The members of Sedgwick Woman's Relief Corps, No. 16, Clara Bartor tent, No. 7, D. of V.; L. B. Army auxiliary, No. 15; Sedgwick post, No 1, G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, Griswold camp, U. S. W. BASEBALL, GOLF, TENNIS AND MARATHON FEATURE WEEK END ATHLETIC PROGRAM

The Memorial Day week end will be marked by many sport activities in all branches and it will not be hard for the sport fan to find a sport to his liking during the next three days. There are several baseball games scheduled for today and Sunday as well as for Memorial Day. At the Norwich Golf club today will be the state team match, Norwich vs. Shenecomsett, and the regular week end club tournament. Also at the Golf club today, Sunday and Monday will be tennis matches and on Memorial Day will also be the annual Memorial Day medal play.

Memorial Day will also see the five mile run under the auspices of the Duwell Athletic club for which are entered some 30 runners of National fame. Norwich has been put on the sport map through the efforts of the Norwich Golf club with Hagen and Farrell playing exhibition golf matches and Tilden playing an exhibition tennis match.

The Academy baseball team ish slowly forging ahead toward a state high school championship, another thing that is bringing Norwich to the fore in athletics. The events listed for today follows:

At the Academy.

The Academy team will clash with the Chapman Tech team in a league game at the Academy campus this afternoon. After the narow escape from defeat at Windham on Thursday the Academy put in a stiff practice session on Friday for the game today. Chapman, an easy victim in the last game, may not prove so soft for the locals in today's game. Chapman has been playing good ball and has improved since being beaten by the Academy earlier in the season. Coach Brigham is undecided who he will send against Chapman today. Jarvis pitched against Windham Thursday and Breene is suffering with a painful cut on the index finger of his pitching hand. The remainder of the lineup for today will be the same as the one that snatched a victory from Windham in the ninth inning on Thursday. The game today is scheduled for 3 o'clock.

At the State Hospital.

At this diamond this afternoon the Riverview club will entertain the Corbin Red Sox in an encounter that is expected to be productive of some good baseball. The Corbin Red Sox hafe been on the Riverview schedule for a number of years and have always put up a brilliant brand of baseball against the local club. Manager Corbin of the Red Sox has written that he has an even stronger team than last year and that many new faces will be seen in today's game.

Manager Zemke of the Riverview club is throwing the full strength of his team against the Sox this afternoon with West doing the pitching. The Sox have been unable to touch the big left hander and he is expected to turn back the team in handy style. After suffering two defeats in a row last week the Riverview team after a week of stiff practice is all set to capture today's game. Lefty Couillard will cover the first sack as Lefty Harrell is playing with the Sub Base today. The lineups for today's game follow:

Riverview: Normandin ss, Liberty 3b, Hamil 2b, Mills lf, Schessler rf, Moore cf, Couillard 1b, Belair c, West p.

Corbin Red Sox: Patrus 3b, Fitzpatrick ss, Barnett 3b, Schneider lf, Smith cf, Blanchard 1b, Corazzo rf, Clinton c, Buckland p.

At the Norwich Golf Club.

The golfing interest today centers on the Shenecossett-Norwich state team match which will be played over the 18-hole course at the club this afternoon. Shenecossett is reported to bring up their best team in hopes of eliminating the Norwich team in the first round of the state play. Norwich, however, will pit its best golfers against the visitors and an interesting team match is expected. The Norwich team for today will be Dave Morton, Willis Austin, Sam Wilcox, Al Keene, W. F. Austin and Eddie McKay.

The first round of the Memorial Day tennis matches will be played this afternoon as will the team match between the Norwich Free Academy tennis team and the Golf club team. It is expected that there will be three singles matches and two doubles matches. Play in the club handicap tennis will be on Sunday and Monday, the finals being played Monday.

On Memorial day the annual club golf competition will be played consisting of 18 holes at medal play will be played. The six low net scores will be the prize winners. The play will be from the front markers on all holes where there are two tees.

The sixteen players returning the lowest gross scores will be drawn for handicap match play, 2-3 (two-thirds) of handicaps being allowed. Each match at 18 holes will be allowed one

ATHLETICS CALL HALT ON YANKS WINNING STREAK

NEW YORK, May 28.—(AP)—The winning streak of the New York Yankees, which had extended over 16 consecutive games, was checked by the Philadelphia Athletics today. Connie Mack's men broke the string when Lefty Grove stopped the Hugmen in the first game of a double-header, 2 to 1, and then copped the second contest, 6 to 5.

A crowd of 46,000, the largest to see a mid-week ball game here, exclusive of holiday and world series contests, saw Grove limit the Yankees to seven hits and strike out nine. French's hitting decided the contest. his single in the second inning putting Simmons off third, from where he scored on a force play, and his triple driving over the deciding run in the fourth.

The Mackmen opened with an explosion of hits against Shocker in the second game and piled up an early lead of five runs. The Yanks later drove Gray from the box, but Pate came to the rescue. Scores:

GRAMMAR SCHOOL LEAGUE

Broadway Beats Elizabeth St.

In a real tight contest, Broadway succeeded in defeating its closest rivals, the Elizabeth street school, on the Duwell field yesterday afternoon by the score of 5 to 4. This victory tied the winners with Elizabeth street for first place in the grammar school league, and from now on a fast tussle is expected among the teams who still have a chance to qualify for the league honors.

Town street put up a good fight against the Taftville boys on the Academy field, but the latter seemed to have a shade on their opponents defeating them 6 to 3.

The scores were as follows:

PIRATES TAKE OVERTIME GAME FROM CUBS

PITTSBURGH, May 28.—(AP)—Pittsburgh defeated Chicago 6 to 5, in 11 innings today, Glenn Wright's triple scoring Hal Rhyne with the winning run, after the Cubs had tied the score in the ninth. Meadows, who had relieved Yde in the ninth, held the Cubs hitless the remainder of the game.

Six of Chicago's seven hits were for extra bases, Scott and Grimm hammering out home runs.

Osborne, who started for Chicago, twisted his foot in the second and Piercy was called to the mound. The latter made way for a pinch hitter in the ninth and Bush finished.

Gover Alexander, star Chicago pitcher, collapsed in the dugout during the game, and was assisted from the field. Physicians said he had suffered an attack of dizziness. Score:

REDS TAKE THIRD STRAIGHT FROM CARDS EASILY

CINCINNATI, May 28.—(AP)—Cincinnati won the third straight game from St. Louis, 12 to 4 today. It was a weird game with the St. Louis pitchers giving 13 bases on balls and being touched for 11 hits, one of which was a triple by Walker in the seventh with the bases full.

The Reds wasted several opportunities in the early innings. Critz probably established a new record for successive walks as he got five successive free tickets to first. Score:

GIANTS BEATEN BY BRAVES AT MEMORIAL UNVEILING

BOSTON, Mass., May 28.—(AP)—After the unveiling of a bronze memorial tablet to the memory of Christy Mathewson, who died last October while president of the Boston Braves, the home team proceeded to defeat the Giants 5 to 3 in the first game of a series here today.

Before the unveiling there was a game between the Braves for whom Dick Rudolph and Fred Mitchell caught, and the old timers, for whom Joe McGinnity and Mike Lynch pitched and Roger Bresnahan and Jack Ryan caught. It was a tour and a half inning contest and the older timers were defeated, 4 to 3.

Impressive ceremonies prefaced the unveiling which was done by Mrs. Christy Mathewson, seated between Christy's father, a Civil war veteran, and young Christy, her son.

Judge Landis, Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols, President John A. Heydler of the National league and Commander Good of the Massachusetts A. L. were speakers. The proceeds of the game to the Mathewson memorial fund which is to be used for a clubhouse for the Saranac Lake, N. Y., American Legion post.

SWEETSER TO PLAY IN BRITISH AMATEUR FINALS WITH SIMPSON

MUIRFIELD, Scotland, May 28.—(AP)—Jess Sweetser of New York, former American intercollegiate and amateur champion, and A. F. Simpson of Scotland meet tomorrow in the finals of the British amateur golf championship.

When the semi-finals of the tournament started today expectation was general among the followers of golf here that Bobby Jones, American champion, after his magnificent victory Thursday over Robert Harris, recent British title holder, most likely would make America's bid tomorrow in the classic final tilt, with the possibility of an all-American clash if Sweetser also survived.

It was not to be, however. Bobby, the magnificent, passed out of the picture in the morning's sixth round play. He was defeated, 4 and 3, by A. Jamieson, Jr., youthful Scotch novice in international golf, while Sweetser, former Yale university star, won in the morning, two up, from Robert Scott, Jr., played sterling golf in the afternoon against his Irish opponent, W. G. Brownlow, and won a thrilling 21-hole struggle.

Sweetser accomplished this by steadiness on the extra holes after faltering somewhat at the close of the regulation period.

Meanwhile the setting for the finals had been rounded out by Brownlow's victory over W. A. Murray of West Hull and the success of A. F. Simpson, sterling Highland youth, over G. C. Kilfey of Duddington in the morning round. This brought Simpson against Jamieson in a purely British half of the semi-finals.

Jamieson, a likely youth, but not sufficiently seasoned to stand the strain of a long championship tournament, went down by 2 to 1.

Jones' defeat not only was a hard blow to his American followers, but was regretted, so much as national pride would permit, by numbers of native golfing enthusiasts who thronged to the course to witness the matches in the closing stages of the tournament.

Bobby unquestionably is a popular figure over here and the prospect of a final wherein he would figure was an alluring one which the downfall of the American amateur and erstwhile open champion shattered. It was difficult to believe that the Bobby Jones, whose game collapsed before the trim young Glasgow youth this morning was the same man who overwhelmed Harris, 8 and 6, yesterday.

The holes that were birdie threes against Harris became loose fives in the Jamieson match. Last night Bobby caught cold and this morning a masseur worked for an hour to remove a slight stiffness in his neck. When he started the round he said he felt fine, but the phenomenal strokes of Thursday simply would not come.

Jones pulled his drive into rough on the first hole and was little better on the second, losing both. He recovered one at the fourth but lost the 10th, 12th and 14th, missing holeable putts, while Jamieson never wavered. Without mistakes on his opponent's part, only birdies could save the American and he could not produce them.

So the match ended at the 15th.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

UNITED COMMERCIAL TRAVELERS

A change of name from Norwich council, No. 509, to Thames Valley council was voted at a recent meeting and will become effective as soon as certain formalities have been complied with.

The next meeting of the council is to be held in Steiner hall on the evening of Saturday, June 12, when the members are invited to discuss plans for a field day.

JUNIOR AMERICAN MECHANICS

Buckingham council No. 14, transacted regular business at its meeting Wednesday evening in the Buckingham Memorial, but several matters of new business were brought up and put into effect. The council is now looking forward to the installation of officers.

MOOSEHEART LEGION

Senior Regent Mrs. Teresa Watters opened the regular meeting of the Women of Mooseheart Legion at Moose home Thursday evening. A class of four candidates was initiated. The senior regent appointed Mrs. Vera Sterry chairman of the whist and pinochle, and Mrs. Mary LaValle, chairman of the rummage sale to be held next month. Mrs. Alida Boyens was named as delegate to Meriden. The next meeting is to be especially for members of over five years standing, with Mrs. Grace Wals as chairman. The senior regent announced a food sale to be held in June.

As this was Children's night, the following programme was carried out after the business meeting:

Solo, Always, Lenora Wunderlick; piano solo, Minuet in F, Mildred Carter; recitation, To the dandelion, Agusta Heibel; recitation, Larkenbar, Margaret Heibel; recitation, The Animal Band, Kenneth Sterry; recitation, George Gallager.

Each child was presented a May basket filled with candy and fancy cookies, by Mrs. Vera Sterry. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served by Mrs. Georgia Tomanio, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Martha Wunderlick and Miss Pauline Wunderlick.

CATHOLIC LADIES OF COLUMBUS

The communion breakfast of Mercier assembly, No. 13, promises to be a great success. Holy mass will be celebrated as usual at St. Patrick's church Sunday May 30, at 7:30 a. m. Members will receive holy communion at this mass and breakfast will be served at the Wauregan hotel. All members wishing reservations are expected to make these through the chairman, Miss Mae Bresnahan.

B'NAI BRITH AUXILIARY

With a record attendance of members the Rose of New England auxiliary No. 40, I. O. B. B. celebrated its fourth birthday anniversary at the Buckingham Memorial, Thursday night.

One of the main features of the evening was the initiation by the newly organized degree team consisting of Mrs. D. Trachtenberg, president, Mrs. C. Jacobson, vice president, Mrs. A. Manes, Monitress, Mrs. A. Alexander, guide. The following new members were admitted to the order:—Mrs. M. Solomon, Mrs. H. Rosoff, Mrs. B. Lahn, Mrs. B. Mandell, Mrs. A. Tannenbaum and Mrs. Cohen.

Entertainment for the evening was furnished by the men's lodge. President Abner Schwartz delivered a short address that contained plenty of humor to keep the audience gay with laughter. Alex Pasnik followed with toasts for the welfare of the organization and for the good of its accomplishments, after which Max Hanover delighted the audience with an interesting address relative to the growth of the order and its noble work.

Refreshments consisted of a variety of sandwiches, cakes, fruit and punch were served.

The arrangements for the party were successfully carried out by the committee, Mrs. J. Wechsler, Mrs. D. Schwartz, Marcia Bruckner, Ruth Clark and Mrs. Alexander.

The musical program was carried out by Mrs. A. Manes and Goldie Bruckner.

V. F. W. AUXILLIARY

A very successful whist and food sale was conducted by the ladies auxiliary of Richard E. Hourihan Post, No. 594, V. F. W., Monday evening in the post rooms. The event was well patronized. The prize winners at whist were: Ladies, first, Mrs. Hoelck; second, Mrs. Day; third, Mrs. Blackburn; men, first, J. T. Donahue; second, Mrs. Wholey; third, Mr. Collins.

The committee in charge of the successful affair comprised Mrs. A. J. Turner, Mrs. Arthur S. Whitmarsh and Mrs. Earle Maynard.

IMMERGRUEN GUARDS

The Immergruen Guards held a meeting Tuesday evening in Germania hall and after the business session the guards held a surprise party for two of their members, Mrs. B. Schlwiez and Mrs. J. Gresser. Games were played and dancing was enjoyed. Mrs. Schubert, captain of the guards, in behalf of the guards presented Mrs. Gresser and Mrs. Schlwiez a potted plant and a bouquet of cut flowers. Both responded with thanks for the gifts.

Luncheon of coffee, sandwiches and cake was served by Mrs. A. Schaffhausen, Mrs. J. Schaffhausen, Mrs. H. Tenf, Mrs. V. Wenzel, Mrs. O. Lachas and Mrs. Braun.

PATRONS OF HUSBANDRY

Norwich grange, No. 172, made its meeting in Steiner hall on Wednesday evening a memorial meeting for its deceased members, conducting an impressive programme after the regular business meeting. Worthy Master Ida Richardson presided at the business meeting at which the usual routine was followed out and the grange presented to Mrs. Eunice Northrop Green, a recent bride, a beautiful picture. The presentation was made in behalf of the grange by Mrs. Ivy Peckham.

There were remarks by Mr. Goodenough, worthy master of Ledyard grange. Visitors were present from Ledyard and Canterbury granges.

The memorial programme, under the direction of the worthy lecturer, Mrs. R. J. P. Brown, was carried out as follows and was a candle light service: March, by drill team and officers, all in white music by Miss Howie; quartette selection, Miss Charlotte Fowler, Miss Taggart, Mr. Lockhart, Mr. Rush; prayer, Worthy Chapiain Ellis; solo, Face to Face, William H. Rush; reading necrology list by John E. Fanning and as each name was read Worthy Master Ida Richardson laid a rose in each empty chair. As Albert H. Dexter's name was read a salute to the flag was given and as the list was concluded the gong was sounded and there was one minute of silence. The programme was continued with selections by the quartette, remarks by Rev. Mr. Goodenough, selection by the quartette and the march out.

The following is the necrology list: John T. Peckham, 1908; Dr. Geo. T. Howland, Sept. 24, 1911; Mrs. Chas. S. Peckham, Sept. 30, 1911; Chas. F. Lillibridge, April 6, 1912; Mrs. Susan M. Howie, Sept. 19, 1912; Sadie G. Hanna, June 13, 1916; Chas. B. Chapman Dec. 28, 1916; Mrs. Mary E. Jewett, March 23, 1917; Frank H. Smith, Sept. 25, 1917; Henry M. Colt, Jan. 9, 1918; Albert H. Dexter, Jan. 17, 1918; George H. Havens, Oct. 12, 1918; Mrs. L. L. Chapman, July 2, 1919; Frank E. Baker, July 6, 1920; Thos. A. Robinson, Sept. 19, 1920; A. A. Robinson, March 6, 1922; Mrs. Henry M. Colt, June 11, 1923; Arthur Jenkins, Sept. 3, 1923; Mrs. Francis Spalding, Sept 11, 1923; John R. Bliven, Dec. 12, 1923; Miss Effie Messinger, Aug. 18, 1924; S. S. Stocking, Sept. 4, 1924; Mrs. Charlotte Jones, April 24, 1925; Joseph Olsen, Jan. 2, 1926; Ralph Bliven, March 4 1926; Mrs. Susan Mitchell, March 9, 1926.

The grange hall was very beautiful with its rose shaded lights and candles. The altar was decorated with a candelabrum, sheaf of wheat, a Bible and pink roses. The music was in charge of William H. Rush and Miss Howie, the lights in charge of Mrs. Fowler, and the drill team in charge of Mrs. Myra Waters.

Cake, whipped cream and coffee were served by the feast committee of which Mrs. William S. Murray is chairman.

POETRY

Of a Beloved Dog

I'm glad we made his life with us
As happy as we could,
And if we sometimes caused him grief,
I'm sure he understood.
We never meant to give him pain,
Or any wish deny,
And when he couldn't go with us
We tried to tell him why.

Ah, yes, I'm sure he understood,
He always looked so wise,
Even though keen disappointment shone
In his sweet, trustful eyes;
I'm glad he never felt the lack
Of any tenderness,
He loved us so; it meant as much—
Each spurned caress.

Ah, God, it hurts me so to see
His empty dish and bed;
And since he left us many tears
Of sorrow we have shed;
We miss him so, the hurt of it
Cuts like a two-edged knife,
Yet through our tears we smile and say
His was a happy life.

Indifference

Over my garden
An airplane flew,
But nothing there
Either cared or knew.

Cabbage butterflies
Chased each other.
A young wren cried
Seeking his mother.

Gay zinnias
With heavy heads
Flaunted yellows
And mauves and reds.

A hummingbird
On the late larkspur
Never knew what Went over her.

Crickets chirped
And a blinking toad
Watched for flies
On the gravel road.

They don't care
How smart men are—
To go through heaven
In a flying car!

To a yellow bee
On a marigold
The adventure seems
A trifle old.

A cuttlefish that confounds its enemies with light instead of darkness is the interesting creature described by Professor E. Newton Harvey, student of what is popularly known as "cold light," who recently returned to Princeton university after eight months of research in the marine laboratories of Naples and Messina, Italy. Ordinary squids or cuttlefish that live near the surface escape their pursuers by throwing out a cloud of black fluid, while this other cuttlefish, which lives at depths of probably 10,000 feet, where no light ever penetrates, has only a rudimentary inksac, which instead of the usual inky sepia, contains a luminous substance. When disturbed it discharges a jet of this luminous material, and thus blinds its enemy with light instead of darkness.

Using less rubber means getting back to pre-war mileage

By W. O'Neil, President of the General Tire and Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio

Much has been printed recently about the high price of rubber and the necessity for rubber conservation. This news has not only given the public an exaggerated idea of tire prices, but has supported the claim that rubber can be saved by using less of it in a tire.

When rubber is cheap, tire manufacturers generally use more of it. The necessity for using the same quantity of good rubber for the sake of long-wearing quality does not change regardless of fluctuations in rubber prices.

The growing practice of replacing a considerable part of the good rubber in tires with reclaimed rubber means getting back to pre-war mileage with greater cost to the consumer in money and annoyance.

You can't save rubber by using less of it. The substitution of cheaper compounds for one-third of the pure rubber reduces the cost several dollars, but, by weakening the entire structure, takes out two-thirds of the wear.

Everyone knows what happens when cement is saved by the use of more sand in the batch. The principle is the same whether it is tires or towers that totter. The way to save rubber is to make tires wear longer by using enough of it.

With plenty of good rubber it is unsound manufacturing and poor service to the public to use less of it in tires.

DURING our Trade-in Sale they have come in dozens and by the score—the total will reach into the hundreds—and they are driving away on Generals to begin the longest, most enjoyable and economical mileage ever known in tires.

In all our experience as tire dealers, never have car owners shown so clearly their belief in the upholding of quality and readiness to take advantage of a great selling event that combines at the same time the absolute assurance of longest possible wear in a tire.

There has never been a time when quality in a tire meant more, when it would so greatly pay the consumer to investigate and make sure of the dependability of his tire purchases.

Read the comment of W. O'Neil, President of the General Tire and Rubber Company. General is making a fight for the continuance of quality, unadulterated, in tires—for, in view of the spreading use of reclaimed rubber in tires, it would be easy for the industry to go back to pre-war mileage.

We, as the exclusive distributors of General in this city, are celebrating our company's remarkable stand in the interest of topmost quality.

Knowing that no other tire on the market can compare with the service General delivers, we are featuring this Trade-in Sale in order that every car owner in the city will find it easy to get started on Generals and learn about them from personal experience. It is worth while to us because every new customer now will mean a permanent customer for us in the years to come.

It is worth while to you because you can get Generals on your car without sacrificing a penny of the value of your old tires—and right now that value is at its peak.

We are making it worth while to every car owner

Now is the time to buy your General tires for the year.

Our Trade-in Sale gives you an advantage over today's tire prices.

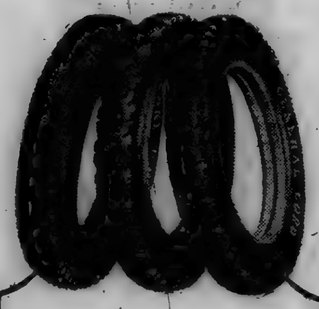
In this sale we offset the cost by making special allowances on your old tires.

We are going to take into consideration the fact that when the high cost of rubber caused tire prices to rise, it also increased the value of the tires already on your car.

You can cash in that increased value by trading in those old tires now.

And plus that, they have a special trade-in value with us if they are tires you put into use before last September.

No matter how much or how little your present tires have been used, it will pay you to attend our Trade-in Sale.



The Big EXTRA ADVANTAGES only Generals will give you

Mileage Incomparable

So many instances of the second 10,000 miles, and even the third, or more, that you hear our customers talking about it wherever you go.

Riding Comfort Unequaled

Because of General's low-pressure leadership in all sizes, both regulars and balloons, you really know the meaning of low-pressure comfort after you have taken your first ride on Generals.

Car Economy

The saving to the life of the motor and the car itself is due not only to General's low-pressure protection of body and mechanical parts, but also the minimum rolling-resistance in the tires, which makes every ounce of the motor's power count for the most and gets it over the hills with the least effort. It adds months and even years to the life of the motor itself.

Gasoline Saving

Due to the same feature of less rolling-resistance, you save gasoline when you ride on Generals. Sometimes the saving is as high as 20 per cent.

Trade-In Your Tires for General 6-Ply Balloons

Owners of the heavier cars now realize the tremendous advantages of the General 6-ply balloon—hundreds are changing to this improved balloon tire.

To run on General 6-ply balloons is to know real tire comfort and satisfaction — more mileage — no more punctures than regular-size tires — the greatest riding comfort you ever experienced.

Bargains

in new equipment tires that were traded in on Generals. Various sizes in several well known makes; they offer exceptionally good buys as long as they last.

NEW LONDON AUTHORITIES WATCH FOR GYPSY BUNCO MEN IN AUTOS

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 29.—The New London police are maintaining a watch in the hopes that they can arrest a gang of gypsies, who, it is alleged by the authorities of Hartford, buncoed two Hartford Italians out of $2,600 early this forenoon. It is possible that the gang will come to this city. The gypsies after obtaining the money left the city and were riding in two Cadillac automobiles. One car carried Maryland registration, 90—084 and the other registration was the issue of the District of Columbia, being 69—553.

Motorists appeared in the police court this morning to answer for various offenses. They were charged with speeding, the evasion of responsibility when an accident occurred, with operating a car without registration and with violation of traffic rules and ordinances.

Francis De Gange was fined $10 for failing to produce his registration and making known who he is, when he was involved in a slight accident on outer Broad street yesterday. The car of Joseph Perry, Jr., was in front of a garage when an accident occurred in the highway. De Gange in his car was at hand and in trying to get by the Perry car his car collided with the Perry machine. Joe is a farmer's boy, but he evidently had read the laws governing the operation of automobiles. He demanded to see the registration of the De Gange car and to learn the name of the operator, but De Gange would not gratify him. On the contrary he demanded that Perry give him the information he sought, and told Perry that the insurance company would make good any loss he sustained. Perry headed for the police station and reported the case and asked for the apprehension of De Gange. This morning in court, De Gange pleaded that he was ignorant of the law, but that did not serve to exempt him from a fine.

Albert Porta of Hartford had a unique defense when charged with operating a car without possessing registration. He was taken into custody in front of the court house as if he went there to be handy for Sheriff Tubbs, the arresting officer. An accident occurred at the head of State street and when he heard the crash Sheriff Tubbs rushed out to ascertain what had happened. He asked Porta for his registration, but Porta didn't have that very necessary paper, nor did he claim he had had it. He told the sheriff he could not find it and declared when he was taken to the police station that he was without registration. He was released on a bond and today represented that when he went back to Hartford he was told that the registration was in the car and there he discovered it. That story brought a fine of $5 to Mr. Porta.

A fellow who speeded by Willetts avenue on Montauk, at a rate estimated at 35 miles an hour, this morning, was fined $10. The driver went so rapidly that only his number plate was seen and that led to his arrest. He gave the name of W. H. Corsey and said he was employed at the Ship & Engine company plant. The testimony disclosed what the prosecution held, that he was late and must get to the plant in a few minutes or be docked in wages. Motorman [illegible] Wilcox and Policeman George McCauley testified against the man accused and the motorman declared that Corsey had driven at a lawless speed past a standing trolley car that was discharging passengers.

Three drunks were disciplined. Dan Fraser three days ago came from jail where he served a term for intoxication. He was sent back today for the same offense. A couple of Ship & Engine company employes were fined $5 for intoxication, but the collection of the fine was not insisted upon that they might return to their labors.

Miss Delia M. Maroney, 42 Jay street, secretary of the Catholic diocesan bureau, of social service, is scheduled to be in the police court Saturday morning charged with violation of the city's parking ordinances. Miss Maroney, it is alleged, parked her automobile on Main street, near Masonic street, this forenoon, but in parking her car did not park ten feet from the intersecting streets. Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy discovered the violation and ordered Miss Maroney into court. The violation, it is alleged, is the second of which Miss Maroney has been guilty within two months.

William Apley, one of the proprietors of the Tracey Chemical Co., Union street, and Mrs. John Misiarki, 100 Winthrop street, complained to the police this morning because of the daily practice of youths playing ball in the streets. Mr. Apley declared that windows of his establishment had been broken by the ball and Mrs. Misiarki declared that her property had suffered injury.

Patrolman Arthur Feeley in making his rounds at Ocean Beach, shortly before last midnight discovered a leak in the toilet of the Ocean View hotel, Stuart avenue, owned by Max Fenn, 1110 Ocean avenue. A deluge of water was emptying into the hotel restaurant and finding its way to the street. The owner was notified of the break and caused the water to be shut off from the building.

James H. Coulson, 11 Grasaw street, complained to the police early this morning that a fellow was prowling about the yard of his home and that the prowler had attempted to gain entrance to the house by means of the rear entrance. Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray and Patrolman William Riordan were sent to the Coulson house, but when they arrived there the fellow had made his escape.

Albert Hathaway, of Gilead road, Waterford, who was run down at Station 16, Waterford, Tuesday night by an unknown autoist, is much more seriously injured than at first believed, for it is now known that his back is fractured and that he has also sustained a fractured pelvic bone. Whether Hathaway will suffer the loss of the right leg, which was fractured in three places, is now known, but the physicians are endeavoring to save the life of Hathaway rather than to save the limb. The state police have been unable to obtain any clues that might lead to the arrest of the inhuman driver, who left Hathaway partially unconscious beside the highway and after the driver had alighted from the machine and inspected the right mudguard on his car.

The funeral of Charles P. Fitch was held at his residence, 50 School street, Groton, this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock and was attended by a large number of mourners. Mr. Fitch was one of the borough's oldest residents, former merchant and former town office holder. The services were conducted by Rev. George R. Atha, pastor of the Groton Heights Baptist church. Burial was in Starr cemetery.

Alexander Leiper, 67, of Clark lane, Waterford, died at his residence this morning, death being caused by heart disease and from which he had long been a sufferer. He is survived by his wife and six sons, Arthur, Alexander, Jr., Charles, Henry, Frank and Fred Leiper. Mr. Leiper was born in Scotland, but had resided in Waterford many years. For a long time he was employed as a paving stone cutter. Of late years Mr. Leiper had been employed at the plant of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, New London.

Nathan Jacques, of Waterford, employed by the Foundation company, contractors erecting the new theatre for the 325 State Street corporation, was painfully injured this morning when struck by a heavy timber that fell from one of the uppermost parts of the structure. Jacques sustained a lacerated shoulder and back. He was given medical treatment and then taken to his home.

Francesco Fersai, of 147 Shaw street, this afternoon requested the police to assist him in locating his daughter, Josephine, who had run away from home earlier in the day. The departure of the girl was not discovered until she had been away from her home some time and it was then made known that when she left she carried a travelling bag. The girl is described as being 13, about five feet, three inches in height, weighs about 110 pounds and has brown eyes and dark brown hair. When the girl disappeared she had on light shoes and stockings.

Another section of the municipal pier, which structure has been reported several times of late as being dangerous in places, was discovered to be in a condition that warranted repairs today. Patrolman John Clifford discovered a section of the planking loose, thereby creating a danger spot. The matter was referred to the department of public safety.

Reuben Lewis, 10 Elizabeth street, complained to the police yesterday that during his absence from his room, that his golf watch and a gold ring, with Odd fellows' insignia on it had been stolen and that he suspected an acquaintance of committing the theft. This evening Lewis communicated with the police, stating that the watch and ring had been returned to him by the suspect, who declared that he had found both in the possession of a child. Lewis did not desire prosecution, as he was satisfied with the recovery of his property.

An improvement has been made at the corner of Green and Pearl streets, long considered a danger spot because of the narrowness of the two streets. The improvement was made possible and a certain element of danger removed by the cutting away of a small section of the sidewalk, which makes the turning of the cars at that point more easy, additional highway space of about four feet being obtained.

The addition to the post office is fast nearing completion. With the way that the work is progressing the added section should be ready for occupancy within another three weeks or a month, provided that fixtures and equipment arrive here on time.

Traffic on the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad today, especially east bound traffic was exceedingly heavy, so much so that some of the trains were operated in three sections in order to accommodate the holiday travelers. Most of the night trains tonight were run in extra sections and so they will be on Saturday night.

The placing of flowers on the graves of former members of the United States navy, who are buried in Cedar Grove, St. Mary's and Jordan cemeteries, was completed today by the naval authorities so that the graves will be suitably marked Memorial day.

Councilor James A. May, who returned this week to his home on Montauk avenue, having visited numerous cities in the middle west and Canada, traveled over 2600 miles by auto.

Mrs. Marian Harris, of Nathan Hale street, is spending a few days in Hartford.

Miss Lois Rogers, 25 Linden street, left this afternoon for New York, to spend several days.

Miss Leila Speirs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Speirs, of 109 Mohegan avenue, pursuing studies at Washington, D. C., is spending a few days with her parents.

British schooner Grace McLean, Yarmouth, N. S., oyster boat Pinta and speed boat Sterling, both of East Hampton, L. I., seized recently by crews of the United States Coast Guard patrol boats, were escorted to the sound this afternoon by coast guard craft and will be conveyed to New York. All three craft were seized when suspected of being engaged in the rum-running traffic in New England waters.

Frederick Hershewitz, of 81 Belden street; Miss Sylvia Hershowitz, 81 Belden street, and Mrs. George Havens, Waterford, patients at Lawrence-Memorial associated hospital, were dismissed today.

Isadore E. Goldberg, of Hartford has sold two buildings and two small parcels of land on Hislop place, Neptune park, Ocean Beach, to Sam Schneider and Bernard J. Ackerman, also of Hartford.

Frank Howell, 41 Gorton street, complained to the police late this afternoon that the driver of an Essex automobile bearing Massachusetts registration in passing through State street, ran over his bicycle and damaged it. The driver of the car did not stop to ascertain the extent of damage occasioned, but proceeded through Main street. Howell asked for the arrest of the driver after supplying the authorities with the registration. The police of Westerly were requested to intercept the driver if the car appeared there and a short time later with the auto was passing through Westerly the driver was arrested. He declared that he was making a hurried trip to Boston and had no knowledge of hitting the cycle, but stated that he was willing to pay for any damage he had caused. With that understanding the driver was allowed to continue to his destination.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

"Stella Dallas," Samuel Goldwyn's first photoplay production for United Artists Corporation, ought well be called "the great American photodrama." This picturization of Olive Higgins Prouty's celebrated novel was produced under the direction of Henry King, who has given the world an endless success of masterful cinematic offerings, including "The White Sister," "Tol'able David," and other plays which will live for years.

In "Stella Dallas," which comes to the Broadway theatre starting Sunday, Mr. King has put forth his best efforts, and surrounded his principals with minor players of unusual ability, until the story, read by millions is said to live before one's eyes.

Belle Bennett, well-known actress of stage and screen, was chosen for the title role from a field of seventy-three interesting possibilities.

Ronald Colman, as Stephen Dallas, seems also to fit the part perfectly.

Alice Joyce, as Helen Morrison, completes the interesting triangle.

The juvenile leads are in the capable hands of Lois Moran and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Miss Moran is the sixteen-year-old child wonder discovery of Samuel Goldwyn's while recently in Paris.

Jean Hersholt, famous character artist, interprets the part of Ed Munn, the low-brow riding master with such finesse as to surprise even his countless admirers. In this role he is given a latitude such as he has seldom enjoyed and that he makes the most of it is very evident.

The supporting players are meticulously chosen and all adequate. "Stella Dallas" is undoubtedly one of the best cast pictures yet released.

"Stella Dallas" is the first production of Henry King since his recent affiliation with Samuel Goldwyn under a long term contract.

Strand Theatre

A story of love and hatred, war and peace, adventure and thrills is told in "The Sky Raider," the Encore Picture which brings to the screen the world's greatest heroes and France's idol, Captain Charles Nungesser, whose war record is one hundred and five enemy planes brought to earth, who was wounded seventeen times and honorably discharged three times and who has been decorated with the highest honors every Allied country had to offer.

"The Sky Raider" promises some of the greatest air thrills ever staged for the screen. The opening scenes show an air battle in which Nungesser experiences trouble with his plane, but keeps it from crashing to earth while bullets rain about him. Then an explosive bullet that he is holding in his teeth explodes prematurely, shattering his jaw. The war history of French aviation will tell that story, for it is true!

"The Sky Raider" comes to the Strand theatre Sunday as one half of the double feature bill with Jacqueline Logan featured opposite Captain Nungesser. Others in the cast are Gladys Walton, Walter Miller, Lawford Davidson, Wilton Lackaye and Ida Darling.

The second feature is one of real rough riding featuring Bill Cody in "The Galloping Cowboy."

Short subjects include "Perils of the Wild" and a new comedy.

Here is the greatest program yet presented at this theatre, one that you must see.

Breed Theatre

Critics of seventeen New York papers joined in saying that the William Fox photoplay "As No Man Has Loved," which will be presented at the Breed theatre on Sunday is not only a magnificent spectacle but the most compelling argument for love of home and country ever penned, or pictured. It is based on Edward Everett Hale's story, "The Man Without a Country," "I regret that I have but one life to give for my country," said Nathan Hale just before he died to prove his love for the then feeble United States.

Recalling that, it follows naturally that his grandnephew, Edward Everett Hale, who was born at Boston in 1822, should feel just as strong an attachment for his country. At 17 he had been graduated from Harvard. Before he was 20 he was pastor of a church at Worcester and a voluminous contributor to magazines and [illegible]

When Lincoln hands to Nolan's sweetheart, who has grown from girlhood to a tottering little lady of 72, the pardon she has sought for nearly sixty years, handkerchiefs are frankly shown and tears bravely wiped away.

Palace Theatre

"The Bat," coming to the Palace four days starting tomorrow, has the nearest approach to a real all-star cast that was ever assembled for a mystery melodrama, according to Roland West, producer of the screen version of the Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood stage success.

Jewel Carmen, former leading lady for Douglas Fairbanks and William Farnum and a star in Fox productions when she retired to private life six years ago, "The Bat" is her first picture since then.

Jack Pickford has been star and leading man for many years.

Louise Fazenda, [illegible] comedienne who graduated from slapstick to important comedy roles in some of the biggest dramatic productions.

Emily Fitzroy, the leading woman, is a character actress who has created some of the most remembered roles in the history of pictures.

Tullio Carminati, former leading man and managing director for the late Eleanora Duse, is generally recognized as a leading European stage and screen star. Carminati is making his American screen debut in "The Bat."

Robert McKim is known as one of the most famous of all screen "heavies."

Andre de Beranger is an eminent character actor.

Lee Shumway in a long screen career has been leading man for practically every star.

Eddie Gribbon has enjoyed an unbroken string of screen successes since he deserted straight comedy for dramatic pictures.

Arthur Rousseman is one of Hollywood's best known leading man and "villains."

Charles Herzinger has played in some of the biggest pictures during the past decade as a character actor.

Sojin, most famous of all Oriental actors in motion pictures, was Shakesperian and classical actor in Japan. He won instant fame in America with his portrayal of the Mongol prince in "The Thief of Bagdad."

General Tires

"A couple things in connection with our present advertising campaign on General Tires may sound like paradox, but there's no trick to them after all," says R. S. Quinn, of Quinn's Tire Service, General Tire distributors here.

"You'll notice in connection with our special trade-in sale that tires that have been in service since September have a relatively higher trade-in value than tires put in service since. It might sound as if we were buying antiques, but the real secret is that many tires that contain a large percentage of reclaimed, or scrap rubber have gone into service since early fall, and these do not have the resale value of tires made of real, live, crude rubber. "It is all along the line of our declaration that you can't save rubber by using less of it. The substitution of cheaper compounds for one-third of the pure rubber may reduce the cost several dollars but by weakening the entire structure takes out two thirds of the wear. We are informed by The General Tire & Rubber company that they decline to make any tires containing reclaimed rubber, realizing that second hand materials in new tires can never equal fresh goods.

"The big temptation among tire makers now seem to be extended by the chance to make tires more cheaply with reclaimed rubber. We expect that by comparisons, Generals, with nothing but fresh new rubber, will stand out more prominently than ever for quality."

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY
My Mother's Songs

I love the sweet old fashioned songs
My mother sang to me;
I love the chaste and lofty themes,
The gentle melody—
I love the simple words that speak
A fragrant, bygone year.
I love the songs my mother sang
No others are so dear.
I love the songs my mother sang:
They have a charm for me.
Each oldfashioned strain awakes
A tender memory—
Awakes a longing sad and vague
That brings a sigh, a tear.
I love the songs my mother sang.
No others are so dear.

A New England Booster

I have heard in song and story
Of the charms of Dixie-land;
Heard of Jersey's famous waters
And the beauties of its sand.
But you come right down to hard-tacks,
Look for best—and all o' that,
You will find it in New England,
You can "kiss the book" on that.

From the Halls of Montezuma
To the land of Midnight Sun,
You can pick them out in bunches,
You can pick one by one,
You can pick and keep on picking,
Judge by mountain, beach or lake
And you'll find that Old New England
Will come in and "take the cake."

I'm not bragging—simply stating
Hard-boiled facts,—that's all you see,
And you'll find that Old New England
Is the choicest place to be.
Bracing air, no southern 'squitos,
Rocks and rills, plains, woods and streams,
And you'll find that Ole New England
Is the Eden of one's dreams.

The Sound of Marching

The sound of marching fills the listening land:
Through highways bare, or through the teeming street,
Today they follow with untiring feet
The life's shrill call, the drum-beat's stern command.
They follow childhood, youth, manhood, and age—
Bearing sweet flowers to strew above each head,
In the green tents where sleep the Nation's dead,
The dead whose names are traced on glory's page
And some there are, faint with the weight of years,
Whose faltering feet forget the music's rhyme,
Yet once these feet, alert, kept perfect time
With those who rest, whose memory time endears.
Alas! Another year the flowers may heap
Above the mounds, flag-guarded, where they sleep.

Then Laugh

Build for yourself a strong box,
Fashion each part with care.
When it's strong as your hands can make it,
Put all your troubles there.

Tell no one of its contents,
Don't even its secrets share:
When you dropped in if care and worry,
Keep them forever there.

Hide there all thoughts of your failures,
And each bitter cup you did quaff;
Lock all your heartaches within it—
Then sit on the lid and laugh.

Hide them from sight so completely
That the world will never dream half.
Fasten a strong lock securely—
Then sit on the lid and laugh.

When the Boys in Blue Are Gone?

When the comrades have departed,
When the veterans are no more,
When the bugle call has sounded
On that everlasting shore;
When life's weary research is ended,
When the camp fires slumber long,
Who will tell the world the story,
When the Boys in Blue are gone?

Who will tell about the marching
"From Atlanta to the Sea,"
Who will halt, and wait, and listen,
When they hear the reveille
Who will join to swell the chorus
Of some old Grand Army song,
Who will tell the world the story
When the Boys in Blue are gone?

Who will talk of Appomattox,
And the glory that they won;
When defeat was on their banner,
Who will tell about Bull Run;
What in prison pen they suffered,
How they watched and waited long,
Who will tell the world the story,
When the Boys in Blue are gone?

REMEMBER THE SHUT INS

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: Have you ever seen such a wonderful spring? It seem to me the country was never so beautiful as it is this year. Recently I took a long trolley ride and there is nothing I enjoy more than a ride through the country and villages. But there was one thing I noticed that marred the beauty of the woods we rode through and that was the large number of dead trees. Many had been killed by lightning and storms and the forest fires and some had rotted away. It seemed to me that there was an answer to the fuel problem if only some arrangement could be made with the owners and what an improvement it would make. I know many families have suffered with cold the past winter.

I wonder how many of the Corner sisters send cards and little gifts to shut ins, and aged ones? Won't every one send at least 10 cents? I know how dearly I love cards, there was such true and cozy sociability about everyone that it made even a stranger feel at home. There was an impromptu program consisting of stories, humorous or otherwise, and readings. There were jokes and conundrums and music and everyone was supposed to contribute her bit. As I sat sewing and listening to the program I was impressed with the kindly spirit that prevailed. So many folksy people belonged. (I was going to write homey, but I would be in trouble if the printer spelled it homely, so I have put folksy, instead).

Even then I did not seriously consider joining the club, but soon after I went to bed with the grip, and, because books were awkward and heavy to handle, I turned to the Social Corner page and read it all through. Then I began to realize more fully what a fine thing The Bulletin was doing in sponsoring such a club. As I read the letters I was again impressed with the chumminess of those who belonged. They seemed like one big family, interested in each other's welfare. "Where were you last meeting? We missed you." "Thanks for the pretty flowers." "I received the birthday card you sent," were some of the things they had written. And their letters contained many helpful hints about all sorts of things besides interesting personal experiences.

So, a little later, when Wurdy Belle called and gave me another invitation to again attend a Social Corner meeting, I accepted joyfully. This time they had scalloped oysters, huckleberry pie and home made chocolate cake and other good things for dinner, and afterwards everybody talked to everybody else, and there was music and readings. Then Mr. Price brought out his fiddle and played the Virginia Reel. Some danced while others nodded their heads or wiggled their toes in time to the music. And right then and there I decided to join the Social Corner and now when I see the streamers of that cheerful yellow bow beckoning to me I nod and wave back and say "Yes, I'm coming, I'll be right over."

Being a full fledged member, with a pen-name 'n everything, I suppose I must send an occasional letter to the Corner.

When Christor Morley wrote, "Satan hovers near the ink-pot," he evidently did not refer to Social Corner ink-pots, but might have had in mind those belonging to some of our modern novelists: for Satan himself seems to have guided the pens of many of them, and the results are not always satisfying to one who likes a good clean novel. Personally I dislike exceedingly the literary muck which is offered as a substitute, and the "outstanding novel of the year," (queer how there are so many of them so designated,) is often disappointing. So I am coming to you for suggestions. If you have read any recent books that are really worth reading, do please send in a list. I would appreciate it even better than a recipe for chocolate cake,—and I love chocolate cake. I have been reading Anne Bosworth Green's Lone Winter, and her more recent book Dipper Hill. They are not novels, nor are they exciting as they are the chronicles of a woman's life on a Vermont farm. Nevertheless I found them interesting. So are David Grayson's books, Great Possessions, Adventures in Contentment, and all his other books are sane and satisfying to me, at least.

When I asked Wurdy Belle what I should write about, she replied, "Oh, almost anything, and if you can't think of anything else, why, put in some recipes." So I think I'll tell you how my doctor cooks eggs.

When I had the grip I was in bed for a week. Had a temperature, cough, the doctor in everything. I put the doctor last, for, as usual, I first dosed myself with all kinds of home remedies, then, becoming impatient at the slowness of my recovery, I called the doctor. When he came, after doubling himself up like a jack-knife in a vain attempt to fit into my little sewing rocker, he proceeded to take my temperature. Isn't it maddening to have to keep that little tube under your tongue while the doctor brags about the distant stations he has heard over his radio? You want to match stories with him and go him one better, and all you can do is nod or shake your head; and say "uh-huh" if you there and wished I was a ventriloquist so I could talk without opening my mouth.

Presently he changed the subject. "Do you like milk?" he asked.

I nodded and said "uh-huh."

"Eggs?"

"Uh-huh."

"Good. I'll tell you how I cooked some eggs the other morning. I came in from a night call and as it was too early for the family to rise and I was hungry, I put a lump of butter in a tea-cup, then broke in two eggs, set the cup in a pan of water over the fire till the eggs were done, then I added salt and pepper, stirred them with a spoon and ate them. The butter flavored them all through and the cup, being hot kept the eggs warm down to the very last mouthful."

I expressed my interest as best I could by a nod and another "uh-huh," and not till then did the doctor seem to realize that I had an impediment in my speech and removed the cause. And do you know, that thermometer had been in my mouth so long that my temperature had gone down to normal.

I am afraid that this, my first letter, is to long. When Christopher Morley wrote, "Bless their hearts men don't have to have anything to talk about. They just talk," he must have meant to include women in his statement. At any rate, I, for one, plead guilty. If I have been too garrulous, please forgive.

MUFFINS AND LEMON PIE.

Dear Cornerites: I received this recipe from the president of a New York club.

Muffins: 1 egg well beaten, 1 1-4 cups of milk, 1 cup entire wheat flour, 1 cup white flour, 1-4 cup brown sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder (level) 2 tablespoons washed butter, 1 teaspoonful salt.

Sift flour, baking powder, salt 4 times. Beat hard, bake 30 minutes in muffin pan.

Here is a wonderful lemon pie from Washington, D. C.

Lemon Pie Filling: 4 eggs, 1-2 cup sugar, 1 large lemon, 4 tablespoons of boiling water.

Beat egg yolks light with sugar, add juice of lemon and boiling water, cook in double boiler (or pan in water,) until thick and creamy, stirring constantly. Beat in one white of egg.

Pastry—1 cup flour, 1-2 teaspoon sugar, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons of ice water or milk, 1-4 teaspoon baking powder.

Roll pastry thin and bake on inverted pie plate, prick with a fork to prevent air bubbles. When crust is baked, beat 2 egg whites very stiff and fold into cooked custard. Put into crust and place in oven to brown.

ONE OF THE EARLY WRITERS

Dear Cornerites: In reading Saturday's Social Corner page, I find that Country Sister seemed somewhat taken back to learn that I am a member. To enlighten the dear soul some more will say that I began to write when there were only a few of us, some 15 years ago, when Etta Barber of Plainfield was doing her best to make the Corner live and grow.

In regards to chickens, well I am there and have some wonderful rods, also some first prize blacks, which took the honors last fall, at the fair.

Many thanks for the invitation to come for dinner. Now make yourself better known, for I am still in the dark—not a wonder at guessing.

Dutchy: Last week I had the pleasure to call on one of the members and through them I learned who is who. It's a long time since I saw you, better take hubby and run that car down and see a fellow. Cousin Sarah H. has passed on to her reward since I have seen you.

Historian is so busy trying to get things going o. k. before the hot weather gets here and listening on the radio he has no time to write, but I'm in hopes he does.

Balsam Fir: Don't get discouraged. I often think of you and know by this time you are busy getting that garden into order.

Cakie: Sorry I could not call on you the other day, but that terrible thunder shower came up, some rain fell and there seemed to be no end.

I see we have a new member who signs her name Flat Rock. That sounds good to me, for one out best writers came from that section.

I will close with best of wishes to all the members.

DOINGS IN MAINE

Dear Social Corner Friends: About 200 people attended the flag raising here at Dry Mills Saturday afternoon when the flag presented to the community by the Optimistic club was unfurled by little Norma Prince, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Trueman Prince.

County Attorney Ingalls of Portland was the speaker, L. J. Merry of the Gray Congregational church offered prayer. Woodbury Dutton the oldest born resident of Dry Mills gave an address of welcome. Miss Barbara Pinkham of Woodsfords read the perfect tribute and a short poem appropriate to the occasion.

Harry Merrill presided and patriotic songs were sung by the chorus under the leadership of Mrs. L. T. Cushing of Gray.

Mrs. Francis Gibson Woodbury, president of the club, made the presentation. Major Benson a charcoal peddler was the first to drive his team under the new flag. The day was an ideal one. Seemed to be made for the occasion. There are about 40 members but more will join as the summer people arrive here.

Forty above here today. (Monday.) A heavy rain fell all afternoon yesterday. The ground is very dry. The grass looks good as rain gave it a start.

Paula: My auntie is fine. 93. June 7th. Address, Mrs. M. J. Morgan, 230 Main street, Amesbury, Mass.

Regards to all.

RECIPES BY GYPSY WANDA.

Dear Social Cornerites: Isn't it about time we heard from some of the members up my way?

Ablete: Recieved your box. Will write in a few days. Have a box for you to look over which I will send soon.

Rosy Posy: Are you in the land of the living? If so, get busy.

Sometime ago some one requested a brown bread recipe. I am sending one which took first prize at a fair.

Brown Bread: 1 cup corn meal, 1 cup rye or white flour, 1 cup graham flour 1 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 cup molasses, 2 1-2 cups of sour milk. I use raisins in my brown bread.

Rhubarb Pie: 1 cup rhubarb cut into pieces, 1 rolled cracker, butter size of walnut, 1 egg, 3-4 cup sugar.

Put the rhubarb into lined pie plate. Beat sugar and egg and add to rhubarb. Put cracker crumbs to top and dot with butter. Bake with 2 crusts. Use amount of rhubarb according to size of pie.

Economy Cookies: 1 cup brown sugar, 2 tablespoons molasses, 1-2 cup of shortening, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1-3 tablespoon salt. Flour to drop from spoon to make a drop cookie, 1 teaspoon soda dissolved in 2 tablespoons boiling water.

Best wishes to all members.

APPRECIATE KIND WORDS

Dear Editor and Members of the Social Corner: I wish to thank my good friends for the kind things they have said of me through the Social Corner. Though I fear they are undeserved, still I appreciate them.

One of our members is spending this week in Washington. After she returns, I hope she will tell us about her trip.

WHY I JOINED THE CORNER

Dear Social Cornerites: When a friend asked me why I had joined the Social Corner, I being a woman, gave a woman's reason and replied, "Oh, because." However, after she had gone, I asked myself the question. "Just why did I decide to join the Social Corner?" And this is the real reason.

Several months ago I was a guest at one of their meetings, and the delicious homecooked food still lingers in my memory. And yet, if I had left immediately after lunch, I doubt whether I would have thought of joining the club. But when the tables were cleared there was such free and easy

GREETINGS FROM CRIMSON RAMBLER

Dear Corner Members: Just a line this cool day. How very sorry I was to hear of the death of our Social Corner sister, Wandering Jew. I had a letter a short time ago and she never said she was ill. She was a very likable person, and how she will be missed in her home circle!

Melissa: I have worked out your script'ure cake and I found it very interesting.

Black Eyed Susie: Box came o. k. Thanks for contents.

Interested Reader: Your budget also at hand. What did you think of mine? But there, I must not say too much or else folks may think we are running a race to see who can cheat Uncle Sam.

Pansy: Glad to know who you are. Have often wondered.

Geraldine: After so long an absence glad to hear from you. I did see in the paper when Little Geraldine arrived. Now I hear she is a nice young lady. What nice times we used to have when you lived in town. I was surprised to know you still belong to the Corner, but I did not recognise you under your new name. Do you remember the stroll we took through the woods the day Mr. was fixing his machine? Now I have discovered the party, who has your first pen name. Would be glad to hear from you as of yore.

Skinner: Have you finished that apron yet? I would like to see it when finished.

Sarah Y: Hope you were not fired the next day.

E. L. M.: I will try and answer your letter soon. I am becoming rather delinquent of late but will try to make up for time lost.

Rural Delivery: Glad to know you are still in the land of the living.

CRIMSON RAMBLER.

MAKING UP FOR LOST TIME

Dear Social Corner Editor, Sisters and Friends: A pleasant greeting to you all.

I guess it is about time I did my bit towards filling up the Corner page. I am feeling fairly good now, but don't know how long it will last. Was out to church this morning. My friends come after me and bring me home, as I am not able to walk far.

I was invited out to dinner last Thursday to help celebrate a friend's birthday. Had a nice dinner and fine time. My friend had a lot of nice birthday presents. After dinner we went and called upon a lady who is an expert in fancy embroidery, she had the nicest work I ever saw and finds a ready sale for it. It was well worth going to see. One table cover she only asked $5 for and it surely was cheap at $10. It was the handsomest thing I ever saw.

Foxglove: I hope your husband has recovered his health. Shall look for you and Whirlwind this summer. I have tried Mayflower's idea of using table oil cloth for patterns, and like it ever so much.

Balsam Fir: I have about 26 blocks pieced by the letter H pattern and like it ever so much. It is the first patch work I have done in a good many years, but I had so many pretty pieces left from making so many dust caps I had no other way of using them up. There was a large Mike apple tree on the old home farm where I was born and we always made great account of the fruit. They always had the red spot in every one. Sometimes it was quite large.

Crimson Rambler: I am wondering why my last letter remains so long unanswered. I see your letters in the Corner page most every week. How are all the plants coming on.

By Jinxo: I thank you for your kind inquiry after my health. I am feeling much better this spring but not able to do much walking. I get very tired just going down to the store and doing a little shopping.

A nice bed table can be made by folding under two legs of the sewing table. Place on a pillow on the bed, the two legs resting on the floor.

A nice dessert. Cut a large cantaloupe crosswise in three-fourths, or one inch slices. Remove seeds and peel off rind. Lay each slice on a plate and fill center with ice cream. Garnish with nuts crushed, and a cherry.

Well, I guess the editor will think I am making up for lost time and had better ring off.

So here are three cheers for the dear old Corner, and what it means to us all, from

DOM PEDRO.

WAYS OF USING RHUBARB

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I was slow and did not get my letter in last week to tell you what a nice time we had at our club meeting. I was so glad to see so many from other clubs. Come again. Frances and O. D. were splendid hostesses and we shall all look forward to their having charge again sometime.

Nancy Peck: You sure sprung a surprise. Glad you did. Hope you'll help often in the entertainment.

Mila and By Jinxo: Hope you will come some time so we can know you.

F. L. M.: It was good to meet you after such a long time.

X. Y.: I see you are right on the job.

Skipper: I thank you for the tribute to my beans. I think you went to a lot of trouble to send up to Athol Mass., to get it composed.

Sarah Y: Did I get it right that you were the one who brought the cake with bee decoration? It was a beautiful cake. Wish you would send in the recipe. Some sister who came to the meeting at North Stoning'on brought a delicious cake. It was in a square pan with cocoanut frosting.

I have been making rhubarb pies today. Maybe some one would like to try my way.

Rhubarb Pie: Cut rhubarb in small pieces, enough to make two cups, add three quarters of a cup of sugar, a pinch of salt and one-half cup of raisins that have been run through the food chopper with three crackers. Bake with two crusts. This makes one pie. Rhubarb varies so you might have to use more sugar. Here is a trick maybe all may not know. When I am going to stew rhubarb for sauce I cut up what I want and cover it with cold water. When it comes to a boil I drain off the water and add what sugar I need to make the sauce. One can add a little baking soda and not have to use so much sugar. I use the water drained off to make gelatin, It is a pretty pink color and served with sliced bananas it makes a good dessert. The water drained off is also good to add to any of the fruit drinks we make in summer. I also use rhubarb with pineapple or with blue berries to make jam. It makes a good jam with plain apples, some raisins and an orange or two cut in tiny bits, peel and all.

E. L. M.

GREETINGS FROM HOOT OWL

Dear Social Corner: Was sorry to learn that Sister Wandering Jew (Mrs Botham) has passed away. May we who longer wait, while brief the days and few, yet meet thee at the golden gate and clasp thy hand anew, and like thee may we hear amid the pure and good, the Saviour's high ecommium. She hath done what she could.

Rural Aunty: Tried your recipe for lightning cake. Was it nice? It my it sure. It doesn't take long to make it and it's so good it surely ought to last long.

Am sending in the orange layer cake again as there was a mistake in the recipe last week.

Orange Layer Cake: Beat three eggs stiff, big pinch of salt, one cup sugar, two teaspoons baking powder and four teaspoons orange juice, one half cup boiling water, one cup flour. Stir well. This makes enough for three layers. Bake in a hot oven.

Frosting: The grated rind of one orange, a big tablespoon of butter, and the juice that is left of the orange and a half box of frosting sugar, makes a nice frosting for it.

HOOT OWL. (Club 5.)

THUMB NAIL CLASSICS

Dear Social Corner Members: I am confident that all my Corner friends will be sorry that I did not win the $100 offered as a prize in the Thumb Nail Classic contest recently conducted by The Writer magazine. Sadder still I was so much of a wall flower that in the report of the contest I was not even mentioned as being among those present. By way of explanation I will say that those entering the lists were to describe the assassination of Abraham Lincoln at Ford's theater on that never-to-be forgotten April night in 1865 and to do it in four lines of either blank or rhyme verse of a certain number of words of prose, using as a sort of model Emerson's quatrain:

"By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood,
And fired the shot heard round the world."

Dr. Eliot, it seems sometime called this a Thumb-nail classic and I willingly concede that it is far superior to anything I can write. It is certainly concentrated, expressing so much in so few words. So I did my best in the following this worthy example. The entrants were allowed to send in any number of "classics," using pen name and enclosing real name in sealed envelope. I used my Social Corner pen name in the good cause. The report in this month's issue submitted "ranged from the sublime to the ridiculous."

"Bong goes the gun,
Abe Lincoln dies,
I need the men,
Send me the prize."

A southern school boy ventured this:

"In Washington at Ford's theater
One stormy April night,
John Wilkes Booth shot the Emancipator,
And disappear from sight."

Of course you will not be surprised to learn that the prize of $100 was won by a university doctor. His quatrain is certainly in quite a different class than any one of the five verses I sent in and I wish I might be a student of this Dr. Burton for the next two years. Here is the winner.

"On" pleasure bent, see how the pressing hordes
Flock to the play, where Comedy is queen;
A shot! And Tragedy preempts the boards,
Lincoln alone in an eternal Scene."

Just to show how striking the contrast is I will here give one of my efforts:

That April eve in '65 Ford's with gaiety was alive;
The nation's chief was there seeking relief from cares;
A pistol shot was heard 'round the world.
Lincoln was laid low and a nation plunged in woe.

Here is one published in spite of the fact that it "more or less ignored the primary question of describing the incident" because it "interested as interesting and unusual idea." It does cause one to wonder.

"Had Lincoln lived to ripe old age,
And had there been no fatal shot,
No traitor's cry, no play, no stage,
No box, no breathless throng, then what?"

I like this one from Idaho very much:

"An April night—the nation's war-worn chief
Relaxed for one short hour to view the play,
A shot! The traitor's triumph—but how brief—
Our Lincoln lives in countless lives today."

I am glad I entered the contest as the mental exercise was stimulating and I do enjoy these quatrains. It is a consolation too, to know that although I met defeat it was in good company. Pardon my taking so much space. With friendly greeting to all members, old and new.

EVELINE BURR.

OLD SONGS AND OLD PANS

Dear Social Corner: The letter by Julie about the old songs touches responsive chord in my heart, as I also love all music and especially the old songs which are full of sweet and tender memories; think the second one you mention was called, "I Loved You Better Than You Knew," and after the lines you quote it goes on as follows:

"You ask and freely I forgive you
The happy past we must forget
Although I wander on in sorrow,
I hope that you'll be happy yet.
As through this weary world I wander,
My thoughts will always be of you.
In memory, I will see you ever,
I loved you better than you knew."

And another of the same character sweet with an undercurrent of sadness, like so many of the old songs was "Her Bright Smile Haunts Me Still."

"'Tis year since last we met,
And we may not meet again,
I have struggled to forget,
But the struggle is in vain.
For her voice lives in the breeze
And her spirit comes at will,
In the midnight on the seas,
Her bright smile haunts me still."

And who of us older ones doesn't remember "Silver Threads Among the Gold" which we sang carelessly the silver threads seeming so far away that we couldn't imagine them ever coming to us.

And "Juanita" and a beautiful moonlight night always bring to mind the words "Soft o'er the fountain lingering falls the southern moon," and the old serenade song.

"Stars of the summer night
Far in yon azure deeps
Hide, hide your golden light.
She sleeps, my lady sleeps," which sung by a quartette with a good tenor was fine and would linger long in your memory. And so I might go on recalling sweet old songs indefinitely but will change to a more prosaic subject, namely the old tin pans that several of the sisters have mentioned and which carried my thoughts back to the old "house where I was born," and lived in many years, and the "milkroom," which perhaps ought properly to have been called the dairy room. But anyhow everybody called them "milkrooms" then and the shelves full of pans of milk covered with thick golden cream, which was carefully skimmed every morning and put in covered pails and hung in an old well that we didn't use much to keep cool. It was the rule in summer to churn three times a week and "work over" and "roll up" the butter for market the next day.

When I was quite young there were no butter molds and the experienced butter makers were skillful enough to shape it into brick shape with paddles, which were stamped at the end with some pattern. Some had a sheaf of wheat, Ours was an impress of fine squares.

But to return to the pans. They were the seamed pans in the days I speak of and although they lasted a long time, they always came to leaking at last and after the milk had been all strained and set away maybe hours after, someone would find a stream of milk wandering over the shelves and down on the floor. Then that pan would be soldered and tried with water and pronounced "all right now," and very likely the next time it was used would still leak, till it was decided that a pan would leak milk when water wouldn't go through it. Later on came the presed pans, where one could see the leaks better at least, and then the home creameries with cans and ice and now nobody makes butter at home any more and few except the professional butter makers at the big creameries know anything about making it. But with no disrespect to them or to the present methods I should like again to have some butter such as used to be made in June from cream from the old pans, and the old milkroom.

Some who were fortunate enough to have a spring or brook near home, built a little house over that for milk and cream, where it was always cool, and one of my very early recollections is of a neighbor who had a churn run by dog power like the old threshing machines I think. And on some large farms where sheep were kept they used a sheep on the power and considered that a sheep took more kindly to working than a dog, which was apt to get wise and hide on churning days. At that time my people used an old fashioned "up and down" churn with a dasher that pounded up and down and later was replaced by a crank churn.

And now I must really end my reminiscences and say Good morning and good wishes to you all.

REGRETS DEATH OF WANDERING JEW

Dear Social Corner and Friends: Again Club No. 1 has been saddened by the death of a dear sister. I was so surprised to hear of her passing. As I do not have a phone I do not know when they are brought to the hospital and it seems as though when they come to the hospital that is the last of them. I did not know of Hallday's being taken to the hospital until she passed to the great unknown. And now Wandering Jew has answered the roll call above. We shall miss her in many ways. She was always present and doing her part. She was a good worker, singer and friend. I had a nice letter from her April 22 in which she told of her bronchial cold. I shall keep that with my many treasures. I always wanted her and Maine, Lover to help me when I was hostess, but the last time I was hostess I could not ask them as they helped at the other meeting. Cannot have her any more. I won her heart with my macaroni and cheese. She thought it was delicious.

We had a sad time at our last meeting, in May. It was a memorial service and when we voted to hold it we did not think she would be one of the departed sisters. But she was, and 30 of us went to her funeral at three o'clock May 11. It was a large funeral with many flowers, and she was worthy of them all.

We had some sisters from Westerly at our last meeting and they were anxious for Freda Ward and Rose Lee to come to their meeting. I wanted to go but could not make it, leaving at 7.25 a. m. and staying all night as invited. I saw in Saturday's Social Corner page that a dear friend was there to see me and I know it must have been Aunt Ruth. I would dearly have loved to have seen her and wish she would come and see me. Hubby says he will carry her up the stairs if she cannot get up otherwise. We think the world of Aunt Ruth and hubby says there's none better.

As Club No. 1 is through with its meetings until fall some may go down to Club No. 6's meeting June 15. We depend on picnics through the summer. For a long time we went to Remember Me's for our annual picnic. How many know she is very sick? She has my sympathy. I wish we might hear she was well again.

I saw in today's paper that Necia has lost her best friend, her husband and I hope many of the Corner friends will go to her in her trouble for one cannot have too many friends at such a time. I extend my sympathy to Necia, to Wandering Jew's husband and any others in trouble.

I have a question I would like to ask. Who can tell me about David Graham Phillips the story writer. I do not know much but cannot find anyone who can help with information. I have two of his books.

Best wishes.

ROSE LEE.

BIG PLANS FOR JUNE MEETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: We were very glad to have so many from out of town at our meeting May 15th. We have had five new members join our Shore Line Club No. 6 and expect many more. We are going to have something very interesting in our entertainment at the club meeting in June. Hope all that can will come.

Here are some selections for your emergency.

When lonely or fearful read Matt. 6:19-34, Luke 12:1.

When in trouble or sorrow read John 14.

When in danger read Matt. 7:22-30.

If you are not a Christian read John 3:16, Matt. 10:32-33, Matt. 25:31-46 and Rom. 10:9-11.

For a prayer for help read Mark, 11: 22-24, Luke 11:1-13.

For assurance of God's mercy read John 10, Mat. 11.

For reward of righteous life read Matt. 5:1-12, Mark 10:17-31, Luke 20: 34-38.

This is very good to read. I do it often. It helps.

Best wishes.

HEDDA.

MANY USES FOR OLD NEWSPAPERS

Dear Social Cornerites and Editor: How many, I wonder know the many uses one can put old newspapers to? Here are just a few that may be of some help to some one:

As a fire lighter we all know its use, in the stove or furnace heated homes. Try putting several layers under your mattress and notice the decreased amount of bedding you require.

A newspaper spread around a piece of ice will make it last half again as long.

Keep them in the car and if you get stuck in the sand, they'll be as good as a plank platform to drive out over.

Small wet pieces of newspaper thrown on the floor when sweeping, will keep the dust from flying.

A crumpled newspaper makes a good "cloth" for drying when washing windows or the windshield of your car.

Wrap your furs and flannels in newspapers before packing in trunk or chest. The printer's ink discourages moths.

One might make a suit-cover for use in the clothes-press to keep the moths from woolen garments. Such covers would be far more economical than the "cedar bags" sold for the purpose.

Aries: How are you? I think it's my turn to write.

Kochie: Guess I am stuck. Does your last name begin with a W and end with an E? What shall I tell you for a clue? I am fair, fat and a bit less than 40.

I came across the following and think it's good:

If with pleasure you are viewing any work that I am doing, if you like me or love me, tell me now: Don't withhold your approbation till the parson makes oration. As I lie with snowy lilies on my brow. For no matter how you shower it, I won't really care about it, I won't know how many tear-drops you have shed. If you think some praise is due me, now's the time to slip it to me, For I cannot read my tombstone when I'm gone. More than fame and more than money, is the hearty warm approval of a friend. For it gives to life a savor and it makes one stronger, braver. And it gives you heart and spirit to the end. If I earn your praise, bestow it; if you like me, let me know it. Let the words of true encouragement be said. Do not wait till life is over and you underneath the clover, For I cannot see you when I'm dead.

With best wishes to one and all

SASSY.

GREETINGS AND QUESTIONS FROM 1492

Dear Sisters and Editor: Well, Like Lady, you see I'm keeping my word. I wonder if the folks will watch on. I saw Nellie Grey and Votami going west Monday and thought they had got a good start for Club No. 4's anniversary. Hope Daisy Dean will be there with some of those delicious cookies.

Mary Gusta: You made a mistake by not dropping the other night as I had another Social Corner cooking day. Made some of Pocohontas' molasses gingerbread and Hope Conwell's chocolate cake and they were all right, judging by the way they disappeared.

Well, Kenlen Doolittle, Diogenes called today to see if I had heard anything from you. Had been over west walking.

I think we'll have to give Caro a bottle of ink and a pen for her birthday present.

I wonder if any of the sisters ever try my way when canning meat, vegetables or fruit. I fill my pan about one third full of water or syrup which ever I am going to use, and then put in my meat, fruit, or vegetables and when the liquid doesn't cover it I put in more liquid so in that way there are no air bubbles to bother with I like to do it that way.

I wonder what has become of Peggy Alden. Haven't seen her since our good time in Putnam. I saw Master Peggy going by walking this morning and I thought something serious must have happened.

What has become of Tildy? Is she still weeping?

It looks lonesome over to May B's. What a lively youngster Club No. 6 has proved to be! Wish it wasn't so far away. When the airship line gets started it won't take so long to get there.

HOW TO CAN RHUBARB

Dear Sisters: No vegetable can be canned more easily than rhubarb. The large amount of acid is a preservative, so it will keep put away in sterilized water and sterilized jars. As it shrinks on cooking it is a waste of space to can it raw.

Cut the rhubarb in half inch lengths. Do not remove the outside layer since it cooks soft and its red color gives a very attractive pink tinge to the sauce. Pack in glass jars and add sugar about one-half by weight as much sugar as rhubarb. Put on the rack in any vessel large enough to allow the water to reach almost to the top. Let the water surrounding the jars boil 15 minutes, remove the jars and the contents will have shrunk considerably so that the contents of some jams may be used to fill the rest. Fill completely. Adjust rubbers, put on the tops loosely, return to the water and boil ten minutes. Remove and tighten covers while still boiling hot.

Another method equally as successful is to put the rhubarb and sugar in a baking dish and cover and bake until tender. Add no water for there is plenty or water in the rhubarb. When tender fill sterilized jars with mixture. Place jars in a hot water bath and boil five minutes. Seal while hot.

Lobster Omelet: One egg, 1-2 cup cooked lobser, 1 teaspoon butter, 2 tablespoons water, a little salt. Put all ingredients into sauce pan over a slow fire. Stir constantly until egg is firmly set. Put while hot between slices of buttered bread as toast.

LIGHT AND DARKNESS, AND SHOES

Dear Sisters: Did you ever think of light and darkness as remedies?

Light is good for toothache; darkness is bad for it. If you are a toothache sufferer, haven't you often noticed

VOLUNTOWN

The Whist club held its weekly meeting Thursday evening last at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Kaufmann. The winners for the evening were: First, Mrs. Fred Bray; second, Miss Ella Bromley; men's first, John Peckham; second, George McGuire. High score for the season, Mrs. Fred Bray and George McGuire. This being the last party of the season, there was a little extra jollifications which was greatly enjoyed. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Kaufmann.

Monday morning, May 31st, local organizations and citizens will pay the annual tribute to the soldier dead of the nation. There will be a parade starting at 9 a. m. (D. S. T.) from Union square. The line will be composed of the following, and will be headed by the Voluntown band, August Olhenen, director: Veterans of the World war, public school children, Unity circle, C. of F. of A., Court Liberty, No. 132, F. of A., Boy Scouts of America, Veterans of the Civil war and citizens. All residents in the community are expected to assist in this tribute to the heroes that are gone by their presence at the exercises, by their cooperation with the committee and by their contributions to the fund to defray the expenses. Those who have not been canvassed are being asked to hand their contributions to the teachers or to Chairman McDonald of the committee. Patriotic exercises will be carried out at the Robbins cemetery and at Union hall, following the disbanding of the parade.

Monday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Gallup there was a large gathering of friends of Miss Gladys Young, at a shower in honor of her approaching marriage. The gifts were numerous, many were valuable. All were useful and ornamental.

Downing Bros. had men repairing highways in the Wylie district during the past week.

Many of the cottages at Black pond are being opened, and placed in condition for use during the summer months.

Local fans attended the ball game at Jewett City on Sunday.

Many residents of the community were pained to learn of the death at his home Tuesday of Elias Palmer, in his 83rd year. Mr. Palmer was a respected citizen of the community and his passing will be noted with sorrow.

News of the death at his home in Rockville, R. I., Sunday, of Eugene Sanders, a former resident of this town, was received with deep regret by many friends.

ROCKVILLE

Miss Lucetta Crandall, who has made her home with Mrs. A. E. Babcock for many years since the death of her sister, reached her 89th birthday, May 21. She is the oldest resident in this vicinity and has been a member of the Seventh Day Baptist church here for 25 years. She received many birthday letters, cards and visitors among the latter being a niece, Mrs. Ruth Vars, of Bradford, with her son Raymond Vars and daughter, Mrs. Harry Nichols. A fine birthday cake lighted with candles was cut and divided among the guests. Miss Crandall, though quite feeble, is able to be about the house.

Funeral services for Eugene Saunders, 63, who died May 22, were held at his home Tuesday, May 25 and were conducted by Rev. P. S. Burdick, pastor of the S. D. B. church of which Mr. Saunders was a member. Mrs. Carlton Irish sang two solos. A large number was in attendance and there were beautiful flowers. Albert Eugene Saunders was the son of Charles Henry and Sally Brown Saunders. He was one of a family of ten children, only four of whom are living, Charles A., N. Seth, Irving E. and Byron A. He was united in marriage with Nellie S. Burdick, by Rev. James R. Irish, Jan. 21, 1883. To them were born two children, Frank H. and Effie; the latter died in 1903. He is survived by his wife, son and four brothers. He was baptized by Rev. A. McLearn and united with the Seventh Day Baptist church in this place Dec. 8, 1894. The bearers were four brothers Charles, Seth, Irving and Byron Saunders. Elmer Burdick and William Taylor. Burial was in Rockville cemetery.

WEST KINGSTON

Mrs. Emma F. Crandall, of Westerly and Miss Addie Randall spent Saturday and Sunday with Fred K. Crandall and family.

The supper at Richmond Grange hall Tuesday evening was well patronized by people here.

E. K. Wilcox spent Saturday and Sunday with his mother, at Norwich Town, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Knight of Exeter were callers on friends here Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. James Johnson were in Providence Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Briggs of Scituate visited Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Watson recently.

Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Barstow and Mrs. A. K. Webster spent Monday evening with A. H. Kenyon and family, at Auburn.

Mrs. Leroy W. Knowles attended the W. C. T. U. convention at Wakefield, Wednesday.

Mrs. Katherine Sherman has returned home after spending the winter, with her daughters, in Boston.

Mrs. E. E. Kenyon called on Miss Hattie Phillips of Richmond, Wednesday evening.

C. D. Arnold is having his house renovated and painted.

Austin Cooke is farming for Mrs. Fannie Woodmansee.

The Girl Scouts troop attended the competition at Providence Saturday, and received 2nd prize.

Elizabeth Knowles, Dorothy Kenyon and Everett Kenyon attended a party at Mr. Aikens, at Wakefield Saturday evening.

Captain Vaughn was standing fishing one day last week on a bridge when a truck came along and a board struck his arm. He is badly crippled, so could not get out of the way in time to avoid being struck.

Mrs. Olive Arnold and son Arthur spent Monday in Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Woodmansee spent Tuesday in Providence.

CENSUS REVEALS ASTONISHING FACT

According to the 1920 Census, there are 8,549,511 women and girls employed in all trades in the United States. Nearly nine million women would make a vast army.

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." This woman's army travels on its general health. Probably there is scarcely a woman in it who has not forced herself to work when she was not able. In all sorts of weather and under trying conditions, like good soldiers, they stick to their posts.

Many women have learned that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps to keep them fit to work.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years are this week the members of Sedgwick Post, No. 1, G. A. R. were completing arrangements for their annual observance of Memorial day. The same week I. M. Buckingham, a well known resident of the city, died at his residence on Washington street. He was a brother of the late Senator Buckingham. Announcement was made that P. T. Barnum's circus was coming to town and the fire department was making arrangements for the holding of its annual spring parade. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of May, 1876, are as follows:

Monday, May 24, 1876—Norwich is in a peck of trouble about the poorhouse question. The recent vote of the town to erect a cheap building on the site of the one recently burned is very unsatisfactory to a large number of people and another meeting is to be held to vote on the question of rescinding it. Some want one of those big palaces that large towns are apt to build for paupers. It is a question too whether to put in criminals, vagrants and all sorts of bummers with the better class of the poor and the young.—Springfield Republican.

An alarm from box 27 about 9 o'clock Saturday night was caused by fire in the cellar of Joseph Brantield, cigar store on Main street, Greeneville. It was put out with little damage.

The new ferryboat built to carry the Shore Line trains across the Thames river will leave New York for Groton today. She is named the Groton and will hail from that place. She will not be put on the line at once, as the tracks are yet to be laid and all the other work is not yet completed.

Tuesday, May 23, 1876—The repairs of the Occum dam are progressing in a satisfactory manner and are rapidly approaching completion. The canal bulkheads are being built in a most substantial manner in cement masonry.

There was a sharp thunderstorm and a heavy rain last evening. The lightning was very vivid and several times seemed to strike near the city. The fire alarm telegraph was touched and the gongs sounded.

Buffalo Bill who appeared here last week has received a despatch to join General Crook's expedition against the Indians and he will start for the Indian country soon after he completes his engagement in Providence, intending with a companion scout to overtake the main party.

Wednesday, May 24, 1876—The Rev. I. M. Bidwell and Mrs. Bidwell celebrated their golden wedding at their residence on Franklin street last evening. Mr. Bidwell began to preach over a half a century ago and is one of the oldest clergymen in town. The high esteem in which he is held led many people to call upon him yesterday and to extend their congratulations on the occasion of the anniversary.

The Romance of the Magic Mirror will be repeated Friday night for Mr. Edmond's benefit. The operetta still lingers in the memory of the people and the bright airs with which it abounded may be heard continually whistled on the street.

The lightning struck William Osgood's barn on the West Side Monday night, splintering the roof considerably and exciting the neighborhood.

Barnum's show is coming next week and exhibitions will be given morning, afternoon and evening. The attractions are numerous and varied and the great showman claims that he has $1,500,000 invested in the enterprise.

Thursday, May 25, 1876—Building in this section partakes of the general dullness. One builder in town, who usually employs 25 men at this season, has now only six, and others are in much the same condition.

Matrimonial—A large and brilliant party gathered in Trinity church yesterday noon, the occasion being the marriage of Miss Ella W. Raymond, daughter of Mr. Theodore Raymond of this city and Mr. John B. Goodwin of Providence. The ceremony was impressively performed by the rector, the Rev. Mr. Seymour.

The two city bands and the Putnam band have been engaged for the parade of the fire department. Probably another and possibly more will appear. The parade promises to be an excellent one.

Two large boxes of powder were received by William N. Andrew yesterday, for P. T. Barnum's centennial show, to be used in firing the national salutes on the day of the exhibition.

Friday, May 26, 1876—The arrangements for the celebration of Decoration day have been completed. The program is rather more elaborate this year than heretofore. It is hoped that the contribution of flowers will be liberal as more flowers are needed this year.

Mr. I. M. Buckingham died at his residence on Washington street yesterday morning after a long and painful illness. He was the son of Deacon Samuel and Joanna Matson Buckingham and was born in Ledyard but at an early age removed to Norwich. He was associated with his brother, the late Senator Buckingham in the firms of W. A. Buckingham and Co., and I. M. Buckingham and Co. He was a director of the Thames National bank and one of the incorporators of the Free Academy.

The chimes of Park church being completely in place, Prof. McDoldrick of Albany will give an exhibition of them tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Saturday, May 27, 1876—Mr. Palmer Smith is putting the Ella in excellent condition for the summer, and she, with her genial and experienced manager, will undoubtedly be as popular as ever this season. The time when regular trips will be made is not yet announced.

Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., through Commander Smith, extends a cordial invitation to every honorably discharged United States soldier or sailor to join in the procession and participate in the ceremonies of Memorial day. The mayor will recommend the suspension of business on the afternoon of Memorial day.

The operetta of Lalla will be given by the school children this afternoon and by special request will be repeated this evening in Breed hall.

The friends of temperance in our community will be glad to learn that Dr. Charles Jewett, author of a Forty Years Fight With the Drink Demon, is to speak on temperance at the First church, Norwich Town, tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. In case of stormy weather the lecture will be postponed.

The indications for a large grass crop are very flattering just now. Farmers say they seldom see grass look better at this season of the year.

GALES FERRY

Rev. Wilfred D. Hamilton of Provincetown, Mass., recently appointed by Bishop William F. Anderson of Boston, to the M. E. church, Gales Ferry, arrived Thursday afternoon with Mrs. Hamilton and family at the parsonage.

A meat loaf supper and sale was held by the Ladies' Aid society of the M. E. church, and its Long Cove auxiliary, in the vestry Thursday. A fine supper was served. The table decorations were baskets of dogwood and pink moccasin flowers, arranged by Mrs. R. Irving Hurlbutt. The guest of honor, was the new minister Rev Mr. Hamilton. He and Mrs. Hamilton after the supper were presented two large May baskets decorated in red and white, the Epworth league colors and filled with good things for the larder in the new home. Courtland E. Colver made the presentation for Miss June G. Perkins, president of the league. Rev. Mr. Hamilton responded pleasingly. Nelson Parker and Elmer Tubbs carried the baskets to the parsonage. The rain, of the early evening, prevented the usual large attendance, but guests from both Norwich and New London were present, with residents of this place.

Preparatory arrangements for the coming of the Yale crews have been going on for some time at the Watertown here. The crews will arrive from New Haven June 6, for their annual practice preceding the Yale and Harvard regatta.

The Harvard crews are scheduled to arrive from Cambridge, at Red Top, and Harvard quarters Tuesday June 1st.

Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Mathewson of Chicopee, Mass., motored here Monday, and are guests of the former's sister, Mrs. Susan Mathewson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Otis Winchester of Norwich, have opened their summer home, at Perkins place for the season.

Mr. and Mrs. Darrow and Mrs. John Griswold, with a guest all of New London, motored here recently to call on their uncle, Noyes B. Allyn.

The eighth grade pupils of the schools of the town of Ledyard met at the Gales Ferry school recently to take their final examinations, given by the teacher, Miss Evelyn B. Whipple.

UNCASVILLE

Funeral services for John H. Vallett were held at his home Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The service was conducted by Rev. George W. Borden and Pequot lodge of Odd Fellows. Burial was in Comstock cemetery, Montville.

Tuesday evening a supper was served at the Montville Union Baptist church, the proceeds to be used for the Christian Endeavor society. After the supper a community teachers' meeting was held under the auspices of the New London County Council of Religious Education. There were teachers present from the Uncasville, Palmertown, Montville Center and Mohegan churches.

A bus-load of members of the local lodge of Odd Fellows attended the meeting of the grand lodge in Hartford recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maynard have returned from their wedding trip. They will reside with the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Allen.

Mrs. Addis Rogers of Hilltop was the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Winchester of Fitchville during the week.

Rev. Charles Smith has returned from Cape Cod where he has been spending a few days.

Edward Babbitt, his daughter Eunice and son Harold of Norwich were guests, Sunday of Mrs. Captolia Burgess.

Everett L. Starr and daughter Barbara of Providence and spending the week end and Memorial day with Mrs. Mary E. Starr.

Miss Dorothy Church, student nurse at Lawrence hospital, New London, is having a vacation which she is spending with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Church.

A number of new books has been given by the state to the Montville Community library. They were recently received and are mostly children's books.

A supper was held at the Methodist church Thursday evening for the Epworth league. An interesting meeting was enjoyed. Rev. Charles Spaulding of the Methodist church, New London was the speaker.

Miss Nellie J. Starr president of the local branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union and Miss Anna Rogers of Oakdale attended the New London county institute of the W. C. T. U. held in Mystic Wednesday.

Mrs. Edward B. Manning of New London was the guest of Mrs. Mary E. Starr during the week.

Johnny Decides to Go Home Right Away

"Tis well if sometimes we arrange
Opinions of our own to change.
—Old Mother Nature.

Any one who absolutely refuses to change an opinion when proven in the wrong is just plain obstinate. More of dignity is lost in clinging to a wrong opinion than ever is lost in changing an opinion.

Johnny Chuck who you know had been trapped in a box trap in the Old Orchard and turned loose in the Old Pasture by Farmer Brown's Boy had almost made up his mind that he would spend the summer in the Old Pasture. In fact he had begun to share the opinion of Old Jed Thumper the gray old rabbit who lived there, that it was one of the finest places in all the Great World. And then Buster Bear had come shuffling along down the cowpath close to Johnny Chuck's new home, and Johnny had squealed and turned a back somersault into his house. Now, if Johnny hadn't squealed perhaps this story would never have been written. But he did squeal and Buster Bear heard that squeal.

Of course, the first thing he did was to poke his nose in at the open doorway and sniff

Buster turned his head and looked over the bushes just in time to see the twinkling little black heels of Johnny Chuck disappear inside his house. "Woof! Woof!" said Buster Bear in his deepest rumbly-grumbly voice. "Woof! Woof! Now, who is that?" Then he turned and broke through the bushes and shuffled straight over to have a look at Johnny Chuck's house. Of course, the first thing he did was to poke his nose in at that open doorway and sniff. It was a long sniff, and it made a great noise down inside. It sent the coldest kind of shivers running all over Johnny Chuck, despite his warm coat.

"There's some one at home," said Buster Bear to himself, in his rumbly-grumbly voice. "There's some one at home, and I have an idea they would be good eating. I wonder if I can dig this thing open."

Buster Bear hooked his claws under the edge of a big stone, beneath which Johnny had dug the entrance to his house. Then Buster Bear pulled. He pulled and he pulled, and suddenly that stone gave way and Buster went over flat on his back. It was funny to see. Yes, sir, it was funny to see. But Johnny Chuck didn't see it, and if he had seen it he wouldn't have seen any fun in it. But what Johnny couldn't see he could hear. He heard that big stone give way. Down his long hall rattled a lot of pebbles and sand. It was hard to believe, but Johnny knew that it was a fact that Buster Bear had done what no one else could have done—and he, Johnny, wasn't as safe in there as he had thought he was. Johnny didn't wait another second. He began to dig. He dug just as fast as he could make his feet go. He dug until he came to two big rocks way down underground, with just room enough between them for him to squeeze through after he had dug out the earth between.

"There!" panted Johnny. "If that fellow digs down as far as this he certainly can't move these great rocks. I guess I'm safe now." But his heart was still thumping as if it were trying to pound its way right out.

But Buster Bear didn't dig as far as that. Buster is one of those who doesn't stick at anything very long. He dug a little way, and then decided that there was too much work; that there were too many stones and he would ruin his claws. Besides, he wasn't particularly hungry anyway. So he soon gave up and went shuffling off. But it was a long time after that before Johnny Chuck dared to so much as poke his head outside. Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit, came along just then. His eyes opened very wide as he saw the big hole Buster Bear had dug. "My gracious, what's been going on here?" he exclaimed. Johnny Chuck told him.

"And I tell you what it is," concluded Johnny. "I'm going to start for the Green Meadows this very afternoon. Yes, sir, I am. You can have the Old Pasture if you like it. It is no place for me."

WESTMINSTER

The Sunday text was Power belongeth unto God. Next Sunday, Memorial day will be observed by special morning worship service. The decoration of graves of soldiers buried in the churchyard and in Spicer cemetery by the Westminster Hill school will probably take place Monday.

The late Mrs. Henry Dorrance through her historical research had fully identified graves of 26 Revolutionary soldiers whose graves are by this church, bearing S. A. R. markers, and there are those of other wars also, one more is in Spicer cemetery and all will be decorated so far as they are known; flags being in the markers.

All the schools of Canterbury rejoice with the school at the Green in its award of medals and honorable mention in its third participation in the recent poster contest under the Connecticut Humane society with thousands of competitors.

Superintendent Floyd was a recent visitor to several of the Westminster schools.

Lester A. Gardiner has sold his property on South Main street, Washington, R. I., and has moved to the farm which he purchased last fall, the former Coutler place, in Westminster.

Mr. Carleton Jones, Jr., and Mr. Larkum, superintendent of schools in Hebron, were recent callers on the Hill.

Ambrose Leidwien, while not fully recovered from his recent serious accident, is about and has made two short business trips to New York lately.

Mrs. Jessie A. Meade is at Sunny Farm for the summer.

Mrs. J. Murray Meade and little Jack of New London have been spending a week at Sunnymeade, her husband bringing them both ways by automobile.

Mrs. Frank Kock is reshingling and otherwise repairing their summer home here.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Kavlor's recent wedding anniversary was observed by local friends and guests from Hartford and Hampton.

Raymond's fine school attendance has recently been lowered by the absence of members of the Blain and Bochine families on account of illness.

A birthday party marked the arrival of John Soderberg's 16th year, last Saturday and was attended by friends of parents and son. Music for dancing was provided by Mr. and Mrs. William Johnson, Mr. Stromberg and Arthur Lusinberre. Refreshments were also enjoyed.

Dewey Shippee with his family, of Plainfield, called on his wife's grandmother, Mrs. Lucy A. Gardiner and uncle Lester Gardiner, last Sunday.

Friday evening at the parsonage there was a birthday social for several young folks whose natal day is in May and all friends.

Mrs. Ida M. Shorter is hoping to return home from North Windham within a few days. For several weeks she has been at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Trainer Rice, who was recently operated upon and is recovering, though at last accounts not yet able to sit up. Betty Eastland her companion-helper has been in North Windham with Mrs. Shorter for a part of the time, she having returned last week.

At the Annual County convention of the W. C. T. U. last week at Central Village, among the speakers was a national director, Mrs. Dora Pratt who defended present day youth and strongly stated that parents are the ones responsible for the character and reputation of their children and wards.

Emil Hohenthal of Manchester was another speaker. Mr. Hohenthal reminded voters of their oath when given the franchise. You do not have the vote to put a certain man in an office, but to vote as directed by your enlightened conscience for your town, state and nation was a thought left with the gathering. In closing the speaker gave some things especially desirable to do before fall elections.

WESTERLY

EXPECT TO USE NEW BOAT ON ANNUAL BOAT RACE DAY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 26—"Commerce" on the Pawcatuck river received an addition on Thursday evening, well worthy of its best heritage. It was the 30-foot cabin, Hand V-bottom cruiser type with a head-water line of 25 feet and constructed by and for Gurdon B. Hiscox of Westerly. The craft has been in building at the foot of Vincent lane since early last fall and Mr. Hiscox has had the help of the late Otis Champlin and James Thompson in its planking. A temporary wooden shelter was built about the craft so that work could proceed in all kinds of weather.

On Thursday night, the end of the building having been removed, the craft was permitted to slide into the river and the incoming tide soon had it floated. Its beam is about six feet and its draught two feet, eight inches. Theb oat is equipped with a 15 H. P. Buffalo motor and planked with mahogany. Its appointments are of the finest, and include all modern conveniences. Two commodious berths are in the cabin and the cockpit will be rigged with stanchions, which will go to support a canopy. It is expected the boat will be in full commission by next boat race day at New London of the Yale and Harvard crews.

The work of erecting the staging on the Dixon street side of the main building have already received attention from brick masons and these walls are now in the best condition they have been in since the armory was constructed. Following the completion of the automobile show in the armory several months ago, a quantity of the stone coping and brick parapet fell to the ground but fortunately no one was injured. The Rhode Island state department, which has the armory in charge, is anxious to see that the building is restored to first class condition again and that no one shall be injured by falling stone, brick and cement.

A slight automobile accident occurred about noon time on Thursday at the junction of the Shore and Watch Hill roads. The autos which collided were those of George Roystar of Bradford, a Ford roadster, and a Buick sedan operated by James Lawson of Westerly Offices George L. Madison was called to investigate but found the damage to be negligible.

A special financial town meeting of the electors qualified to vote on the expenditures of money will be held Thursday evening, June 10. This action resulted from the special town council meeting held on Thursday evening in the Westerly town hall when there were present Councilmen President John D. Nichols Rogers E. Trainer, Harry E. Coleman and Isaac G. Smith.

Action to be taken at the special meeting will be that of seeking a solution as to what they desire to do in regard to the widening of High street.

Both David Novogrod and the South County Public Service company are ready to commence construction on their buildings, and are asking for building permits from Zoning Inspector Louis J. Rossi, who is holding them up until a decision on the matter of widening High street from the post office through to Canal street has been reached.

It is expected that when the financial town meeting is called, taxpayers will be told what it will cost to move or rebuild portions of the Westerly Furniture company building, variously estimated at $35,000 and what condemnations proceedings would cost with like figures on the Walton block.

The trustees of Wilcox park have already shown their willingness to set back the line in front of the Colonial club, and to give land in the rear of the South County Public Service company and the Novogrod sites to the same depth, but the latter two concerns do not care to have their buildings set back unless, particularly, the building of the Westerly Furniture company is re-constructed so that the front of the building is on a line with them.

The Highway commission, Town Council, and the Zoning Board of Appeals do not care to be held responsible for turning down the improvement which is opportune now if the expense can be arranged for.

Judge Antonio A. Copotosto held a somewhat abbreviated session of superior court for Washington county on Friday. At the opening of the court the case of Israel Barg of Franklin, N. H., vs. Raymond W. Champlin of Ashaway, begun on Thursday, was continued. Justice Copotosto announced that an engagement required his presence in Providence and that he would have to leave Westerly on the three o'clock afternoon express.

The damage case resulting from a collision between a truck operated by Mr Waters and a Reo touring car of Israel Barg, was continued with Waters on the stand. Early adjournment of superior court was taken until Tuesday next, when the case will be resumed and other jurymen are under summons to report.

Judge Oliver H. Williams held the regular session of Third District court in Westerly on Friday morning, which together with the arraignment of juvenile delinquents occupied all the morning. He read the following: Criminal docket. State vs. Percy L. Perry and State vs. Richard Waters. Continued two weeks. Town of Westerly vs. Anthony F. Fiore. Continued three months.

Civil docket: Hazard J. Lord vs. Tefft Motor Mart and Brewer Tire Stores vs. Raymond Champlin. Continued two weeks. Henry J. Millis vs. Colonial company. Case defaulted. Clifton D. Hall vs. Angelo Pucci, alias. Continued one week. Thomas E. Brown vs. Abraham Kaplan. Heard in office and assigned to next week. This was a case in which the defendant was charged with buying and selling and bartering in junk without a license.

Fred Greenwood was also arraigned in the judge's office on the complaint of parking his automobile on Broad street within fire crossing lines.

George Courtmarsh, married, of the town of Richmond, who was apprehended in Hackensack, N. J., and held for Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell of Washington county, was arraigned before Judge Oliver H. Williams in the Third district court Friday morning, charged with the unlawful transportation of Josephine Nicosia of that town.

Courtmarsh entered a plea of guilty and was adjudged probably guilty and bound over to the September session of the superior court for Washington county. Bail was fixed at $5,000.

Courtmarsh is alleged to have gone away with the 19-year-old girl on May 17, last. A warrant was issued for his arrest and Wednesday night Sheriff Mitchell received a telephone communication from Hackensack, N. J., that the man was being held. It was found that Courtmarsh was at Hoboken, N. J. Sheriff Mitchell returned to Westerly with the man late yesterday afternoon. Courtmarsh having agreed to leave the state of New Jersey.

Secondo Sacetti, son of Joseph and daughter Johanna left Westerly on Thursday evening for New York city. On Saturday they will sail for Italy on the steamship Duello of the Italian General Navigation line. They will visit their ancestral home, Arcisate, Como, and Lombardy, Italy, before returning to their home in America.

Mrs. Anne Dobson of Westerly will sail from Boston on Steamship Franconia of the Cunard line for a visit in Liverpool England.

Mrs. R. L. Clarkson of New York city will arrive in Westerly today (Saturday) to be the guest of the family of Harry Darlington, at their summer cottage at Watch Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Lamb left Friday for Hartford to be present at a special church service, before proceeding to Albany, N. Y. They will return to their Westerly home on Wednesday.

Among Westerly visitors from Stonington on Thursday was Miss Ann Perry.

Oscar W. Gates of Wood River Junction, R. I., visited in Westerly on Friday.

Deputy Chief of Police William L. Kay of Hope Valley, R. I., was a business caller in Westerly on Friday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Tappley of Springfield, Mass., were week end visitors in Westerly and visited their summer cottage Casa Loma, Watch Hill.

George Corey is substituting as third trick baggage man at the Westerly railroad station during the absence of the regular baggage man, George Lamb, who is visiting in Hartford.

Mrs. John F. Datson, accompanied by Mrs. L. Ward Alger, motored to Providence on Friday.

MYSTIC

At the May supper at the Union Baptist church Thursday, after Rev. J. G. Osborn had asked the blessing, Deacon Louis P. Allyn made a speach expressing regret at the pastor leaving the church to assume the pastorate of the Danbury church, while congratulating him on going to a larger church and field of work in the city. Only three former pastors have served the church as long as has Rev. Mr. Osborn, who has been here a little over eight years, coming from Lewiston, Me. At the end of Deacon Allyn's speech, he presented the pastor a purse of gold and ended by saying he would be welcome to visit in his home any time he could come to Mystic. Mr. Osborn was surprised and thanked the church for the gift. He said he regretted leaving Mystic as it seemed more like home than any other place and the call to Danbury was not of his seeking, but because friends had advised the church to call him. He thanked all for their kindnesses to him and Mrs. Osborn and said he intended to come here as often as he could. He will preach his farewell sermon Sunday evening and move to Danbury to commence his pastorate June 6.

Plans are completed for the annual union service in observance of Memorial day. This year it will be held in St. Mark's Episcopal church Sunday, at 10:30. All of the patriotic societies have been invited. The services are to commemorate three wars. Rev. Lucius W. Shey, rector of St. Mark's, speaking for the war of 61-65, Rev. Walter R. Davenport of the Methodist church, the Spanish-American war and Rev. Frederick G. Clutter of the Congregational church for the World War. Following the services each church will hold Sunday school as usual.

Among those opening their cottages at Groton Long Point today (Saturday) are Mr. and Mrs. O. A. Wilcox of Gravel street.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church met in the chapel Thursday and pieced patchwork.

The large front porch at Mrs. Thomas E. Packer's house on Burrows street, is being enclosed for a sun parlor.

Harry Myers, Jr., of Pearl street, is ill.

Frederick Allyn of Ledyard was a visitor here Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Bachand and son, Arthur, are to take a trip over the Mohawk trail this week end and holiday.

L. P. Allyn who bought the house owned by the late Elisha R. Packer, opposite his residence on New London road, is making many repairs and adding modern improvements.

The J. B. C. club, composed of the Sunday school class of Mrs. Lucian Allyn, held a cake sale in I. W. Denison's store Friday afternoon.

F. H. Bingham of Boston was a business caller here Wednesday.

A number from here attended the supper given in the Old Mystic Methodist church parish house Friday night.

Members of Mystic grange were in Groton last evening to hear Mrs. Nellie Blakeman of Stratford, tell of her trip to Chicago, where she attended the national meeting on economics.

Louis C. Knox has moved from 25 High street to Prospect street.

William Miner has moved with his wife and eight children from Mason's Island to a tenement on Washington street.

Mrs. Clara Bradshaw is seriously ill at the home of her son, William Bradshaw, in Groton.

John Schiffer of Atlantic, Mass., visited friends here recently.

Miss Edith Spencer has visited Old Lyme friends this week.

Mrs. Wainwright Bentley is a patient in the New Haven hospital, having gone there for treatment of her throat. She is considered to be in serious condition.

Miss Ruby Jewell is home from school for the week end and holiday.

Mrs. Hazel Paige has moved into the tenement of Mrs. Grace Donahue, on High street.

There was a good attendance at the Methodist church Friday night to hear Rev. Charles E. Spaulding of New London speak on the work of the institute. His talk furnished much information of value.

Rev. J. G. Osborn received a telephone message Wednesday evening of the sudden death of Rev. William B. Oakley of Leffingwell, which occurred in Norwich that evening. He was a former pastor of the Old Mystic Baptist church and had many friends here.

NOANK

The boat Reliance left for Natucket fishing ground on Thursday after icing and getting supplies. The trip will take about two weeks.

Harold Buston of Essex is home on a short visit.

Merton McGrath is clerk at Srandor's store until after the holiday.

Lewis Main has returned to New York, after a few days at his home.

Schooner William Morse came into the north dock after a trip around Newport for fish, getting a big catch.

James Campbell of Iowa is in town calling on old friends.

The lobstermen have their pots out in the race, as the lobster season is now open. Small catches are being brought in. New boats are trying the lobster game this year. The season of 1925 was poor and some of the lobstermen failed, so they hope for better luck this year.

Patsy Ballestracci has a well trained brown dog, named Rover. It took quite a while to teach the animal his tricks. The owner will write a note, will send the dog to the market, and get meat for dinner. If the store has a few people in Rover will sit on the doorstep and wait until everybody has gone and then he will give in his order, and start for home, so his master can have his dinner. If his master wants his pipe, Rover will get it, or get the newspaper. The people of the village are proud of the dog, for everybody sees him with the package of meat in his mouth on his way from the market. The owner has been offered a large sum for Rover but declares that no money could buy his playmate.

Edgar Ashly has returned from Fall River, after a brief visit.

The boat Betty Marie has been launched at Rogers yard, after being stored there all winter, has been painted and given a general overhauling. Mr. Fingerson, of Norwich, owns the boat.

At the mill on East Main street Thursday afternoon the bell on the outside rang for a fire drill. The men quickly made for the fire house in the yard and was at there position. William Crowell was at the nozzle with Edward Mahoney; Mr. Crowell backed into the river and had to let go of the nozzle, he swam to shore. Robert Tooker was at the pumps. Alfred Ballestracci is chief engineer of the fire station. The drill was for the insurance men of the mill from out of town to see if the pumps and hose and engine are in first class shape.

The pinochle series was well attended. Prizes for high score went to Edward Morgan and Miss Mary Robertson, and awards for low score to Lyle Chesebro and Miss Abbi Porter. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Hannah Hancock and daughter Miss Geldie of Meridan are visiting Mrs. Elizabeth Williams over the holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Everts are entertaining relatives from New Haven.

Capt. John Jensen has returned to New York after a visit with his family.

Sherman Potts from New York, is in Noank for the summer.

The engine at the Fire Co., is out of commission being overhauled so the company cannot answer any fire calls. By arrangement with Mr. Fairbanks, head of the fire district of Mystic, the Mystic Co., will stand by for any calls in the village and will respond at a minute's notice. The plan is to call Central and tell her where the fire is and she will give the alarm. After the new engine is back and in shape, the old gasoline engine will be fixed up and be used when needed. The gasoline machine has done great work in the village for years.

Rev. Ernest Wiess is in Washington, attending the convention of the Northern Baptist association.

The ball game between Hammer nine and Rossie team of Mystic was called off on account of the weather Thursday night.

Mrs. Hope Burrows is spending a few days in Hartford.

At the meeting of Liberty council, Daughters of America, held in its hall in Elm street, the invitation of Rev. Mr. Wiess to attend the evening services was accepted. The members are to meet in the vestry Sunday night.

George Banks is moving from the Kelly house on High street, to the Capt. F. Buddington house, on Bathbun avenue.

LISBON

At the parsonage the pastor has a pot of Amaryllis which he has grown and which for the past week or more has been a thing of marvelous beauty. There are 13 blossom spikes with 41 fully open blossoms, each flower measuring six or seven inches in diameter. Another spike of buds is not yet open. On the side lawn Mr. Reynolds has 3000 tulips coming into bloom. These are of choice varieties and in many beautiful shades.

The Sunday school is rehearsing music for Children's day.

Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Nelson, of Middletown, and Mrs. William McClinan and little son, of Schenectady, N. Y., were visitors Sunday at Duncan Mc-Kay's and R. R. Barber's.

Miss Elisabeth Rosebrooks was in Willimantic over the week end to attend the reunion of her class in Normal.

SOCIAL CORNER

ed how the pain in your jaw increases when, late at night, you turn off the lights and try to sleep?

Light is good for asthma, cold in head, earache. These diseases in the dark all grow worse. Darkness you'll find is good for sick headache and for neuralgia also nausea. Haven't you ever noticed it? Light and darkness are remedies recognized at last. I am sure when you have a cough you notice how much worse it is when lying down at night in the dark.

Did you ever notice that your left foot is larger than your right? If I buy shoes that fit my right foot nicely the left shoe of that pair is apt to be too small; and if we try on the left one which is a good fit why, the right shoe of that pair is likely to be so large that it almost falls off of that foot. But did you know you could buy mismated shoes. One of a pair of one size and the other of a pair of another size, if there is so much difference? They tell me you can.

I want to tell you a little talk I had with a salesman. I said to him, "There is quite a little difference in the size of my feet and I have all sorts of trouble getting fitted;" he said to me I ought to fit each foot perfectly. He said I should wear on my left foot a 5 1-2 A A and on my right foot a 5 A.

"And do you break pairs of shoes in that way?" I asked him, and the salesman said, "We do," and then he explained how he returned the broken shoes back to the factory, where each is mated with a shoe of its own size, and then the two complete pairs of shoes come back into stock.

ETHELYN.

OLD SONGS RECALL THE PAST

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: I was so disappointed at not being able to attend the last meeting of Club No. 1 in Willimantic Chamber of Commerce hall. Was not feeling well enough to attend, but at the present time I am feeling more like myself. The old song, entitled the Gypsy's Warning, which was printed a short time ago, brought back memories of more than 60 years ago when I was a young girl of 16 or 17 years. One Professor Fox and wife with a lady friend who presided at the piano came to Hartford which at that time was my home, and gave an entertainment at Allyn hall on Asylum street, three evenings. There were about 200 who took part. A friend of mine urged me to go to some of the rehearsals which I did and enjoyed as I had taken part in several entertainments. The principal and opening part was a patriotic piece and the second time I went to see them I was urged to take the most prominent part just to help out, as the professor's wife was taken sick. The part assigned me was the Goddess of Liberty and all the states were represented by young ladies.

After rehearsal I was urged to come the next time they met and that meant I was booked to fill Mrs. Fox's place. The hall was packed every night.

There were also children who represented soldier boys, fairies and gypsies and it was then the Gypsy's Warning was sung and that was the first time I heard it, the professor taking the part of the lover, his wife, the gypsy, and a young girl. I had never forgotten it and had sung it to my children many times.

I meant to take this time to thank Joan for sending in the answer to the old song.

Well I think it about time I stopped writing and give some one else a chance, hoping that all who have been sick are feeling better. Best wishes for all and hope we will be able to meet again at the social gatherings.

LAVENDER.

STILL INTERESTED IN THE CORNER

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: I do not know if my name is still on the register as it has been a long time since I last wrote. Anyway, I am writing this and taking a chance of its being published. I have been going to write for a long time but have put it off until now and perhaps would not have sent it now only I have just got a letter from my own sister who is a Social Corner member and I never knew it. So I guess I do not know who is who very much, I think that a good joke when our sisters or friends are members and read their letters and do not realize whose they are. My sister's pen name is Cosmos, and when a little girl I knew E. L. M., who is a good friend of Cosmos.

I am sorry to hear of so many deaths in my home club (No. 1). I wonder what has become of Whoa January, as she promised to write to me when I got in my new home in a strange land, Erie, Pa.

Balsam Fir: I am no longer in Lynn as I left there Dec. 12, last year, for Norwich for a visit before coming to my new home here.

Let me congratulate the Shore Line club No. 6, and may you prosper. That vicinity is my childhood place.

Well I guess this will help to fill up the page so hoping all the sisters have as pleasant a time May 30 as I do, for I am anticipating a trip to Niagara Falls with Mr. Gene. Best wishes to all the Corner sisters. I will sign off as,

GENE, (Club No. 1, April 30.)

THE CHANGING SEASONS

Dear Editor and Sister of the Social Corner: Well do we all remember when King Winter reigned supreme piling with its keen cold blasts the snow into huge snowdrifts which inconvenienced so many and caused days of hard labor. All this is past. During the interim, Dame Nature with persistent efforts, released the icy grip on the edge of spring.

The warmer winds begin to blow. The song of spring is in the tree tops, the little songsters pipe their notes of welcome and soon the merry throated song birds are flitting to and fro selecting material for the home nest. Mother Earth aroused from her long winter sleep stretched forth her hand and the tiny blades of grass were seen where once was brown and bare. The returning life was seen as it clothed earth in a mantle of green. Today we have May-time with us the month for bud, blossom and seedtime. Man as well as nature are rejoicing in the sunlight of this month; one of the prettiest of the year. The man who tills the soil becomes interested; the seeds are sown and the result of his labors will be known at harvest time. Soon the last days of May will be gone and we will recall the beautiful blossoming May, a month of beauty. As far as the eye can see, trees, shrubs and bushes are in full bloom. The green foliage as a back ground presents a picture no artist can do full justice to however skillful he may be with his brush. As one month succeeds another, so we also strive to step forward and upward to the higher aims of life. Success to the Social Corner.

GUSTA (Club No. 5)

SAYING IT WITH FLOWERS

Dear Sisters of the Social Corner: As the annual Memorial day is soon to be observed throughout our country, not only for those who sacrificed for peace and prosperity, we are all especially reminded to remember others that were near and dear to us while in life. We appeal to the flowers for that expression of our thought for the temporary time. The block of granite, or marble, bearing the inscription stands firmly, throughout each season, and is the faithful perpetual memorial. But the flowers, we can only use them, as they come with nature's call. All do not agree on this subject in regards to laying flowers on the grave, but I think the majority of people favor it. It is not the costly and rare plants or flowers that contribute any more the token of remembrance than do the field white daisies, or yellow buttercups, or the purple violets. They there, werexxfiiffetaoin TH TH — are all significant of beauty. I had the pleasure of going into a large greenhouse a few days ago, and there, were cultivated plants and lovely blooms of a great variety. It appealed to me, like a bit of paradise on earth, the warmth of the sunshine, the odor of the various flowers, the brilliant colorings all a beautiful harmonious atmosphere. Every home, where there is a little space for a rose bush, or honeysuckle vine or larger shrubs, up to larger porportions for flower beds, the very presence indicates the tastes of the family. A handful of flowers of any kind, has often conveyed the expression of sympathy, as nothing else would do. Flowers of congratulation have served to strengthen the tie of friendship.

It ever appeals to me, to make full use of nature's floral gifts, in every way; they can make us happy and we can help others to be happy also. If we should live in the extreme cold climates, when flowers are impossible, perhaps we would appreciate them more.

I regret to hear of the passing of Sister Wandering Jew and my sympathy is extended to her family and friends. Am glad to hear of the success of Club No. 6 and hope they may continue in the spirit of friendship and helpfulness as all former clubs, of the Social Corner. I have enjoyed being a member of Club 1 for over ten years.

Thanks to the editor for my yellow slip for the April letter.

Best wishes to all in sickness or sorrow and to those who are shut-in.

JENNIE.

MAENNERCHOR TURNERS HELD MAY SOCIAL

A very enjoyable May social and dance was given by the amusement committee of the Maennerchor Turner section on Thursday evening at Maennerchor hall. Games were played and music for dancing was furnished by Roache's orchestra.

Luncheon consisting of sandwiches, coffee, cake, cookies and candy was served. Selections were played on a victrola, kindly loaned through the courtesy of the Hanover-Curland Co. The committee consisted of Frieda Bauer, Elsie Heberding, Alfred Puchta and Lawrence Heibel.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
New York

Stocks: Firm; Atchison leads rise in rails; steel shares strong.

Bonds: Steady; local traction issues firm.

Foreign exchanges: Mixed; French and Belgian francs lower.

Cotton: Barely steady; unfavorable weather.

Sugar: Easier; trading setting.

Coffee: Firm; commission house buying.

Chicago

Wheat: Higher; unfavorable crop news.

Corn: Barely steady; selling by cash houses.

Cattle: Firmer.

Hogs: Lower.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, May 28—(AP)—Unlike most pre-holiday sessions, today's stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength on a heavy turnover both the rail and industrial averages closed higher on the day, with final quotations disclosing a long list of net gains ranging from 1 to 8 points. Total sales were 1,586,800 shares, the largest since April 23, when the 2,000,000 mark was crossed for the last time.

The recovery took place in the face of a marked stiffening of call money rates due to the heavy calling of loans in order to meet the heavy holiday and June 1 demands for currency, and notwithstanding the absence of many large operators who went away early on extended holiday trips. The usual mercantile reviews continued to emphasize the unfavorable effects of the unseasonable weather but point out that bank clearings confirm other indications of a sustained large purchasing power.

Buying of the oil shares was stimulated by the publication of statistics showing that gasoline exports in the first four months of the year exceeded 575,000,000 gallons or 32.6 per cent above those of the corresponding period last year.

Predictions that the recent advance in steel bars would be extended to other products infused new strength into the steel shares. U. S. Steel common advanced over two points to 136, a new high on the current recovery.

Discovery that a rather thin market existed for some of the motor shares led to active short covering, particularly in such issues as General Motors, Hudson, Mack Trucks, White Motors and Willys-Overland.

Atchison was again the leader in the railroad group, crossing 149 to within 1-8 of the record high for all time, established last year.

Wild fluctuations in May wheat, which closed three cents a bushel higher at $1.67 1-2 featured the otherwise quiet commodity markets. Cotton again fluctuated within a narrow trading area, closing practically unchanged. Sugar and coffee prices held steady.

Call money renewed at 5 3-4 per cent, advanced to 6 and thence to 4 1-2, closing at the top. Banks are reported to have called about $30,000,000 in loans during the day. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Sharp recessions in the French and Belgian currencies in sympathy with an earlier decline in the London market featured foreign exchange trading. Both French and Belgian francs dropped about eight points to around 3.23 and 3.10 cents, respectively. Demand sterling was slightly higher around $4.85 9-16. Spanish pesetas, which sold at their highest price in three years yesterday, fell back about 20 points to 15.15 cents on realizing.

FAIR AND WARMER TODAY AND TOMORROW

Norwich Bulletin

NORWICH, CONN., SATURDAY, MAY 29, 1926

FULL ASSOCIATED PRESS DESPATCHES

The Bulletin.

Norwich, Saturday, May 29, 1926

WEATHER Conditions

Pressure remains high over eastern Canada, the lake region, and the Atlantic states, but it is falling slowly from the lake region northward, highest 30.36 inches, Philadelphia.

Generally fair weather will prevail east of the Mississippi river Saturday and the weather will remain generally fair Sunday in the Atlantic states. The eastward advance of the western disturbance will probably cause showers Sunday afternoon or night in the lower lake region. The temperature will rise gradually Saturday and Sunday in the lower lake region, the Appalachian region and in the Atlantic states, except Florida.

Winds

North of Sandy Hook—Gentle to moderate northeast to southeast, fair weather Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras—Moderate northeast to southeast, fair weather Saturday.

Forecast

For eastern New York, New England—Fair with rising temperature Saturday and Sunday.

Observations

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

	Ther.	Bar.
7 a. m.	52	30.50
12 m.	68	30.50
6 p. m.	60	30.50

Highest 68; lowest 50.

TAFTVILLE

A well attended whist party for the benefit of the Sacred Heart baseball team was held Thursday evening in Parish hall. There were 48 tables in play. The first prize for ladies went to Miss Alice Frechette, the second to Miss Jeanette Archambeault, third to Mrs. Louis Gregory, fourth to Mrs. Joseph Brodeur and consolation, Mrs. Fred Morin. For the gentlemen, the first prize went to Wilfred Gaucher, the second to Joseph Brodeur, the third to James Murphy and the fourth to John Daley.

A Maybasket was awarded to Miss Loretta Gregory and a box of chocolates to Miss Mary Ward. The Army and Navy club orchestra furnished music for the dancing which followed cards. The proceeds are to pay the expenses of the Sacred Heart school ball team of which Rev. John Malley is the able manager.

The committee in charge of the affair were James Hanlon, chairman; Hermon Fontaine, Andrew Frohmader, Miss Agnes Murphy, Miss Louise White, Miss Mary Hanlon, Miss Mayme Murphy, Miss Zeena Cormier, Miss Elizabeth Ward, Mrs. Napoleon T. Parent and Mrs. Andrew Frohmader.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brierley of New Bedford, are spending a few days in town, the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bogle of Providence street.

Mrs. Ferdinand H. Lens of Jamaica, N. Y., is the guest of her mother, Mrs. Clement Joubert of Bliss-ville road.

George H. Young of North Third avenue has returned from a few days stay in Boston, Mass.

Theodore R. Sage of Norwich was a visitor in the village Friday.

Men in the employ of the state highway department were busy Friday treating Providence street to a coat of tarvia.

Funeral services for Mrs. Julia Holtz were held Thursday afternoon from the parlors of George C. Kent, Rev. William Reynolds, pastor of Newent Congregational church officiating. Burial was in Lovett cemetery, Lisbon, where Rev. Mr. Reynolds read the committal service. There was a large attendance of friends, at the service and many beautiful floral pieces were received.

GAVE MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FOR MISS HOPE COMSTOCK

Miss Hope Comstock was pleasantly surprised by a shower at the home of her sister, Mrs. Carl Johnson at Uncasville Thursday evening, in honor of her approaching marriage to R. W. Pearson of West Point, June 16th. A large May basket, trimmed in pink and white, filled with many useful and beautiful presents was presented to the bride-to-be. Games were played and refreshments served. The decorations were pink and white snapdragons. The guests were Mrs. Clyde Beebe, Miss Ida Beebe, Mrs. David Longren, Miss Ellen Longren, Miss Stella Peterson, Miss Dorothy Pearson, Miss Dorothy Holden, all of Norwich; Miss Lottie Chapman of Niantic, Miss Alice Ramage, Miss Irene Blaisdell, Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. Harriet French, Mrs. Harriet Edmonds, Mrs. E. J. Edmonds, Mrs. Almira Watt, Mrs. Frank Craig, Mrs. Earle Howe, Miss Dorothy Church, Mrs. Carl Johnson and Joyce Johnson.

DIRECTS CONTINUANCE OF WEEKLY PAYMENTS OF $12

After a hearing to determine the extent of disability and a report by a specialist who gave no definite estimate of the per cent of disability, Commissioner J. J. Donohue has directed that weekly payments of $12 be continued in the workmen's compensation claim of Thomas M. Dougherty, 105 Main street, New London, against Arthur Jackson & Co., New London, employer.

Accrued payments from about March 1, 1926, are to be made at once in a lump sum, and $12 continued weekly hereafter until there shall be found a definite change in the claimant's condition or until such time as the parties may come to some amicable settlement on a lump sum basis.

DENIES DECREE IN SPICER DIVORCE SUIT

In a decision handed down Friday in the superior court here Judge Earnest C. Simpson denied the divorce petition of Frances M. Spicer against Joseph E. Spicer, both of Norwich.

Mrs. Spicer sought divorce on the grounds of desertion since June 5, 1919. The couple was married Oct. 8, 1904. Six years ago Mrs. Spicer brought suit for divorce on the grounds of intolerable cruelty, but this was also denied.

NORWICH DRIVE FOR SALVATION ARMY RAISES $3,754 IN FOUR DAYS

Reports in the four day campaign to raise $4,500 for the Salvation Army annual budget in Norwich were made Friday night at an enthusiastic supper meeting at the Wauregan hotel, giving a total of $3,754.79 raised so far by the vigorous work of the teams.

There are belated prospects yet to be heard from, four large industrial establishments have yet to make report, and other plans that are under consideration were declared by Campaign Chairman Earl G. Taggart and Campaign Secretary E. J. McCabe. Friday night to hold every promise that the goal of $4,500 will be reached shortly. They requested that those who desire to contribute but have not been reached by the team captains or workers should send their contributions at once to the campaign treasurer, John R. Tarrant, at the Bankers Trust Co.

As team after team reported Friday night and the total mounted towards the desired goal the enthusiasm grew fast and when the final amount was announced it was greeted with rousing cheers. The work of the women has been a big factor in the campaign, as was shown when the reports from the teams captained by and composed of women were made.

MRS. BASSETT ALWAYS TIRED

Now in Good Health by Using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Lansing, Mich.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound whenever I needed it. When I first used it I was so bad I could hardly walk across the room without crying. I was tired all the time. I think my trouble was coming on me for six months before I realized it. I read of your wonderful medicine in the paper, and my husband bought me a bottle, and after the first few doses I felt better, so kept on taking it until I was well and strong. I take it at times when I feel tired and it helps me. I will always have a good word for your medicine and tell anyone what good it has done me. I recommended it to my neighbor for her girl, who is sixteen years old, and it was just what she needed. She is feeling fine now, and goes to school every day."—Mrs. B. F. Bassett, 216 South Hayford Avenue, Lansing, Michigan.

Do not continue to feel all run-down and half sick when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is sold by druggists everywhere.

NORWICH LEGIONAIRES WERE AT HARTFORD DINNER

A number of members of Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, and the women's auxiliary to the post, were in Hartford Wednesday evening to attend the complimentary state dinner given National Commander McQuigg at the Hotel Bond.

Those in the party were Mrs. William L. Bogue, Mrs. Louise Leopold, Mrs. John B. Oat, Miss Evon Broadhurst, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Raymond, and Rev. Edward C. Dunbar, commander of Fletcher post.

The Norwich party had their own table which was beautifully decorated for the occasion. The center piece was a large pink rose, while small individual roses were arranged as favors. Across the table were spread pink ribbons, with Rose of New England printed in gold letters, inscribed at either end. Glass candlesticks for pink candles completed the decorations.

INQUIRY INTO METHODS OF THE ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE

Object of a Resolution to Be Introduced in the House by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts—Declares It is An Ecclesiastical and Political Organization That Has Suppressed Free Action by the American Congress—Calls For House Committee to Ascertain Whether Any House Member Has Received Money on Fees.

WASHINGTON, May 30—(AP)—Creation of a special house committee to ascertain whether Representative Louis C. Cramton, republican, Michigan, or any othe house member "has reiceived money or fees" from the Anti-Saloon league or any other organization interested in legislation pending before congress, is proposed in a resolution drafted by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts.

The resolution, which Mr. Tinkham said will be introduced on Tuesday, is prefaced by four declarations, the first of which asserts that Mr. Cramton recently stated to a New York newspaper correspondent that "from time to time he has received money or fees from an ecclesiastical and political organization known as the Anti-Saloon league, or its branches or subsidiaries, which statement was published April 21, and has not been denied."

Mr. Tinkham, in a statement today making public the proposed resolution, assailed the league as an agency that "controls the government of the United States through fear and by money, so that free government has become a mockery, and a phantom."

"It's strength is such," he said, "that it constitutes a government within a government, and has suppressed free action by the American congress, whose committees cringe and abase themselves before the orders of its agents and servants. It has placed those who believe in liberty and the separation of the church and state in fatal conflict with those who assent to bondage and ecclesiastical political control.

The issues which it has introduced cannot be settled by compromise and they threaten the very solidarity of the union.

"This ecclesiastical and political organization has packed the federal bench and has destroyed confidence in its intellectual integrity. It has reached successfully into the supreme court with its sinister propaganda, and it has appointed United States attorneys and has dominated the prohibition enforcement unit."

Mr. Tinkham said the league paid campaign expenses of Andrew J. Volstead, a former chairman of the house judiciary committee, and author of the Volstead act, and that "it maintains an unscrupulous professional and highly paid lobby at the capitol."

He asserted that "it has been estimated," that the league has expended $100,000,000 and that "the head of its professional lobby has admitted that $2,500,000 was spent in one year and $100,000 in a single congressional election."

Mr. Tinkham added that no publication has been made of the details of "these expenditures as required by the federal corrupt practices act" nor has a public accounting ever been made of the vast sums of money collected by this organization."

"It is known that certain millionaires" he continued "in conjunction with managers of large aggregates of business capital, have financed this organization and its activities, whose purpose was to destroy the private rights of citizens, yet expecting their rights of private property still to be maintained and safeguarded.

"The league works with money in secret, and yet this irresponsible power now governs the United States. This organization stated through one of its principal agents not long ago, that it had lied and bribed for the attainment of its ends."

Mr. Tinkham said that Wayne B. Wheeler general counsel for the league, had not stated "even a half truth," when he "gave as a reason for not testifying" before a senate prohibition investigating committee," that "every phase of the organization political activities were revealed by him in an admittedly unauthorized cross examination by Congressman Tinkham" before a house sub committee.

Mr. Tinkham asserted Wheeler's statement was "mendacious and misleading," and that when he questioned Wheeler, he only asked questions which he thought Wheeler would answer as the league's counsel was not under oath or compulsion to answer any questions.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE'S TRIBUTE TO JOHN ERICSSON

WASHINGTON, May 30—(AP)—John Ericsson was "a patriot who belongs to two countries," but "we honor him most of all because we can truly say he was a great American," President Coolidge declared yesterday in dedicating a monument to the man who came to this country from Sweden and in the critical days of the Civil war built the ironclad Monitor.

Speaking in Potomac park near the Lincoln Memorial and in the presence of a distinguished audience, which included Crown Prince Gustaf Adolph of Sweden, the president said the monument should stand as a reminder to "our citizens of various races" that although he whose memory it serves and they may have "differed in blood and race they were yet bound together by the tie that surpasses race and blood in the communion of a common spirit."

"When once our feet have touched this soil," he added, "when once we have made this land our home, wherever our place of birth, whatever our race, we are all blended in one common country. We cannot put too much emphasis on the fact that in this country we are all bound together in a common destiny. We must all be united as one people.

"It is not, then, for the purpose of setting one people above another that we assemble here today to do reverence to the memory of a great son of Sweden, but rather to glory in the name of John Ericsson and his race as a preeminent example of the superb contribution which has been made by many different nationalities to the cause of our country."

Discussing "the greatness of the Swedish people in the country of their origin and in America," Mr. Coolidge said:

"They have been characterized by that courage which is the foundation of military achievement, that devotion to the home which is the foundation of patriotism, and that reverence for religion which is the foundation of moral power. They are representative of the process which has been going on for centuries in many quarters of the globe to develop a strain of pioneers ready to make their contribution to the enlightened civilization of America."

Discussing the battle of the Monitor and Merrimac, the president recalled that it was Ericsson who built the Monitor. Dahlgren who armed her and Worden who fought her, a significant example of the power of the Norse element in the American navy.

SEVEN LIVES LOST IN A HOTEL FIRE IN BROOKLYN

NEW YORK, May 30—(AP)—Seven persons lost their lives tonight in a fire which destroyed the old Taft hotel in Brooklyn.

Four children were burned to death when their father, Thomas Hughes, a subway dispatcher, failed to reach them after throwing his two other children from a window of their hotel room to persons in the street, who caught them safely.

Mrs. Thomas Hughes, mother of the children, and an aged widow known as Mrs. Smith and J. F. Nolan, 65 were also burned to death.

HUGE DISTILLING OUTFITS SEIZED IN WOONSOCKET

WOONSOCKET, R. I., May 30—(AP)—Local police officials early today uncovered what they declared to be one of the largest redistilling outfits ever seized in this section. Two 1,400 gallon tanks, 14 barrels of denatured alcohol, water pumps and several electric motors were taken in a raid on the Dubois farm, near the Fells station.

The raiding officers fired several shots at a man who fled the premises at their approach and escaped.

THREE AMERICANS IN INTERN'L. BALLOON RACE

ANTWERP, Belgian, May 30.—(AP)—Three American balloons—the Goodyear, the S-16 and the Akron—took off today in a heavy gale and rain, in the international balloon race for the second Gordon Bennett trophy. The French aviator Cordier had to abandon his attempt shortly after starting, and another Frenchman, Blanchet, was oblized to do likewise.

Because of the unfavorable weather, all the pilots were warned to fly low. The Americans departed with every confidence of ultimate success. The Goodyear, piloted by W. T. Van Orman, competing for the fifth time, took the air at 1:45 p. m., disappearing in the mist when barely 200 feet above the ground. The S-16 started at 5:53 p. m., flying at a height of 150 feet. It went to the northeast and was quickly covered by low flying clouds. The Akron, piloted by John A. Boettner and Herbert Maxson, started at 6:30 p. m.

The Americans were sped on their way by the playing of "The Star Spangled Banner" and the cheering of the crowds. The American embassy at Brussels provided them with letters to German, Swedish and other authorities in territories where they may land.

The Italian balloon Aerostrieri, made a good start at 4:35 p. m.

Seven countries, United States, France, England, Italy, Belgium, Spain and Switzerland are represented in the race.

BELIEVES HER HUSBAND WILL TURN UP SOON

NEW YORK, May 30.—(AP) — Although she has had no message from her husband since he disappeared mysteriously on May 6, Mrs. Walter S. Ward expressed confidence today he would "turn up soon."

Mrs. Ward said she had no inkling of her husband's whereabouts but that "he has chosen to disappear at this time, for reasons of his own, and will turn up soon I am sure." She expressed the belief that her husband "is hiding somewhere" and admitted that she is "desperately worried."

She added that none of his family know where he is but declared various reports about him being traced to certain cities and towns in the east were false.

Ward, son of George S. Ward, former head of a large baking company, was acquitted in 1923 of the murder of Clarence Peters, a former sailor. Ward's car was found abandoned in Trenton, N. J., May 6.

New Gov't Result of Revolt in Portugal

Ministry to Be Formed of Military With Some Civilians Who Do Not Belong to Any Political Party.

LISBON, Portugal, May 30—(AP)—Portugal is to have a new government as a consequence of the revolutionary movement of the of the last few days, which culminated in the resignation of the ministry headed by Antonio Maria de Silva, yesterday.

President Machado has called upon Commander Cabecadas, one of the revolt leaders, to assume the responsibilities of government until the new ministry is formed.

The garrison in Lisbon signified its intention to President Machado yesterday to support the revolutionary forces. The coup was accomplished without the firing of a shot and seemed to be received by the public with enthusiasm.

The revolutionary committee has issued a proclamation declaring the movement purely republican and nonmilitary; that it was the desire to form a government on a democratic basis and to save the country from politicians, who, it says, were ruining Portugal.

The chief figures in the movement were General Costa, Commander Cabecadas and Artillery Captain Baptista. They are being supported by the Naval school on the left bank of the Tagus, and the Infantry school outside Lisbon, which has heavy machine guns.

On Friday the garrison at Lisbon and Oporoto joined the movement, which began at Braga with the mutinity of a narmy division there, and at dawn Saturday the president of the republican had a conference with the revolutionary leaders concerning the formation of a new extra-parliamentary government. The first duties of this government will be dissolution of parliament, and revocation of laws considered damaging to national interests.

President Machada called upon Cabecadas, who at the chief executive's request, agreed to assume the responsibilities of governing the country until the new ministry is established. In this ministry Cabecadas will have the post of minister of marine.

After he agreed to take over the government temporarily, Cabecadas declared the ministry would be formed of military men, with some civilians who do not belong to any political party. It would be organized in accord with the opinion of representations of all divisions of the Portuguese army who have been summoned to Lisbon.

Cabecadas, who is noted for bravery, is the most popular man in the navy. Last August he attempted to lead a rising with the same ends as now. He bombred a warship alone during the commander's absence, being acclaimed by the sailors His failure then was due to the army failing to respond as it had promised.

In 1916, the action of Cabecadas in bombarding the royal palace from a ship when republican hopes were almost lost, aroused courage and greatly contributed toward the victory and the establishment of the republic.

STILL SUFFERING FROM EFFECTS OF TIDAL WAVE

RANGOON, BURMA, May 30—(AP)—The Arakan coast region of Burma, swept by a cyclone and tidal wave last Wednesday evening, causing the death of hundreds, is still suffering from the effects of the disaster, described as one of the worst in many years.

Entire villages were swept away, the country for many miles was inundated, and it is believed that when complete figures are available the death list will go considerably beyond the 1,200 mark.

Because of the breaking down of communications, by the storm, which burst on both sides of the Mayu range relief parties have experienced difficulty in getting to the scene. There is a scarcity of foodstuffs, and many persons, fearful of starvation are looting shops whenever they can go to get supplies.

Looting is going on to a great extent in Buthidaung and Maungdaw, which suffered most.

MAN BITTEN BY SNAKE HAS PASSED THE CRISIS

ITHACA, N. Y., May 30.—(AP)—Leonard M. Spear, who was bitten by a diamond-back rattlesnake Friday afternoon while inspecting the zoological collection at Cornell university, has passed the crisis and will live, it was reported tonight by physicians at the City hospital.

The patient was given two injections of Brazillian snake bite serum on Saturday. His brother William N. Spear, of New York, brought additional tubes of the serum.

The serum that is believed to have saved Mr. Spear's life was rushed here Friday night by Dr. Raymond L. Ditmars, curator of the Bronx Zoo, New York

MEMORIAL DAY

'Tis not because they're dead we dress their graves
In Maytime blooms and green wreaths where they lie;
Nor for their glory; all humanity
For fame of deed in Life's great battle craves.
But when, from April's arms comes forth the May
In all the promised beauty of the spring,
Death seems so cold—so pitiless a thing—
With Life's warm splendor just across the way.

How else may we keep faith with those we love?
Let blossoms be the tears that we would weep
For those who cannot wake to greet the spring.
A grateful sack is ours to lay above
Their silent graves spring's freshness while they sleep—
Dreaming, perchance, of us who tributes bring.

Borah Opposed to Dry Referendums

Senator Declares That Nullification of the Eighteenth Amendment is Aimed at in Such Proposal.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 30.—(AP)—Vigorous opposition to referendums in the states on the prohibition question was voiced here today by Senator Borah, republican, Idaho.

Speaking before the Presbyterian general assembly, the senator declared that nullification of the 18th amendment was the course now being boldly urged by those who are proposing referendums in the states so as to leave the construction and execution of the prohibition amendment to the states.

"It is perfectly clear," he added, "that that which is demanded can only be secured in one of two ways, either by repeal of the 18th amendment, or its complete and shameless violation, its utter nullification.

"That is the issue. That being the issue, there is only one course for a great and law-abiding people to pursue, and that is to live up to their constitution, not only according to its terms as it stands, but according to the method provided for amending it."

Senator Borah said he was perfectly willing if the votes were at hand and the procedure was in the orderly, constitutional way, that the prohibition question should again be considered "in the light of these years of experience."

"But so long as the constitution stands," he said, "we should not compromise or falter in its execution. This excitement, this effort to stampede, should not have the slightest effect upon the people who believe in law and order.

"If the people want to take the 18th amendment out of the constitution in the only constitutional way, it can be taken out, if they want to turn this problem back to the states and believe that to be the wiser course, that is their unquestionable right.

"But so long as it stands, speaking for myself, I would kick into the waste basket any referendum which would compromise either in letter or in spirit with its execution.

"If this referendum interrogatory has any meaning at all it is that every state shall determine for itself its own construction of the obligation to the constitution of the United States and that construction is to bind the federal government.

"That doctrine was shot to death at the battle of the Wilderness. A reunited and disinthralled nation has put it behind us for all time. Now what these advocates of the referendum want, when they speak candidly and plainly, is the right to sell and transport intoxicating liquor.

"The only way to meet the proposition they have in mind, is to submit, if they wish to employ referendum, the question of whether we shall amend the constitution—submit it in the way provided in the constitution. That is not only the candid way, but the only effective way to deal with the subject."

THREE MEN KILLED BY EXPLOSION OF FIREWORKS

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 30.—(AP)—Three men were killed and one injured today in an explosion that wrecked the plant of the Pennsylvania Fireworks company, near this city.

The plant went up with a roar heard miles way while many Memorial day exercises were being held in the city's cemeteries. Those killed were Nicholas Tumini, and John Tumini, proprietors of the works, and an unidentified man.

Daniel Marinelli was taken to the Allentown hospital in a serious condition.

The plant was working on a $250,000 order for the sesqui-centennial at Philadelphia, and had already shipped one carload of the pyrotechics. Usually the company did not operate on Sunday but in order to hasten the sesqui-centennial order five men were at work today.

The frame structure was blown to bits and windows for an area of a mile were shattered.

POLISH NAT'L ASSEMBLY MEETS IN WARSAW TODAY

WARSAW, May 30.—(AP)—Barring last minute surprises, it looked tonight as though Marshal Pilsudski would have an easy victory when the national assembly meets in Warsaw tomorrow to elect a new president of the republic.

With every advancing hour, the right parties more and more are displaying the helplessness of their position.

Marshal Pilsudski's remarks at the meeting yesterday of the various party leaders, have thrown such consternation into most of the leaders that they declare themselves puzzled as to what to do. According to stenographic reports of the speech, the marshal told the opposition that hitherto they had merely seen him angry but there was no telling what he would do if they exasperated him to fury

SESQUICENTENNIAL OPENS IN PHILADELPHIA TODAY

Halls and Exhibition Palaces Cover 1,000 Acres in South Philadelphia—The Exposition Will Continue to December 1—It is Estimated That 30,000,000 Persons Will Participate in the Six-Month Celebration Commemorating 150 Years of American Independence.

PHILADELPHIA, May 30—(AP)—Tonight "a miracle city" of halls and exhibition palaces, covering 1,000 acres in South Philadelphia awaited the ceremony tomorrow which will open the sesqui-centennial international exposition, commemorating 150 years of American independence. The exposition will continue to December 1.

Dedication of the Pennsylvania state building yesterday in the presence of a brilliant assemblage of officials and guests marked the first ceremony in the progress of events leading to the official opening of the exhibits to the public. The state building was erected as a tribute to the ideals and traditions of William Penn.

It is estimatd 30,000,000 persons will participate in the six-month celebration. They will visit shrines of American liberty, hear noted personages, native and foreign, see famous athletes in action, participate in parades and witness pageants and exhibits.

The official program will get under way shortly before noon tomorrow. Speakers, including Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover, will deliver addresses at the municipal stadium while overhead 50 planes cavort and perform stunts.

Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover arrived tonight. They were met at the railroad station by Mayor Kendrick and his cabinet and by Major General Douglas MacArthur, commander of the Third Army corps area, under whose supervision the war department's activities and the sesqui-centennial will be conducted.

A parade, swelled by thousands of nobles of the Ancient Arabic order, nobles of the Mystic Shrine, here for the 52nd imperial council session of that organization, will precede the opening ceremony tomorrow.

As the head of the parade, led by the two cabinet members, enters the grounds of the exposition, a 21-gun salute will boom forth in their honor. Massed bands will play "America" and after Bishop Thomas J. Garland, of the Episcopal church, delivers the invocation, there will be a moment of silence in ceremony of the heroic dead, while an air squadron drops flowers over the grounds.

Sunday found work going a pace like any other day. Thousands of men toiled in the hot sun within the one thousand acres embracing the exposition area. Great steam shovels were still at work in some sections of the grounds, while steam rollers, tractors, hundreds of motor trucks and horse drawn vehicles were going about in the task of hurrying the work of completion.

Not one of the great exhibition halls, five in number, are 100 per cent completed, our of them are structurally finished but few exhibits have yet been placed.

In the great auditorium, no chairs have yet been placed, the floor space in its bare expanse appearing to be as large as a major league baseball field. At one end an organ, advertised as the "largest concert organ in the world" and said to have cost $750,000 was being tested.

The municipal stadium, which adjoins the navy yard at the southern end of the sesqui grounds, is complete except for the lanscape work on the outside. Within this great structure, seating approximately 80,000 persons, will be held most of the ceremonies and pageants in connection with the exposition. It is here where Mayor Kendrick will formally open the exposition and invite the world to attend.

Admission to the exposition will be 50 cents for adults and 25 cents for children.

An object of much interest today was the great liberty bell erected about a block from the main entrance to the grounds. It is as high as a four story building and studded with 26,000 electric bulbs. It is to be one of the lighting features of the exposition.

One of the greatest single exhibits will be that of the women's board of the sesqui-centennial, consisting of a reproduction of High street, Philadelphia in 1776. This street, now known as Market street, is one of Philadelphia's busiest thoroughfares.

The exhibit will consist of more than a dozen buildings including reproductions of the house where George Washington lived while in Philadelphia; houses occupied by Robert Morris, Benjamin Franklin and William Penn; the house in which Thomas Jefferson drafted the declaration of independence, the old school house, the market place, the town hall, an eighteenth century blacksmith shop, the counting house and other buildings of like interest.

FIRST STONE SET FOR THE HARDING MEMORIAL

MARION, Ohio, May 30.—(AP)— The first stone of the Harding memorial which will be a huge sarcophagus of white marble, was set in place here today by Vice President Dawes. The memorial, to be erected at a cost of $800,000, will be completed in 18 months.

Twin slabs of black marble inside the tomb, which will take the form of a circle, surrounded by 48 white marble columns, 50 feet in height will mark the last resting places of Warren G. Harding, 29th president of the United States, and of his wife, Florence Kling Harding.

Cost of the structure came in contributions from over the country. It will be the first national attempt to preserve the memory of President Harding and was conceived by members of his official family on the train which bore his body across the country.

Dr. George T. Harding, Sr., 84 year old father of the former president, sat in a place of honor on the platform.

Harding was extolled as a president, who taking over the government at a time of the most crucial periods in history, solved perplexing problems of state craft in a manner in which there are few parallels in history.

Treaties which resulted from the Washington arms conference will "forever keep alive the memory of President Harding," declared Mr. Dawes.

Records and souvenirs placed in the cornerstone included the famous printer's rule which the president carried, copies of speeches made on his Alaskan trip; Harding's Masonic lambskin apron and other records of his Masonic career and copies of the declaration of independence and the United States constitution.

BELIEVES THAT PEACE IS COMING TO SYRIA

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 30.—(By The A. P.)—Henry De Jouvenel, French high commissioner to Syria, believes that peace is coming to Syria, immediately and unfallingly, just as it has come to the Riff, and he hopes with very little additional bloodshed.

He made this known to The Associated Press correspondent in the course of an interview obtained last evening under unusual circumstances, the talk being carried out entirely by wireless.

RESULT OF SENATORIAL ELECTIONS IN RUMANIA

BUCHAREST, Rumania, May 30.—(AP)—Unofficial tabulations of Friday's senatorial elections give the government 125 out of 175 seats in the new senate. The remainder are about equally distributed between the nationalist-peasant bloc and the liberals, while the anti-Semetic party will have about five seats in the senate as well as in the chamber. The communists and socialists failed to elect any of their candidates and will not be represented in either house.

CONDITION OF EVANGELINE BOOTH MATERIALLY BETTER

NEW YORK, May 30.—(AP)—Commander Evangeline Booth of the Salvation Army who has been ill for some time was reported as materially better today.

"Commander Booth spent a much better night last night," a statement from Salvation Army headquarters read. "She seemed quite rested today and was able to take a little nourishment. The doctors are hopeful that she will not be subjected to any further attacks."

PRESIDENT IS TO DELIVER MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS

WASHINGTON, May 30.—(AP)— Observance of Memorial day by the national capital tomorrow will center about Arlington National cemetery, where, in the early afternoon, President Coolidge will deliver the principal address at exercises conducted by the Grand Army of the Republic.

Earlier in the day, there will be a procession of Grand Army veterans and others who will place a wreath on the tomb of the unknown soldier at Arlington and decorated the graves of the war dead.

Speakers at the exercises, in addition to the president, will include Senator Willis, of Ohio, and Dr. Charles V. Petteys, commander of the department of the Potomac of the Grand Army of the Republic. The marine band will furnish music, and the program will be broadcast by radio.

All government departments will be closed during the day and congress will stand in recess, while a number of services will be conducted at cemeteries in and about the capital.

The observances were begun here today when the U. S. S. Porpoise left the navy yard and with veterans of the Spanish war aboard conducted a memorial service on the Potomac, going as far as Mount Vernon and casting flowers on the waters. A similar service will be conducted tomorrow from the Sylph, the yacht of the secretary of the navy, which will have on board members of Admiral Robert E. Peary ship, number 427, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

FEAR FOR FISHING YACHT PROVED GROUNDLESS

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., May 30.—(AP)—The open fishing yacht Casanova, which late yesterday was reported lost in the Gulf of Mexico with 24 persons on board, reached Gulfport today with all members of the party safe. The boat was said to have been delayed outside the bar in Bocaceiga bay on account of the excessively low tide.

FASCISTI TO REVISE ALL NEWSPAPERS IN ITALY

ROME, May 30—(AP)—The fascist directorate, under the presidency of Premier Mussolini, has decided to carry out severe revision of all daily and weekly newspapers and publications. This will be done in order to draw up a list of those authorized by the party. Others will be warned that if they print illicit speculation, they will be reported to the police authorities to have their licenses revoked.

BODY FOUND FLOATING IN CONNECTICUT RIVER

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., May 30—(AP)—The body of Walter Large, of Bristol, Conn., a patient at the United States veterans' hospital in Northampton, was found floating in the Connecticut river here this morning. MICHAEL MORIARTY DIED SATURDAY IN PROVIDENCE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 30—Michael Moriarty of 228 Jackson streets, this city, died in his 71st year at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Daniel A. Shea, of Woodmont street, Providence, R. I., Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock. While recuperating from a fall which he sustained at his home some time ago he had been a guest at the home of his daughter and family for the past seven weeks. Shortly before starting on the return trip to his home by automobile one week ago Sunday he suffered a shock and had been confined to his bed since that time. Death came to him peacefully in the presence of his wife.

Michael Moriarty was born in Willimantic, October 4, 1854, the son of Dennis Moriarty and Johanna Shea. Surviving him is his wife, Elizabeth Long Moriarty, three daughters, Mrs. Daniel A. Shea of Providence, and the Misses Mae E. and Eleanor B. Moriarty of this city; two sons, Joseph A., of this city and William M. Moriarty of Woonsocket. He also leaves five grandchildren, Eleanor and Betty Shea of Providence; William F., Robert J. and Mary E. Moriarty of Woonsocket.

Mr. Moriarty had always remained as a resident of this city and there are many lifelong friends who mourn his passing. Industriously applying himself to the apprenticeship of carriage making he soon became widely known as an expert and 46 years ago, when still a young man, he entere dinto the business of carriage making and repairing with Owen Coyne as a partner. The firm was located on Church street and known as Moriarty & Coyne. The concern prospered but adverse circumstances caused the partnership to dissolve some years later. Mr. Moriarty then took up employment with the Metropolitan Life Insurance company remaining thereby as an agent for 12 years when he resigned. When the late Mayor Daniel P. Dunn became comptroller Mr. Moriarty served a term of two years under state employment at the capitol in Hartford. He then accepted a position as foreman of the casting room at the Atwood Machine company plant here remaining there until about five years ago when failing health caused him to retire.

In politics the deceased was a staunch democrat and his devotion to his family and his work had caused him on various occasions in the past to reject the candidacy for town or city political offices. For several years not up to the last city elections when ill health forbade, he had served as ballot tender at the second ward voting booth where old friends went to greet him.

Cairo Torquato, 21, of 421 West street, Randolph, Mass., was arrested on this city Saturday night charged with failure to have an operator's license. The arrest was made by Officer Albert Monty. Torquato furnished a bond and is to be arraigned in police court Tuesday morning.

The cafeteria conducted in the Wood block on Union street by Harry Cotter was visited by a crew of raiding officers Saturday night. Although empty bottles were found there was not a drop of liquor in sight and the officers gave up the search as a fruitless job.

POLICE DIG AND FIND BURIED BOOTLEG STUFF

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 30—About 20 gallons of moonshine and a 50 gallon still with coil were seized in a double haul late Saturday night resulting in the arrests of Philip Gaudreault, 40 and his cousin, Mary Gaudreault 36, both of 40 Card street, this city, on respective charges of keeping liquor with intent to sell, and transportation against the woman. A complicated series of events led to the success of the raid at the home of the accused and of their arrest on the transportation charges. The search for the liquor lasted about three hours during which time much police strategy was exhibited.

The story starts with Federal Prohibition Officers Stanton L. Briggs and Harry W. Avery of this city and Joseph Fitzpatric kof New London, who to the knowledge of Acting Captain Frank McLean of the police department were "laying" for a load of booze on the old road between North Windham and Windham Center. The officers were waiting for a delivery of liquor which they understood was to be made on the road mentioned, but when Philip Gaudreault and another man came along in their car which was under suspicion, the machine contained no liquor. Federal Chief Briggs left Officer Avery in charge of the two men while he searched the woods in the belief that the men had thrown their consignment into the bushes before being stopped by the officers. One of the men following a substantial excuse was allowed out of sight by Officer Avery. All the facts were collected later the man ran back down the road where another automobile operated by Mary Gaudreault was stopped. Two five gallon cans of moonshine were taken from this car and thrown side of the road. The man then returned to the decoy car and when the second machine pulled up it too was empty. Notwithstanding the parties were ordered to police headquarters where the federal officers joined another party composed of Acting Captain McLean, Patrolmen Arthur Hurley and Roderick Lariviere and County Detective William E. Jackson. The combined forces went to the Gaudreault home at 40 Card street and, after a diligent search in which shovels were used Officer Hurley came upon the find. Beneath the soil in the cellar were hidden one five-gallon jug, two two-gallon jugs and one one-gallon jug of white mule. Detective Jackson and others discovered a copper coil of 50 gallon capacity and coil in the shed. The raid was staged about 10:30 o'clock. Upon returning to police headquarters Philip Gaudreault was arrested on a charge of keeping liquor with intent to sell. After considerable questioning members of the gang-running group gave out information and about two o'clock Sunday morning the officers were led to the lot where the two five-gallon cans of booze had been hidden in the underbrush. An additional charge of transportation was placed against the man and the girl was arrested on a similar count. Both furnished bonds of $500 to appear in police court this Monday morning.

A special meeting of the town school committee was held Friday evening at the high school office at which time resolutions and appropriate action was taken on the death of the chairman of the committee, William J. Sweeney. Dr. Frank E. Guild and George W. Hickey were appointed a committee to draft suitable resolutions on the death of Mr Sweeney. The resolutions, upon being adopted, were signed by Dr. Frank E. Guild, George W. Hickey, Dr. William P. E. Keating, H. Clinton Bishop, Christopher C. Case, Robert O. Shaw, John Baily, Joseph F Gaudreau and Secretary Egbert A. Case. The committee voted to attend the services and to send a floral tribute.

Frederick Roberge of Hamond, R. I., was before the Hampton town court today afternoon, charged with operating a motor vehicles while under the influence of liquor, to which he pleaded guilty. Justice of the Peace Chester B. Jewett imposed the minimum fine of $100 and costs, remitting $75 of the fine. Roberge was unable to pay even the reduced amount, which came to $29.19 and friends who were with him did not have enough money to help him out. He was taken to the county jail at Brooklyn to work out his assessment.

Members and guests of Anne Wood Elderkin chapter, D. A. R., made a pilgrimage to the Willington Hill cemetery Friday afternoon to unveil a beautiful bronze marker on a marble stone, over the grave of a real daughter, Mrs. Minerva Snow, who was a former member of the local chapter.

The exercises opened with the chapter giving the salute to the flag. Mrs. Ida M. Brown, chaplain, offered prayer. Little Miss Sally McBee then lifted the velvet cover and displayed the bronze marker that did honor to a real daughter, who died March 26, 1904, at the age of 94.

The regent, Mrs. Herbert B. Chappell, then read an article taken from Chapter Sketches, Connecticut D. A. R., Patriotic Daughters, 1904, and compiled and written by Mrs. Fannie Vail Snow.

Mrs. Frank Larrabee, chairman of the program committee, closed the exercises. Among those present was Mrs. Hugh LaMaster, who is a member of the Deborah Avery chapter, D. A. R. of Lincoln, Neb.

William H. Peckham died at his home, No. 186 Pleasant street Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock, following an extended illness. Mr. Peckham was born in Fall River, Mass., April 22, 1851, and was one of a large family of children. He was the son of Perry M. and Abby Clark Peckham. His parents moved to Lebanon when he was a child. The greater part of his life was spent in that town where he had many friends. In 1911 he came to this city and entered the employ of the American Thread company, holding the position of section foreman until his retirement about three years ago, due to ill health. He was a valued member of the First Baptist church of this city, serving as deacon for several years. He leaves a wife, an adopted son, Charles A. Robinson; a brother, Albert S. Peckham of Chestnut Hill; and a sister, Mrs. William B. Avery of Vernon. He is also survived by several nieces and nephews.

Owing to the fact that arrangements had not been made by the Garibaldi society to participate in the Memorial day parade, this organization will not be represented in the line of march as previously stated in publishing the marshaly's orders.

Joseph H. Saba of New London, a former resident of this city, was before the local police court Saturday morning on two charges of violation of the liquor law; having in his possession liquor with intent to sell and transportation without a government permit. To both Saba pleaded guilty without hesitation. Judge Frank H. Foss imposed fines of $300 and costs on each charge, together with a 30-day jail sentence. The total assessment came to $417.15. The penalty was the heaviest in the history of the local police court for violation of the liquor law.

A large delegation of local people motored to Hartford Saturday morning to witness the ordination ceremonies to the priesthood of several candidates.

Miss Elizabeth Rafferty of Putnam who recently returned from California where she acted as bridesmaid for Miss Elizabeth Wheeler, is a guest at the home of Mrs. Annie Vanderman of No. 3 Turner street.

Richard J. Holmes of South Windham, who has been seriously ill following an operation, is somewhat improved in health and able to return to his duties in Greenwich.

Miss Mildred Zuckerberg of New York city, who arrived in this city Friday afternoon to spend several days at the home of her uncle, Joseph Horn of No. 583 Jackson street, was accompanied by a friend, Miss Beulah Arender, also of New York.

Frank M. Lincoln and Nelson A. Daniels motored to Atlantic City, N. J., Friday for a week's stay to attend the ceremonies of Crescent temple in that city and the national Shriners' convention, held at Atlantic City and Philadelphia, Pa.

Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher and Attorney Arthur T. Kelley of this city with Dr. George P. Cheney and a friend of New London left Saturday evening for Upper Dam, Me., on a week's outing. The trip is being made by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur L. Clark are making a short visit with his brother, Ernest F. Clark in New Haven.

Jack Hill of New York city was a guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace G. Hill of "The Elms" for over the week end.

Miss Lou M. Buck returned to her home, No. 189 North street yesterday after a visit of two weeks with her niece in Springfield and Palmer, Mass.

Miss Florence Grant of New York city is spending a short vacation at the home of her father, William D. Grant of No. 291 Prospect street.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Giard of Worcester, Mass., were week end guests of their daughter, Mrs. Armand Perreault of No. 63 Milk street.

Henry Robinson of South Manchester was the guest of relatives on West Main street for over the week end.

DANIELSON

SIX AUTOS FIGURE IN SERIOUS ACCIDENTS

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 30.—Six machines figured in an unusual and related series of accidents on the Brooklyn-Hampton state highway near Stetson's four corners Saturday afternoon without anyone in any of the cars sustaining more than trivial injury.

Oliver A. Downs, of Prospect street, Danielson, sustained a gash in his right leg that required four stitches to close, and that was the most severe of any of the injuries.

When the series of untoward happenings were over six cars were turned over or damaged and the area looked as though a battle of machines had been fought out with more or less disastrous results for all of them.

Telling of the affair Sunday afternoon, Mr. Downs said it had been raining just enough so that tire tracks would show on the oiled and then slippery surface of the highway. Mr. Downs was coming east toward Brooklyn and down a considerable grade driving a truck on which he had 12 cases of eggs. A machine coming toward him skidded—and then things began to happen. A car struck the Downs truck tore a wheel off, there was a skid and over went the truck. Strange as it may seem, no more than a dozen eggs out of the 12 cases were broken when the machine flopped over, with Mr. Downs in the driver's seat. In the meantime two other cars had struck the Downs truck. Within little more time than it takes to tell about it, the six cars that figured in the jam were piled up.

Fred E. Hall of North Easton, driving a Dodge sedan and bound east, felt his car skidding as he applied the brakes and the next instant learned how it feels to be in a car when it turns over. He sustained no more than superficial injuries.

Hjalmar Swenberg of West Hartford, also east-bound, tried to avoid the jam, applied his brakes and his car skidded and shot up the embankment at the side of the highway, another victim of a strange affair. He was not hurt.

Cars driven by Carl H. Benson of Hartford, John W. Johnhson of Pawtucket and William J. Eobe of Southington all turned over after skidding under frantic efforts of their drivers to avoid getting caught in the tangle that eventually involved them. None of these drivers were hurt in any considerable degree.

Fortunate as were the drivers, the cars did not fare so well, and there will be considerable work to be done on them by garage men once they get to doing such things at the end of the holiday season. State Officer Edward V. Streames checked up the affair.

A brilliant red light hung in the center of the intersection of Broad and Reynolds streets now warns night traffic of this dangerous crossover. The light was put in position Saturday and was in use for the first time that evening. Its warning rays can be seen for good distances up and down both streets and it should be a great aid in preventing motor car wrecks at this point.

The new light replaces a street surface device that was put in last year but remained after it was found unsatisfactory. This light was especially made by one of the greatest electrical concerns in the country after William Singster of the Danielson and Plainfield Gas and Electric company had specified in detail the service to which it was to be put. The light is suspended sufficiently high above the street surface to give clearance to high motor trucks or for such vehicles carrying highly built up loads.

Mr. and Mrs. Patrick F. Murray, Michael Cronin, Mrs. Martin Wolf, Misses Emma and Margaret McBride and Leslie B. Murray are at Mt. St. Vincent's college on the Hudson to attend the graduation of Miss Helen Cronin.

Commencement exercises were inaugurated Saturday with the class day programme. On Sunday evening the baccalaurate servic. was held and the class dramatic exercises is scheduled for today. The graduation exercises will be Tuesday with Patrick Cardinal Hayes presenting the diplomas, and the class reception, final event in the series, is to be held Tuesday evening at the Commodore hotel.

Miss Cronin, a graduate of Killingly High school in the class of 1922, has made an impressive record of scholarship at Mt. St. Vincent's, standing second in a class of 79. She has specialized in Latin and Greek in preparation for teaching. Miss Cronin, daughter of Michael Cronin of Academy street, will remain in New York all of this week taking a special series of examinations to qualify her for appointment to a teaching position in that city or elsewhere in the state. Miss Cronin has not yet reached her 20th birthday.

Several hundred people representative of all sections of the town of Killingly and of various other towns and cities gathered at South Killingly Sunday afternoon for the annual Memorial exercises. An ideal day and a beautiful countryside, fresh in its dress of spring, added inspiration to all of the impressive exercises. Rev. Harding W. Gaylord was in charge of the exercises in the Congregational church oldest standing in the town of Killingly. Following these exercises, a procession proceeded to the nearby cemeteries and decorated the graves of those honored by their grateful fellowmen. In the evening a union Memorial service was held in the Methodist church here with delegations from patriotic societies in attendance. This service was in charge of the pastor, Rev. Roger C. Stimson. This morning services are being held at East Killingly and Brooklyn, with Danielson's observance of the day scheduled to begin at 1.30 at the Orpheum theatre.

Saturday morning the funeral of Mrs. Helen Racine was held from her home on Mechanic street with services at St. James' church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joseph Deschaux, M. S., was celebrant of the high mass of requiem. At Dayville burial was in St. Joseph's cemetery. Wilfred Moreau, Leopoul Moreau, Rosario Bernier and Ernest Binet were the bearers. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the arrangements.

AUTO TRAFFIC REPORTED HEAVIEST FOR THE YEAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 30.—No such mass of traffic as rolled over the trunk line highways through Danielson Saturday and Sunday has been seen in this area this year. There was a procession of cars going in opposite directions all day Saturday and Sunday and night found many cars moving. One might see cars from a score of different states by watching the registration plates, with dozens of New York and New Jersey machines and Rhode Island and Massachusetts cars by the hundred in the great throng. That many of the motorists were on missions of remembrance of loved ones was indicated by boxes of flowers being carried on the cars.

Considering the density of the traffic the list of accidents was not heavy

PUTNAM

GEORGE A. HAMMOND DIED AT HOME IN PUTNAM

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 30—George A. Hammond, 85, Civil war veteran, former state senator, well known silk manufacturer, and one of the most prominent residents of Putnam died at his home Friday night, following a long illness. Mr. Hammond has been retired for a number of years, and several months ago fell and fractured his hip, since when he has practically been confined to his bed.

He was born in Hampton, May 26, 1841, of New England stock from early Colonial days. He attended school in Hampton and at Williston academy, and followed teaching until September 6, 1862, when he enlisted as a private in Company G, 26th Connecticut Volunteer Infantry, and served until August 17, 1863.

After working several years in a mill, he came to Putnam, and in 1875 in company with other partners, established the Hammond Knowlton company, silk manufacturers, a partnership which has since become a corporation, and is now an important branch of the Belding-Hemingway company.

Mr. Hammond represented the town of Mansfield in the genera assembly in 1876. In 1885 he was representative from Putnam, was delegate to the republican national convention in 1896, 1900, 1904, 1908 and 1912. In 1905 he was again elected represent ive, and in 1911 was elected to the state senate and served as chairman of the committees on finance and education he served on the local school committee for 30 years.

Fraternally he was a Mason, including the Shrine and Knight Templar degrees, a member of the Odd Fellows, Elks and other fraternal organizations and was a member of the local G. A. R. until the local post disbanded. On October 12, 1862 he was married to Miss Jane Crandall of Canterbury A son, Charles Henry Hammond died in 1883 at the age of 20 years, and a daughter, Bertha Elizabeth Hammond McPhatter died a number of years ago. Mrs. Hammond died several years ago.

DEATH SATURDAY NIGHT OF CLARENCE E. HEATH

(Special to the Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 30—Clarence E. Heath, life long resident of Putnam died suddenly at his home on Walnut street, at 11 o'clock Saturday night. He had been a sufferer from heart trouble for several years and two weeks ago he suffered a violent attack. Apparently he was improving and was up and walking around yesterday.

His two sons, Frank Heath of Bridgeport and Leslie Heath of Wethersfield with their wives and children were with her to spend the week end and holiday. Mr. Heath retired to his room shortly after ten o'clock and going up a few minutes later, Mrs. Heath found him seriously ill and death ensued within an hour.

Mr. Heath was born in Putnam August 7, 1861, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Heath. After being graduated from the Putnam high school, he entered the employ of the Putnam Foundry and Machine company now the Putnam company and remained there until he retired six years ago while holding the position of superintendent.

His wife was Emily Babbitt, also of Putnam. She survives him and three sons, the third being Russell Heath who is in the United States government service at Balboa, Panama. He was a member of Quinebaug lodge, A. F. & A. M.

Owing to the tardiness of the season, the outdoor meeting of the Missionary society of the Second Congregational church will be postponed until the fall. The meeting, of Tuesday, June 1, will be held at the church parlors and the hostesses will be Miss Mary Wheaton and girls from the church school.

On Tuesday evening at 7.30 there will be an important meeting at the Methodist Episcopal church, of interested in the Vacation church school project to hear the report of the special committee appointed to study the up to Sunday afternoon, excluding the unusual affair in which six machines figured at Stetson's four corners on the Brooklyn-Hampton road Saturday afternoon, as told elsewhere in the column. State officers maintained a steady patrol of all the trunk lines in this territory and were a great factor in controlling traffic within the limitations set by law. Reckless operation was not tolerated if observed. The same careful check on the movement of cars through Danielson center was maintained by Chief John McFarland and his officers of the borough force. It was a great contribution to keeping inconsiderate drivers within bounds.

The feast of Corpus Christi, falling on Thursday of this week, will be observed next Sunday at St. James' church.

Carroll Allen of New Haven and Miss Kathleen Burns of Hartford were visitors with relatives here on Sunday.

The post office will be closed today (Monday) from 10 a. m. for the day, though the lobby will remain open. Carrier service will be suspended.

Motor coaches operating on the Providence-Hartford lines carried heavy lists of passengers Saturday and Sunday.

Miss Elizabeth Reece of Hartford is spending the holiday with Miss Margaret Sullivan of Academy street.

Next Friday, Saturday and Sunday a triduum will be held at St. James' church with hundreds of the parishioners participating in the services arranged.

Added to the usual display of flags in Danielson on Memorial day will be the sidewalk flags used here last fall, since which arrangements have been made to supply additional ones to be used for the first time today.

Mr. and Mrs. John Reece of Norwich are spending the holiday with relatives in Danielson, where they were formerly residents.

Veterans of the G. A. R. will ride in motor cars in today's procession. Of advanced years, few of them could attempt the line of march without undue and unnecessary effort.

Baseball, dancing and theatrical entertainments will be among the diversions available today in all the surrounding territory.

A mass for members of St. James' parish buried in St. James' and Holy Cross cemeteries will be said at St. James' church this morning at 7 o'clock.

Those who ventured off the state highways with machines at the week end found the country roads ankle deep with dust and unpleasant for travel.

Charles Schofield of Boston is spending the holiday season with relatives in Danielson.

Miss Elizabeth Riley of Hartford, is spending Memorial day with relatives in Danielson.

WESTERLY

FRACTURED SKULL FATAL TO THREE YEAR OLD BOY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 30—Late Saturday afternoon Edward J. Shulda, 3-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Shulda, of 34 School street, Westerly was struck by the auto trick driven by Edwin Barber, Jr., of 32 Chester avenue, and died 15 minutes late at the Westerly hospital.

Mr. Barber accompanied by Gordon Fiddes was proceeding up Elm street about 5:45 o'clock to do some shopping. The intersection of School street had been passed when Mr. Barber states that the small boy dashed out of the driveway at the home of Frank Sullivad, next to the Elm street grammar school and not more than six feet ahead of him. Having struck the child after brakes were applied the truck slid a distance of about 30 feet. Mr. Barber picked up the injured boy and rushed him to the office of Dr. John W. Heitrich 17 Elm street, but a short distance away. But temporary treatment was given the injured boy, when he was rushed to the Westerly hospital, where death followed.

Westerly Police Patrolman LeRoy H. Norman arrived on the scene shortly after the accident to make an investigation. Westerly medical examiner Dr Michael H. Scanlon found that death was due to a depressed fracture of the skull over the right eye. A broken right arm was also sustained. Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown and Town Solicitor and Coroner John Ferguson is conducting their investigation decided to hold Barber. A warrant for manslaughter was made out and Mr Barber entered a plea of not guilty at an arraignment in a special session of Third district court on Saturday night. He was released in bonds of $5,000 surety, with Mrs. Louis A. Craig as bondsman, for his appearance in the regular session of Third district court next Friday morning.

George J Shulda father of Edward J Shulda is employed as a textile worker in the plant of the George C. Moore company on Beach street.

JEWETT CITY

HONOR HERO DEAD WITH MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 30—Memorial day service was held in Finn opera house on Sunday afternoon. Seated on the platform were the clergy, a visiting Civil war veteran, members of patriotic orders, borough and town officials, and Mrs. La Fiamma, mother of the young man for whom the American Legion post is named Prentice W. Chase, commander of the post, presided. The program opened with singing America. The music was led by singers from the four church choirs with James Olsen at the piano. Rev. E. E. Beatee, pastor of the Baptist church, read the scripture from John 10. After singing America the Beautiful, Rev. A. G. Clement offered prayer. Misses Verna Tarbox and Emma Dearnley sang as a duet in the Sweetest by J. B. Herbert. The address of the afternoon was by Rev. John Landry, who was a chaplain in the World war, and a past state chaplain. He said that nations have honored their dead because they believe in immortality. All nations have had memorials, but our nation has chosen a gentle way. The idea originated with a few women in Columbus, Miss., who in 1867 went out in the spring and decorated the graves of Southern and Northern soldiers making no discrimination. This began the healing wounds of the terrible strife. It was later adopted by all parts of the country, thus cementing a better feeling between the north and south The great lesson to be learned is to live up to the ideals of the men who have fought for their country. There should be freedom of speech and worship, respect for law, the home and family. He advised the young men to go to a citizens camp, where they are no ttaught to want to shed blood, but good citizenship, care of the health and preparedness. We should renew in our hearts the pledge of allegiance to our flag and country. The service closed with singing the Star Spangled Banner and the benediction by Rev. G. Keene Gray, pastor of the Congregational church. The American flag formed the background of the stage. The front of the stage was bordered with bunting which decorated two tables at the ends. Purple and white lilacs were upon the tables. A center bunting draped table held a vase of tulips, and beautiful horse chestnut blossoms were the border centerpiece.

Mrs. Marcia Olds of Ware, Mass., called at E. F Burleson's Sunday.

Mrs. Timothy Driscoll has received word of the death of Jennie Hewitt-son's husband, Howard Heltman, in Lockport, N. Y. The Hewittson family lived in Jewett City for a number of years.

The procession to visit the cemeteries leaves the town hall at 2 o'clock this morning. Rev. J. W. Carter, a World war chaplain, is to speak at the park after the decorations are finished. Dinner is to be served in the Baptist vestry.

Elizabeth M. Chase, R. N., corporation nurse at Ashland Cotton Co. and Margery Leyden, R. N., corporation nurse at Aspinock Bleachery, attending the convention of the American Association of Industrial Nurses held in Hartford Friday and Saturday.

Arthur Bellevance and Eva Bothen were married May 29th by Justice of the Peace Prentice W. Chase. Both Young people are well known in town.

Miss Vera McBrayne is at home from New Britain and is much improved in health.

Jacob Reid of Springfield, a former florist at the Jewett City greenhouses spent Sunday in town.

Albert Brewster of New York, who is connected with the Economic Bureau is at the home of his mother.

A Ford coupe owned by Walter E. Cross of Groton and driven by John H. Northrup of Quaker Hill and a Maxwell owned by Omer Courneyer of New Bedford and driven by his son, were in collision at the Bend in Sylvandale at 12:30 Sunday afternoon. Deputy Sheriff Dolan was summoned and said according to the evidence neither gave the right of way, and if one was arrested, both should be. The Ford car people were satisfied, but the Nash owner was not. Officer Dolan then summoned the state police. Officer Arthur Williams from Danielson barracks was sent to the scene, and investigated the situation. He gave the same decision as Officer Dolan. After fixing up their machines, both auto parties went on their way.

A letter received from J. Edward Wyatt gives the following information which is of much interest to Jewett City friends: Joseph S. Bottomley died at the Jackson Memorial hospital at Miami on Friday, May 21st at 11:30 a. m. Mr. Bottomley succumbed to an attack of typhoid fever. He was born at Taunton, Mass., July 11th, 1891 and moved to Jewett City in March 1894 where he made his residence until he left for Florida in 1923 about October 16th He was married to Vesta L. Kendall of Lisbon, Oct. 14th, 1916. He is survived by his widow and two children James aged 5 and Alvin 9 months and also his parents who reside in Hallalah, Fla. and one brother, Henry who resides in Key West, Fla. The funeral was held at the Hialeah Community church at 2:00 p. m. Monday May 24th, interment being at the Woodlawn Park cemetery, Miami, Fla. His many friends in Jewett City and vicinity who knew him as "Joe" will be pleased to know that he was known as "Joe" in Hialiah and had the high regard of the entire community. The floral pieces at the funeral were many and beautiful and gave evidence of his having made many friends here. "Joe" was regarded as one of the pioneers of Hialeah as he came here when this place was young and helped make it grow. He was part owner of the 12th Street Garage one of the best garages and repair shops in Hialeah.

DUWELL FIVE-MILE ROAD RACE TO BE RUN THIS AFTERNOON

At 2 p. m. D. S. T. this afternoon 41 runners, representing the different cities in Connecticut, Rhode Island and New York will start from the Duwell field on the first annual Duwell 5 mile road race. For nearly two months the people of the different cities in the state have looked forward to Memorial day, May 31st and no doubt they will be well rewarded this afternoon with what should prove to be the most interesting athletic event ever held in the city of Norwich.

Whether it will be the great Whitey Michelson or some unknown youth who will break through the finish line is a question but who ever it is no doubt will furnish a thrill, worth waiting a few months for. Not only will the winner be watched with interest but practically all of the boys as there are 30 prizes in all, 12 open to all and seven to the boys from eastern Conn. This large collection of prizes being donated in the following order: 1st City of Norwich, 2nd Duwell A. A., 3rd Elks, 4th John Ferguson, 5th Odd Fellows, 6th Polish Citizens club, 7th Lions club, 8th, 9th and 10th donated by Duwell A. A., also gold mounts for 11th, 12th, and 13th places. The Eastern Conn. prizes are 1st Alling Rubber, 2nd American Legion, 3rd and 4th Commercial Travelers with silver mounts for 5th, 6th and 7th positions. These prizes make as nice an assortment as has ever been offered for an event of this kind and has been made possible by the kind assistance of the named organizations and individuals.

In addition to the 15 mile champion of the country Whitey Michelson and Bill Kennedy winner of the 1917 Boston marathon the following men will wear the following numbers: 1 Kennedy, 2 Michelson, 3 Ben Russell, 4 Laurence Michelson, 5 Clarence Mead, 6 Rocco Verderosa, 7 Ben Zerin, 8 George O'Conner, 9 Wilber Fishes, 10 Ed. Sandberg, 11 John Rossi, all of the Urgnet A. C. of Potchester, 12 Paul Mulligan, 13 Clifford Mell, 14 John Jacoby of Storrs, 15 Jack Harding of Hartford, running under British colors, 16 Hugh DeHoff of New Haven, 17 Carl Kindy of Middletown, 18 Albert Prodell, 19 Archie Brock, 20, Oscar Mosesian of Norwich, 21 Horatio Stanton, 22, Angelo Murano, 23 Frank Bradford, of Westerly, 24 Alex Malewski, running for the St. Joseph's club, residing in New London, 25 Maurice Seneco, 26 Dan Healy, 27 James Connelly, 28 Frank Brady of the Y. M. C. A. of New Britain, 29, Frank Abbrosa of Delta club, Westerly, 30 John Parker of Norwich, 31 Allen Colburn, 32 Fred St. Onge of Putnam, 33 Williams Mogga, 34 Irvine Merrill of Stonington, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39 Milstone entrants from New York city, 40 Vibber of New London and 41 Arthur Ward of New London.

These entrants represent the cities of New York, New Haven, Hartford, New Britain, Portchester, Middletown, Westerly, New London, Putnam, Stonington, Norwich and Storrs and preparations have been made to handle the hundreds of people who is expected will swarm to Norwich today.

The following men will act as officials: Hon. Referee Mayor Waters, Referee Thomas Tracy of New Haven, secretary of A. A. U., Judges John Sweeney, John Wilson, John Donovan, Earl Mathewson, Earl Brigham and Frank Hergstrom physical director of New Britain Y. M. C. A., Timers Myles Standish, Clifford Oat, Emmett Fritz, Alex Chemetski and Sydney Shabecoff, announcer, John Riley and clerks, Walter Clark, Lawrence Miles, Robert Woodmansee and Archie Spalding.

Inspectors will be stationed at every corner and at the first, second, third, fourth and four and a half mile marks, the runners to be checked as they pass these points. The course will start at the Duwell field, run down Main to Franklin square, up Franklin and McKinley, through Rockwell and Crescent onto Washington, up Washington to Hospital corner, through Lafayette and Sachem streets onto Washington, down Washington through Washington square, through Water and Shetucket to Shannon Corner over to finish line in front of Duwell club on East Main street.

Following the race Swann's Military band will proceed to the Duwell field and give a concert to be followed by a baseball game between the Norwich Free Academy contenders for state championship and North high of Worcester.

The fact that the N. F. A. are playing their game at the Duwell field is another big attraction in addition to the race and band concert as they have one of the best teams that has represented the Academy in years winning 13 games and losing three. While the local boys have a good team they will find stiff opposition in the Worcester team who last year were high school champs of Worcester and are considered for this title again this year. Lloyd Jarvis will be on the mound with Goldblatt behind the plate for the local boys. Between innings Swains band will furnish music and before the seventh inning Mayor Milo Waters will award the prizes to the winners of the race.

Following the baseball game a banquet will be held at the Duwell club for the runners to be folowed by five boxing bouts and music by the Duwell orchestra together with a couple acts of vaudeville, featuring Thomas Murano considered one of the best Charleston dancers in the state.

At eight-thirty following the banquet Main street from the Silk mill to Hamilton avenue will be closed and block dancing will be enjoyed to midnight, the Duwell orchestra to furnish the music. Over five hundred lights have been strung up in the mentioned territory and no doubt when turned on tonight will make a pretty scene. The program to be held today calls for plenty of entertainment from 2 to 12 so that the residents of Norwich and those visiting Norwich will be kept busy throughout the day.

Police protection will be furnished throughout the day and everyone is asked to assist in making their work light by parking on side streets as much as possible. The following places will make good parking places on the East Side being near the finish line and also the baseball field. Penobscot street, Talman street, Fowler avenue, Hamilton avenue, Stanton avenue, lot in front of Duwell field and also the Battleground which alone will accommodate hundreds of autos.

Through the kindness of the local Y. M. C. A. their home will be used throughout the day as headquarters for the race, their home having every accommodation for the comfort of the runners. All entries are requested to report there.

TAFTVILLE WINS BOTH WEEK END GAMES FROM PUTNAM

The Taftville A. A. won both its week end games from Putnam Silk Sox defeating them 8 to 6 Saturday afternoon at the Providence street grounds in Taftville and again on Sunday at Putnam, 5 to 2. Lefty Dugas pitched the Saturday game and only once in the fifth inning did he show any sign of weakening. Leo Jarvis pitched Sunday's game and was never in danger. The scores:

EASTERN MARKS AT I. C. A. A. A. MEET TOP THOSE OF THE WESTERN MEETS

NEW YORK, May 30—(AP)—Far western brawn, represented by the University of Southern California's athletes, has carried off the classic intercollegiate A. A. A. A. title for the fifth time in six years but eastern speed still dominates the college cinder paths. This is disclosed by a comparison of the performances made yesterday in the fiftieth I. C. A. A. A. championships at Cambridge, Mass., with the feats of western conference stars in the "big ten" meet at Iowa City.

Analysis of these two blue ribbon meets, bringing into competition the pick of talent from three sections, shows that eastern performers excelled in eight of the fifteen events on which the comparison is based, including all six of the running races from 100 yards to two miles. Far westerners set in the pace in five tests and middle westerns in two.

Record-breaking honors also were monopolized by the eastern meet, in which six championship marks fell and one was equalled, as compared with three record feats at Iowa city. The east did not gather so much glory there, however, for four of the new marks set at Cambridge were made by invaders from the far west.

Apportioning the honors by colleges, southern California's stars figured in four of the best performances of the day. Harvard accounted for three and Cornell and Syracuse two apiece. Yale, Michigan, Ohio State and Stanford each were credited with one.

Individual laurels in the two meets went to Phil Northrup, Michigan's all-round ace. Henry A. Russell, California's great sprinter, and Clarence L. (Bud) Houser, Southern California captain and weight man. Northrup tallied the most points, 12 1-2, by winning the javelin throw with a record toss tying for first in the pole vault and taking third in the broad jump. Houser won both the shot-put and discus in record fashion while Russell captured both sprints, equalling the 100-yard record and breaking the 200-yard mark.

Russell's performances stood out as the most sensational of any in a meet which was unparalleled for all-around brilliance of performance in I. C. A. A. A. history. The lanky Cornell captain's times were the best made in the east all season and rival those of the Nebraska comet, Roland Locke, who has bettered world's records in both dashes this spring. Russell, incidentally, was the first Cornellian to win the 100-yard dash in fifty years of I. C. A. A. A. competition.

Harvard's clean-up in the 880, mile and two-mile runs, with Watters, Haggerty and Tibbetts marked the first time since 1914 that any college has done this in the I. C. A. A. A. A. meet. Cornell swept these events 12 years ago, with Caldwell, Spelden and Hoffmire.

The comparison of performances in the two title meets in which the teams trophies were retained by both Southern California and Michigan follows:

CORBIN RED SOX TAKE CLOSE GAME AT RIVERVIEW

Riverview lost its third game in a row Saturday afternoon at the State hospital diamond when the Corbin Red Sox scored three runs in the seventh inning while Riverview could only get two runs in the last half of the ninth. This is the third game straight that Riverview has dropped by a one-run margin. West pitched good ball until the seventh inning when he weakened and passed two men which were followed by two hits bringing the three counters across the plate.

Buckland seemed to have the Indian sign on the Riverview hitters for he allowed only three scattered hits up to the eighth inning. Riverview start A a rally in the ninth inning that netted two runs but a brilliant catch in centerfield by Smith with the bases full nipped the rally short. The game was a pretty even affair all around, both got seven hits, each pitcher passed five, and each team executed a double play. The score:

PIRATES WIN CLOSE GAME FROM CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, May 30—(AP)—After Cuyler had poled out a home run in the first inning Pittsburgh came back in the third with a single, two triples and a double off Luque for three more runs, and won today's game from Cincinnati, 4 to 3. The Cuban then held the visitors scoreless until the seventh inning. When he was taken out for a pinch hitter, Art Nehf pitched the last two innings and allowed two hits. The score:

NORWICH GOLF TEAM ELIMINATES SHENECOSSETT IN STATE TEAM TOURNEY

The Norwich golf team won an easy victory over the Shenecoasett club team Saturday afternoon by the Nassau score of 13 to 4, thereby eliminating the Shenecossett team in the state team tournament. The Norwich team showed remarkable golf and had no difficulty in winning the match. This entitles Norwich to play Stafford Springs on the 12th of June at the Norwich Golf club and if victorious in this match will play the winner of the Wethersfield-Southington match later in the month.

Dave Morton and Eddie McKay were the high point winners of the match, each taking three points from their opponents. The point scores follow:

ACADEMY PLAYS LOOSE GAME AND CHAPMAN TECH TAKES EASY VICTORY

A state championship and possibly the pennant in the Eastern Conn. Interscholastic league was literally booted away by the Academy team in a comedy of errors at the Academy campus on Saturday afternoon in which Chapman Tech handed the local team the worst drubbing of the year, 12 to 2. There is no alibi for the Academy. They simply played loose baseball in a listless and a careless way. There was no fighting spirit in the team and after the first inning it was apparent that the Academy was a beaten team.

Johnny Greene was not right and his speed and sharp breaks were missing with the result that Chapman Tech hit hard and timely. Balls hit to the infield were fumbled, booted and thrown wild while those hit to the outfield were misjudged and fielded in a dilatory manner. It was about as poor an exhibition of baseball as the Academy has put up in many a year and was a complete reversal of the form shown last week against the Bulkeley team of New London.

From the spectators point of view the Academy was a mighty disappointment for all Norwich has been boosting for the local boys in hopes that they would bring the state title to Norwich. To see the local team play such wretched ball and with no apparent punch was heart-breaking to the supporters of the Academy. Even the cheering sections reflected the disappointment of the crowd for after cheering themselves hoarse in urging the phlegmatic Academy team to do something quieted down when the players failed to respond.

Chapman Tech on the other hand sensing that there was something wrong with the Academy played nice ball and took advantage of every misplay of the local team a fact that made the Academy look even worse. Greene who had pitched so brilliantly against them earlier in the season was no puzzle and they hit him with a vengeance. It may be said in justice to Greene that he had a very bad cut on his pitching hand which may have had something to do with his lack of curves but it does not excuse the others for their ragged play. Greene when relieved by Tombari and shifted to left field played a brilliant fielding game and he with Sadinsky were the only ones that were not credited with technical errors but Sadinsky did not look so good on several fly balls that were hit into his territory.

Gero pitched brilliantly for the Chapman team allowing but four hits which he kept well scattered and only in the third inning did the Academy show any signs of life. In this inning the Academy scored their two runs on two hits and a Chapman Tech error. It looked like a rally for the Academy but its life was cut short. Gero fanned nine of the Academy batters and allowed but one free pass.

Chapman won the game in the first two innings and then on started to pile up an overwhelming lead. Two runs were scored in the 1st inning on hits which were poorly judged and coupled by errors. The same occurred in the 2nd innings but the 3rd inning was more or less a farce and 3 runs scored. Chapman added one run in the fourth and three more in the fifth and a final score in the seventh. Greene got his call from the box in the third inning and Tombari went in to relieve him. Cimikoski was shifted to short and Sadinsky came in from left field to cover the keystone sack, Greene going to left. Sadinsky performed well at the second sack position.

Later in the game, Hamil was sent to right field after Brewer had dropped a fly ball. Hamil made a pretty catch during his stay in the outer garden. Villano relieved Burke at first during the game and played well. As a whole it was a mighty disappointing game and the Academy has no one to blame but themselves. The score:

YANKEES BREAK LOSING STREAK AGAINST ATHLETICS

NEW YORK, May 30—(AP)—The New York Yankees broke their losing streak of three games today by an eight-run rally in the fifth inning which gave them a 9 to 3 verdict over the Athletics. Pennock turned in his eighth straight victory. Quinn retired for the fifth in favor of Baumgartner. Joe Hauser hit a homer in the sixth with none on. Miller banged for the circuit in the eighth. More than 50,000 fans attended the game, the second largest of the season.

MEMORIAL DAY

When we stop to think of the great services that have been rendered by those who have shouldered arms and gone out to fight, bleed and die for their country we are not unmindful of the sacrifices that have been made. Whether it is today, tomorrow or some other day we cannot forget the spirit of patriotism that actuated and accompanied such service or the heroism that was displayed conspicuously and inconspicuously during those long months through which warfare was waged.

On Memorial day special exercises are held for the purpose of paying tribute in a public manner throughout the large part of the country to the boys in blue and the boys in khaki who participated in the nation's struggles. To say that they would otherwise be forgotten is an injustice to a grateful nation, but there is an excellent purpose in keeping green the memories of what a debt is owed to those who went to the front that the nation might be preserved and the rights of the nation upheld, by annual parades, exercises and addresses, and the placing of flowers and markers upon the graves of the departed.

Decided is the contrast between the early years after Memorial day was instituted and the present. Those who were found marching in large number and with upright figure are today few and far between. The ranks have been badly shattered, and yet where the Civil war veterans are few in number there are those veterans of the Spanish war and the World war, besides the Sons of Veterans, upon whom dependence is placed to maintain this annual ceremonial when it becomes necessary.

And yet Memorial day is not solely for the veterans of the various wars. It is a day in which a thankful people should lend its cooperation as far as possible through attendance and assistance.

SHORT SIGHTED

There's many a threat made, especially in politics, which is never carried out. There are those who stand so positively in behalf of what they demand, even though they must know that it cannot succeed, that they not only give comfort to the opposition but accomplish just what they are trying to prevent.

In the state of New York the dry organizations have had a meeting and announced their intention of putting a complete ticket in the field at the coming election. Their purpose is to accomplish the defeat of Senator Wadsworth, republican, who is far from being bone dry, but who is by no means the wettest of the wets. They of course can expect to draw support from dry democrats as well as dry republicans in case they do as planned but their opposition is centered upon defeating Senator Wadsworth even though they accomplish the election of a wet democrat.

What they have in mind seems not to be any different than what was accomplished in Pennsylvania where the persistency of Governor Pinchot, a bone-dry, in his candidacy for the United States senate not only brought about the division of the vote against the candidacy of Congressman Vare who ran as a wet but actually accomplished his choice as party candidate. With the drys of New York aiming at such a result in New York the folly of their course must appeal to others if not to them. Far better would it be for them to concentrate their efforts upon the dry referendum in New York state and get a full expression of the people of the Empire state upon that question for the guidance of the representatives in congress than to work for the ousting of an able and active senator just because he isn't as dry as they are.

There's no denying that they have a right to vent their spite as indicated but it seems to be a short sighted policy.

WOODLAND FIRE STARTERS

As an illustration of how many of the woodland fires are started the Saturday Contributor in the Waterbury American presents the following:

"A flash of fire from the motor car just ahead showed someone had flicked a cigarette out of the window. It was propelled by some force for it flew far into the grass by the side of the road. The following car in which a woman rode alone was far past the spot when she asked the chauffeur to stop. * * She had read about the responsibility of careless smokers for forest fires and had approved of the rebuke administered. She had her car backed up to the spot. As she feared there was a little blaze just kindling in the dry grass. The chauffeur had little more to do than to put his foot upon it to extinguish the blaze. What it might have grown to appeared another day when fire apparently kindled in the same way spread all along the roadside and *. * * when first seen was beyond checking except by a force of strong and experienced fire fighters."

If the truth were known there is little doubt but what many of the woodland fires are started in just this way. The habit of casting firebrands carelessly into the underbrush or to the roadside where tinderlike material makes the finest kindlings for a fire in general, and it is unfortunate that those who indulge in it cannot be brought to account for it instead of scooting away and leaving destruction and work for others to do in their wake. Those who start woodland fires have slight idea of what they are doing solely because they are heedless and give no thought to consequences attending their acts.

KEEPING STREETS CLEAN

Possibly once a year, and spring is the right time for it, city officials display an interest in furthering the clean-up movement. They offer their assistance and in some instances take the initiative in removing rubbish and tidying up and the results are such as to speak for themselves.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the director of public works in New Haven and other city officials have decided "to take action against a practice of merchants on the business thoroughfares of sweeping the refuse from their stores or from in front of their stores into the street at the time of closing."

There isn't anyone who should have greater regard for the appearance of the streets than the storekeeper. Unattractive and littered streets certainly do not invite trade. Possibly they do not prevent that of the neighborhood, but there are many of a discriminating temperament who buy not only in neatly kept stores but at stores where the surroundings are attractive and the storekeepers who sweep their rubbish, dirt, papers and other accumulations into the street are not only making the street unsightly but hurting their business.

The idea of cleaning up the streets is the proper one. But the storekeepers are not the only ones who seem to think the street is the right place for what they have to discard. The pedestrians and those riding in autos are too free in making a garbage can of the gutters. Papers, bags, tin boxes and other rubbish are dropped into the street whenever the need to discard them is felt. That accumulation each day is considerable, not only making the street unsightly but needlessly increasing the expense of cleaning them up.

With a general contribution to the city appearance by the store keepers, which appears to be the case in New Haven, the situation is much worse. A little civic pride should be sufficient to overcome the condition but where that is lacking proper oversight by the city officials should be sufficient to spruce it up a bit.

SWEETSER'S NEW HONOR

Those who expected Bobby Jones to win the British amateur golf championship were many and they were particularly disappointed because he was put out of the running by an unknown. On the other hand there is unexpected elation over the fact that Jesse Sweetser captured the much coveted honor at a time when he had not been picked to do so.

In golf as in many other games there are elements which have their influence. Jones was badly beaten by a young Scotchman, Arthur Jamieson, Jr., who played a perfect game and he in turn was beaten by S. E. Simpson, another Scotchman who lost to Sweetser, meaning that the British golfing honors for amateurs and professionals are held by Americans.

The Sweetser victory is as fine a one as it was unexpected, for while those who enter from this side do so with the idea of winning and not solely for the love of the game there are favorites and this was the year when much was expected of Jones. For Sweetser to turn the trick does not in any way detract from his victory. He played golf, participated in some nerve wracking matches and won. It is by no means the first signal honors he has won for he is a leader among American golfers and now he rises to international prominence, bringing new honors to this side of the Atlantic.

With the same skill that was displayed in winning the coveted championship it is to be expected that Sweetser will be found equal to a laudable defense of it when occasion requires. We had to learn golf over here but we seem to have learned pretty well.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Let your flag fly and lend your presence to the observance of Memorial day today.

The man on the corner says: Are you going to doff your hat today when the flag goes by?

The one big trouble with congress is that it is eager and anxious for everything but necessary business.

No one is claiming that those state officers who may be drafted for federal service would be overpaid.

It is claimed a mosquito can fly a mile but most mosquitoes do not spend their time in long flights.

Woodrow Wilson's efforts to make the world safe for democracy didn't make a lasting impression on Mussolini.

When France gets back of the franc as effectively as the British backed up the pound there will be a different financial situation.

When it comes to weather some memories are short. But the idea ought not to prevail that summer always starts in May.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A rack of paper towels is handy for kitchen use.

Borax is better than starch for delicate materials.

An elaborate scarf will take away the plain look of a frock.

All seafood should be used as soon after catching as possible.

When choosing apples, take the heaviest ones. They will prove the best fruit.

A cup of coffee is a good substitute for brandy in dark cake. It gives a good flavor.

Never throw away bones left from a roast or shoulder. Put them on in cold water and cook several hours and you will have a very good soup if you add diced vegetables.

Lemon juice is preferred to vinegar for salad dressings by the most discriminating cooks.

The old-fashioned corn popper has become a tradition. The modern miss pops it in a electric grill with a cover restraining its ambitious tendencies.

Charming little dinner favors are tiny animals carved from white or green jade. They are not more than an inch and a half long and an inch high and are exquisite in detail.

Amusing bowls of striped pottery to hold plants or flowers have pertinent little French phrases in gold letters on a colored border which encircles the bowl.

For luncheon napkins select small sizes, and you may have them as decorative as you like. The dinner napkin should be large and of heavy, good-as-you-can-get linen.

If you want the crust of your bread to be soft, rub the top of your loaf with butter 10 minutes before taking it out of the oven. Or, you may use water if you wish to be economical.

Should an egg have been boiled too long it can be softened again by lifting the saucepan off the fire quickly, placing it under the faucet, and allowing a good stream of cold water to run onto it. The sudden shock of changing from hot to cold water has the curious effect of softening the egg.

GOOD BAKING

Know your oven. Some ovens are quick cookers and others slow. The only way one can roast or bake successfully is to know the little tricks of her particular oven. Many ovens have a side that browns more rapidly than the other and practically every oven cooks quicker in the back than in the front.

THE NECESSARY GARBAGE PAIL

It is not a bad idea to paint the garbage pail the same shade as your house. It is a necessary evil at best, but this method will make it as inconspicuous as possible and at the same time prolong the life of the can.

TROUBLE IN HAMPER

Be certain the soiled towels are dry before putting them in the clothes hamper. Otherwise they are likely to mildew and sour the clothes about them, besides damaging their own texture. All clothes and linens should be thoroughly dried before putting in any confining place.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

When you have overeaten and consequently are feeling rather low, miss a meal or so and substitute orange juice for solid food. It will bring you back to normal in no time.

Your electric iron has many uses besides its original mission in life. Turn it upside down, put several layers of wet cloth over it and you can give yourself a face steaming second to none offered by an expensive parlor.

Put as much alum in a bottle of water as will dissolve and keep it where it will be handy in case of burns. If applied at once this solution will prevent blistering and also relieve pain quickly.

It is very easy at this time of year to select a non-fattening diet. There is such a liberal choice of fresh fruits and fresh vegetables in the market that the keenest appetite may be satisfied. It is not a hardship now, but a pleasure to conform to the necessary restrictions in food.

COMFORT FOR BABY

When baby starts to sit up he spends a great deal of time in his high chair. This can be made much more comfortable for him by making a tiny pad the size and shape of the chairback out of cotton batting and cretonne. Tie the pad securely to the chair so baby has a sense of security.

TO CLEAN ALUMINUM

A good way to clean aluminum vessels in which has been cooked oatmeal, rice or any food hard to remove, is to use a small corncob. The cob should be thoroughly matured and not very large. It will be found just rough enough to catch and take off the particles of food but will not scratch the aluminum as many cleaning preparations do.

LINEN PILLOWS

Pillows made of linen and linen-like materials are considered very good in the modern conventional living room. They are decorated with colorful woolen braids of wide mesh. Some of the pillows are decorated by having a tapestry inset in the middle.

DECORATIVE DOOR PANELS

When door panels are decorated they should be done in keeping with the function of the room. Floral designs are suitable for bedrooms; nursery tales for nurseries, scenes or pure design for living rooms, etc.

TO STONE RAISINS

Here is the correct way to stone raisins: Free the raisins from the stems and then put them in a bowl. Cover them with boiling water and let them stand for two minutes. When the water is poured off the seeds can be removed quickly and easily without stickiness.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Capes are in full vogue for morning and afternoon wear here, in London and Paris.

Evening dresses in many instances are decorated with silver-gray sequins, always becoming to those of fair complexion.

The designs exerting most influence at present on the crepes and mousselines for summer are the polka dots and the butterflies.

Taffeta is one of the successful fabrics of the season and is being widely adopted for coats. For the colder weather these are quilted on woolen material.

Gray seems to be slowly sapping the popularity of beige and brown in the spring styles. The newest shade is a cloudy gray, which seems particularly appropriate for summer ensembles.

On some dressy models the coat matches the trimmings of the dress rather than the dress itself. This the coat may be of solid embroidered material matching the embroidery used on the frock.

In a season in which every dress is elaborately sleeved one type of costume outside evening dress will leave the arms bare. This is the tennis frock, which at most will have only a shoulder sleeve.

Nothing is smarter at the moment than the large square silk scarf for wear with the tailored costume. These huge rectangles of silk are blocked in geometrical designs and in startling colors.

Bodices continue to be light and close fitting in many instances. But when the dress is of lace or light mousselin, the bodice itself remains quite straight and only the slip beneath is fitted to the figures.

Formidable rivals of the little felt hat are seen in smart little models fashioned of grosgrain belting ribbon. One in particular, which shows the use of ribbon fringed at the ends, is destined for a distinct success this spring.

Many dresses at present have fancy sleeves that have to be cleaned much oftener than the rest of the frock. It costs a good deal to have dresses cleaned, and when only parts of sleeves need attention the cleaner's bill can be materially reduced if the sleeves are sewed in by hands.

SEASON OF POLKA DOTS

Women who can spot a fashion unerringly declare that this is to be a great season for polka dots. They will be worn probably on everything from bathing suits and beach pajamas to formal afternoon dresses. The fabrics designed so far show the dots rather few in number and more widely spaced than has been the case in former seasons.

COMBINATIONS IN LINGERIE

When combinations became popular in lingerie, some designers stopped. Others announced they had just started to combine and have been making one garment do where many did before ever since. Their latest efforts have produced braadiere, top-vests which mould the silhouette and do away with the necessity for another garment. These button at the back.

SEWING AIDS

Put pockets on the underside of aprons near the right hand edge and they will be found just as convenient for use, yet will not catch on door knobs and get torn.

A good play dress for a child can be made from a man's worn shirt. Cut it Dorothy style, and the work is very little, not to mention the saving in the youngster's clothes.

When making new curtains it is a good plan to make the hems at top and bottom of equal width. This makes it possible to hang them upside down after a time and they last much longer than they would if always hung one way.

When sending basted articles to the hemstitcher's, mark the lines to be stitched with a decidedly contrasting color so that no places are missed. Silk bastings will pull out much more easily than those done in cotton.

If there is trouble to keep thread from tangling and knotting, as it will do at times, dampen slightly the whole strand of thread and draw it between the fingers. If the thread to be used is doubled some say there will be less likelihood of tangling if the ends are knotted separately, but the writer finds dampening the thread more satisfactory.

TO FIT A COAT LINING

Put on the coat wrong side out and over it the lining, right side out. Match the shoulder, under-arm seams and armholes and pin closely, to the coat, smooth all extra fullness in the back to the center in a pleat to the waistline, and baste until pressed. Turn in all the edges and pin evenly in place. Baste the lining to the coat wherever pinned, except around the armholes, which should be left free.

Remove the coat, tack the shoulders and under-arm seams with coarse thread, taking long, invisible stitches, and blind-stitch the edges to the coat.

PRESERVING A MAN'S SHIRT

Many times a man's shirt which is otherwise good has to be thrown away because the collar has cut it just below the neck band. Rip the band loose for a couple of inches above the worn place, then rip the shoulder and yoke seams for a few inches. Cut out the worn parts of the shirt; fold over the seams till they fit smoothly in the collar. Stitch together again and a good shirt will result.

TIME FOR NEW ONES

It may be economy, but it is pretty hard on the wearer to continue to darn stockings and socks until they arrive at the lumpy stage. It only means corns and blisters on the feet of the wearer, and certainly that is not true economy.

TURNED INTO SOCKS

When children's stockings become worn at the knee cut them off about the length of socks and crochet a shell stitch at the top for a finish.

CONCERNING WOMEN

About 150 women now sit in the legislature of the various states.

The present queen of England was born in May, as was also the late Queen Victoria.

The distinction of being the most feminine city of England belongs to Nottingham, which has four times as many women as men.

The oldest woman's college under the American flag is the Real Colegio de Santa Isabel, founded in the Philippines 333 years ago.

French women have developed an amazing appetite for oranges since a Paris beauty specialist announced that the complexion is much improved by eating this particular variety of fruit.

The most venerable spinster bride of which there is authentic record was one Mary Snow of Stepney, England, who passed her 102d birthday, when on June 11, 1747, was married to John Jenning, who was een year her senior.

POTTERY FLOWER POCKET

An Italian pottery flower pocket will give not only a very decorative touch to a bare wall space, but will give an interesting spot for placing bunches of either natural or artificial flowers.

DIMITY LAMP SHADES

Lamp shades of flowered dimity mounted over colored silk are most appropriate for lamps of colored glass made exactly like the old fashioned oil lamps of Colonial days.

RECIPES

Baked Fresh Strawberry Pudding: Butter well the inside of a two-quart glass pudding dish and line it inside and bottom with fresh macaroons, press them well into the butter. Turn into the prepared dish one quart of ripe strawberries hulled, sugared and if large cut in halves. Beat the yolks of four eggs until thick; add three-fourths cup of sugar and beat again. Add the grated yellow rind of one lemon and the juice of half a lemon. Fold into this mixture the stiff beaten whites of two eggs and pour over the sugared berries. Bake in a moderate oven until the eggs are set. Beat the remaining whites of two eggs, adding meanwhile two tablespoons of granulated sugar, spread over the pudding, sprinkle generously with sugar and return to the oven to cook and brown the meringue. The pudding may be placed under the gas flame until lightly browned and the sugar melted. Serve hot or cold.

Strawberry Shortcake: Sift together 2 1-2 cups of flour, 1-3 cup of cornstarch, 4 teaspoons of baking powder and one teaspoon of salt. With the tips of fingers lightly rub in 1-2 cup of shortening. Add gradually 1 1-3 cups of rich milk and mix to soft dough. Spread the dough in evenly in two deep, well-buttered layer-cake pans. Bake in a hot oven, 15 minutes. Remove from pans and spread with sugared berries between and on top. Serve with whipped cream sweetened and flavored with vanilla or with a hot marshmallow sauce.

From Small Beginnings

Moses Beach, the Cabinet Maker, Newspaper Proprietor

Connecticut has always had the reputation of being the land of man of genius. Other places have more fertile soil, and fields with wider extent, in the state of Connecticut there is little room for cornfields that reach from one horizon to the other, or for what fields that have to be mowed by batteries of engine-driven reapers. Perhaps because land is so limited the people of Connecticut have taken to cultivating brains. More than one genius has come out of the "Nutmeg state" and given his gifts to the world. Among such Yankees Moses Beach is recorded.

In Wallingford, he was for a time a woodworker. He was extremely clever with the saw and plane, and could make joints that were straight and strong. He developed into the better kind of cabinetmaker. People loved to stand around and watch him at his work. He enjoyed the sound of the plane as it whistled off the smooth shavings and it was his delight to excel in what he did. Moses Beach smiled to himself as he worked for he enjoyed working. It gave him the opportunity to think. He devised many clever things—and kept on thinking. Naturally, his work made him familiar with machinery of various kinds. Through friends, he became learned in something about machinery of kinds other than that he used in cabinetmaking. Becoming interested in the process om making paper, he saw that the one thing that was needed, and needed badly, was a machine that could take the raw cloth, the "old rags" that people sold and chew it up into a sort of pulp. He set to work and at last produced a machine that did the work better than it had ever been done before. All his thinking from day to day had served him to good purpose, for he had taught his mind how to work along mechanical lines. Now he began the making of paper on his own account, and was able to surpass his competitors and to bring together a large amount of money.

Of course, much of his dealing was with newspaper people, and so he awoke to the interests of newspaper life. He joined with others in financing the New York Sun, then just risen and just beginning to shine. Soon he was able to buy out the others and to assume full control of the great paper. Twenty-two years later he withdrew from active business and spent the remaining 11 years of his life in pleasant retirement. Yankee genius had won.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

So rarely has a fellowship to the Royal society of England been bestowed upon an American that the recent conferring of this highly coveted honor upon Professor Henry Fairfield Osborn of New York, represents more than a merely incidental occurrence. Benjamin Franklin was the first citizen of the United States to be elected to such a fellowship, and since his day Alexander Agassiz and Benjamin Thompson have also been similarly honored. Professor Osborn has long been president of the Natural History Museum of New York and has in international reputation as an educator. He is especially famed for his researches in zoology, paleontology, and other subjects associated with evolutionary teachings. Professor Osborn was born in Connecticut in 1857 and was graduated from Princeton in the class of 1877. At one time he was secretary of the Smithsonian Institution in Washington.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Johnny Chuck's Nose Is Out of Joint

A nose put out of joint may be
A splendid thing for you or me.
—Johnny Chuck.

Of course you know what it means to have your nose put out of joint. It means simply having your feelings upset by finding you are less important than you thought you were. And Johnny is right in saying that it is a good thing sometimes. No one ever admits it at the time, but usually will later.

Johnny Chuck had made up his mind that he wouldn't stay another minute longer than he had to in the Old Pasture. Never in all his life had he been more frightened than when Buster Bear tried to dig him out. He just couldn't get over it. So he told Old Jed Thumper, the gray old Rabbit who lived in the Old Pasture, that that was no place for him, and he meant to start back for the Green Meadows that very afternoon.

"Everybody to his own taste," said Old Jed Thumper. "Everybody to his own taste. The Old Pasture is the finest place in all the Great World, and perhaps if you live long enough you'll find it out."

"Huh!" said Johnny Chuck. "Huh! You've welcome to think so. Buster Bear doesn't come down on the Green Meadows, and I can get along very nicely without Buster Bear for a neighbor."

"He isn't a neighbor here," protested Old Jed Thumper. "It is only once in a while that he comes here."

"Well, once in a while is once to often for me," declared Johnny Chuck. "So I'm off this very minute. Good by."

"Good by," said Old Jed Thumper. "Come and see me once in a while."

Johnny Chuck said nothing, but in his own mind he decided that never again would he visit the Old Pasture if he could help himself. So he hurried down the old cow path until at last he came to the edge of the Green Meadows. It was a long way across the Green Meadows up to the Old Orchard, but Johnny Chuck didn't hesitate. He kept going and going. Somehow, although he was right out in the open there on the Green Meadows, he was no longer afraid. He knew he was too big and strong for any one he was likely to meet. He knew that none of the Hawk family were likely to try to catch such an old tough fellow as he. So he kept on and on toward the Old Orchard.

All the way across the Green Meadows Johnny kept thinking how glad Polly Chuck would be to see him. "She probably thinks that by this time I'm dead," thought Johnny. "How surprised and delighted she'll be when I come walking in, and what a lot I'll have to tell her."

"Oh, it's you!" said Polly Chuck as she poked her head out of the doorway

At last Johnny Chuck reached his old home. He was tired. He was tired and he was out of breath, for he had hurried the last part of the way. No one was in sight. He had half hoped that Polly Chuck would be sitting on the doorstep. He poked his head in at the doorway and listened. Polly was at home. He could hear her somewhere down below. He started to go down. Almost at once he heard Polly coming up. So he backed out and waited just outside.

"Oh, it's you," said Polly Chuck, as she poked her head out of the doorway. "Well, keen away from here now."

Johnny Chuck gasped with surprise. "Aren't — aren't you glad to see me?" he asked.

"Not right now," replied Polly Chuck. "You run away and keep away." With this, Polly disappeared inside the house again.

Johnny just sat there and stared and stared at the empty doorway. His nose was decidedly out of joint.

POETRY

Memorial Day

A handful of old men walking down the village street
In worn, brushed uniforms, their gray heads high,—
A faded flag above them, one drum to lift their feet.
Look again, O heart of mine, and see what passes by.

There's a vast crowd swaying, there's a wild band playing,
The streets are full of marching men,
of tramping cavalry,
Alive and young and straight again, they ride to greet a mate again,—
The gallant souls, the great souls that live eternally.

A handful of old men walking down the highways?
Nay, we look on heroes that march
among their peers.
The great, glad Companies have swung from Heaven's byways
And come to join their own again across the dusty years.

There are strong hands meeting, there are staunch hearts greeting,—
A crying of remembered names, of deeds that shall not die.
A handful of old men?—Nay, my heart,
look well again:
The spirit of America today is marching by!

—Theodosia Garrison.

Hope

We sailed and sailed upon the desert sea
Where for whole days alone we seemed to be.
At last we saw a dim, vague line arise
Between the empty billows and the skies,
That grew and grew until it wore the shape
Of cove and inlet, promontory and cape;
The hills and valleys, rivers, fields and woods,
Steeples and roofs, and village neighborhoods.
And then I thought, "Sometime I shall embark
Upon a sea more desert and more dark
Than ever this was, and between the skies
And empty billows I shall see arise
Another world out of that waste and lapse,
Like yonder land. Perhaps—perhaps—perhaps."

—William Dean Howells.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Customer—Do you think sardines are healthy?

Grocer—Well, madam, I never heard one complain.—The Progressive Grocer.

Clerk—Here's your molasses, little boy. Where is your money?

Boy—Please, sir, in the bottom of the jar.—Washington Star.

Do you believe there are germs in kisses?

Maybe there are, but osculation defies inoculation.—Boston Transcript.

Mattie—And do you think he really was in earnest when he proposed?

Mary—I'm sure of it. He even let his cigarette go out.—Answers.

I wouldn't touch him with a 10-foot pole.

Why not? What's the matter with him?

Oh, nothing; only it would look so silly.—Punch.

"Don't worry," said the dentist. "I always give my patients—ah—something to—ah—quiet their nerves."

"Then what was that fellow in there yelling for?" demanded the skeptical sufferer.

"More!"—American Legion Weekly

"Well, what are you looking for now?" old Diogenes was asked.

"I'm trying to locate a family that won't insist on buying things if the salesman thinks they can't afford them." sighed Diogenes, as he prepared to place the millionth new battery in his old flashlight.

Tommy—Hallos, Jimmy, where are you going to in such a hurry?

Jimmy—Im going home.

Tommy—Something good on there?

Jimmy—Well, ma's going to spank me.

Tommy (in surprise)—But why are you in such a hurry.

Jimmy—Because if I don't get home at once pa will be in and he'll do it.—Edinburgh Weekly Scotsman.

OBITUARY

Henry J. Adams

After a long period of ill health Henry J. Adams, 82, retired railroad engineer and well known resident of the city, residing at No. 7 Boswell avenue died Saturday evening at 5.45 o'clock. Mr. Adams, a lifelong resident of Norwich, had been in ill health for about two years, and of late his condition steadily grew worse.

Mr. Adams was born Nov. 2d 1843, in the house at No. 7 Boswell avenue where he passed his long life, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Adams. All of his life has been spent in Norwich. As a boy he started out to be a printer. He entered the employ of The Bulletin as a "printers' devil". The Bulletin was then located in the Franklin building on Franklin square. Mr. Adams also carried a Bulletin route in Norwich Town, walking up here with his load of papers. He usually got a ride back in a store run by a man named Bennett. The stage was commonly called "Bennett's hourly." After learning the printer's trade Mr. Adams became interested in railroading and entered the employ of the Norwich and Worcester road as a fireman. After serving three years as an apprentice he became qualified for promotion to engineer. This was in the days of the old time wood burning locomotives. On a trip between this city and Worcester the engine had to stop to fill up with wood four or five times.

Mr. Adams remained with the railroad for 50 years and on June 1st, 1911 was placed on the retired list with a pension.

On May 23, 1874, Mr. Adams and Annette Frances Stoddard were married in the old Central Baptist church by Rev. John Davies, father of Attorney Andrew B. Davies of this city.

Mrs. Adams was born in Ledyard, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stoddard. Her father for years conducted a grocery store at No. 100 Franklin street.

Fraternally Mr. Adams was a Mason and an Odd Fellow. He had been through all the chairs in Somerset lodge No. 28, F. and A. M., and Shetucket lodge No. 27, I. O. O. F. For more than 67 years he had been a member of the Central Baptist church.

During his long residence on Boswell avenue Mr. Adams saw many changes in that section. Years ago there were several old ramshackle buildings on what is now the little park on Franklin street, in front of their house. One night these buildings caught fire in some mysterious way. When the volunteer fire department arrived on the scene bystanders hindered them in many ways in extinguishing the fire and there was evidently a general desire that the buildings be destroyed because they were eyesores to the public.

Surviving Mr. Adams are his wife, three children, Joseph S. Adams of Boswell avenue, Mrs. Reuben P. Potter of this city and Everett H. Adams of Rochester, N. Y. There are five grand children, Catherine Thompson Adams and Gilbert Adams, children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Adams, Lloyd Adams Potter and Mildred Potter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rueben P. Potter; and Everett H. Adams, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett H. Adams.

PATRIOTIC ORGANIZATIONS ATTEND SUNDAY SERVICE AT CHRIST CHURCH

By invitation of the rector, Rev. C. Montgomery Budlong, patriotic organizations of the city attended the memorial service Sunday morning at Christ Episcopal church, occupying prominent seats in the center aisle, according to their years of service. A congregation of 600 was present, which included delegations from the Grand Army Woman's Relief corps, Daughters of Veterans, Sons of Veterans, and other patriotic bodies.

The stirring processional hymn, sung by two choirs and the order of St. Vincent in procession, gave a fitting opening to the service. The other national hymns were heartily sung and the service was effectively rendered by the rector with the assistance of his lay readers.

The text of the sermon was "Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to all people," and the keywords on which the sermon was developed were "Sentiment and Courage." The rector said in part: "This is Memorial day as well as Trinity Sunday and Remember day. Our hearts are filled with joy and sadness as we recall all it means. A nation without heroes would be like heaven without saints. As we visit some of our large cities, we see certain objects that have been placed there to remind us, as a symbol of the heroism that exalted a nation."

In this connection he spoke of the Washington monument, Bunker Hill monument, Grant's tomb and the Unknown Soldier; of the honor rolls, of service flags, each representing self-sacrifice so freely offered that this government, this nation might live, though bought at such a price, preserved at so great a cost and protected from such powerful foes. "Whether people believe it or not sin will of itself demand a blood atonement. A nation as well as an individual can settle its own future. God plainly would have all men be good, because they will to be good. If a nation for whose life, the soldiers gave their own life, does not prove worthy of their sacrifice, why sacrifice?"

The candles placed upon the altar in certain symbolical grouping, were explained by the rector, signifying the sentimental thought that at the close of the sermon when they would be lighted, of the soul progression of those soldiers who had passed beyond, being not dead in spirit out light that would shine as the stars, forever. "We are a sentimental nation, a sentimental church and the Master was sentimental, and we're proud that we are. To be sentimental, takes courage, for the world hesitates in showing outward expression of the deepest inward thoughts. During the Civil war, two rival armies were encamped on opposite banks of the Potomac river. When the Confederate band played some national air, the Union musicians, struck up a rival tune, each band trying to outplay the other. Suddenly one of the bands played "Home, Sweet Home", the contest ceased, and both played the same tune, and many voices joined in singing the same chorus. Ought not this nation, this day, tarnk of an "Everlasting Home," and strive to make all Christians join in the same chorus of peace and righteousness for that exalteth a nation.

"Not costly domes nor marble towers,
Shall mark where friendship comes to weep,
Let clustering vines and fragrant flowers
Tell where the nation's heroes sleep."

"They rest in many a shady vale
By, and beneath a sounding sea,
The forest winds their requiem wail
The Glorious Sons of Liberty.

"Blessed be the land for which they fought
The land where freedoms' banners wave
True sentiment and noble courage sought
Where dwell the free, where sleep the brave."

TRIBUTE TO REVOLUTIONARY AND FRENCH SOLDIERS

With an attendance of over 100 including the children, brief, impressive memorial exercises were carried out in the Old Cemetery at Norwich Town, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The ceremony was tribute to the 52 Revolutionary soldiers buried there, as well as 20 unknown French soldiers buried near the boulder erected in their honor. Here the exercises were held, under the auspices of Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., Mrs. William H. Dawley, regent. The location formed a beautiful setting for the ceremonial. It was eminently fitting that the people of this community assemble and pay special tribute to the memory of the 20 French soldiers, who left home and native land to join the forces of Washington, dying in Norwich while on their march from Newport to the Hudson. Uniting in the exercises with the D. A. R. was Israel Putnam society S. A. R., and General Ebenezer Huntington society C. A. R. In approaching the boulder from the gate entrance a good sized detachation of the younger members of the C. A. R. each bearing a flag with 13 stars stood in open ranks through which the people passed. The program was officially opened by Mrs. Dawley who with others who had a part was stationed near the boulder. The invocation was by Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, pastor of the United Congregational church. This was followed by the entire company singing two stanzas of America, led by Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler, who conducted the singing. At this point the regent said: "The flags are here." Two members of the C. A. R. Miss Dorothy Stewart and Miss Mary Stewart, brought forth the American flag and the state ag of the C. A. R. and placed them in standards overlooking the boulder. Letitia Parker-Parker was escort to Dorothy Stewart and Agnes L. Greeman escorted Mary Stewart. The procession of children with their flags, under the direction of their leader, Mrs. Elisha E. Rogers, senior president of the C. A. R., formed a semi-circle around the boulder, when all present united in pledging allegiance to the flag. The children, each with a basket of flowers strewed the blossoms on the graves of the French soldiers, where new ags had been placed, at which time in unison they said: "We strew these flowers in memory of 52 Revolutionary soldiers who lie in this burial-place; also in memory of 20 unknown French soldiers, whom the boulder commemorates." The remainder of the flowers werep laced by the children on the tomb of General Samuel Huntington, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. In the absence of the president, Charles E. Chandler, Henry F. Parker, secretary of the S. A. R., presented E. Allen Bidwell as the speaker for Israel Putnam society and Mr. Bidwell gave the opening address.

Two stanzas of America the Beautiful were sung. Then Mrs. Dawley presented Rev. Mr. Abbott who addressed those present in behalf of Faith Trumbull chapter.

Much to the disappointment of the assembisge, "La Marseillaise," usually sung at these annual ceremonies by Joseph Tellier, an enthusiastic French resident was obliged to be omitted because of his absence.

The singing of the Star Spangled Banner brought the meeting to a close.

TWO STATE POLICEMEN AT GROTON SUSPENDED

State Policemen Joseph Bobnick and Giles Watson of the Groton barracks are under charges of conduct unbecoming an officer, preferred by Superintendent of State Police Robert T. Hurley, and under suspension pending a hearing before the state police commissioners this week, according to a statement by Superintendent Robert T. Hurley Saturday afternoon. Bobnick resides at 73 Blackhall street, New London and Watson resides in Groton. Both men are married.

Watson turned in his resignation about two weeks ago. Superintendent Hurley stated Saturday that the resignation had not been accepted.

State Policemen Howard O'Keefe of Hartford and Robert Parker of Waterbury were suspended, following a hearing before the commissioners last Wednesday, when they were presented on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Commissioners Robbins B. Stoeckel, Frederick Salmon and Ernest L. Isbell comprise the board which will hear the accused men.

TRENCH DIGGER AT WORK ON RESERVOIR PIPE LINE

Work with the trench digger has been begun this week on the pipe laying job in Bozrah for the pipe line to the new Deep River reservoir of Norwich. The contracting firm on this section of the pipe line, H. W. Golden & Son, Inc., of Troy, N. Y., has begun work just west of the O. C. Gardner place on the Yantic-Fitchville road. This is where 36 inch pipe is used.

THREE HURT IN CRASH OF AUTOS AT TAFTVILLE

Three occupants of a Ford sedan belonging to Harry Allen of Allyn's Point were injured Sunday night about 10.15 o'clock when the car collided at Taftville with a Hupmobile driven by Alfred Heibel of Lisbon.

All the injured persons were taken to the Backus hospital. Miss Amelia Lobacs of 111 High street has severe lacerations of the forehead and face that required a number of stitches. Allen, who was driving his car, had no cuts but complained of pains in the stomach, and Walter Lewis of the Norwich state hospital had a cut over his left eye which had to be sewed up. The two men left for their homes but the young woman remained at the hospital as a patient.

Heibel, who was riding alone was knocked senseless at the wheel of his machine in the collision and was revived in the club house of the Ponemah wheel club to which he was carried and where he was attended by Dr. George Thompson.

The two cars came together head-on in Norwich avenue near the club, each driver blaming the other and saying that the other man's car was all over the road before the crash. State Policeman Whitmarsh who made an investigation is understood to have summoned Allen to court.

Miss Lobacs was taken to the hospital immediately after the accident in the automobile of Joseph Zuzulka of Roosevelt avenue and the two men followed very shortly afterwards in the automobile of Edward Bourban of Taftville.

The Heibel and Allen cars were badly damaged, their front wheels and running gear being meshed together by the force of the collision.

Fifth Wedding Anniversary

About 50 friends of Mr. and Mrs. James Sewart of Baltic celebrated with them their fifth wedding anniversary, last Wednesday evening in a very enjoyable way. Games and music with a buffet lunch at 9:30 were pleasant features of the evening and at 11:30 the guests departed, singing Should Auld Acquaintance Be Forgot.

TRINITY SUNDAY SERMON BY REV. FATHER GALVIN

The command of Christ from the gospel for the Sunday, Matthew 28, 19-20, "Going therefore, teach ye all nations, baptising them in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost," was the text from which Rev. Myles P. Galvin preached Sunday at 9 o'clock to a congregation which filled auditory and galleries of St. Patrick's church. The day was Trinity Sunday. Father Galvin cited Christ's command, the fact that it was into this Trinity which every Catholic was baptised, then proceeded to explain the devotion which each should brow toward the Father, loving and kind, the Son, Saviour, Redeemer, and Elder Brother, and the Holy Ghost, sanctifier, inspirer, the source of grace. That it is impossible for men in their finite intellect to grasp the mystery of one God in three divine persons is not surprising, in a world of mysteries where even the most common and most familiar of nature's laws and forms and forces are just as mysterious. To believe without being able to understand is the duty of Christians, the test of their great gift of faith, until the time when their good deeds entitle them to see their Creator face to face and to receive the reward of their steadfastness. In every point which the preacher made he repeated the declaration that no matter what earthly success a man may gain, the only true success is the saving of his immortal soul.

Later Father Galvin assisted Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the low mass, in giving communion to a great number who had been to confession the day before and were offering the merits of the sacrament for the living and dead, on Memorial Day.

CAN SELL EYEGLASSES LIKE CARPET TACKS

In reply to a question asked by George A. Comstock, secretary of the state board of examiners in optometry, as to the "enforcing qualities" of a passage in the optometry law as contained in chapter 94 of the Public Acts of 1925, Attorney General Frank E. Healy has given an opinion stating that "if any salesman in any of these places (mercantile establishments) where such articles (eyeglasses or spectacles) are for sale, either by chart or personal supervision, attempts to adapt glasses to the sight of the purchaser, he violates the statute and should be prosecuted."

Mr. Comstock in his letter states: "It is well known that eyeglasses are sold in the five and ten cent stores as merchandise, the same as carpet tacks or anything else. We wish an opinion as to the enforcing qualities of the laws regarding the sale of spectacles and eyeglasses as merchandise."

Mr. Healy in his reply quotes the opinion of the supreme court in the case of the state against Faats, 83d Connecticut, in regard to the practice of dentistry, and then says: "This case is decisive of the question raised in your letter that no violation of the statute occurs by the sale of eyeglasses or spectacles where no supervision as to the improvement of the vision is made in the ordinary course of the sale of such articles."

BANK STREET, FROM STATE TO TILLEY, NEW LONDON, ONE-WAY AFTER JUNE 13

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—That part of Bank street between State and Tilley streets, will become a one-way thoroughfare beginning two weeks from yesterday, for Sunday, June 13. It is the intention of City Manager William M. Holt to cause traffic to proceed through Bank street, between State and Tilley streets, at which points much congestion of automobiles is constantly occurring, then to proceed only in a northerly direction, and this is to include the trolley cars of the Connecticut company. City Manager Holt intends to have an ordinance enacted by the city council prior to that time, so that it will be unlawful for vehicles of any description to use that part of Bank street only to enter State street. The trolley cars bound for Ocean Beach, will reach Bank street and Montauk avenue by way of Washington, Colt and Truman streets.

FOUR WHO BORROWED CAR FOUND EXPERIMENT COSTLY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—Four New London men risked an expensive spree when they sought to drink the contents of a bottle of liquor in the car of Mrs. Rosina Brockett, which they found parked Friday night near the monument on State street. When they had imbibed freely they drove the car away, so that upon the return of Mrs. Brockett from the theatre to take possession of the machine and drive home she could not find it. She appealed to the police and in a short time the car, a Chrysler, was discovered in the possession of the bibulous four and far away from where they entered it. They were arrested, and in the police court Saturday they paid the penalty for their folly. One of them, Lewis Montague, was fined $100. He succeeded in raising the cash and paid his fine. The others, Raymond Bailey, C. E. Faulkner and Arthur Stanfield, fined $50 each, could not at first raise the money to settle, so they went to jail. They were represented by a lawyer who explained that the men were on what he called "a lark," and he declared they took the machine without any intention of stealing it. Judge Prince, himself a motorist, could not appreciate that sort of a joke and told the attorney as much. He regarded the offense as a serious one and warned the offenders that if they appeared again for a like offense they would be treated much more severely. He said that such men as he dealt with were absolutely irresponsible and declared their act was without any circumstance of justification.

Faulkner, Bailey and Stanfield were committed to jail, but they were there but a few minutes when they obtained the money to pay their fines and costs and were released. They then told the story of how they came to be in the mess. They said that Montague came to a position near the railway station, where he said the machine he had was loaned to him by a friend, and invited the others to take a ride. They entered the car and drove to Union street, where the car was stopped. Policeman Rohn appeared and notified all in the car that it had been stolen. The arrests followed. The young men in the car explained but their explanation never got to the court, so they were penalized as if they had been offenders. They paid their fines immediately and were discharged.

Autoists are slow to understand that parking rules must be obeyed in this city. Notwithstanding that there have been scores of drivers before the police court, still they come. Saturday, some half dozen offenders were ordered to the police station, that they might tell how it happened that they parked cars in restricted sections, or left machines where they interfered with traffic. The parties were warned, as the offenses Saturday were their first, and then they were told not to offend again and were released. Two of the offenders were from Groton and Mystic, the others from New London.

George W. Whitney will appear in the police court tomorrow to answer a charge of intoxication and the use of vile language, when he was arrested. Policeman W. J. Corcoran will be the witness against Whitney. A few other intoxicated persons were taken into custody Saturday night, but the number was much fewer than on preceding Saturdays.

More than 200 arrests have been made during the month that ends tomorrow and most of the accused persons were presented in court.

Clifford Smith must answer for failing to observe the rules of the road Saturday and driving his machine past intersecting streets without reducing speed. He was released on a bond, when taken into custody.

A Buick roadster was stolen in New Haven Saturday and New London police have since been on the lookout for the machine, as it is supposed the auto was driven toward this city.

The death of George A. Hammond of Putnam was made known here on Saturday and occasioned a great deal of sympathy. Mr. Hammond was known to many of the older residents, as he was for a long time associated with the ownership of the H. K. H. silk factory here. He was associated with the late Robert Smith in that establishment and erected the mill on Hempstead street, which, at one time, employed some hundred people. Changes in the silk market led the management to transfer its business to the western part of the state and since then the mill building here has been without a lessee.

Passenger traffic on the New Haven railroad has been very heavy the past two days. The trains were nearly all run in sections and old time cars, the sort that are held for excursion trains, usually, have been brought into service to accommodate the business.

Automobile traffic was very heavy in New London Saturday and today. The weather was such that the operators and their guests could ride in comfort. Police officers were stationed along Bank street during Saturday afternoon to divert travel from the main roads to the side streets. It is expected that Monday's travel will bring a considerable addition to the number of machines in use.

The increased number of automobiles in use has given a new class of business to this section in that it has led to the establishment of new tons and road houses. These places afford a rendezvous for auto parties where they can be exclusive and where they have liberties motorists cannot claim in the cities.

Norman Colby, of 27 Lincoln avenue; Henry Gilkes, Groton; Miss Elinor Anderson, Miss Elisabeth Crandall, Charles Cowles, Miss Katherine Robbins, and Clifford Strachan, all of Niantic; Miss Elizabeth Flint, Quaker Hill and Mrs. Thomas Lee and Samuel Ruell, Montville, were patients dismissed at Lawrence-Memorial hospital today.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Clark, Montauk avenue, are spending a week in the White Mountains to which place they started by automobile Saturday.

Barney Seigrad has sold to Thomas and Mary DiMaggio the dwelling, 116 Willetts avenue.

John J. Doyle has sold to Fred L. Fabricant a dwelling on Blydenburg avenue.

Alexander and Lizzie H. G. Ames have sold to Robert W. Holmes a house and lot on Riverview avenue.

Archibald S. MacFarlane has sold to Frank S. Clark a parcel of land on Ditch avenue.

Ray S. Atwood has sold to Peter Iros a building lot on the southerly side of Squire street. Isadore E. Goldberg and Sam Schneider, Hartford, have sold to Bernard J. Ackerman, also of Hartford, a house and two parcels of land on Ocean avenue.

An automobile owned and driven by Walter E. McLean, 105 Garfield avenue and an automobile owned and driven by Anthony O'Sullivan, 71 West street, collided this morning at the intersection of Connecticut and Garfield avenues. Both cars were damaged.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel Saturday ordered the operator's license of George Bishop, submarine base, recently suspended returned to the owner.

Edward Daniels, former member of the New London police department, now employed on Long Island, spent the week end with his family, Howard street.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Sevin and daughter, Louise, 84 School street, are in Newport, R. I., where they will remain several days as guests of relatives.

Miss Dorothy S. Hand, West street, is spending a few days with friends on Long Island.

The funeral of Mrs. Martha Armstrong, wife of David Armstrong, of 300 Thames street, Groton, was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock at Sacred Heart church, Groton, and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. A solemn mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. William C. Fox, pastor of the church, with Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, of this city, deacon, and Rev. Michael Reagan, of this city, sub-deacon. The bearers were William Rorke, John White, Geo. Avery, Thomas Manice, William Foss and Harry Williams. Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, New London.

The funeral of James N. Reed, a former resident of New London, whose death occurred at his home in New Haven, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 43 Shapley street. The services were conducted by Rev. Sinclair Grimstead and officers of Jeptha lodge of Masons, of which organization Mr. Reed was a member. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

An automobile operated by Mrs. Henry E. Randall, 137 Ocean avenue, got beyond control of the driver this afternoon on Main street and crashed through a plate glass window in the store of the Shu-Fix company, Main street, and occupying one of the stores of the Goldsmith building. The automobile sustained damage, but Mrs Randall escaped injury. The car was being driven in a northerly direction and after rounding the corner of State street, Mrs. Randall intended to apply the foot brake, but instead of doing so she stepped on the accelerator, causing the auto to leap forward. The car climbed the curbing and passing over the sidewalk came to a stop when it crashed against the building.

CAMPER AT AUTO PARK ACCUSES WESTERLY MAN

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—A fellow who gave his name as Charles Tusco and who said his home was in Westerly, was taken into custody on complaint of Mrs. Jean Panzer, of New York, who is making a stay at the auto camp in Riverside park. Mrs. Panzer was in the woman's toilet in the park when Tuscano went there and forced his way in. The woman says she resisted his advances, though he did not lay hands upon her. She also is said to have hurled stones at him but he did not go away. Boys in the park told Elmer Kennerson, the camp taker, that the man was acting queerly. He is held for presentation in court in the morning.

SEAMAN INVITED TO RIDE ALLEGES MEAN HOLD-UP

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—An alleged hold-up was reported to the police at 3 o'clock this evening by Seaman Crawford, second class at the coast guard. He declared that at midnight Saturday, he was on State street near the union station, when he was invited by a couple of men who were accompanied by two girls to ride to his station. He was to make up a party that was to go to a road house he was informed when he was seated in the car. Then the men represented that he was to take one of the party to Quaker Hill before they went to the road house. Soon after that, he was attacked and beaten by the party and was thrown out of the automobile, after he had been robbed. Crawford said he was in an open lot and injured when he recovered his senses. He declared that his reason for not reporting the matter to the police was that he might discover who his assailants were. He was directed by the local police to consult the state police as the alleged assault was committed outside the jurisdiction of the New London police.

MEMORIAL DAY PARADE IS TO MOVE AT 10 O'CLOCK

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 30.—New London will observe Memorial day by a general suspension of business, the closing of stores, mills, factories, etc., Monday, and a parade that will form on State street at 10 a. m. and be composed of soldiers of the regular army, sailors of the submarine base, from the coast guard and vessels of the coast guard service. The patriotic societies of the city will also be in line, as will the members of the Grand Army, Sons of Veterans, Spanish War Vets and Boy Scouts, with the Woman's Relief corps in automobiles. The procession will move to the soldiers' and sailors' monument, countermarching and then proceeding to the cemeteries, Cedar Grove and St. Mary's. Rev. George R. Atha will deliver an address at Cedar Grove and Morgan Bulkeley Haven will make an address of eulogy. Dr. Joseph Ganey will be the marshal. An escort of police will head the column and the bands of the coast guard and the artillery will provide music. The Grand Army has arranged for the decoration of graves of soldiers in the cemeteries and burial places adjacent to New London. No automobiles will be allowed on State street during the passing of the troops, that there may be no congestion of traffic nor any accidents.

You can generally tell what a woman's complexion isn't by what it seems to be.

TAFTVILLE

Robert Cooper of the Ponemah house is spending a few days at his home in Fall River, Mass.

Miss Rosella Murphy of South A street is spending the holiday in New York.

At the morning service of the Taftville Congregational church Sunday there was a patriotic sermon by the pastor, Rev. Edwin G. Crowfis. Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls had been invited to attend. In the evening the meeting of the Young People's society of Christian Endeavor was led by Robert B. Schmidt.

Raymond A. Pingree of Baylesville, R. I., is spending a few days in town.

COMMITTEE TO CONSIDER THAMES VALLEY INTERESTS

A call for a meeting of the executive committee of the Thames Valley Citizens committee has been sent out by Secretary Herbert R. Branche at the request of Chairman Robert W. Perkins. The meeting is to be held next Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the grill room of the Mohican hotel. The chairman will bring several matters of importance before the committee following a luncheon.

Those on the committee are: Robert W. Perkins, chairman, Norwich; Herbert R. Branche, secretary, Norwich; Harry E. Hasty, Montville; Hon. William C. Fox, mayor of New London; Hon. Milo R. Waters, mayor of Norwich; Hon. E. E. Rogers, president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce, New London; Lucius B. Whiton, New London; Abner Schwartz, Norwich.

ARRANGED 700 BOUQUETS FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Due to the lateness of the season, the supply of flowers brought to the Buckingham Memorial Sunday afternoon and evening was smaller this year than usual but the women of the relief corps manager to the about 700 bouquets to be used for the decoration of the soldiers graves today (Monday).

About the only flowers brought this year are lilacs, but there was some dogwood. If more flowers are brought this morning they can be made use of.

Parade To Start At 10:02

All that is needed today (Monday) to make the observance of Memorial day locally a complete success is fine weather. The military parade that will escort the Grand Army veterans starts at 10:02 a. m. from the Buckingham Memorial and will move over the assigned line of march to Chelsea parade where the exercises will be held.

The decorated stand has been erected near the soldiers' monument and all the necessary arrangements have been completed.

CONTRACT TO CUT OUT CURVES AT SUBMARINE BASE IS DELAYED

Contracts for grading at the easterly approach of the Thames river bridge and for 15,077 feet of re-inforced concrete pavement on the Willimantic-Chaplin road were among ten which were awarded Saturday by the state highway department for an approximate total of $725,000. About 16 miles are involved in the new road construction under the ten contracts.

Three other contracts involving about nine miles of roadway will be awarded when land damages and adjustment of contract specifications are completed. Bids have already been received upon these which are in Norwalk, Branford and at the submarine base at Groton where the "S" curve is to be eliminated.

The ten awards were as follows; exclusive of cement and other materials furnished by the state:

Town of Groton—630 feet of grading on easterly approach to Thames river bridge; to D. Arrigoni, Middletown, $8,807.60.

Town of Windham—15,077 feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on Willimantic-Chaplin road; to Joseph Mascotti Co., Torrington, $34,-001.14.

Town of Saybrook—3,000 feet of native stone macadam on Winthrop road; to D. Arrigoni, Middletown, $17,331.

Towns of West Haven, Orange and Milford—34,873 feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on Boston Post road, 36 feet wide; to C. W. Blakeslee & Sons, New Haven, $351,-741.70.

Town of Rocky Hill—6,601 feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on the Dividend road; to J. Mascotti Co., Torrington, $37,376.20.

Town of Guilford, 4,559 feet of trap rock macadam on the Sachem's Head road; to D. Arrigoni, Middletown, $37,-860.

Town of Fairfield—5,570 feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement on the Boston Post road, 36 feet wide, from Mad river to Sanford street; to Silliman and Godfrey, Bridgeport, $59,625.

Town of Guilford—Dredging a channel at East river; to C. W. Reed, New Haven, $5,000.

Towns of Bridgeport and Trumbull—6,667 feet of bituminous macadam over stone base on the North Bridgeport-Trumbull road; to Joseph Mascotti Co., Torrington, $33,643.

Town of Greenwich—3,809 feet of reinforced cement concrete pavement, being three-inch asphalt over eight-inch concrete base on Boston Post road, 36 feet wide; to Silliman and Godfrey, Bridgeport, $107,892.

EASTFORD EXERCISES HELD AT GEN. LYON'S GRAVE

The people of Eastford, in accordance with their custom, held Memorial day exercises Sunday afternoon at the graveside of General Nathaniel Lyon, at Phoenixville cemetery. Statements have recently appeared to the effect that the Lyon grave is neglected, but this is not true as far as the people of Eastford are concerned. It is true that the provision made by the state for proper care of the lot and surroundings has not been duly observed in recent years and members of the G. A. R. have taken up the matters.

Hon. Charles D. Totem, representative from Eastford in the general assembly of 1921, was in charge of the programme Sunday, and the address was made by Representative Allen B. Lincoln of Ashford, who spoke upon "The Everyday Meaning of American Ideals."

In part Mr. Lincoln said:

The message which I would emphasize to you who are here today is the responsibility resting upon each and every citizen to uphold the principles of justice and equality for which our republic stands.

Let me recall to your thought the preamble of our federal constitution, and as you listen, interpret it as a practical working guide for everyday living, and let us raise in our common thought and purpose the personal question: How far are we loyal to these declarations in our daily life and action? The preamble:

"We, the people of the United states in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this constitution for the United States of America."

Now consider some practical contrasts from present-day life. Let me do a little sharpshooting—even if I chance to cross the prejudices of some, in practical question, to illustrate my points; and before you answer, think carefully, each for ourselves:

Are we loyal to "a more perfect union," if we allow sectional interest and prejudices to engage our attention, and demand special legislation for our own local business or personal interests, without due regard for the common welfare?

Observe a certain trend in national affairs today and think it over!

Do we "establish justice" if we seek charters of "special privilege" for private advantage? Watch the course of your own legislature in this respect.

Do we "insure domestic tranquility" if we insist on indulgence in social vices and patronize bootleggers?

Do we "provide for the common defense" if we flout and defy a law just because we do not like it, and fail to inquire as to what sound principles may underlie that law?

Do we "promote the general welfare" if we insist upon "higher wages" on "higher profits" and refuse to recognize the underlying principles of honest, cooperative, economical production, whether in manufacture or agriculture or trade?

How shall we "secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and to posterity" if we interpret liberty as the right to do as we please, without due regard to the right and safety and welfare of the other fellow—our neighbor?

Our political ills are due mainly to the fact that we do not live up to the constitution, that we do not clearly comprehend the responsibility of thoughtful, loyal, discerning, civic action which its fundamental declarations impose upon us. We do not grasp the full significance of the preamble of the federal constitution.

Here in Connecticut we are peculiarly favored by a practical test of civic loyalty at the very moment any citizen is made a voter and takes "The Elector's Oath." There is a solemn pledge to state and country, and even unto God, to be loyal, to vote at each election, and to vote as you shall judge will conduce to the general welfare, without fear or favor. It is a pledge binding upon each one of us, each time we cast a ballot, and no citizen may escape the obligation without practical disloyalty. Nothing is more certain or more practicable than that a citizenship actuated by this high obligation, by loyalty to the fundamental law, and to American ideals, and to "the Elector's Oath", will result in a better government, and a better social order, and in steady progress for the general welfare.

Here, then, we find the true loyalty of Memorial day; the true loyalty to the service and sacrifice of Lincoln and Lyon and to all who like them gave "the last full measure of devotion." True patriotism seeks to correct or avoid the causes of social discontent and thus to promote and conserve peace.

Met At Their Club House

On Thursday evening the M. M. club met at the club house for the first time. The members plan to hold a pinochle party within a short time, but as yet no definite date has been decided upon.

After refreshments were served the members had an enjoyable time dancing.

CLASS OF 130 CHILDREN RECEIVES FIRST COMMUNION

Sixty-eight girls and 62 boys, who have been instructed by the priests and Sisters throughout the spring, received their first holy communion Saturday in St. Patrick's church, at a special mass at 8 o'clock. The girls were in white and the boys had white arm bands. The rector, Rt. Rev. Msgr. M. H. May, who offered this important mass for the children, at its close had the class of 130 assemble in the sanctuary, where they knelt while he bestowed on them the special blessing. In the choir, Organist Henry J. LaFontaine, directed the pupils from the fifth, six and seventh grades of the parish school, as they sang the hymn invoking the blessing and protection of the mother of Christ. "On This Day, O, Beautiful Mother." Just before communion the class sang "Jesus Is Coming To Me Today," after giving, "Jesus, I Come To Thee." After Monsignor May had enrolled them in the Scapular society, with the reminder that the mother who had watched over and cared for the Christ-Child would care for them, the class and choir sang "Holy God, We Praise Thy Name."

In reverence, department and precision the children showed the splendid training they had received from Sister Jane Frances de Chantal, who instructed the boys, and Sister M. Amata, who had the girls of the class in charge. The church was filled with parents and other relatives and the friends of the class members.

PALMYRA ENCAMPMENT IS TO CONFER PATRIARCH DEGREE

At its meeting last week at which Luther G. Andrews, senior warden presided, Palmyra Encampment, No. 3, I. O. O. F., voted to hold a special meeting next Friday evening to confer the patriarchal degree upon a class of candidates, who will receive the royal purple degree June 10, when the local encampment will be host to other encampments in this district, including those from Willimantic, New London and Mystic. On Tuesday evening, the local patriarchs are to journey to New London as the guests of Orion encampment, where the degree team of Palmyra encampment is to work the royal purple degree, and it is expected that a large number of members will make the trip.

A supper is to be served at 7.30. This is the third in a series of inter-district meetings, the Mystic and Willimantic encampments having recently been the hosts to the other lodges.

FOURTH DEGREE, K. OF C., HAS INTERESTING PLANS

The regular meeting of Rev. Daniel Mullen assembly, Fourth Degree, was held Sunday afternoon at the K. of C. home with a large attendance. The general business was transacted under the leadership of Morgan Cronin, F. N.

Preliminary plans for an outing for the members in good standing were taken up and indications are that this year's event will be up to the usual high standard. The conferring of the major degree under the direction of Master Wm. F. Collins of Hartford will take place at New Britain this year. Classes are now being formed in all the assemblies throughout the state for this anticipated event, and from present indications, Rev. Daniel Mullen assembly will have its usual quota.

The Eastern Connecticut K. of C. field day which is being promoted by a committee from White Cross council was endorsed. This is to be a grand get-together out-door meet of all the councils of this part of the state with athletic events, etc. to be held in Norwich his summer.

KAPPA DELTA SORORITY HOLDS ANNUAL BANQUET

A group of eighteen, including alumnae and members of Kappa Delta Sorority of N. F. A., held its annual banquet at the Wauregan hotel, Saturday evening. The following menu was served:

UNCAS-ON-THAMES HAS WELL RENDERED PROGRAMME

The third entertainment by the Entertainers club of Uncas-on-Thames was very successfully given at the sanatorium Friday evening under the direction of Auburyj Travers. The performance took place in the dining room where a platform was especially built for the occasion and it was certainly the best and most elaborate performance given by talent at the institution. The first part of the programme was composed of novelty numbers and singing and was as follows: Accordion solo, Frank Mader; vocal solos, Dr. LaSalle LaBerge; character songs, Mrs. Sadie White; Charleston, Thomas Murano; accordion duets, Frank Mader and John Lasko; songs, old, new and some blues, by Mrs. Cecelia MacNeal; monologue, The Scrub Woman's Dream, Aubury Travers. The accompanists were Mrs. MacNeil and Miss Myrtice Fielding.

The second part was a very novel effect of tableaux and singing, ensemble singing taking place behind the scenes while on the stage were the tableaux in a very original way for the action of the song. Some of the tableaux were very humorous while others depicted the beauty which the lyrics of the song suggested. One especially beautiful number a presentation of the Red Cross Nurse in Flanders Field presented as a tribute the meaning of Memorial day. The presentation of the Rosary was another bit of excellent and beautiful work while the interpretation of Red Hot Mama was a very humorous and original number. The numbers presented were as follows: Smiles by May Strong, William Warakomski and Alex Gulfinot; The Rosary, Miss Rose Paige; School Days, May Strong and William Warakomski; The Old Oaken Bucket, Mrs. M. B. Darby and S. H. Hartung; Red Hot Mamma, Paul Conard; Yes We Have No Bananas, Joseph Jaccomini, Rose Paige and May Strong; Sweet Adeline, Paul Conard, William Warakomski, Alex Gulfinot and Joseph Jaccomini; Silver Threads Among the Gold, Mrs. M. B. Darby and S. H. Hartung; Madelon, Miss Rose Paige and Aubury Travers; Red Cross Nurse in Flanders Field, Miss Marian Campbell, Aubury Travers. May Strong, Paul Conard; Jingle Bells and Good Nigh Ladies, Mrs. M. B. Darby, Rose Paige, S. H. Hartung and Alex Gulfinot.

The director of music was Miss Margaret Campbell, electrical effects by Jean Keifer, stage manager, Dr. LaSalle LaBerge, and the local production was directed and staged by Aubury Travers. Between the parts of the programme Dr. Campbell gave a very pleasant and humorous talk.

INVALID COLCHESTER WOMAN RESCUED FROM FIRE

Mrs. H. H. Brown, aged invalid, of Colchester was rescued by firemen from the second story of her home on South Main street in a fire which caused damage of about $1,500, late Friday afternoon.

The house was occupied on the ground floor by Samuel Case and family and on the second floor by Mrs. Brown and her nurse. Shortly after 4 o'clock, when the Case family and Mrs. Brown's nurse were out, the fire broke out in a false attic. The blaze is believed to have started from a defective chimney.

Swan R. Rathbun, a neighbor, discovered smoke pouring from the attic and notified the fire department. When the firemen arrived, the upper part of the house was partially filled with smoke, while the false attic was a roaring furnace.

Mrs. Brown was carried out, suffering from the effects of the smoke, and removed to the home of Mr. Rathbun. After a half-hour battle with the fire the flames were brought under control. The fire damage was confined to the false attic and one wing of the house.

SPECIAL TRAFFIC RULES FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Emergency traffic rules will be put in force during the Memorial day parade this (Monday) morning. Announcement was made Saturday by the police department that there will be no parking on the westerly side of Broadway or the easterly side of Washington street during the parade The Washington street side of Chelsea parade will be kept free from machines so that the military companies may bring up their equipment.

While the parade is forming there will be no parking allowed on Main street from the Chelsea bank to Burnham square and the street will be closed to traffic, machines being routed over other streets.

Eighteenth Birthday Party

Twelve friends of Joseph Bruso called on him to help celebrate his 18th birthday at the home of his aunt Mrs. Oscar Bjork ,66 Elizabeth street. Games were played and radio music was enjoyed. A birthday cake with 18 candles was lighted. Ice cream, cake, fruit punch and fruit were served by Mrs. Paul Bruso and Mrs. Oscar Bjork.

NORWICH TOWN

Secretary Leonard A. Hough, of the Norwich Rural association, has sent out notices this week to members, announcing the date of the annual meeting which is to take place early in June. At this time matters of general community interest will be considered. The following have been appointed a nominating committee, by President Walter T. Camp, to present the names of officers and committees to serve the ensuing year: Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey, chairman and Herbert L. Yerrington, who were authorized to choose the third member. Henry T. Frazier, President Camp, with Mrs. Camp, is to have charge of the arrangements for the community picnic in Lowthorpe meadows, Friday evening June 11th, from 5 o'clock on.

Thomas Wilcox of Mansfield, who recently resigned as manager of Idle Manor the summer home of Mrs. O. H. Perry, formerly of Norwich, was a guest this week at the home of Frederic H. Wyant district agent of the Connecticut Humane society and Mrs. Wyant at Norwich Town.

Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy, of Town street, left Friday afternoon to be the guest the next few days of her mother, Mrs. Mary White, and her sister, Miss Annie White of Webster, Mass.

For several days, Edwin C. Gay and L. Stanley Gay, of Julian Terrace, have had as their guest, Mr. Gay's sister-in-law, Mrs. James H. Albertson, of New York, formerly of Norwich.

Mrs. Charles F. Geer of West Town street, motored Friday to New London going over the military highway and returning by the New London-Gardiner lake route. Returning with Mrs. Geer were her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Albert P. Geer of New London, who were Mrs. Geer's guests in visiting family plots in Yantic cemetery, also at Maplewood cemetery, in commemoration of Memorial day. Later Mrs. Geer conveyed her relatives to their home.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

When it's Spring

When the days get hickey-dickey,
And your clothes feel sorto sticky
And you want to pull your shoes off
—then it's spring.
Hain't no need to tell us fellers
'Bout the water in your cellars.
That the equinox has struck us and it's spring.

We don't give a rap for figgers—
It's the sun that pulls the triggers
Of a million pent-up leaf buds on the trees;
Makes the grass sit up and notice,
And you don't care where your coat
is,
When Old Winter's up and dusted
with his freeze.
You can 'pend on weather bureaus
For your knowledge, but I'm sure of Jes' one item in this world of chang-
in' things:
When Hae Wilson's huntin' burlap
And he whispers: "Watch out for pap!"
Then I'd bet my bottom dollar that
it's spring.

'Cause he's fixin' up fer sehin',
Though he knows his pap's a-claimin'
That a feller ought to work his
'rithmetic:
But young Has hain't much fer study;
Him and me and Charlie Diddy
Ruther'd spend our days a-loafin'
'round the crick,

'Pears like every leaf and pebble's
Got their voices pitched in trebles
Jes' to welcome us with glad and cherry song,
And the water in old Brandy
Sgot a feelin,' warm and dandy;
Makes a feller want to seine the whole day long.

When the days get hickey-dickey,
And your clothes feel sorto sticky
And you want to pull your shoes off
—then it's spring.
Weathermen, they set the seasons,
But don't listen to their reasons.
For the air gets warm and balmy
when it's spring.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Among the many interesting birds that visit us at this time of the year are the bobolinks. These birds are found from Nova Scotia in Canada to New Jersey and as far west as Utah. The bobolink is sometimes called the bird of many names. In our section of the country they are called bobolinks the male bird loses his black, white and buff feathers, becomes brown and gray like his mate, and the birds are known as reedbirds.

They start south in late July or early August and in late August reach the fields of South Carolina and Georgia. They flock to the rice fields from which they get the name of rice birds. They do great damage to the rice fields. When the birds get as far south as Cuba they are called Chambergos. By the time they reach Jamaica they are very fat and are known as butterbirds. Then on they go southward until they reach their winter home south of the Amazon river in South America.

The return trip north is started in March or April and reach Florida the latter part of April. They are then in full song and are called Maybirds. In April or early May they reach Pennsylvania and it is only a short trip from there to New England.

The birds are usually found in grass meadows. The nest, of grasses, is built in a hollow in the ground. The eggs number four to six and are white heavily spotted with brown.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

The Southern States

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write to you about the Southern states. They are mostly in the southern plain. The eastern section is east of the Mississippi river. The eastern highland enters all but two of the states of this section. Mt. Mitchell is the highest peak in the whole highland.

The rivers show that most of this section slopes to the Atlantic ocean and Gulf of Mexico. There is plenty of rain. The winters are short and cool. The summers are long and hot. Cotton is the leading crop in these states. Part is made into cloth in cities near the cotton fields. Much more is sent to northern cities and to Europe.

Peaches, pears and other fruits thrive in parts of these states. Oranges grow well in Florida. Many early vegetables are raised for northern cities and towns. Rice grows in the wet lands near many of the rivers. The rich lands near the lower Mississippi are noted for rice. Sugar cane thrives near the same region and in other fertile river valleys farther west.

Corn and wheat are raised in many parts of these states. Large forests of long leaf pine grow on the Southern plain. Lumber and rosin are leading products. There are iron and coal mines in the southern part of the eastern highland. Iron mills have been built near the mines.

The long list of products show what kind of work the people of the south do. They work in the cotton fields. They weave cotton cloth. They press oil from the cotton seed. They take care of fruit trees. They plant the rice fields. They raise sugar cane and make sugar. They raise corn and wheat. They feed cattle. They cut down trees and saw lumber. They make tar and rosin out of the sap of pine trees. They dig iron ore and coal.

They work in iron mills. They work on railroads and ships that carry the various products. There are many cities in the south. They are not so large as some in the north.

The Chinese Empire

Dear Uncle Jed: I decided to write to you about the Chinese empire. The Chinese empire covers one fourth of Asia, and is larger than the United States.

The western part of the Chinese empire is Tibet. It has some of the highest mountains on the earth. Most of Tibet is a desert. Nearly all the people live near rivers that flow from melting snow.

The northern part of this empire is Mongolia. The Atlas mountains are on the north and the Khinghan mountains on the east. On the west rises the lofty Thian-Shan range. The desert of Gobi is in this region. Around it are grass lands where camels, sheep and horses graze. The towns are small and the people are very poor.

East of Mongolia, lies Manchuria. It reaches the Amur river on the north. This is the region over which Russia and Japan have lately been at war, but it belongs to China.

The part of the Chinese empire east of Tibet is China. Two large rivers rise in Tibet and flow east across China. One is the Hoangho and the other the Yangtse river. These two rivers have made the largest delta in the world. It is called the plain of China.

This delta plain lies along a large part of the coast of China. In this plain live nearly one fifth of all the people of the world.

The mulberry tree grows in nearly all parts of China. Tea grows in the hilly lands of western and southern China.

The Chinese were the first to make gunpowder and fire crackers. They were also the first to print on paper.

The Chinese have only a few railroads. They know little about machines for making cloth.

The Chinese are a very old nation. They have some of the oldest cities in the world. They made fine silks and dishes of China ware long before the people of Europe knew how.

The president of China lives in Peking, the capital. This city is about as large as Chicago.

Playing Cook

Dear Uncle Jed: Three weeks ago I was left home with my brothers while my mother and father went away for the day. Of course I knew I'd have dinner to prepare, so about 11 o'clock I put on my apron and began peeling potatoes. I placed them in a pan on the fire and would certainly have forgotten to put the salt in them if I hadn't gone in the cupboard and seen the salt shaker. About 11:30 the butcher came in and inquired what kind of meat I wanted for dinner. I decided to have steak, knowing it would be easy to cook. I put the steak in the frying pan and it seemed to me as if I had forgotten something, but thinking it was just my imagination, I let it go.

I then set the table and as I opened the ice chest I found to my amazement two apple pies and a cake. I said to myself, "Mother must have known that I would not take pains to even try to bake a cake." About five minutes to 12 my brother arrived for dinner and found everything tasting rather good except the steak. He told me I had not salted it, but he did so after and said it would be all right. He asked who had made the cake and pies. By the answer I gave him he believed even today that I baked them and every time we have cake or pies I often wonder if he will pop the question and find out who really did bake them.

My Brother's Cabin

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have written and this time I am going to tell you of my brother's cabin.

My brother and some friends have a cabin, which is a little way out in the woods. It is made of logs, and they put tar paper on the roof. Inside they nailed thick cardboard, to keep out the cold, and the rain. One of the neighbors have threw a stove, and they made some chairs and a table. They have a cupboard and that is where they keep their food.

In the summer they put blankets on the floor and they sleep there. They also have many picnics. We often go there and gather flowers to put in it. We always keep their cabin nice and pleasant.

My brother and his friends go hunting and catch rabbits and other animals and have good food to eat. Sometimes they invite us to dinner with them. We like their cooking very much.

A Pleasant Outing

Dear Uncle Jed: One pleasant morning in July, my brother and I decided to go berrying. My mother got our pails ready; we also took our dinner and started at about 7:30 a. m. We met some other friends and went on together. The distance to the woods was about two miles and a half. We went through the park and saw many animals and birds.

At 9:30 we reached the grounds and started picking. There were many berries and we filled our pails soon. We ran through the woods and had much fun jumping over rocks and fallen trees. Once I fell while running and spilled my berries.

As we were now tired we sat down and ate dinner. After having a little rest we continued picking until I filled my pail once more.

Girlie

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my horse. Her name is Girlie. She is 20 years old. I like her very much. I give her water and grain and hay every night. I help my father plow with her and put the harrow through. I wish I would get one of your books. I hope the Wide Awakes will enjoy my story.

About Italy

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write you about Italy. Italy is more like California than any other part of our country, but it is only about two thirds as large. Southern Italy is a land of oranges, lemons, and many other fruits. Olives and grapes also grow in many parts of the country.

The fertile valley of the river Po, along the foot of the Alps has wheat and other grain fields. The mulberry tree, thrives in Italy and this country like France is noted for silks.

All the large cities of Italy are famous for their galleries of paintings and of marble statues, among these cities is Florence.

The trade center of the valley of the Po is Milan. It is a famous silk market, like Lyon in the valley of the Rhone. Genoa is still one of the large ports of Italy. The city of Venice is not far from where the Po enters the Adriatic sea.

This was a leading port in olden times. It is now noted for making glass and its canals. The most famous city of Italy is Rome. It was the capital of the old Roman Empire long, since gone.

A new city has been built over the ruins of temples and other buildings can still be seen. This city is the home of the pope, and here is St. Peter's the largest church and one of the most beautiful in all the world.

The chief port of Italy is Naples. It is on a fine bay and harbor. Most of the Italians now living in the United States came through the ports of Naples and Genoa.

Disobedience

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the second time I have sent to the Wide Awakes. One afternoon after school I was playing ball with my friends. We were having a merry time. Mother had told me to go home at 5 o'clock. The time was nearing for me to go home. I was thinking how much I'd miss for it was getting very exciting. Then I thought I would stay a few minutes more though as my time was over mother would notice. Perhaps the clock might be stopped at my house or late. I had no time to indulge in another thought. For just then the ball came right past me and across a little brook it went. As it was my turn to catch I ran after it. When I came to the brook I took a jump but instead of landing on the other side I landed in the brook. I came out all soaked and wet, splashed with mud all over. I could hardly walk with my shoes full of the rich black mud. Mamma was there at the door waiting for me. She pointed to the clock, quarter past five! She did not scold me very much but there was no more ball game for me that evening, neither the day after.

At Our School

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to you. I hope you and the Wide Awakes will think it is interesting. I am seven years old and am in the second grade. I like school very much.

We have been learning about different countries. One country we have been studying about is Arabia. We made a desert and oasis on our sand table with a caravan crossing the desert.

Friday afternoon we played Indians. Some of the children dressed in Indian suits with bands around their heads with bright feathers in them. The boys made bows and arrows.

On the platform there was a wigwam with two Indian chiefs sitting outside. I was one of the chiefs. We acted out the story of Hiawatha.

Schools in India

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write to you about India. How would you like to go to school at six o'clock in the morning Uncle Jed? This is the time many children in India go to school.

India is a large country in Asia.

The children stay in school till nine o'clock, then they go home for breakfast and go back to school at ten o'clock. In some schools there are no desks or chairs.

In some schools they have long desks.

I like our schools better.

Preserving the Wild Flowers

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written. I am going to tell you about preserving the wild flowers. Many people come from the city in their autos and they pick all they can find and put them in their machines. Then when they begin to wither they throw them away. The people who do this are very ignorant and know no better. If each one of us would do our best and try to teach these ignorant people maybe they would do better.

To Protect the Birds

Dear Uncle Jed: I have written to you but once before, and wish to tell you about our schools Audobon society, formed by the pupils of Leffingwell school. It consists of 18 members a president, vice president, treasurer, and secretary. I was chairman of the first meeting. All of the members and officers are pledged to protect birds from harm, hunger and bad weather by building birdhouses for them.

The dues are five cents per month. This money is to go toward food and shelter for birds. Do you not think our Audobon society worth while having?

A Grain of Sand

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the first time I have written to the Wide Awake circle and hope to obtain a prize book. I am going to tell you about a grain of sand.

I was part of a rock on the high mountains. I had a wonderful view of the country below me which I often longed to visit for I felt very lonesome so far up in the air. Sometimes a few moss seeds visited the rock but the rain quickly washed them off.

One day after the bare face of the rock had been exposed to rain, all the pores in its surface were filled with water. Then the frost came, freezing the water which expanding split the rock into pieces some of which fell on the ground around it, while others rolled down the mountain side.

I was part of a fragment which rolled down the slope until I was caught by a gurgling rill that carried me down to the bed of a river where I rested for a time.

One dark cloudy spring morning the river was swollen by heavy rain, its current became very swift. The little stone which had been worn by the water was rudely shaken from its resting place and carried for many miles down on the sea, about which the rock had, frequently spoken.

The Little Red Hen

Dear Uncle Jed: Once there was a little red hen. She always picked her sticks in the morning. One morning a fox saw her, and he said to himself, "I will catch her." Next morning the little red hen went after her sticks and the fox hid behind the woodpile. After she had almost a handful of wood the fox hid behind the door. The fox frightened her. She dropped her sticks and flew to the beam.

The fox made her dizzy and she fell down and the fox caught her and put her into a bag. When he was on a hill he was tired and went to sleep. When he was fast asleep the little red hen said to herself, "I wonder if I have my scissors and a needle and thread." They were all in her pocket. She cut a big hole and put a big rock in the bag, sewed it up and ran home. The fox said, "How heavy the little red hen is." So he went home. He put the kettle on and opened the bag to drop the little red hen in, but it was only a rock.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS AT ARLINGTON NAT'L CEMETERY

Mr. Coolidge Assured the Soldiers of '61 That the Spirit Which They Represented Two Generations Ago Has Not Departed From the Land—Dwelt Upon the Possibilities of the Geneva Arms Convention—Would Place Reliance in an Adequate National Defense, the World Court and Practice of Economy—Renewed His Belief in the Principals of Religious Liberty and the Equality of Rights.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—The memory of America's heroic war dead was honored today by President Coolidge who delivered a Memorial Day address near the graves of veterans whose last resting place is Arlington National Cemetery.

Turning to the old soldiers of '61, who sat about him in the cemetery's amphitheatre, he assured them that "the spirit which they so nobly represented two generations ago has not departed from the land," and declared that America and the world were attempting "by preventing war to succeed in peace."

As the old veterans 'go down toward the setting sun," he said, "they will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are leaving behind them the same spirit, still undaunted, still ready to maintain in the future a more abiding peace and a more abounding prosperity, under which Americans can continue to work for the salvation of the world."

"Common sense," was laid down by Mr. Coolidge as the keynote of America's contribution to world peace and in discussing its application to a number of present day problems he touched upon the attitude of the Washington government toward the Geneva arms negotiations, the war debt settlements, and many domestic questions.

The president said America expected "practical results" from the preliminary armament negotiations at Geneva, asserted that Europe has the league of nations which "ought to be able to provide those countries with certain political guarantees which our country does not require," and added:

"Besides this there is the world court, which can certainly be used for the determination of all justifiable disputes."

As to war debts, Mr. Coolidge declared that in a spirit of helpfulness, the United States had made "generous settlements," hich preserved the principle of the payment of international debts and gave promise of being mutually beneficial to the trade relations of the nations involved.

The rule of practical possibilities he applied to the Geneva arms negotiations, to the war debt negotiations, and to many domestic problems. He renewed his belief in "the principle of religious liberty and toleration and equality of rights;" in an adequate national defense; in the world court, and in the practice of economy.

"Practical results," Mr. Coolidge said is what the American nation expects from the negotiations at Geneva.

"We believe that other nations ought to join with us in laying aside their suspicions and hatreds sufficiently to agree among themselves upon methods of mutual relief from the necessity of the maintenance of great land and sea forces," he continued. "This can not be done if we constantly have in mind the resort to war for the redress of wrongs and the enforcements of rights."

The Arlington ceremonies were the central feature of the observance of the day in the capital city, with Senator Willis, of Ohio, who delivered an address after the chief executive, also urging the cause of peace.

Leaving the amphitheatre, the president, who was accompanied by Mrs. Coolidge, went to the grave of more than 2,000 unknown Union soldiers and deposited there a wreath while Mrs. Coolidge laid beside it a single red rose.

In the crowded amphitheatre were gathered thousands, including veterans of the Spanish and World wars as well as those of the Civil war in the familiar blue. Undaunted by showers that fell at intervals during the morning before the clouds parted at noon for a clear, warm day, the aged veterans assembled for a parade in which their younger comrades participated.

After traversing the streets of downtown Washington, they boarded trolley cars for Arlington and there placed wreaths on the grave of the Civil war unknown before attending the service at which the president spoke.

The tomb of the unknown of the World war was also a converging point for thousands during the day, and in the morning Crown Prince Gustavus Adolphus of Sweden placed a wreath upon it.

As the ceremonies were proceeding at the amphitheatre, similar exercises were conducted at various cemeteries in and about Washington, while on the Potomac the navy dead were honored by the Veterans of Foreign Wars from the Sylph, the yacht of the secretary of the navy. A huge anchor of poppies was lowered on the waters at this ceremony by Admiral E. W. Eberle, chief of naval operations.

Government activities were at a standstill for the holiday, both houses of congress being in recess and all departments closed. While most of the members of the cabinet remained in Washington, Secretary Wilbur was in Newark, N. J. to deliver an address and Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover were in Philadelphia for the opening of the Sesqui-centennial exposition.

FLOWERS STREWN OVER OCEAN GRAVE OF S-51

NEWPORT, R. I., May 31.—(AP)—Four women today braved wind tossed seas and stinging rain squalls to strew flowers over the ocean grave of the United States submarine S-51, 14 miles off Block Island. Leaving the torpedo station here this forenoon, the naval tug Triton fought her way off shore through heavy weather to the spot where the big submersible went down in collision last September with a loss of 33 lives.

Aboard the tug was Mrs. Alfred A. Smith, widow of Torpedoman Smith, whose body is believed to be still imprisoned in the hull 138 feet below the surface. She was accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Mary Martin, and a friend, Mrs. Mary Berlenbach. The fourth member of the little party was Mrs. Jones, widow of Chief Motor Machinists Mate F. P. James, another victim of the disaster.

Aided by the crew of the tug, the women scattered wreaths and floral tributes over the waves as the Triton circled the spot. Included in the offerings were blossoms from the Garden of Captain Edgar B. Larimer, commander of the Newport Torpedo station who authorized the Triton's memorial trip. The salvage fleet, which hopes to raise the S-51 this summer was idle today due to the holiday and rough weather.

Steamer Priscilla Ashore This A. M. On Little Gull Island

NEW LONDON, June 1.—(AP)—The steamer Priscilla, of the Fall River line running between New York and Fall River, Mass., went ashore early today on Little Gull Island off New London. The Mojave of the coast guard was sent out to her rescue.

20,000 PERSONS AT OPENING OF THE SESQUICENTENNIAL

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP)—America today, through Philadelphia's colorful exposition, began the celebration of a century and half of independence, that will continue to the end of November.

Like the tattered and torn soldiers of George Washington, who saw their dark days in the struggle of freedom, the 20,000 spectators who participated in the formal opening of the sesquicentennial exposition had their anxious moments as rain drenched the grounds in the forenoon and threatened to continue all day.

But just as the struggle for independence ended successfully, so did the opening ceremonies end to the satisfaction of all, for in the darkest moment of the day the sun burst through the heavy clouds and brought smiles to the great throng.

Though the big show has not yet been completed, tremendous strides have been made in recent days. When President Coolidge comes here on July 3 to endorse the celebration of the 150th anniversary of the signing of the declaration of independence the exposition will have been completed, in the expectation of the management.

Secretary of State Kellogg and Secretary of Commerce Hoover made addresses at the exercises in the name of the national government, while Mayor W. Freeland Kendrick spoke for the municipality recounting the stirring scenes enacted here 150 years ago.

SOUTH AMERICA TAKING TO YANKEE CULINARY

ATLANTIC, CITY, N. J., May 31.—(AP)—Corn beef and cabbage, fried hominy and other culinary idosyncrasies of the United States are gracing South American tables under names that tickle the ear as much as they tickle the palate, delegates to the convention of the General Federation of Women's clubs learned today.

News of the migration of the Boston baked beans and subsequent displacement of the famous iguana steak was contained in a message from Mrs. Cyrus Townsend Brady, Jr., of the American Woman's club of Buenos Aires, read before the convention.

"We have had printed an English-Spanish cookbook for young American wives," the message read. "This enables them to plan their meals in English and have them cooked in Spanish by native help."

Mrs. Percy V. Pennypacker, of Austin, Tex., former president of the federation, collapsed as she was about to address the convention. She was carried to her hotel. Her illness was diagnosed as acute indigestion.

A plea for the teaching of history and geography as "a great human story that tells the truth without prejudice" was made by Mrs. Thomas G. Winter, of Minneapolis, Minn.

POLAR BEAR AFLOAT ON ICEBERG WELL OUT TO SEA

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—A polar bear on a mammoth iceberg floating in the Atlantic 1,180 miles from New York was reported by passengers of the Hamburg American liner Hamburg which docked today.

The iceberg, 2,000 feet long and rearing its apex 100 feet out of the water, was seen when the liner was off the Grand Banks of New Foundland, at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, Commander Klar said. The vessel was at one time within eight miles of the berg. Passengers with field glasses said they saw the bear clambering around the side of the berg.

HOLIDAY AUTO TRAFFIC RECORDS SHATTERED

DANBURY, May 31.—(AP)—State police officials reported that all previous records for heavy automobile traffic on holidays were shattered over the week end with practically an unbroken stream of cars passing through this city. A large percentage of the traffic was foreign with New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts registrations predominating. Every available officer was placed on traffic duty and despite the amount of travel on the roads, few accidents occurred in this territory.

Medals and Cash For Telephone Employes

Members of Bell System Rewarded For Noteworthy Public Service.

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—The awarding of five silver medals by Theodore N. Vail Memorial committee, each carrying cash awards of $250, was announced tonight. The medals are presented members of the Bell Telephone system each year as rewards for noteworthy public service. Two of this year's awards are to women operators who risked death at the hands of armed robbers to perform unusual service.

Mrs. Josephine L. August, night operator at Cassapolis, Mich., whose courage and clear thinking when robbers terrorized that city, prevented the looting of the Cassapolis First National bank, is among those honored. She remained at her post while marauders discharged nitro-glycerine in the bank building two doors away and while pistol shots crackled in the early morning hours. Although lines to the police and fire departments and to the sheriff's home had been cut, she secured aid from neighboring towns and caused the robbers to flee empty handed.

With a revolver leveled at her head by a man who stood outside the closed window of the Washington, Ark., telephone office, Miss Ruby La Verne Wilson, 18 years old, notified the authorities an attempt was being made to rob the local bank. Most of the cables had been put out of order by the robbers, but through a round-about method she succeeded in summoning aid while the robber, flashlight in one hand and revolver in the other, threatened her. Her conspicuous service in the face of danger won her the award.

Emory Daniel Stine, lineman of York, Pa., who stood in the icy water of a raging stream to restore shattered communication; Mrs. Mary Regina Smith of Sabena, Texas, who stuck to her switchboard until flood waters tore away the walls of the telephone exchange, and Everett G. Nelson, Niagara Falls, N. Y., repairman, who risked his life to save a fellow worker from electrocution on the top of a 45-foot pole, were the others honored in the latest award of the memorial medals.

PARLIAMENTARY BATTLE IN FRENCH CHAMBER TODAY

PARIS, May 31.—(AP)—Premier Briand will have to wage another parliamentary battle tomorrow in order to clinch the victory he won on the reconvening of the chamber of deputies last Thursday, when he received a vote of confidence by a vote of 320 to 209.

The radicals, including most of the members of the cabinet of former Premier Herriot, contest M. Briand's success of Thursday; saying he obtained only one tangible result, division of the radical party. They have again declared war on the ministry, summoning the party members to rally around the radical standard and vote the downfall of the government or suffer the consequences, which, it is intimated, will be exclusion from the party.

The conflict between the radicals, socialists and the government, though waged ostensibly on the financial question, is a political one. The groups with the exception of the radicals of nationalist tendency, make no secret of their desire to bring M. Herriot back to power. They are led by most of M. Herriot's ministers. Their tactics seem to be to draw the government into debate on the financial question, in the course of which they expect the premier or finance minister will make declarations so hostile to the radical-socialist extreme policies as to enable them to patch up the left bloc again and throw down the government.

DRIVER OF STOLEN AUTO CRASHED OFF BRIDGE

BOSTON, May 31.—(AP)—A negro drove a stolen car through the railing of Harvard bridge into the Charles river today. He was rescued, and when doctors found him uninjured, was placed under arrest. His story to the police that a second negro had been trapped in the submerged car, was found to be false, but only after the river had been grappled for the supposed victim.

The driver whose escapade ended in a bath was Arthur Campbell of Cambridge. His plunge came as he was driving 40 miles an hour through heavy holiday traffic to escape a policeman, who saw him steal the automobile and gave chase in a commandeered machine. Campbell sideswiped four cars in his dash and narrowly escaped pedestrians when the automobile, crashed over a guard bumper and through the railing. Some one threw him a rope as he swam about but it broke as he ascended and a police boat picked him up.

EGYPT IS FACING A MINSTERIAL CRISIS

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, May 31.—(AP)—Egypt is in the throes of a ministerial crisis, the solution of which is likely to have far reaching effects on the future of the country and its relation with British rule there.

Premier Ahmed Ziwar Pasha, who has been in office since 1924, has presented the resignation of his cabinet to King Faud, and the king requested him to remain in office to carry on routine business until a decision is reached as to whether Zagloul Pasha, the nationalist leader or Adly Yegen Pasha is to be called in to form a ministry.

SQUIRREL CAUSED FIREMEN TO TURN OUT IN CAMBRIDGE

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 31.—(AP)—The first department turned out today for a squirrel's death. Responding to an alarm, the firemen discovered smoke issuing from the wires above the signal box. They raised a ladder and found a squirrel had stepped from one wire to another and his death. His body completed the circuit and sounded the alarm.

UNEARTHED $200,000 GOLD BURIED IN CIVIL WAR DAYS

DEMOPOLIS, Ala., May 31.—(AP)—Buried gold of Civil war days, valued according to current estimates as high as $200,000, has been unearthed near Demopolis, by Gayus Whitfield, of Middlesboro, Ky., with the aid of an ancient map found among papers of his father, C. Boaz Whitfield, Alabama planter.

Wheeler Defends Anti-Saloon League

Denies Charges Made by Representative Tinkham of Massachusetts.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—Denying that the Anti-Saloon league has ever paid any congressman for introducing or championing a bill, Wayne B. Wheeler of the league, said in a statement today that occasionally "when a congressman makes a speech of prohibition, his expenses and sometimes an honorarium is paid by the organization that arranged for it."

A congressman "who has ability enough so that the people want to hear him should not be stopped from this service simply because he is a public official," he declared. "Vice President Marshall said he had to do this when he was vice president."

Mr. Wheeler's statement was in reply to one by Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, who has made charges relating to the league's activities and expenditures and has also drawn up a resolution calling for an investigation to determine whether Representative Cramton, republican, Michigan, or any other member "has received money or fees from the Anti-Saloon league or any other organization interested in legislation before congress."

Incidentally the Anti-Saloon league general counsel endorsed Senator Borah's speech in Baltimore last night against state referendums on prohibition, asserting they would destroy the policy of uniformity of operations under the constitution and multiply enforcement difficulties.

As to the general charges of Mr. Tinkham, Mr. Wheeler said that like "foam on beer," they had little substance.

"Tinkham's hallucinations about the league spending two and a half million dollars in politics in a year is nonsense," he said. "That was the total spent for the 48 states and by the National league for all purposes in the height of the campaign for ratification. Most of it was spent for educational work. In the state of Ohio alone the referendum election cost over $200,000 a year for several years. The amount spent in political campaigns was also a small fraction of that amount."

Mr. Wheeler began his statement by declaring the records showed the league is the only organization for years that has filed reports of its political activities and expenditures and that the wet organizations "back of Mr. Tinkham" filed "only in recent years when we drove them to it," and even these reports have not been in full accord with the law."

PILSUDSKI DECLINES PRESIDENCY OF POLAND

WARSAW, May 31.—(AP)—Marshal Joseph Pilsudski was chosen for the presidency of the Polish republic by the National Assembly, composed of the senate and diet, today but in dramatic manner he declined the post because of the restrictions he said were imposed on the chief executive by the present constitution.

Consequently acting President Ratai issued orders for the calling of a new election tomorrow morning. Tonight, there were some signs of disquietude over the possibility of Pilsudski attempting another coup d'etat by dissolving parliament in the event that one of the two candidates he suggested is not elected. These two candidates are Dr. Zdziechowski, professor of philosophy at Vilna university and Professor Ignats Mascicki, of Lemberg university.

Warsaw presented the same picture tonight as before today's election. The police were busy keeping order, among the many thousands gathered in the streets. The parliamentary building, which is surrounded by a park, was cordoned for a radius of about a mile, and only those with unquestionable identification were allowed to pass. There was a gigantic demonstration in Redeemer square staged in the hope of influencing Pilsudski to reconsider his decision.

Of the two candidates proposed by Pilsudski when he refused to assume the presidential chair, Professor Moscicki although relatively unknown to the general public, appears to have the most promising chance. He is an intimate friend of M. Ratai, named provisional president after the Pilsudski revolt, and M. Bartel, premier in the interim cabinet.

The socialists who nominated Pilsudski, are so embittered by his unforeseen action that they are likely to put up a candidate of their own, Ignaz Daszinski, who in 1918 was chancellor of the short lived Lubli socialist republic.

CONFIDENCE MAN HELD FOR AN OLD SENTENCE

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—Arrested as he stepped from the state prison at Trenton, N. J., Edward Furey, known to police as "Big Ed, the Confidence Man," and alleged former associate of Nicky Arnstein, was brought back to New York today in connection with an old sentence for practicing extortion on a defaulting Wall street bank messenger.

Furey was set free in Trenton today after serving 14 months for carrying concealed weapons. As he stepped from the prison gates detectives served him with a bench warrant and brought him to police headquarters here.

SHRINERS IN PHILADELPHIA FOR THE IMPERIAL COUNCIL

PHILADELPHIA, May 31.—(AP)—With streets thronged with thousands of red-fezzed visitors, attired in colorful uniforms, Philadelphia tonight looked like an oriental metropolis.

For three days caravans of pilgrims have trekked into the city to attend the 52nd Imperial council session, Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, which opens tomorrow.

Tonight at the new municipal auditorium, accommodating 30,000 persons, an inaugural ball was held for officers of the Imperial council and members of uniformed bodies.

CHOSE DEATH RATHER THAN UNDECEIVE MOTHER

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—Unable to bear the thought that his mother, who believed him in prosperous circumstances, was about to discover that he was "only a cabaret singer," Gerold Schrage, 23 year old singer, actor, pianist and graduate of a western university, committed suicide by illuminating gas today.

CROWN PRINCE OF SWEDEN HONORED SOLDIER DEAD

First Member of Royalty to Place an Offering on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery—Swedish Legation Made Public a Message of Gratitude For the Cordial Reception Given the Prince and Princess.

WASHINGTON, May 31.—(AP)—Timing his departure from the capital to make possible beforehand the payment of royal tribute to America's soldier dead, the crown prince of Sweden, the guest of the nation, left today on a special train for New York.

The first member of royalty to place an offering on the tomb of the unknown soldier in Arlington cemetery, he did so in the spirit that one soldier feels when he pays homage to another, though the one be a crown prince, a major general, and the other only an enlisted man.

That Gustavus Adolphus was deeply moved, none who saw him stand at salute before the tomb and then step forward to reverently place his offering on the plain marble slab could doubt, it was on a trip later to the capitol, however, that he let his feelings be known to others and that was the way he described them.

At the capitol, the crown prince was received by Chief Justice Taft and the other justices of the supreme court. The affair was informal, the justices having discarded the robes of their office to meet their guest.

A luncheon given by Robert Woods Bliss, the American minister to Sweden, and Mrs. Bliss preceded the departure of the crown prince and princess, terminated their four days' visit here and sent them off on a two months' tour of the country.

A statement made public by authorization of the Swedish legation said the crown prince and his wife, gratefully acknowledged the "cordial reception given them both at the white house and by congress and the untiring courtesy of the secretary of state and of the state department officials as well as of other authorities."

"The days spent in the capital will be unforgettable," the statement added. "Both the crown prince and the crown princess gave vent to their feelings of gratitude for the hospitality of which they have received so many proofs during their visit."

"Their royal highnesses will retain in grateful remembrance all the persons and institutions with which they have come into contact," and the crowning event, the unveiling of the memorial to Captain John Ericsson they will remember as one of the most memorabel events of their lives.

Thanks to the splendidly organized arrangements throughout their stay they have been able to see and experience much more than would otherwise have been possible and have been able to derive great benefit from their sojourn."

The crown prince voiced similar thanks to Under-Secretary of State Grew and Assistant Secretary J. Butler Wright who were present in their official capacity when the special train left, Secretary Kellogg, who, was in Philadelphia in connection with the opening of the sesqui-centennial exposition, sent regrets at his inability to be there.

When Col. Oscar N. Solbert, of the army reserve corps left with the royal party he carried, in addition to his designation as military aide to the crown prince, a new title—that of president of the John Ericsson Republican League of America. The league was formed by representatives of 150 Swedish-American organizations of 15 states who came here for the dedication Saturday of the Ericsson memorial.

The purpose of the league is said to be to assist the republican national committee, in this connection it was recalled tant President Coolidge in his dedication address fixed the number of citizens of Swedish descent at 2,000,000.

Members of the crown prince's official entourage disclaimed knowledge of the league's creation or motives and declared that it was the firm intention of the prince to evade everything of political nature throughout his stay in this country.

EXCESSIVE SMOKING BAD FOR MEN AND WOMEN

MONTREAL, Que., May 31.—(AP)—Excessive smoking and drinking and the use of cosmetics by women were condemned today by Dr. Wolff Freudenthal of New York city at a gathering of ear, throat and nose specialists from all parts of Canada and the United States.

Excessive smoking is bad for men and women, he said, but especially for women, because the linings of the throat and nose of women are so much more delicate than those of men. Cosmetics, Dr. Freudenthal stated, also affect the nose and throat, irritating the membranes and sometimes causing asthma.

Alcohol in excess, the speaker said, is bad for the throat and breathing apparatus, but when used properly is valuable as a medicine, particularly in such diseases as tuberculosis and diabetes. Dr. Freudenthal criticized prohibition saying that the morals of young girls of the United States are being spoiled through it. "Formerly a young girl never touched whiskey," he said, "and now she drinks with the boys."

FASCISTI MARCHERS WERE JEERED IN NEW YORK

NE WYORK, May 31.—(AP)—Jeers, catcalls and shouts of "down with Mussolini!" caused by the presence of 200 fascisti marchers, created a disturbance in New York's Memorial day parade. Mounted police charged and dispersed the disturbers whose ardor, undampened by the soft rain which fell on ceremonies throughout the east, at first threatened serious trouble.

Attired in black overseas caps with black tassels, black puttees, black breeches and shoes and the symbolic black shirts, the fascisti gathering fell in behind a band of Boy Scouts.

Officers of other units protested their presence, saying that Mussolini was opposed to the Americanization of Italians in America, but the uninvited guests insisted on their right to participate along with delegations of veterans of half a dozen foreign countries.

FALL OF 12 FEET FATAL TO AN ELDERLY WOMAN

ROCKVILLE, May 31.—(AP)—Injuries received when she fell 12 feet to the ground today from a second story porch were fatal to Mrs. Mary Savigne, 76, who died in St. Francis hospital, Hartford, tonight, eight hours after the fall. She was hanging out clothes on a pulley line when the railing on which she was leaning gave way. She hit the ground on her back and right hip. Although no bones were broken, she received internal injuries. The woman was employed at the home of Samuel Ginsberg, dry goods store owner and was helping his wife with the washing when the accident occurred. Mrs. Sergine leaves three sons and a daughter.

DEDIFICATION OF TWO CHURCHES IN WALLINGFORD

WALLINGFORD, May 31.—(AP)—Two churches here were dedicated today. That of Sts. Peter and Paul of the Roman Catholic diocese, which has Polish communicants, was dedicated by the Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of the diocese.

The Advent Christian church built in replacement of the structure which was burned last fall was dedicated by the pastor, Rev. Henry Stone.

THE GOVERNOR'S FOOT GUARD AT QUARANTINE

NEW YORK, May 31.—(AP)—The governor's Foot Guard, Putnam Phalanx and Richmond Blues, ended their European tour when they arrived at Quarantine late tonight. The troops are expected to leave for their homes about noon tomorrow.

AMERICAN BALLOON WON THE INTERNATIONAL RACE

BRUSSELS, May 31.—(AP)—The American balloon, Goodyear III, manned by Wade T. Van Orman, with Walter W. Morgan assisting, has won what is considered here one of the most difficult and dangerous races for the Gordon Bennett trophy, in 36 years. The Goodyear landed at Solvesborg, southern Sweden, having covered 623 miles under exceptionally arduous conditions, assailed in turn by snow, rain, and squalls. The balloons took off yesterday afternoon from the aviation field near Antwerp.

The admiration of aeronautic circles over the splendid achievement, however, is marred by anxiety over the fate of John A. Boettner, aboard the other American balloon, the Akron NA A, of whom nothing has been heard since his companion, H. W. Maxson was bumped out of the balloon, almost at the start involving disqualification.

The official classification of the entries which finished is as follows:

"Goodyear III, 528 miles; United States army balloon S-16, 373; the Belgian Belgica 279; Prince Leopold (Belgium) 192; the British Miramar, 102; the Spanish Penarands, 93; the Swiss Helvetia 51; the British Banshee and the French Picardie 59 each, the British B-46 and the Belgian Aerostier 1, 43 miles each, the Italian Aerositer III, 23 miles, the Italian Ciampino III and Ciampino V, 13 miles.

The Belgian Aero club has asked the British, Swedish and Danish admiralties to broadcast that Boettner is missing and to request shipping to keep a sharp lookout.

TWO BOOTBLACKS SLAIN IN CHICAGO BY GUNMEN

CHICAGO, May 31.—(AP)—Chicago gunmen observed Memorial day by adding two bootblacks to the list of nearly 100 persons to die by gangland assassins in the last two years.

The victims were Andrew George and an unidentified man, proprietors of a shoe shining parlor. A third man, Constantine Seveles, was wounded.

The two assailants met the three men in an alley and opened fire after a brief altercation, making their escape in an automobile.

Seveles said he had met the bootblacks only a few minutes before and that their assailants tried to rob them.

The police, however, worked on the theory the shooting was the result of labor trouble.

A policeman living a short distance away opened fire from the window of his home on the slayers' car as it passed. He said he believed he wounded one of the men.

CANADA TO REVERT TO GOLD STANDARD JULY 1

OTTAWA, Ont., May 30.—(AP)—Canada will revert officially to the gold standard on July 1, it was announced in the house of commons today, by J. A. Robb, minister of finance.

Answering a question in the house, Minister Robb said: "I have no intention of bringing down any legislation on the subject, but Canada will automatically revert to the gold standard on July 1.

WILLIMANTIC HONORS SOLDIER AND SAILOR DEAD

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 31.—The town of Windham paid homage to its dead soldiers and sailors today and carried out appropriate Memorial Day ceremonies. A large number of people braved the inclement weather to participate in or witness the exercises. All business in the city was suspended.

The 57th annual exercises, including the decoration of the graves of 456 hero warriors opened with a pilgrimage in the forenoon to Windham Center, North Windham and St. Joseph's cemeteries. The procession, composed of members of the several veterans' organizations of the city started from the G. A. R. headquarters at the town building at 7 o'clock making the journey in motor trucks and automobiles. At the two Windham cemeteries Rev. Frederick C. Williams, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church of this city and Windham, delivered brief addresses in which he eulogized the veterans and remembered the warriors, who still live. Rev. Henry E. Quinn who was to offer benediction and talk at St. Joseph's cemetery could not be present. A short address was given by Adjutant James Haggerty, a Civil War veteran.

The veterans were served a dinner at noon in the G. A. R. hall by members of the Women's Relief corps. The afternoon procession to the Willimantic cemetery got under way from High street at two o'clock in charge of the marshals for the day, Captain Frank P. Fenton, Lieutenant J. E. McCarthy, Captain W. P. S. Keating and Lieutenant James J. Lee. The order of the march follows. Platoon of police, Chief Thomas F. Grady in charge, B. P. O. Elks band, Charles N. C. Wheeler, leader; Company C, 169th Infantry, Connecticut National Guard, Captain Joseph R. Morrison, Lieutenants Ellison S. Smith and Edward Morrison; Garde Sacred Heart, Captain Julian Vertefeuille and Lieutenant Harry Dumas; St. Joseph's Boy Scout band, C. N. C. Wheeler, director and Leo Paradis, baton; Boy Scouts of Willimantic and Girl Scouts of North Windham; Word War Veterans; Spanish-American War Veterans, Lieutenant Michael J. English; Italian Citizens' band, William E. Jackson, manager.

This was followed by the automobiles bearing the Civil War veterans, Woman's Relief corps, A. C. Tyler auxiliary, U. S. W. V., Daughters of Veterans and a citizen's committee.

Official members of the staff were: Civil war, Commander A. P. Benner, Adjutant James Haggerty; Spanish war, Captain W. P. S. Keating, Lieutenant James J. Lee. C. N. Guard, Captain Joseph R. Morrison, Chief of Staff Lieutenant Jeremiah E. McCarthy.

After the formation and the grave decoration at the cemetery taps were sounded by little Miss Margaret Oehrig of Windham, member of the South Windham Girl Scout troop. Due to the rain further ceremonies and the address scheduled to be delivered by Rev. F. C. Williams were omitted. The procession was again marshalled to return to the town building where it was disbanded. With brief ceremonies conducted at the Willimantic river for the sailors buried at sea, the exercises came to a close.

GAUDREAULT AND NIECE PAY DEAR FOR THEIR BOOZE

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 31. — Philip Gaudreault of 40 Card street pleaded guilty to charges of having liquor in his possession with intent to sell and transporting liquor in police court this morning. He was fined $200 on each count, the total being $416.95. In addition he was given a 20 day suspended jail sentence.

His niece, Mary Gaudreault, aged 20, of the same address, pleaded not guilty through guardian at litem, S. Arnold Peckham, to a charge of transportation of liquor. She denied that she knew that the car she was driving for her uncle contained booze. After reprimanding her for not telling the truth, — which case he would have been inclined to be lenient, Judge Frank H. Foss imposed a fine of $200 and costs amounting to $216.95, making the grand total of fine money collected in court during the session, $633.90.

Gaudreault's home was raided by police and federal officers Saturday night. Buried in the soil near the house were some ten gallons of white mule and in a shed was found a 50 gallon still with coil. Outwitting a clever trick planned by Gaudreault to forestall arrest for transportation the officers a few hours after the raid, succeeded in locating ten gallons of liquor which had been thrown into the bushes off the Windham Center-North Windham road from a machine operated by Mary Gaudreault and protected by an "advance guard" car driven by her uncle, Philip Gaudreault.

Testifying for the state were Federal Prohibition Officers Stanton L. Briggs and Harry W. Avery, Acting Captain of Police Frank McYean and County Detective William E. Jackson. Police officials are in the belief that the young girl acted as a sort of ringleader in the bootleg game at the Gaudreault home. It is claimed that she maintained a substantial bank account which could be far beyond the receipts from the farm on which she and her uncle reside.

Services for William J. Sweeney were held from the late home at 223 Jackson street at 9.30 o'clock Monday morning with a solemn high mass of requiem at St. Joseph's church at 10 o'clock. Rev. James A. Broderick, pastor of the Immaculate Conception church at Terryville an intimate friend of the deceased was celebrant. Rev. O. S. Beaumister of Glenville, formerly of this city was deacon and Rev. Philip Mooney of St. Andrew's church, Colchester, was sub-deacon. Rev. Charles M. Kelley, assistant pastor of St. Joseph's church was master of ceremonies. Rev. Henry E. Quinn, the pastor, was seated in the sanctuary.

Special singing was rendered by the leading vocalists of the church with Mrs. Edmund R. Portelance presiding at the organ. As the processional Miss L. Monica McKeon rendered He Wipes the Tear From Every Eye. Mrs. Henry Mathieu was heard at the offertory in O Salutaris. Arthur Roy sang O Meritum at the elevation and as a waiting hymn he rendered O The Priceless Love of Jesus. The recessional hymn, A Beautiful Land On High was also sung by Mr. Roy.

Hundreds of friends of the deceased attended the services, taxing the capacity of the church. The ushers were T. Frank Cunningham, John F. Pickett, Leroy Hallahan and Peter Fournier. Among the mourners were relatives and friends from Providence, R. I., Fall River, Boston and Dorchester, Mass., Stony Creek, Hartford and New Haven.

The bearers were John Riley, Egbert A. Case, George S. Elliott, James F. Twomey, Ex-Mayor George W. Hickey and James Courtney, they being representative of the St. Joseph's hospital board, the school committee, the local Insurance Exchange and San Jose council, No. 14, Knights of Columbus. Several men of local public affiliation were among those present.

From the church the funeral convoy proceeded to St. Joseph's cemetery where the body was interred in the family plot where the committal service was conducted by Rev. Father Broderick assisted by Rev. Fathers Beaumister and Kelley.

Memorial Day exercises of the town of Ashford were held in the church at Ashford Town with an impressive programme of speaking and ceremonies. In the morning the graves of the deceased soldiers and sailors were decorated by the school children and their teachers under the direction of Fred C. Chism. The ladies of the town served an excellent collation at noon.

At 1.30 o'clock the children appeared in a series of patriotic songs and recitations. The first speaker of the afternoon was Captain Wiley H. Marble of Worcester and summer resident of the section. Captain Marble who saw service overseas with the Third Division during the World war appeared in uniform and spoke effectively on the policy of preparedness, warning against the propaganda of misguided pacifists and communists. The principal speaker was Edwin J. Donnelly, well known orator of Hartford and this city. Mr. Donnelly spoke concerning the high standards and loyalty necessary for good citizenship.

Remarks were also made by Rev. Herringer who recently took over the pastorate of the Baptist church at Warfenville. Mr. Herringer made a pleasing impression in his speech. Mrs. Herringer pleased with a soprano solo and then was heard in a duet with Rev. Mr. Herringer.

Charles Chism one of the two surviving Civil war veterans of the town was given three cheers by the people. Orrin Cushman, the other survivor was unable to attend. Greetings were received from a third Ashford man who fought in the Civil war, Edmond D. Backus, now a resident of Dade City, Fla. Appropriate recognition was given Herbert S. Brown of Ashford, Spanish war veteran and Robert H. Bale of Warrenville, World war veteran. Mr. Brown had charge of the arrangements for the day. The exercises were ably presided over by Representative Allen B. Lincoln of Westford.

Mrs. Frank Larrabee and Mrs. James G. Lathrop of Windham Center sustained severe bruises about the face and head and a Studebaker touring car owned by Frank Larrabee of 85 Prospect street, this city, was wrecked late Saturday afternoon in a collision with a five-ton truck owned by the Eagle Construction Co., of Bridgeport and driven by William Jagoe of 676 Harrington road, Stratford, on the Columbia-Willimantic road. The Larrabee car, operated by Russell Thompson, of this city, was being driven toward Willimantic. Shortly after leaving Columbia Green, three five-ton trucks owned by the Eagle company were encountered traveling in the opposite direction. It is said that Jagoe, driving the truck in the rear of the three, started to turn out to pass the other trucks just as the Larrabee car came along on the opposite side of the road. The touring car was given a terrific blow and pushed off the road onto the embankment. Besides the two injured women the other passengers in the Larrabee car were Mr. Larrabee, former head of the Windham Silk company and official of the Willimantic Savings Institute, Mr. Thompson, the driver and Miss Emma Larrabee. The latter three escaped injury. The accident was investigated by State Policeman Walter Hardisty of the Stafford Springs barracks who notified Jagoe, to appear in the Columbia town court next Friday to answer to a charge of reckless driving.

Miss Arline Haskins of Scotland, who will be graduated on June 15th from the Connecticut College for Women was a guest at a dinner given in honor of the 150th anniversary of the founding of the Phi Beta Kappa society at the Mohican hotel, New London, last week. Miss Haskins is one of seven students of the senior class who have maintained superior standing throughout their four years of college and who are eligible to membership in the society. She is a graduate of Windham high school of this city, class of 1923. Miss Haskins has accepted a position in the Newtown high school as teacher of history and economics.

The fine 110-acre farm with dwelling house, barns and numerous other buildings, located on the state highway between Hampton and Pomfret, was sold last week by Deputy Sheriff John H. Fitts of Hampton to Charles Mayon of Worcester and Alfred Abain of Holyoke, Mass. The farm has been known as the Kye Hammond place and for several years had been occupied by Fred Fitts, son of Deputy Sheriff Fitts. Since March 1st, Fred Fitts has been a resident of the town of Hampton.

The assignments of regular officers of the local police department for the month of June have been posted on the bulletin board in the patrolmen's room and signed by Acting Chief Thomas F. Funeral services for Byrd E. Standish were held at the Andover Congregational church at two o'clock Sunday afternoon with a large attendance of friends and relatives. Burial was in the Andover cemetery. Rev. E. G. Cooke officiated. Selections were rendered by the imperial quartet during the services which were in charge of Eastern Star lodge No. 44, A. F. & A. M. of this city at the grave. The bearers were Maxwell Hutchinson, George A. Merritt, George Nelson, Arthur Savage, Ira Wilcox and Harold Hanson. Avery and Van Zandt had charge.

Two machines were damaged and part of the fence bordering the vacant lot owned by the New Haven railroad was torn down about 12:15 o'clock Sunday morning in a collision of cars owne dby Joseph Husmirczyk, 26 Yellow Row this city and Chris M. Jensen, 11 Cassidy park, Greenwich, Conn., in front of the A. Monast store on West Main Street. The local man, driving a Nash touring car was coming out of the right of way leading from Yellow Row to Main street and Jensen, driving a Haynes sedan was traveling easterly on Main street. The police were notified but took no action when Jensen agreed to settle for the damages.

Miss Doris Bradway, a teacher in the Wheeler school at North Stonington, spent the week end and holiday with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank P. Bradway.

COLUMBIA

The pupils of the Center school held an entertainment Friday evening at the town hall, which was well attended. There was a little play in which all the children took part, also a short historical sketch about the Charter Oak, given by four of the older boys. The entertainment closed with several scenes from the life of Washington. About $12 was realized.

At the Congregational church Sunday morning Rev Mr. Waln preached an excellent Memorial day sermon. At 3:30 in the afternoon a memorial service was held in the church, under the direction of Raymond E. Lyman, an ex-service man. There were readings and music, and an address by Hon Frank P. Fenton of Willimantic. The school children then decorated the graves of soldiers. There was a brief address by Rev. Mr. Waln at the memorila stone on the Green, and a wreath was placed thereon.

Seven boys of this vicinity went on a hike Saturday afternoon accompanied by Rev. Mr. Waln. The ravine was visited and a camp fire built, where supper was cooked, marshmallows roasted and corn popped. They arrived home about 9 p. m. having had a most enjoyable outing.

It is difficult for a truthful man to become an enthusiast.

COLCHESTER

An alarm of fire was sounded about 3:30 p. m. Friday. The Fire company responded promptly and it was found that the house occupied by James S. Case and Mrs. H. H. Brown was on fire. The blaze started from a chimney in the ell. The fire ran along under the floor of the attic and on reaching the attic in the ell, burned through and caught the roof. The fireman with the chemical hose subdued the fire, when the pump was started and by hard work the fire was put out. The roof was covered with a metal roofing through which the firemen cut and put out the blaze. It had burned a small part of the roof on the main body of the house. Neighbors and friends carried out a large part of the household goods. The fire was discovered by John M. Riley who was passing with a load of hay and gave the alarm. The firemen worked hard and at first were handicapped by water. The loss is covered by insurance.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Chapman and daughter Gladys J. Salem were guests of Mr. Chapman's brother Arthur on Lebanon avenue Saturday.

Jerome J. Sullivan was a business caller in Norwich Friday.

A special town meeting has been called by the selectmen to be held at Grange hall Wednesday, June 2nd, to determine among other matters, whether the town with appropriate a sum not to exceed $5,600 to pay certain unauthorized indebtedness incurred for school purposes by the town school committee, this indebtedness being in excess of the appropriation made by the town at the last annual town meeting.

The annual field day of the town schools is to be held on commons Monday afternoon June 7th, starting at 1 o'clock (standard time).

How Women

Now keep fresh, charming under hygienic handicap—new way provides true security—discards like tissue

THE uncertainty and insecurity of the old-time "sanitary pad" has been ended. Scientific protection now supplants it.

Wear sheer gowns, keep up with social and business requirements, at all times . . . without handicap.

"KOTEX" is a new and remarkable way . . . five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

You discard it as easily as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

Absorbs and deodorizes at the same time. Thus ending ALL fear of offending.

You get it for a few cents at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." Women ask for it without hesitancy.

Try Kotex. Comes 12 in a package. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

Lasting pride of ownership comes from masterful performance, cost of operation and maintenance, from reliability and economy.

These qualities cannot be revealed by any other test than actual performance over long periods of time and in the hands of every type of user.

Hudson holds first advantage because of its patented Super-Six—the world's most famous motor. More than 800,000 have been built by Hudson under its exclusive principle. For 11 years it has been outstanding because of distinctive smoothness, wide flexibility, power, speed, and reliability.

Hudson is easy to steer. Its power range is so great that gear shifting is lessened, and the riding action is so well arranged that long hours at the wheel are not tiring.

Economy is found in low operating and maintenance cost.

These are the qualities that make genuine satisfaction. Upon such a chassis is mounted the coach. It gives all closed car comforts. It is sturdy, beautiful in line, and complete in every practical detail. Its sale has exceeded that of any closed car priced above $1,000. That production has led to greater economy and much lower prices. It has permitted many improvements in chassis and body.

So today's Hudson Coach is not only the best ever built. It also is priced lower than ever before.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON REMEMBERS VETERANS OF CIVIL WAR

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 31.—The first real rain in many days came Monday afternoon to mar Danielson's Memorial exercises. Threatening weather in the morning discouraged a great number who risked a wetting to go to the exercises at East Killingly or Brooklyn, but those who went found the weather man still holding off and got home, if they went promptly, without a drenching.

Favors were not so good for Danielson. A light rain had fallen before the members of patriotic societies and others gathered at G. A. R. hall to be in the procession that marched to the Orpheum theatre, where formal exercises were held and during which rain began to fall outside in a steady downpour. It was raining quite hard when the theatre exercises had been brought to a conclusion and something of the impressiveness of the usual Memorial day was lost in the scurrying of hundreds for shelter.

However, nothing in honor of the brave dead was neglected. The graves in Westfield and St. James' cemetery were decorated and there was evidence on every side that those who risked life itself that the nation might live had not been—and will not be forgotten.

Free from modern cant about this and that, those who rest at peace where they happen to lie buried in Danielson must have known that their memory lives, though multitudes turned their attention to anything and everything aside from paying tribute to those who stand in the front lines in times of war. Maybe that will not ruin a nation, probably it cannot, but the real inspiration of Memorial day remained alone with those who observed it in its true significance.

NATION MUST NOT FORGET SPIRITUAL SIDE OF LIFE

(Special to the Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 31—East Killingly continues to preserve Memorial day true to its traditions and unmindful of the frivolity that has grown up in many places. Those who gathered in the church on the hilltops Monday morning to commemorate the valor of those who have fought in the nation's wars, and especially to honor the veterans of the Civi war, were engrossed in a solemn and patriotic service.

But two veterans of the great conflict that engaged scores of thousands of the flower of the manhood of the nation in the days between '61 and '65 were in the pews at what really was a benediction upon the nation's defenders—Elisha Soule and Horatio Collins; they alone of all those who in years gone by filled a long section of seats and now rest forever among the honored dead. A solitary figure wore the khaki of those legions who fought for the United States in the World war.

Rev. W. D. Hetherington, pastor at East Killingly presided, and introduced the speaker of the day, Attorney Warren D. Chase of Southington, a native of Killingly. School children preceded with declamations and songs the address by Attorney Chase, and were splendid in their fervor and efficiency.

Prefacing his address with remembrance that generations of his forebears had lived and died in East Killingly, Attorney Chase launched into an appreciation of the sacrifices undergone and the honor won by those who have gone off to war that this nation may live and endure in its prosperity beyond the dreams of the multitude. He pictured a nation, now entering upon its young manhood, that will provide for all of its people, young and old, all material comforts, a wealth of work based upon production as a means to a great end, and, after the achievement of these material things, the leisure that is needed to develop the spiritual life that is essential to the endurance of the United States and to save it from the Godless prosperity of great nations that in centuries past have risen to power only to crumble and fall because of their abandonment of the spiritual side of life.

Following the church service there was a procession, escorted by the East Killingly band, to Barslett cemetery to decorate the graves of the soldier and sailor dead.

Numbers came from the surrounding country to attend the exercises at East Killingly, which were arranged by the East Killingly Memorial association, George W. Jacques president. The church decorations were especially attractive and prettily arranged, under the direction of Mrs. Elizabeth White.

Funeral services for David Hebert were held at St. John's church in Plainfield with Rev. R. P. Morrissey, Rev. Oscar Norman and Rev. Fr. Landry, Jewett City, as officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. Burial was in Jewett City. The bearers were David C. Hebert, Ernest Hebert, Homer Hebert, Alfred Theraux, Ernest Thereaux and A. Thereaux. L. E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

It is of special interest to the people of Killingly that Robert K. Bennett has been appointed principal of the Laurel Hill avenue grammar school in Providence after nine years as superintendent of the schools in Central Falls, R. I. Mr. Bennett, a former principal of Killingly high school, is a graduate of Killingly high school and of Brown university.

Mr. Bennett is a past president of the grammar division of the Rhode Island Association of Public School Officials, members of the survey committee, pupblic schools of Richmond; past president of the Barnard club of Rhode Island, secretary of the Kiwanis club of Pawtucket and Central Falls, a member of the board of directors of the Boy Scouts of Pawtucket and Central Falls, the safety council of the same cities, and also the Near East committee of Rhode Island.

Up to the time it started to rain at mid-afternoon Memorial day, there had been a happy absence of motoring accidents, though those who know the ways of people and are accustomed to the happenings of holidays were prone to shake their heads and remark "The day is not over yet." Be that as it may, up to 4 o'clock Monday afternoon this territory was not plagued by reports of this and that pertaining to cars and their occupants. The unhappy adjunct of holiday celebrations of recent years has been an accident toll that was not known in days goneby. It was something of a satisfaction that a three days holiday season had advanced to its last stages Monday afternoon without a report of anyone being seriously hurt in this immediate territory.

J. G. Witter acted as starter of horses in the Memorial day races at Pascoag.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Thayer and children of Putnam were visitors with relatives here on Memorial day.

Attorney Warren D. Chase and Mrs. Chase of Southington and Miss Blanche Chase of Hartford, were Memorial day visitors with Mrs. C. D. Chase of North Main street.

Up to late Monday afternoon there were no arrests in Danielson through all the holiday period.

A party of 32 Brockton young people, touring by motor coach through Connecticut over the holiday week-end, stopped over in this town for refreshment and to have a look around.

Thousands of workers who have had free time since last Saturday noon will get back to their labors this morning.

The effectiveness of the new warning red light for traffic passing the Broad-Reynolds streets intersection has created a demand for a similar light at Main and Reynolds, where the Providence-Hartford and Norwich-Worcester trunk line highways meet.

Circus announcements that have appeared on the billboards in Danielson are an additional temptation to believing that real summer weather is just ahead.

Even the passenger trains on the New Haven road, not too well patronized in this territory this year, carried more people through the holiday period than for months past. Motor transport lines have been getting the bulk of the passenger carrying business.

Several thousand dollars were represented in the wealth of floral remembrances that were placed in cemeteries in the town of Killingly during the Memorial day season. Few "old-fashioned" flowers were available this year, because of the backward season and those who would remember loved ones were largely dependent on florists for the bouquets and forms that went to decorate burial lots.

GRISWOLD

Pachaug Community club met in Grange hall on Thursday evening. A very interesting program of music, drawing and plays was furnished by the committee. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

The last two grange meetings held in Pachaug were very interesting. The paper on better home making, by Sister Gladys Geer, was interesting and instructive. There was also a reading by Brother Griswold and a solo by Brother Harold Geer. On May 20th, Leroy Jones of Storrs college gave a talk on Poultry Raising. County agent Clark, gave an interesting talk on What the Farm Bureau Can Do for the Farmer.

Brother Karjala gave a cornet solo. Deputy J. P. Hollowell of Preston city grange was present to inspect the grange. Everything was found in fine order. He also stated that Pachaug grange had the largest membership of any grange in the county that he had yet visited. Refreshments were served.

Mrs. Forest Nedham was visiting friends in Providence recently.

W. B. Montgomery returned home from the Backus hospital on Thursday. His neighbors are pleased to have him with them again and hope for a speedy recovery.

Wedding bells are soon to ring around Pachaug and Voluntown.

T. F. Edmond W. A. Edmond and family and Erving Sholes of Jewett City motored to Cheshire and Waterbury and spent the week end.

The next meeting of Pachaug grange will be Neighbors night. Lebanon and Brooklyn granges will furnish the program.

Talk is cheap, but like other cheap things it is apt to prove expensive in the end.

Looms of Commerce— and Looms of Speech

THE J. R. Montgomery Company, of Windsor Locks, manufactures cotton warps, tinsels, and yarns which it distributes to factories using looms to turn out the finished products. But it uses the looms of toll telephone service to weave its own business conversations.

As evidence of its value, Mr. George M. Montgomery, Vice-president, says: "Many points which come up in the execution or in the changing of orders—including such things as whether they are to be shipped by freight or express—are settled immediately by toll telephone conversations. Furthermore, we are constantly talking to our customers, to their satisfaction as well as to ours."

It is this quick contact of voices which makes toll telephone service so valuable to the business and social worlds. The Toll Operator is constantly ready to pick up the threads of speech and weave a conversation between any two telephones in the land.

There is a class of toll telephone service designed to meet your every special demand. Our local Exchange Manager will gladly explain those best suited to your needs.

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET
For Mayor
GEORGE G. ENGLER
For Alderman
E. LaRUE BLIVEN
JOSIAH GREENSTEIN
For Councilmen
WILLIS P. HILL
DAVID J. KENEFICK
FREDERICK P. SHEA
JOHN W. DURNAN
For City Treasurer
STEPHEN H. REEVES
For City Sheriffs
CHARLES S. RAYNES
V. ROATH ALLEN
For Water Commissioner
CHARLES W. BURTON

THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

Next Monday the voters of Norwich are called upon to express their preference for city officials for the next two years. It is the election when the mayor, two aldermen and four councilmen are elected besides city treasurer, city sheriffs and water commissioner, and the time when the peak of interest should be displayed at the polls. A clean sweep by either party means control of the city affairs for the next two years, while the election of the republican candidate for mayor or one member of the council would place control in the hands of the republicans for the next year, inasmuch as all the retiring members of the council this year are democrats and the six holdovers are republicans.

As shown by the above ticket, the republicans have presented for the consideration and approval of the voters of the city a prominent and active young business man as their candidate for mayor. He has an excellent record as a successful man of affairs and most creditably represented the town in the last general assembly. As a well known son of Norwich, affable and well grounded in successful business administration, he has the qualifications for giving Norwich as mayor the economic and efficient conduct of city affairs which is so much desired.

For aldermen, E. Larue Bliven has had experience as a city father. He has given an excellent account of himself in office and is a successful manufacturer, whose ability should be brought into use for the benefit of the city. Josiah Greenstein, for alderman, through his qualifications as a sound and able lawyer should make a strong appeal as a representative of the people in an office of such importance. Both are lifelong and consistent republicans.

The council candidates Messrs. Hill, Kenefick, Shea and Durnan represent the four city districts. There are prominently identified with the business life of the city, well acquainted with its problems, and the conditions in the respective districts and can bring sound judgment into the deliberations for their solution.

For city treasurer, S. H. Reeves has been there before, knows the job by heart and his election will mean the return of a man of experience and thoroughly qualified. The same may be said of the candidates for city sheriff, Messrs. Raynes and Allen. Mr. Burton who has been previously connected with the water board as cashier was insured election as water commissioner when he was nominated.

A MUCH NEEDED CHANGE

Those who have noted the submission of bids for work on the Norwich to Groton highway near the submarine base cannot fail to have recognized the fact taht it calls for elimination of the bad S curve as the road goes through the government property.

This has been a decided menace for a long time. It has called for particularly cautious driving and has been the scene of bad accidents. Those who are acquainted with the highway are prepared to meet the requirements and if not disposed to take chances but with the unacquainted it offers a wicked situation if cars are not in control.

That plans are underway for its elimination is a bit of good news and with the straightening of the highway there will disappear an eyesore in the way of partly burned buildings which have long since been a disgrace to the government property and the roadside.

NEEDLESS ACCIDENTS

Four killed and 29 injured in seven automobile accidents reported in Monday's Bulletin indicates the frightful toll that is being exacted as the result of the manner of driving motor vehicles. Speed is not specifically mentioned in connection with these cases but there are indications that had the cars been under better control the skiddings, collisions and upsets would not have occurred and the deaths and injuries not have resulted.

It becomes apparent each week end that there is need for more instead of less care. Little reliance can be placed upon what another driver is going to do. It is easy to expect him to do the right thing but that doesn't insure his doing it. There are those who are always doing something different and creating trouble not only for themselves but for the other fellow.

The disregard for safety, rules and the rights of others figures too frequently in the many accidents especially on the days when the highways are filled with traffic. Haste that is really not necessary, unwillingness to yield a proper amount of the road, cutting in and chance taking contribute heavily to the long list of those who are quickly changed from pleasure riding to the undertaker's or to the hospital. And the deplorable part of it all is that for the greater part such accidents are entirely needless.

THE ADDRESS AT ARLINGTON

In his address at the Memorial day exercises at Arlington, President Coolidge paid honor to the living and showed reverence for the dead soldiers, but he also dwelt upon the fact that in spite of the responsibilities of America "we are not a warlike nation. As a people we have not sought military glory," and was confident it could continue to be our policy.

We are not unmindful of the fact that we have been victorious in our wars and we know as the president says that "national security and national defense cannot be safely neglected," and yet he properly points out that "the American forces are the forces of peace. Our ways are the ways of peace."

He took occasion to refer to the fact that for the countries of Europe there is the league of nations and for the countries of the world, the world court for the adjustment of international differences and the latter he termed the "sensible, direct, efficient and practical method."

In connection with the limitation of armament the president pointed out that it is something of which they are in great need and it is "our determination to lend them every assistance in the solution of their problems." He unquestionably voices the sentiment of the country when he declares we entered the conference in good faith, seek practical results and are "ready to give our support to every effort that is made in that direction."

In an effective manner the president pointed to the importance of economic welfare of other countries to world peace and the duty of the government to our people in that direction and made pertinent reference to the policy of constructive economics in the national administration. Peace is encouraged through the avoidance of irritations, economic as well as others, and he pressed home the advantages to be gained through this manner in which our war debts are being adjusted, and the assurance that is being given to the veterans that the spirit of Washington and Lincoln are still guiding America in its work for the salvation of the world.

THE SHIPPING BOARD AGAIN

From various directions the shipping board has been under fire for a considerable time. It has been urged to sell ships and it has balked. It has had its plans to sell opposed but it has disregarded the opposition. It has failed to sell when it was thought it should and it has sold when it was believed unwise and poor business. All this serves to furnish the basis for attacks, and demands that the shipping board as at present constituted be done away with.

The latest muddle into which the shipping board has got is the sale of the last of the type of vessels named for the presidents to B. Stanley Dollar for $900,000 each when it is claimed that the replacement cost of each is $4,000,000, and the Dollar line now has a monopoly in shipping on the Pacific coast. The sale was opposed by the senate committee on commerce but while it had the matter under consideration and the board knew that opposition was likely to proceeded to put through the sale and sign the papers thus blocking the efforts to stop it.

This is of particular significance in view of the efforts which have been made to have new legislation adopted concerning the shipping board. It has been maintained that it should be placed under the control of one of the departments so that it might not be a complete power in itself. As it is it is responsible only to congress, which is not always in session, and as the present instance shows it doesn't amount to very much when it is in session. Defiance of the wishes of congress, or of a congressional committee, should serve to bring the situation concerning the shipping board to a better understanding by congress and to insure a better hearing for the placing of it under departmental supervision as urged. What has happened is only what has been happening and what has been predicted would happen until congress gets busy and makes it impossible.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 31—The children's bureau of the department of labor has just made interesting statements regarding the work children do in Connecticut tobacco fields, as well as in that part of Massachusetts given over to tobacco raising. In the Connecticut valley 1169 children were interviewed regarding their work, and conditions were found to be far less arduous than in the southern tobacco fields.

Nearly one half the children in the south, and more than one third in the north were found to be under 13 years of age, a small per cent running below ten years. In the south a heavy per cent are Negroes, in the Connecticut valley all were white but of foreign parentage.

The tasks given northern children are comparatively light, children being assisted by older persons in many instances. Three fourths of the tobacco growing in the Connecticut river valley is a large commercial enterprise owned by corporations, both city and rural children being employed. In the south the hours and length of crop season is longer, as in Connecticut and the Massachusetts tobacco growing section, the season is short, and the compulsory school attendance brings the childrens working season to an early close. The amount of school retardation is comparatively small in the Connecticut river valley.

"Stubby" the dog hero of the World war, decorated by Gen. Pershing, for valor, died last winter, at the home of his master, J. Robert Conway, of Connecticut. The dog hero has been mounted by scientists and will be placed in the Smithsonian Institute where he will be a reminder of what a dog can do in the cause of his country.

The favorite game out here is just now "guessing when congress will adjourn." June first had been the latest date fixed upon by even the most pessimistic of members, but not only have the farm bloc spiked the wheels of early adjournment but the presidential order regarding prohibition agents in states, has given another twist to delay, as has also the resolution for campaign expense investigations which went through the senate on a coalition vote.

Prolonged debate, sharps verbal battles and a hold-up of other business has quickly followed the president's prohibition order. Rumors to the contrary Mr. Coolidge is apparently holding fast to his stand, in spite of expressed opposition on all sides. The debate in the senate is likely to be long, and it has raised a crop of bitter factional feeling even among members of the house, representing large states where prohibition is likely to be a campaign issue.

The California delegation in the house, a state where it is to be first tried out, are nearly all blows over expressed difference of opinion among republican representatives from that state. In fact, the wets and the drys are not only "at it" but there is a division of opinion among both those elements, that spells long debate and a delayed adjournment unless the unexpected happens in the next few weeks.

The campaign expenses investigation won't hit the democrats or insurgents, but is a blow aimed direct at the regular republicans, whether or not it results in anything. There are but a half dozen democratic senators to be elected this fall to keep up their present quota in the senate—so they are out gunning for doubtful states—the insurgents are men who haven't much money to spend in campaigns, and who have not the backing of national organizations, so they haven't much to lose.

But there are approximately 30 republican senators in all, who are either standing for re-election, or retiring of their own accord, their seats to be filled by new men. Those are the ones who will be most disturbed by the proposed investigation, for though they should be found guiltless of breaking any campaign expense law, their names will be brought before the public as "possible" infringers, even if undeservedly so.

The democrats are out gunning for additional seats in the senate and "investigations" is to be one of the campaign methods adopted if signs today point correctly.

Gen. Ireland, at the recent Pan-American conference of the Red Cross stated that there are now 42,000 Red Cross nurses, and much time was given during the conference to the status and work of such nurses.

During the World war 22,000 Red Cross nurses saw actual service; 33,333 were enrolled. Gen. Ireland who is surgeon general of the army added "In the United States a Red Cross nurse is not a nurse who is trained by the Red Cross, for the American Red Cross does not conduct schools for that purpose. The Red Cross enrolls a list of nurses and keeps in close touch with them through a carefully worked out system of state and national committees, in co-operation with the American Nurses association, through its state organizations. The qualifications for Red Cross nurses is very high. A nurse who has a Red Cross badge and number means she is fully qualified for any service, meets all requirements and need have no further questions asked about her. She has passed her state board examinations and has agreed to be ready for any emergency. Gen. Ireland paid a glowing tribute to the Red Cross nurse and her value to the nation.

Someone was speaking of the tariff the other day, rejoicing that it was not an issue this year, except in states that come under the class of industrial. Commenting on past tariff experiences, the man remarked it was fortunate for women candidates for congress that they had not the experience to go through with that greeted Miss Alice Robertson when she stood for re-election to the house at a time when the tariff was a big issue before the country.

Miss Alice was strongly of the "outspoken type," and never hedged when expressing her opinion of people or political issues. An ardent republican she stood for high tariff. She threw a bomb into her own campaign for re-election as well as into the camps of political women by making a speech in which she intimated that the average woman regards the tariff much in the same light she regards a bargain counter. She cited as an example how many women, of whatever political party, "flock to buy 89 cent goods when they would turn away from the same goods at $1. They are not safe judges on the tariff combine the words imported and reduced in price and the bargain becomes irrisistable in the minds of most women regardless of its effect on the country." It's needless to add that about every womens political organization in the country lined up against the re-election of Miss Alice, and she went down in defeat. But that was four or more years ago, and women have acquired much political knowledge and wisdom since then.

When the bicycle craze started Ole Hartwick, of Granite Falls, Minn., was 40, and he has kept up bicycling ever since. He has ridden 58,000 miles—actual count—in 29 years. He keeps track of his mileage by means of a cyclometer. Every time he finishes 10,000 miles he quits on another cyclometer.

BRIGHT YOUNG WOMAN

"People are funny," exclaimed Loretta. "I met Bertha Davis downtown this afternoon and among other things she remarked that you are a very brilliant man."

"Bertha is a little sunshine scatterer," said her brother approvingly. "But I don't like your classing her among the people who are funny. It isn't exactly tactful on your part, so to speak. I have always considered her one of the smartest girls I know, with her ability to see clearly and judge with wisdom and remarkable taste. I think I'll drop in to call some evening, if you'll tell me where she's living now."

"In Seattle," said Loretta calmly. "She was doing some shopping between trains when I met her and we went and had some ice cream."

"Ice cream? In December? Silly!"

"It was Bertha's suggestion," said Loretta sweetly. "And I have just heard about her wonderful wisdom and excellent taste. Also she told me that she had a compliment for me from her cousin whom I met at that dinner."

"I remember that guy," said her brother with a laugh. "He had a receding chin and a queer sort of mad look in his eyes. I recollect that I looked across the table a number of times wondering if I hadn't better rescue you before the villain dragged you off by the hair of your head."

"You never even saw him," declared Loretta scornfully. "You were so awfully busy talking to that little Miss Dunn who made eyes at you. Bertha's cousin is a large man with a strong face and very fine eyes, indeed. I remember him distinctly."

"That's nice," murmured her brother. "Theres nothing like a real good compliment to bring a person to your mind, and the nicer the compliment turns out to be the handsomer the man becomes in your recollection of him. What was it this wondrous Odonis said of my little sister, please?"

"He told Bertha," laughed Loretta "that of all the girls he had met in Chicago I was the best informed and most intelligent. I hope you now appreciate what you have had the privilege of associating with during the past years."

"I do," said her brother, solemnly. "I'd rise and make a bow to you as the light of learning if this easy chair weren't so darn hard to get out of. What with your being the most intelligent and your brother the most brilliant we certainly are a fine team and a credit to our family. I wish you'd been able to bring Bertha home to dinner. Maybe she'd have said some more, then, particularly if we'd had waffles."

"We don't have waffles for dinner!" said Loretta. "A man never knows what's proper to eat at different times."

"Waffles are more than proper at any time," declared her brother. "And I repeat that waffles would have made the illustrious Bertha say some more interesting things such as she began with. When is she coming through here again? Maybe we could give a dance for her."

"She's going to be married next month," said Loretta cruelly. "And going to the orient for her wedding trip, so it will be some time before she's out this way. However, her husband would enjoy any dance you'd get up."

"It's just the way!" sighed her brother. "You are always getting me terribly interested in a girl only to dash my hopes by telling me that she's going to be married to some weird guy away west or down east or somewhers too far off for me to cut him out."

"It isn't such a weird thing after all," said Loretta. "He's invented something that's making him a fortune And judging from the way Bertha spoke, I think it would be hard to cut him out. She doesn't think her cousin a bit good looking compared with him."

"Oh yes, that cousin," said her brother. "What did you talk about to him that made him so admire your intellect? I'd like to use your line on some beautiful college girl sometime."

"When I first saw him," Loretta laughed, "I thought he was going to be very easy to talk to, the way most good looking men are; the handsomer they are the easier a conversation is."

"Yes," said her brother, understandingly. "It is quite plain sailing for even the shyest girls to talk to me."

"But I saw Nelly Travers didn't get on with him," explained Loretta. "Nelly tried him on evolution and scandal and the weather and the Charleston and everything like that and he was perfectly dumb. And so when at last we were seated at the table I asked him about his radio. From that minute on I said not another word, just listened.

"No wonder he thought you intelligent," said Loretta's brother. "I'll tell the world you are."—Chicago News.

From Small Beginnings

Henrik Ibsen, the Shipmaster's Boy, the Great Dramatist

Those who have seen the famous actress, Nazimova, in Henrik Ibsen's great play, A Doll's House, know something of the power, dramatic force, and striking realism of the celebrated Norwegian dramatist. The name of Ibsen is almost as famous as that of Shakespeare. Who would imagine that the great writer had to struggle upward from the depths. Who can picture him as he worked day after day trying to learn how to become a druggist—not the kind we have now who sell everything from writing paper to bathing soaps and occasionally a cough drop, but the kind who grind up chemicals in a mortar, and measure out poisons in a graduate. Year after year, from the time he was 15 until he was 21, young Ibsen earned his support by compounding drugs. That was a strange prelude to his life as a dramatist.

While he was delving in poisons he delved also in literature. He read and thought, and most of all, he looked at life about him, with all its hard parts and its cruel blows. Then he sat down and began to write plays. Like Robert Burns, he took life as it was and put it into his work.

From his mortars and pestles he followed a natural path to the medical school at Christiania, Norway. If his literary work had not been successful he might have become a physician, but one of his plays met with such approval that he became a man of letters pure and simple.

At various times he worked as an editor, as stage director in the little city of Bergen and as manager in Christiania.

Later in life, he left Norway for 10 years and traveled in Europe and even visited Egypt.

In his last days he was recognized as one of the world's great men of genius, and was given the highest honors.

A Doll's House, a study of married life, is his best known play. Other plays of his have thrilled people in this country by their bold analysis of life are Little Eyolf, Ghosts and Hedda Gabler.

Out of the starvation of childhood Henrik Ibsen built up a great career and has written work unique for satiric power and insight.

CHILD TRAINING

LITTLE ACCIDENTS OR BIG CATASTROPHES

Lydia Lion Roberts

What are we going to do about the innumerable little, irritating accidents which tear the children's clothes and bruise their tender flesh or work disaster to the household in one or more of the many other ways? Is it really a momentous occasion when a clean table-cloth gets suddenly soiled, the floor spotted, or the stockings torn? Those things are merely little pinpricks of every day life to the wise mother who keeps the right perspective. The principal care should be to avoid making them seem such terrible catastrophes that they upset the household and do serious harm to the child nature.

"Oh, dear! Mama, see what I've done." The little girl's eyes were scared and teary, her face white as she came into the kitchen holding on her bleeding knee and soiled, torn stocking.

"I can fix that right up," said her mother setting about it cheerfully. "Of course, it is bad it happened, but we won't worry over it. I know you are as careful as you can be of your clothes so as to help mother.

"I remember when brother was a little boy I sat mending his stockings one day, and I said, 'I wonder how you get so many little holes in your stockings.' 'Well, you see,' brother explained, 'when I play, my legs fly out in all directions and catch on things and tear.' I guess you must be like brother," ended her mother with a smile.

"O, Mama, you're so nice to me," said the little girl with a grateful hug. "I don't mind the bump on my knee, but I was so afraid you would scold about the hole in my stocking."

This child was of the sensitive type to whom a scolding beats on the ear like blows on the heart. A gentle word of caution, soothing kindness for the bruise, and a swift mending of the stocking soon destroyed all the trouble, and a loving, happy child went out to play, knowing that she need not be afraid to tell her mother anything.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

William H. Johnston, who has resigned the presidency of the International Association of Machinists on account of ill health, is numbered among the foremost leaders of organized labor in America. During the late war and the period immediately following he piloted his organization through difficulties as great as any labor leader ever was called upon to face. The closing of the munition plants, which was a great blow to the machinists, was followed by the railway shopmen's strike, in which the union suffered a setback and the loss of the national wage agreements. But out of the railway strike grew what is perhaps Mr. Johnston's greatest achievements, the agreement with the Baltimore & Ohio railway under which the unions in the shops assumed joint responsibility for increased production, safety and elimination of waste. During the Johnston regime the machinists have become one of the bank-owning unions.

OF INTEREST TO WOMEN

If you have saved or inherited money, you are naturally interested in getting the best possible income from it.

Since you are probably dependent to some extent on such income, safety of principal is the first essential. When you are sure of that, you can consider the income feature. A bank account for a certain portion of your funds and well secured first mortgage bonds for the balance is a sound recipe that many women are wisely following.

Because Colonial Bonds meet every test of safety and pay 6½% ($65.00 on every $1,000) annually, they are an excellent investment for women. If you desire to combine saving with investing, we have a plan for investing small sums monthly that will interest you.

A large number of women are already drawing a good income from Colonial Bonds. Let us explain fully their advantages in your case. Call, write or phone as you find most convenient.

A girl just entering her teens was staying with an aunt one summer, and in carrying a pitcher across the floor she dropped it and it broke. To her aunts amazement the girl clasped her hands tightly and cried piteously. "Oh! don't hit me, I didn't mean to do it."

"What do you mean? Of course I wouldn't hit you—especially for an accident," assured the aunt.

"But I have always been hit when I broke anything," faltered the young girl, and she drew a long breath of relief, as she realized that in this household a broken pitcher was not a calamity.

Adults often have accidents which are annoying, but beyond an impatient exclamation and a bit of regret, little notice is taken of them. Why then should children's minds be impressed with the unforgetableness and unforgivableness of their accidents? Usually such an attitude makes them more nervous and awkward and leads to further accidents. It is so much better when the inevitable annoyances occur to remedy them quickly and cheerfully with the children's aid, in a matter-of-fact way, quietly suggesting how to avoid future mishaps. When children are habitually careless it may be wise to suggest that they save from their allowances and help replace broken articles, paying perhaps half of the price, or that they assist in buying new clothes to replace those damaged. Most children are willing and eager to do this, if it is presented to them in a kindly way, as they know it is fair and just, and they feel the dignity of being treated with reason and consideration.

Stories That Recall Others

Squelched

Two shieks entered an automatic elevator just ahead of a man and his wife. The husband wishing to be polite had opened the door and permitted his wife and the men to enter first, then entered, closed the door and asked the men what floor they wished. An instant later one of the shieks remarked "that it takes a smart person to run one of these elevators."

The man's wife retorted: "Yes, don't you know how to operate it?"

The shiek's face colored, and as the man and wife left the elevator he remarked to the other shiek "Gee, that certainly was a nasty dig."

Breaking the News Gently.

Some time ago two young boy chums one afternoon decided on a hunting expedition to the outskirts of their city, the armament consisting of a small caliber revolver that one of the "boys" had bought without the knowledge of his parents.

In some way the revolver was accidently discharged, the bullet entering the top front part of the foot of one of the boys and coming out at the bottom.

The boy with the revolver, greatly excited and frightened ran to the nearest house, asked permission to use the phone, and broke the news of the accident to the wounded boy's mother a follows:

"Will bring Oliver back in about half an hour; don't worry."

Donald A. Howe, 11 year old pedestrian of Somerville, arrived in Boston after a 43-mile hike from Worcester. He covered the distance in 12 hours 15 minutes.

Piles Go Quick

Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands who have piles, have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is a complete stagnation of blood in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. E. Leonhardt was first to find the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in 1000 cases with the marvelous record of success in 98 per cent. and then decided it should be sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from Lee & Osgood today. It has given safe and lasting relief to thousands and will do the same for you.

Dr. J. E. Leonhardt discovered the cause of piles to be blood congestion in the lower bowel. That's why cutting and greasy ointments fail. His prescription, HEM-ROID, absolutely removes the cause, and brings quick relief, or costs nothing at Lee & Osgood Co. and good druggists everywhere.

Wrinkles Vanish Before Your Very Eyes!

Just think! In your mirror, before your very eyes, you see the wrinkles, age lines and sagginess vanish from your face! And it's such a simple and harmless treatment. Just mix a spoonful of Powdered Tarkroot with a spoonful of lemon juice. Apply to your face and watch the most marvelous change take place—in less than 15 minutes. See the horrid wrinkles, worry lines, creases and bagginess quickly disappear. It is a wonderful, startling sensation. Only the actual experience could make you believe it. The application is easily washed off. The result is far better than the most expensive and expert face massage could ever give—and a treatment costs less than three cents! Procure an original package of Powdered Tarkroot from your druggist, try it, and you will have the surprise of your life.

Drops Dead From High Blood Pressure

He was only 47 years, yet death called him. Family and friends were shocked. All believed him to be in good health; yet upon inquiry it was discovered that he was a nervous type, often depressed in spirits—suffered from frequent headaches and dizzy spells—sometimes found it hard to catch his breath—and occasionally complained of difficulty in concentrating on his work. This man had High Blood Pressure—and did not know it.

You, too, may have one or more of these symptoms—you, too, may be a victim of High Blood Pressure, and not know it. You, too, may be called to an early death. But you can positively avoid such disaster—you can live comfortably—without pain or distress to a happy old age—if you will but take the proper precautions.

Simply ask your druggist for Tenso—a marvelous High Blood Pressure remedy compounded by a famous specialist. Tenso contains no narcotics whatever—is absolutely safe—and is guaranteed to give satisfactory results, or your money refunded. The following good druggists sell Tenso: G. G. Engler, Lee & Osgood Co., Geo. M. Rathbone, Chas. C. Treat.

CHARGES HARTFORD MAN WITH DRUNKEN DRIVING

(Special to the Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 31. — Louis Morin, 14 Buckingham street, Hartford, was arrested on Main street here about 11 o'clock tonight by Officer Roderick Lariviere on the charge of driving under the influence of liquor. Two half pint bottles, one nearly empty, were found on his person. Morin was driving a touring car owned by George Lavallee, 54 Capitol avenue, Hartford. Lavallee was in the back seat and was arrested for intoxication as was Charles Roy of Hartford, another passenger in the car. The trio will appear in police court Tuesday morning.

A National roadster owned and operated by Napoleon Bacon of 57 Moulton court, this city, was considerably damaged when it collided with a Reo truck operated by Stanley J. Reddens of 55 West Main street, Rockville, at the corner of Walnut and Main streets at 6:45 o'clock tonight. The drivers could come to no agreement and were notified by Traffic Officer Arthur Hurley to appear in police court tomorrow morning when they will be charged with reckless driving. The Reo car was carrying a baseball team and was returning to Rockville.

Dunbar, pastor of the First Baptist church, at the pastor's residence on Ann street. Miss Lola Ladd, the bride's sister, was her maid of honor and the groom was attended by James Krumer. The bride was charmingly gowned in blue georgette crepe and the maid of honor wore yellow. The groom's gift to his bride was a string of pearls.

A buffet lunch was served at the bride's home and the bridal couple left during the evening on their honeymoon trip.

FUNERAL

Henry Vanness

Honors were paid Henry Vanness, only colored railroad conductor in the United States, who was buried at Rockville, Friday afternoon. The funeral was held at local undertaking parlors with Rev. J. G. Sallis, pastor of the Methodist church, in charge. Representatives of all creeds were present. James A. Bacon, retired railroad conductor of Willimantic, represented the railroad men; Charles A. Grant, trainmen of Hartford and president of the New England Veterans' association, represented that association. F. A. Barrows, representing the personnel of the New Haven road, attended. Among others present were Attorney Charles Phelps, who recently returned from Europe, and David A. Sykes of the Hockanum Mill's Co., representing that concern. The bearers were Everett Pease, Alfred Morgan, Wallace Slappy and Bert Hill. Burial was in Grove Hill cemetery, Rockville.

KOSCIUSZKO ANNIVERSARY BY POLISH CLUB

In observance of the 150th anniversary of the appearance of Tadeusz Kosciuszko in America, fitting exercises under the auspices of the Polish Citizens' club were held Sunday evening at 6 o'clock in Pulaski hall with a good attendance of Polish residents and invited guests. Kosciuszko, who was a noble son of Poland, came to the United States a century and a half ago and joined the forces under George Washington in the Revolutionary war. Due to his bravery and valor, Commander-in-Chief Washington made him a general.

The celebration was opened by Stanley Zawisilnski, who introduced the speaker of the evening, M. Lanaski of Hartford. Mr. Lanaski spoke in great length upon the life of Kosciuszko and pointed out the important part he took in winning the conflict in this country. Among the invited guests were Mayor Milo R. Waters, Judge Nelson J. Ayling and Attorney C. V. James, who made brief remarks on Kosciuszko.

The opening number of the program was the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, which was followed by the addresses. The next number was a vocal solo, Zgoda, rendered by Mrs. Kruczynski, who was accompanied by Miss Frances Kaiszek, piano and John Krnozynski, violin. The closing number was the singing of the Polish hymn.

The committee in charge of the arrangements was Joseph Romonowski, chairman; Joseph Pysyk, secretary; Antoni Grzykowski, Stanley Kawisiinski, Antoni Sidrych and Mika Slaryto.

WATERBURY CHURCH CUTS CENTRAL BAPTIST'S LEAD

The men and boys of the Central Baptist church fell down badly Sunday in their attendance contest with the First Baptist church of Waterbury, losing 31 points in their standing but still managed to hold the lead and are 15 points to the good. The contest ends next Sunday.

The Norwich church had an attendance of men and boys at the morning service of 99, the smallest since the contest started, while the Waterbury church showed 149, its best figure in the contest.

Last week the Norwich church was 46 points in the lead, but the slump Sunday left it only 15 points ahead.

Rev. Carl H. Barnett of Hartford occupied the pulpit at the church on Sunday in the absence of the pastor, who was in Washington attending the

MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKER CALLS FOR SUPPORT FOR CONSTITUTION

A ringing call for every citizen, native-born or foreign-born, to support the constitution was the conclusion of the Memorial day address by Rev. Charles H. Ricketts, the orator for the observance of the day in the exercises Monday morning at the Chelsea parade. Speaking upon the theme, The Historic Calls of Our Country to Patriotic Service, Rev. Mr. Ricketts declared his belief that there was never a time when this country needed a larger degree of patriotic devotion than at the present hour.

Although rain interfered with the comfort of the audience assembled at Chelsea parade for the outdoor exercises, after the march from the Buckingham Memorial, there was a large attendance and the members of Sedgwick post, No. 2, G. A. R., now numbering but 17 showed their undying loyalty by turning out 15 of their enrollment to participate in the exercises.

Commander Price's Address

The exercises on Chelsea parade near the soldier monument, where the grand stand had been erected, were opened with the bugle call to attention, following which Commander Orrin M. Price delivered his address as follows:

To his Honor, Milo S. Waters, Mayor of the City of Norwich, the common council, selectmen, and other officers of the city government, and our postmaster:

As commander of Sedgwick post, and in behalf of my comrades, I again welcome you to this our public service. Also you, the officers and members of our military companies and Spanish War Veterans who have done escort duty in the days gone by, and the Sons of Veterans, Daughters of Veterans, Citizens' corps, Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, and all others who have this day gathered with us to pay honor to our patriotic dead. Their memorable deeds will serve not only to make American citizenship these days reputable, but also to maintain and perpetuate through all future generations the union and the authority of the United States of America. This is the national day of memorial, the time when in mind and thought our glorious past is made to live again. It is the hour when a nation awakes to the remembrance of deeds of heroism performed in its defense; the day when a loyal people, grateful for service rendered their country, unite to honor their patriotic dead.

Prayer by the post chaplain, George Tillinghast, and the hymn, Hear Our Prayer, rendered by Swahn's Military band, were followed by the singing of the Star Spangled Banner, led by Hugh Kinder, and the reading of the memorial day orders by George A. Turner, past commander of the Spanish War Veterans and the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Obituary Record

The obituary record since last Memorial day was read by the post adjutant, John Irish, as follows:

Henry T. Clark, Co. C, 18th Conn. infantry, died June 6, 1925, aged 81 years.

Leonard O. Smith, Co. F, 26th Conn. infantry, died October 4, 1925, aged 82 years.

Amos D. Allen, paymaster's clerk, U. S. navy, died October 27, 1925, aged 82 years.

George W. Shepard, Co. K, 21st Conn. infantry, died July 5, 1925, aged 87 years.

Warren Lee Goss, Co. H, 2nd Mass. Heavy Artillery, died November 26, 1925, aged 80 years.

Lewis A. Thornton, Co. F, 10th Conn. infantry, died April 9, 1926, aged 89 years.

Lincoln's Gettysburg address was rendered by George A. Keppler and the decoration of the monument was performed by George A. Turner, with the response by John H. Barnes, commander of the Sons of Veterans.

Memorial Day Address

After the memorial hymn by the band, the Memorial day address was given by Rev. Mr. Ricketts as follows:

Patriotism is love of country and devotion to its wellbeing. It is one of the great primary instincts of humanity just as truly as love of home and family and friends. It has been found in all the ages of the world and under all conditions of human existence. But the political conditions under which people live and have lived tend to modify the respect they have for the powers that govern them. If a government is despotic and cruel it does not naturally call forth that esteem and readiness for service as those that are kind and considerate. It therefore stands to reason that those nations in which the people rule, or at least have

...les began to migrate into the unknown, but mighty Eldorado of the west. The early settlers had long been in their graves before the mighty shores of the Pacific were explored.

In the process of time the imperial worth of this mighty land began to dawn upon the successors of the original Pilgrims and Puritans, even before they were acquainted with its vast worth. Why the domination of this mighty land by a people living three thousand miles away, and wholly ignorant of its needs, incapable of its development, and not remotely sensing its mighty possibilities as a civilizing agency? Coupled with this statesmanlike thought was the constantly growing feeling of competency for self-government. Why should they be governed by a distant power that did not have either an intelligent or sympathetic interest in their political needs? It is easy to see why they should resent the blundering administration of George The Third's government. The impartial historian today sees clearly the rebellion of the thirteen colonies was the assertion of a righteous patriotic impulse on the part of a people to have a nation of their own, where they could not only be religously, but politically, free.

The first historic call to patriotic service in this country grew out of this resentment to the tyranny of an absentee government. In the light of today no unprejudiced mind questions the right or the wisdom of the colonists of becoming a free and independent nation! When a young man has attained his majority, and is fully capable of taking care of himself, he has not only the right but also the duty to set up a home of his own. And this seems to have been the spirit of the people generally from Plymouth Rock to as far westward and southward as the people had settled. It is not my intention here to go into the details of the Revolutionary war. I merely refer to its causes as justifying the first great national demonstration in behalf of liberty, equality and fraternity, and on this western continent, and emphasizing the patriotism of this early period.

No War of Aggression

It is worthy of note that the government of the United States has never undertaken any war of aggression. The conflict with Great Britain in 1812 and the two years following was to protect American commerce and American sailors on the high seas, an act that was justified by a political treaty as well as by moral law. Our next collision was with our southern neighbor, Mexico, over the annexation of Texas, an act that was sanctioned by both Great Britain and France. In this matter our enemies have accused us of greed and taking advantage of a weaker power. But the inhabitants of that section were anxious to join the more prosperous republic of the north for which this country gave $15,000,000 which Mexico readily received. It seemed to be a perfectly just transaction until a disturbance was made in the north whether or not this new territory should be slave or free. There can be no question in the light of today that it has been much better for Texas to be a part of a progressive democracy than to continue under the old dead Spanish civilization.

I come now to the greatest civil conflict since the French revolution in the later part of the 18th century. It was out of this conflict that Memorial day was born in 1868 largely by the patriotic efforts of General John A. Logan. No struggle was ever more justified by the laws of God or humanity than that internal strife from 1861 to 1865. As we all know, the background of the war of the rebellion was the question of slavery, but slavery was not the immediate cause of the war. Lincoln's first call for troops was for the purpose of preserving the integrity of the Union. To have rent this nation in twain over any internal question that could possibly have arisen would have been absolutely suicidal. The great man whom the providence of God had put into the White House saw clearly that if this country was to work out its appointed destiny it must be one and indivisible to the very end of time. There were also brave spirits here in the north, and not a few in the south, who felt that "a house divided against itself could not stand." Logically then the first outstanding question with the new administration and with the people of the north was to put down the insurrection of the south. The younger generation may wonder why it took more than four years to do this. There are many reasons for this, first sympathy with the rebellion was powerful in both branches of congress, and the south was largely in control of the nation's arsenals. Secondly, this nation was most emphatically on a peace footing with no great standing army ready to plunge into the conflict and put the insurrection down. Thirdly, Great Britain threw the weight of her powerful moral influence on the side of the Confederacy.

Saved the Union

The victory was won because there was patriotism here at the north, and the presence here today of the survivors of the Grand Army of the Republic, old men and few in numbers, is the most convincing answer that can be given to the question, why did the north win out. These men were young when President Lincoln called for volunteers back in the sixties. They left the workshop, the farm, the counting room, the university, not for gain but to preserve the integrity of their country. If the call of President Lincoln in 1861 for volunteers has become historic, so also has the answer given by America's youn manhood and the patriotic service they rendered in the hour of darkness and gloom. If that conflict seems to have been too long drawn out, let us remember that the Union forces were not always led by the most competent generals. We had not specialized in war and did not have too many highly trained leaders, and in some instances patriotism made up for loss of military experience. It must also be remembered that putting down the rebellion was not the only issue involved. As the war progressed it was found that there could be no satisfactory peace as long as the institution of slavery lasted. But in the providence of God patriotism at length met both issues and the war ended, and let us hope and pray that never again will brother be called upon to take up arms against brother.

Since this great civil conflict between the north and south in our own land, twice have our people been called upon to take up arms in the interest of humanity. It was not in any belligerent spirit, and far less was it in expectation of gaining additional territory that we said courteously but firmly to Spain in 1898, "you shall not throttle our little neighbor, Cuba." From the impulse of a kindly feeling we played the part of a big brother to a weak island under the shadow of our shores, and every nation of the world, i. e., every disinterested nation applauded our action. If it was the un-

...planes fall to our care it certainly was not as a money proposition.

Saved Europe

The last historic call that came to the people of America for patriotic service was to protect Europe from utter collapse in 1914. It is a part of history that this country did everything consistent with honor to keep out of that awful strife. In the name of God and humanity we sent our boys across the ocean to do their bit in the salvation of the continent. And it is yet to be said from any source that they did not do their full duty. On the far field of Flanders and elsewhere they left their bodies to mingle with the poppies. On a foreign soil they maintained their reputation for courage which their ancestors displayed in the Revolutionary war, the Civil war and the Spanish war. And I believe that we all hope and pray that never again will the battlefield claim the supreme sacrifice of our young men.

Thus far your attention has been directed to the historic calls here in America to patriotic service. They have been in response to attacks upon her political rights and privileges, or have been the answer of a large-hearted people to the cry of weak nations when gripped by tyranny and greed. But I would ask every thoughtful man and woman here today if there is no longer any need for the exercise of patriotism? To be sure we are not threatened by any external foe as far as we can see. We are at peace with all the nations of the earth, and it is fair to assume that these conditions will continue indefinitely. In spite of all this I dare to assert that there was never a time since the Declaration of Independence was published one hundred and fifty years ago when this country needed a larger degree of patriotic devotion than at the present hour. The greatest enemies to the well-being of this republic today are right in our midst, and this enmity is shown in the present widespread disrespect for law, and anyone with open eyes can hardly fail to see the seriousness of this menace.

Stand by the Constitution

Ladies and gentlemen, I should utterly fail of the obligation committed to me as being your speaker on this Memorial day if I failed to raise my voice in protest to the way in which the organic law of the country is insulted. Nothing is clearer than this, that it is the bounden duty of every citizen, native-born or foreign-born to stand by that constitution that gives him a home, a just return for his labor, that protects him, and makes life worth while generally. But what do we see? Men and women coming to our shores because they can better their condition and at once striking that country between the eyes by violating the laws. This must be stopped at any cost if we are to preserve our constitution. Society, like the individual, has a right to protect itself, and for that reason let a reversible sign be put up at Ellis Island: so big that it can be read all over the earth with this inscription: "No paupers, no degenerates, no criminals, no law breakers are wanted here." On the other side I would have this inscription: "Wanted, red-blooded men and women of brain, brawn and character who are willing to unite with us in the outworking of our political destiny, such will be welcomed." If we can only get 100 per cent. men and women first, then your 100 per cent. American will take care of itself. I believe that the solution of the race question is here; get the very best from abroad and then apply the Golden Rule.

Once more there is a call for patriotism to offset the crime wave that is sweeping across the country at present. One can hardly understand why so many young men should play the part of bandits. If there was anything unjust in our laws, or difficulty in finding honorable and adequate employment the solution would be clear. If laws are hastily passed that work injustice they can be and ought to be repealed. But as long as laws are on our statute books there is but one thing to be done, and that is rigid enforcement. The greatest danger to society is trampling upon the laws. I fully believe if we can cultivate firmness and kindness we shall find a solution to most of our political ills, and the bright day will dawn when

"Upon a larger plan, we'll build the common good:
The temple of the Love of Man, the House of Brotherhood."

The singing of America concluded the exercises, after which the parade line was formed again, moving down Broadway and back to the Buckingham Memorial, where the parade disbanded.

At Buckingham Memorial

Soon after arrival at the Buckingham Memorial, Thomas Warmsley rolled out the dinner call on the drum and the Civil war veterans, with the Spanish war veterans and guests, marched upstairs into the dining room, led by the color bearers of the Woman's Relief corps.

At the head table with Commander Price were Mayor M. R. Waters, First Selectman William S. Murray, Postmaster Casper E. Bailey, Rev. Mr. Ricketts and other guests.

After Rev. Mr. Ricketts had asked the blessing about 125 enjoyed the excellent dinner furnished by the Woman's Relief corps, the menu comprised hot roast beef, with mashed potatoes, green peas, beet relish, bread and butter, strawberry shortcake and coffee. The veterans were highly pleased with the dinner, commending the service and the menu highly. It was served under the direction of Mrs. M. Florence Dean, chairman, assisted by Mrs. Maud Moody, Mrs. Grace Fowler, Mrs. Lydia Perkins, Mrs. Jayne Seed, Mrs. Clara Burke, Mrs. Mary Covey, Mrs. Susan Kampf, Mrs. Grace Manning, Mrs. Mary Whiteman, Mrs. Minnie Fulton, Mrs. Lillian Brewster, Mrs.

JACOBY OF STORRS WINS DUWELL FIVE-MILE ROAD RACE IN FAST TIME

John Jacoby of Storrs, former Connecticut Aggie distance runner, now a member of the Duwell A. C. of this city, but running unattached, won the Duwell A C. five-mile road race here Monday afternoon. Ben Zerin of the Cygnet A. C., of Portchester, N. Y., gave Jacoby a tough battle, Zerin placing second. William S. Magg, of Stonington was third, Dan Healy, New Britain Y. M. C. A. was fourth and the 46 year-old veteran of the Cygnet A. C. Bill Kennedy was fifth. Jacoby negotiated the slippery five-mile course in 35 minutes and 50 seconds, remarkable time for the distance considering the existing conditions.

Eighteen runners started and all but one finished. The race was run in a drizzling rain that made the pavements slippery and the footing very treacherous. In spite of the wet weather a large crowd lined the course from start to finish, autoists parking their machines all along the route at the various vantage points and especially along the last half mile at the finish. In fact the crowd was so dense at the finish line and it was just possible for a lone runner to squeeze through.

Jacoby sprang into the lead at the run and held the front position almost throughout the race. With the field pretty well bunched for the first half-mile it began to string out and Jacoby, Zerin, Healy, Russell and Verderosa were bunched together for the first three quarters of a mile. At Chelsea parade Zerin swung in the lead by a stride but when the runners passed the mile post Jacoby had taken the lead again. From the mile mark on Jacoby held the lead but Zerin was right at his shoulder until the 4 1-4 mile mark when Jacoby slightly lengthened his stride and drew away from Zerin, crossing the finish line on East Main street 40 seconds in the lead of Zerin.

Magg of Stonington who had been running in ninth place for the first three miles, went into fourth in the fourth mile and then passed Healy who had been running in third position and crossed well in the lead of the New Britain runner.

The surprise of the race was the running of Johnny Keeley, a high school lad, who carried the colors of the Duwell A. C. Keeley finished in sixth place a few seconds in back of Kennedy and was running strong at the finish. Keeley displayed a stamina that was remarkable and with the exception of Jacoby was the freshest man of the 17 at the finish. Keeley, who is a local lad, was not deemed to have a ghost of a chance to place among the first ten but he surprised even his warmist admirers. Keeley deserves a large amount of credit, being the only local boy to finish among the first ten. The other two local boys to finish were Oscar Mossesian who placed 13th and Albert Prodell who finished 15th. Keeley started in seventh place and held that place until the last half mile when he went ahead of Verderosa.

Besides the prizes for the first 13 to finish in the open there were seven prizes for eastern Connecticut boys. Jacoby by winning first pace took both cups for the two events. Magg of Stonington took second, Keeley took third, Arthur Ward of New London fourth, Alex Majewski of New London fifth, Mossesian sixth, Vibber of New London seventh.

The race with the exception of the bad weather was ideal in every way and no small amount of credit is due to the Duwell club for the way in which it was put over. All the runners were well pleased with the way the race was conducted and many of the places where they had competed. They also expressed great appreciation of the New York men said that the conditions were better here than in many liberal prizes given, some who have competed in the big marathon races of the country saying that the prizes were far ahead of those given for the big events. All expressed the hope that the race will be held again next year.

The summaries:

First, John Jacoby, Storrs, Conn. Time 35:50.

Ball Game Postponed

Because of the driving rain that flooded the field the baseball game between North high of Worcester and the Academy was postponed.

Banquet For Runners.

Although the weather did spoil the outdoor programme arranged to follow the race yesterday it had no effect at all upon the banquet and smoker given at the Duwell club last night for the runners and officials and although it was some of the runner's first visit to Norwich, when they started on their journey home they all agreed that Norwich was a great place.

Immediately following the race sandwiches and lemonade were served at the club rooms followed by music by the Duwell orchestra of ten pieces.

At 6.30 over one hundred men sat down to a delicious dinner prepared by Sellas, who put on the following menu:

Grapefruit
Olives Celery
Roast Chicken
Baked Potatoes Peas
Rolls
Apple Pie Ice Cream
Coffee

Mayor Waters spoke a few words in regard to the smoothness of the running of the race and the clean competition shown by the runners, after which he awarded the prizes which called for applause that rang throughout the East Side of the city.

When Bill Kennedy, veteran of 13 years of marathon running was presented his prize he remarked that after seeing the prizes given by the Norwich organizations for five miles he had almost made up his mind to give up long distance running and practice five mile running. He also remarked on the smoothness of the running of the race, and gave great credit to the Duwell A. A. and also to the local police who kept traffic as well in hand as could be expected and that although he had run in practically every large city in the country, never had he seen any city put on a race any better than the one handled by Norwich and he stated that whenever possible he would remark of it. He stated that being a loyal Irishman it was only natural that he should speak of his own club, the Cygnet A. C., of Portchester first, but for a club composed of workingmen he was sure that the Duwell club of Norwich is the next best club that he had ever seen and predicted a great future for this young enterprising organization.

Mr. Kennedy was interrupted several times by wild bursts of applause.

Following the banquet five three-round boxing bouts were held which were very interesting all the way through. The first bout between Young Falcone and Kid Coce; the second one between Kid Chapman and K. O. Picke, the third between Lefty Bill and Young Ferra, fourth "Sonny" Falcone and Kid Picking and the last between Young McCarthy and Kid Bend. The bouts kept every one on their toes while they lasted, the boys mixing it up in good shape. Jackie Wilson acted as referee, Walter Carrigan timekeeper and Jimmy Pedace announcer.

During the evening Thomas Murano gave a splendid exhibition of the Charleston. Following the bouts the club orchestra again played until late into the night.

All the runners before leaving spoke of the splendid treatment shown them in Norwich and would positively appear again next year. During the evening chairman of the sports committee, James Pedace, announced that the Duwell road race would be an annual event and although the weather was against them during the day that the club would come back strong and work even harder to make the next race an even larger success.

RAIN SPOILS HOLIDAY PROGRAM AT GOLF CLUB

The rain of Monday had a very dampening effect on the holiday golf and tennis program at the Norwich Golf club, especially the afternoon program. It did not seriously affect the morning play in the Memorial day handicap tournament and the 50 entrants played their 18 holes, although the ones last in were more or less wet.

J. R. Howe, with a gross score of 88 and a net score of 70 tied with Earl Mathewson with a gross 88 and 70 net, for first place. J. Fontaine had undisputed right to third place with a net 72 and a gross 86. Fourth, fifth and sixth places were all tied at a 73 net score. Sam Wilcox had a gross 91, B. M. Gaines a gross 103, C. A. Gager a gross 103 but their handicaps gave them all a 73. The afternoon program of putting approach and driving contests was called off, as was the tennis match.

Pairings for the club match play which will be run off during the month with one match a week in each of the two flights of 16. The pairings for the first flight are: Sam Wilcox and B. F. Rogers, R. Howe and J. Sayles, J. Fontaine and W. Mitchell, W. G. Park, and A. Bliven, A. Kiens and A. Chase, Morton and Mathewson, Eldred and Abbott, Moulton and E. C. McKay, in this flight J. F. Rogers, A. Mitchell 4th, S. Smiley and W. Shields drew byes.

The pairings for the second flight are: Turner and Kingsbury, Gaines and Mara, Gager and Clapp, F. S. Wilcox and H. E. Campbell, Harris and Payson, McCormick and Davis, Sherman and Baird, L. G. Briggs and Wetmore. Those drawing byes in this flight were E. Bliven, Prentice, Young and Mrs. Campbell.

HARVARD BEATS BROWN IN HOLIDAY GAME

RED SOX SPLIT HONORS WITH ATHLETICS IN DOUBLE BILL

BOSTON, May 31—(AP)—The Red Sox split the honors with Philadelphia in the double header today. Ehmke pitched the Red Sox to a 2 to 0 victory in the first set-to, but Zahniser and Russell twirled less effectively in the second, the Athletics winning 5 to 2. Ehmke's double off Grove drove in the first Boston run in the opener, and he in turn came home on Rigney's single. Neither team made an error in either contest. Score:

BROWNS SPLIT DOUBLE HEADER WITH TIGERS

ST. LOUIS, May 31.—(AP)—Darkness forced the second game between Detroit and St. Louis to be called off at the end of the first half of the seventh inning; the Browns emerging victorious by the score of 9 to 7, after the Tigers had gained a five run lead in their half of the second inning. the teams to split even on the holiday double header.

Whitehill on the mound for Detroit in the first game was too big an obstacle for the Browns and their late inning rallies fell short, the Cobbmen winning, 10 to 7. Score:

INDIANS SPLIT HOLIDAY PROGRAM WITH WHITE SOX

CLEVELAND, May 31—(AP)—Cleveland and Chicago broke even today, Chicago taking the first 3 to 1 and Cleveland the second 5 to 4 in 13 innings. Singles by Spurgeon, J. Sewell and Burns with errors by Barrett and Hunnefield allowed Cleveland to score twice in the 12th after Chicago had scored one in its half.

In the second game Manager Speaker benched himself and Left Fielder Jamieson for poor hitting.

In the first game Falk ran his batting streak to seven straight hits before being stopped, while Lyons had pitched 23 scoreless innings against Cleveland before the latter scored. The scores:

WEST SIDE SINGLE MEN DOWN THE BENEDICTS

In the annual game between the Married Men and the Single Men of the West Side on Memorial day morning the latter were again victorious by a score of 13 to 9. The Married Men, though showing a fine brand of baseball considering the limitations, made 13 errors and 10 hits while their opponents gathered 19 hits and erred but twice.

The Married Men used four pitchers, Cochran, Drake, Farrell and Whitman, the latter being the most effective. Cochran made the only home run of the game which with three other hits made him the hero of the Benedicts. Moore had a very bad day in the field being credited with 5 errors out of 8 easy chances. The lineups:

Single Men—J. Sadinsky c; P. Harwood p; T. McVeigh 1b; E. Boyce 2b; G. Risley ss; T. Montgomery 3b; H. Waters lf; J. Fitzgerald cf; A. Armstrong rf.

Married Men—Brown c; Cochran p, 2b, 3b, 1b; Whitman 1b, p; Moore 2b; Farrell ss; Wilcox 3b; Herring lf; Dotory cf; Drake rf.

WESTERLY

MEMORIAL DAY SPEAKER DEPLORES REVERENCE AND LOYALTY

(Special to the Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 31—Mild weather which gradually became more cloudy and a fine drizzle set in before the completion of the formal Memorial day program in Westerly this afternoon. Westerly Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown had an augmented force and Motorcycle Traffic Officers George L. Madison and Robert M. Kessell, headed the line of march which moved shortly before 10.30 o'clock over the route previous announced and headed by Marshal George E. Leonard.

His aides were, Past Commander B. A. Babcock, U. S. W. V.; Past Commander Louis J. Rossi, Merrill post, American Legion; Past Commander Albert Lawton, B. G. W. V.; Past Commander Shelby C. Nicholas, V. F. W., and Past Commander Charles E. Wilcox, U. S. of V. Then came Westerly band, Charles O. Gavitt, leader. Ahead of Battery E, 243rd R. I. C. A. (U. S. D.) Capt. John F. Datson, commanding, was the guidon, recently presented to the Battery by the Westerly chamber of commerce, in recognition of the good showing made by them among the state's military units. The massed colors preceded Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, headed by Commander Walter E. Thorp. Harley P. Chase post, No. 1265, Veterans of Foreign Wars came next with Commander James A. Keane. Two Scottish bagpipers preceded the British Colonial Great War Veterans, Commander Stanley Hayes. Westerly Sanitary Corps followed with Capt. John Champlin, Jr., in command, and in order followed Amos P. Chapman post, Sons of Veterans of the Civil War, Commander Thomas Didier and Westerly Troop of Boy Scouts of America headed by Scoutmaster Capt. Beppo Boumenot. St. Michael's troop Catholic Boy Scout band was resplendent in brand new uniforms of a pattern similar to the uniform worn by the West Point cadet. The band was followed by St. Michael's troop, scoutmaster Hector Richards and the rear of the line was brough up by Gold Star mothers, Civil war veterans and Spanish war veterans in automobiles. The program of services at the Pawcatuck river bridge and the decoration of graves in St. Michael's cemetery were next completed.

When the line arrived at River Bend cemetery the program under the direction of Commander Samuel E. Tefft of Budlong post, No. 13, G. A. R., was taken up with a selection, "Nearer My God to Thee, by the Westerly band. Rev. Arat L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad Street Christian church, and an overseas war veteran, led in prayer.

Rev. Orlo M. Brees, pastor of the Second Baptist church, orator of the day, spoke in part as follows:

"We are here today to honor the dead, not to bring political axes nor to sharpen sectarian swords. Upon the issues confronting us who are alive, we must, in the nature of things, differ. Otherwise there were no issues. But differences wide as the poles are bridged by death, and the Blue and the Gray, as well as those who differed upon other questions find the same kindly god serving as a covering for their faults while the memory of their virtues remains as green as nature's velvet upholstering upon the couches where they sleep.

"I might speak today of the past as we gathering together without original effort of my own, the tributes paid by speakers and writers more able than I and sending them by a burst of oratory into the skies above you to exchange into flowery tributes sufficient that each of you should be able to honor the humblest grave with the bouquets you might thus gather. But our memorial address would be complete if that were all it accomplished. The past is linked with the present not only by the lesson of the accomplishment of dead heroes but the accomplishments of living ones as well. For both past and present must look to the future for their perfect fruition.

"Our task presents a twofold aspect, it is the task of the individual in building his own life; and it is the task of the individual in cooperation with his fellowmen in social construction, that is the building of government, industrial enterprise and those other institutions which shall be deemed necessary to promote and secure life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. As to the first I can point you to no greater example than the Man of Galilee, and say that he is the truest patriot in the individual task who most nearly makes his life to conform to the lines laid down by life's master architect and builder.

"The second task, social construction, is one well defined for the future by the experience of the past. Loyalty to the Stars and Stripes necessitates a reverence for the Constitution of the United States and obedience to our constitutional laws. It likewise requires respect and support for those institutions, homes, schools and churches, which the past has demonstrated are vital to the continuance of a republican form of government, and to the security of the rights of a free people. Homes of the true American type must continue to furnish our Washingtons, Websters, Lincolns and Grants. Our great public school system must be continued and improved to enable our citizens to distinguish between liberty and license, and to educate those of different heritage that our own in American ideals. And finally our churches must develop the moral character and furnish the spiritual leadership that shall enable those able to distinguish between liberty and license to practice the distinction.

"Thus only can we hope to honor the memory of those brave men living and dead who have given their last full measure of devotion to their native land, by laying our own lives upon the altar of service to complete the task that they so nobly began. The perpetuation of government of the people, for the people and by the people, upon this continent, with its rich symbol which we call "Old Glory" forever waving "o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave" is the only memorial we who live today desire, and I am sure that those who lived yesterday would find in that statement, ample expression of their own desire.

Necrology was given by Past Commander Shelby C. Nicholas, V. F. W., and America by the Westerly band followed by taps, Boy Scout buglers and benediction by Rev. Arat L. Schoning was the closing of the program.

Memorial day morning, when the fire apparatus had been run out of the fire station house on Union street to permit the various relief societies to set tables and cater to the Memorial day paraders when they returned from their march to River Bend cemetery, at about 9.13 o'clock, a 33 alarm for a fire outside of the district was sounded on the station bell. This was followed by a general alarm when the firemen did not appear quickly.

The Fox-Ahrens pumper was headed for Bradford. At Bradford the fire was found to be at the house of Frank Marrone and family, it being the last house on the right hand side on the Sullivan Quarry road from Bradford. The fire had gotten such a start before the men arrived that it was entirely burned. The Marrone family were in Westerly at the time the flames broke out.

Superior court for Washington county will convene at Westerly this (Tuesday) morning at 10.45 o'clock with Associate Justice Antonio A. Capotosto of Providence on the bench. Business before the court is the continuance of the case of Israel Barg of Franklin, N. H., and Raymond H. Champlin of Ashaway. The case, continued from last Friday, is being tried before a jury.

John B. Eldred and family of Wakefield, R. I., motored to Westerly on Memorial day afternoon to visit with friends.

The death of Dwight S. Austin, 59, employed in various capacities for 32 years at the Rhode Island State institutions at Sockanossett, R. I., occurred at his home 1 Humblin street, Providence, on Sunday at 4 o'clock. Mr. Austin, who was a brother of Reuben H. Austin, in Westerly, was well known in Norwich, where he lived on the East Side for several years. He is survived besides his wife by one son, Earl and a grandson Earl. Three weeks ago today (Tuesday) he underwent an operation at the Westerly hospital and returning to his home in Providence, gradually declined in health. He was the son of Elisha and Susan Austin.

Judge Oliver H. Williams held a special session of Third district court on Monday afternoon at the Westerly court house.

Ernest J. Hale of Hamilton, R. I., accompanied by his brother, Clifford Hale of Portland, Conn., both were placed under arrest by Motorcycle Officer George L. Madison on the Boston post road on Sunday afternoon. E. J. Hale entered a plea of guilty to the operation of an automobile while under the influence of liquor. Being found guilty by Judge Williams, he was sentenced to pay a fine of $150 and costs. Clifford Hale pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $10 and costs.

James Sposato charged with intoxication entered a plea of guilty and was fined $5 and costs.

Edward Ennis of Stonington also pleaded guilty to a charge of intoxication and was fined $5 and costs.

Other police activities of the week end were the finding of a typewriter which was stolen from the Granite street garage several weeks ago hidden among some rocks on Quarry Hill and the lassoing of a bull pup on Friday last in the grounds of Arthur M. Cottrell on Elm street. Confined in a can with wire screen at the station house, the dog was restored to its owner, Harry Barber, when he called.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Miner of Hartford motored to Westerly on Saturday to be the guest of Mrs. Miner's father, Richard J. Rooney, near Varietyville.

Thomas W. Reynolds of Stonington borough was a Westerly visitor over Memorial day.

Miss Margaret Smith of Providence is the guest of friends in Westerly over Memorial day.

Mrs. Walter H. Snyder of Westerly, who was the guest of her sister in South Manchester was called to Newark, N. J., on Saturday by the sudden and serious illness of another sister who resides there.

P. A. was a revelation to me!

FOR a long time, I wouldn't admit that anybody could tell me anything about tobacco. I was satisfied with the brand I was smoking. At least, I thought I was. And then one day, I borrowed a pipe-load of Prince Albert from a fellow passenger in the smoking-car.

To make a long story short, that experience revised all my previous notions about tobacco. The very first puff told me that I had been missing something good up till that moment. It was cool and refreshing as a breath of mountain air. It was sweet and fragrant.

I was ready to admit right then and there that you can teach an old dog new smoke-tricks. When the train pulled in at the station, I bought me a tidy red tin of P. A. for myself. Since then, I've thrown away enough empties to make a fair-sized tin garage.

Maybe you think that you are all set on a smoke-program. I just want to leave this thought with you: until you have smoked P. A., you have no idea of how that old pipe of yours can perform with real tobacco. Give Prince Albert a chance in your jimmy-pipe.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

JEWETT CITY

SPEAKER URGES HEARERS TO PROPERLY HONOR FLAG

(Special to the Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 31.—Memorial day cemetery decorations were carried out Monday morning, the rain holding off just long enough to allow all the outdoor part to take place. The procession was formed under the direction of Marshal G. H. Jennings and his aides, John Blake and Adrian Maynard. Wreaths, made by 30 women, under the direction of Mrs. N. J. Babbock, were distributed at the town hall. The line of march was led by Officer Henry Vegiard, followed by the marshal and his aides. Wauregan band, Henry Leach, leader, preceded the color bearer, Gilbert Miner, and the guards, Edward Krox and Adelbert Babcock. The firing squad, under the direction of Post Commander Prentice W. Chase were Wilfred LeClaire, Victor St. John, Philamon Guillatte, Irving Thornton, Walter Benjamin, George Wilcox, Carl Benjamin and Edward Blanchard. There were 42 ex-service men in line. Automobiles followed, carrying Mrs. LaFlamme and her daughter Eva, mother and sister of the young man for whom the local American Legion post was named. James Jennings, a visiting Civil war veteran, Mrs. G. A. Haskell, who for 26 years, with her husband, had charge of the Memorial day arrangements, Mrs. Althea Comager, who is 82 years old, and whose husband was color bearer for the G. A. R. for years, members of the Legion auxiliary, D. A. R., Red Cross, clergy, town and borough officials, and daughters of veterans. The World war monument on Slater library lawn was decorated by Miss LaFlamme with a handsome poppy wreath, while the band played a selection. The Jewett City, St. Mary's and Baptist cemeteries were each visited, and laurel wreaths placed upon every veterans' grave. Prayers were offered by Rev. A. H. Clement in the Jewett City cemetery, Rev. J. J. McCabe at St. Mary's and Rev. J. W. Carter in the Baptist cemetery. Three volleys were fired in each cemetery and taps were most beautifully sounded by Henry Leach. Etphage Jarvis, who was in charge of the line, gave the orders to decorate. At Lisbon bridge occurred the solemn ceremony of strewing the waters with flowers in memory of the sailors. Poppy red baskets filled with fragrant flowers, made by Miss Rosanna DesJardines, were cast upon the water by John Barry and Earl Hiscox. Three volleys were fired and taps sounded. At David Hale Fanning parg, a speakers' stand had been erected. The only Civil war veteran present, James Jennings, placed a wreath given by Anne Brewster Fanning chapter, D. A. R. upon the monument, saluting in true military style. Rev. Mr. Clement offered prayer and the band played a selection. The address was by Rev. J. W. Carter, pastor of the Methodist church and a chaplain in the World war. His thought which he wished to impress was of sacrifice. Our men were willing to give their lives for their country. We may give money and our talents to serve, but are we willing to give up our comforts, our self-righteousness as a nation, observe the laws and sacrifice ourselves? Our boys and girls should be learning from the older people the principles of right living and keeping of the laws, or what will this country be 25 years from now? He spoke of seeing a man waving two flags, and said he would rather see him not break the law of the country, than carry the flag in his intoxicated condition. The flag should be upheld in decency and sobriety. The band played the Star Spangled Banner this closing the day's exercises. Flags were placed in the urns at the park by Mrs. Haskell, in memory of Mr Fanning, whose custom it was to provide them each year. Dinner was served to 130, including the soldiers, band poppy girl sellers, police, and invited guests. The waitresses were Alice Barnett, Mrs. Noel Garand, Margaret Driscoll, Claire Berard, Mabel Wilcox, Emma Dearnley, Ruth Hewlitt, Mrs. Esther Laugbehn, Helen Babcock, Ruby Gray, Hazel Johnson, Martha Meil and Ruth Thornton. The dinner was in charge of Miss Ida Foster, chairman, Mrs. Jennie Wild, Mrs. E. M. Gray, Ruby Thornton, Susie Morgan, Mrs. M. E. Shea, Mrs. Louis Gringras, Rosanna Des Jardines, May Driscoll, Mrs. G. H. Thornton, Mrs. Ella Geer, Mrs. Dora Johnson, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Mrs. J. T. Stewart and Mrs. M. A. Burdick. The food and money necessary for the dinner is furnished by the four church parishes of the borough. Automobiles were furnished by R. W. Robertson, Thomas McBroome, P. W. Chase, A. D. Tripp and Dennis Barnett. The use of the Finn Opera house is given every year. J. H. Tracy furnishes the brass wires for the wreaths. The Jewett City restaurant baked the large quantity of meat necessary for the dinner. The churches and women's societies take their turn each year in giving the use of the vestrys and dishes. The Legion post and auxiliary had charge of the arrangements for the day and the town has appropriated $100 toward the expenses each year.

Richard Howard, 92, died Monday morning, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Herbert Hurst on Brown avenue. Mr. Howard was born in Preston, December 13, 1833. HEBRON

DEATH SATURDAY OF WALTER B. HEWITT OF HEBRON

(Special to the Bulletin)

HEBRON, May 31.—The death of Walter Scott Hewitt, 83, one of the best known and most highly respected citizens of the town of Hebron, occurred at his home in that town Saturday morning at 5:30 o'clock. Mr. Howitt was a retired merchant, having conducted the general store in Hebron, of which his son is now proprietor, for more than 40 years. He was town treasurer of Hebron for 32 years, resigning that position last year.

Mr. Hewitt's death followed a shock which was the result of a fall sustained on Thursday evening of last week. About 9 o'clock that evening he fell from the verandah of his son's store. He was taken to his home, which adjoins the store in an unconscious condition and Dr. Cyrus Pendleton of Colchester summoned. Mr. Hewitt later in the evening regained consciousness and went to sleep. The fall had dangerous consequences, however, and although no bones were broken, he was badly shaken up and from midnight Thursday did not regain consciousness.

He was born September 7, 1843, the son of Avery P. and Harriet (Miner) Hewitt. He was a member of Wooster lodge, A. F. and A. M., and was affiliated with the Hebron Congregational church for many years. He represented Hebron in the state legislature in 1889. Besides his wife, Mrs. Emily B. Hewitt, he leaves one son, John N. Hewitt of Hebron; and two grandsons, Sydney N. and Walter C. Hewitt, also of Hebron. He also leaves a half-sister, Miss Hattie Hewitt of Porte Rico.

Virginia Gates is able to be out after an attack of measles.

Mr. and Mrs. George Slater entertained friends from Hartford Sunday.

Beatrice Coffey was the guest of Alice Young of Danielson on an auto trip to Providence Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Winsor Barlow of Hillsgrove were holiday guests of Mr. Barlow's parents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Barlow.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Tetreault entertained friends from New York over the week end.

Among former residents of this place who spent the holiday here were Charles Spaulding and family of Auburn, R. I.

Marion Young and Ruth Coffey were in Foster Wednesday evening to call on Miss Coffey's twin cousins, the Misses Marjorie and Mildred Place, who were recovering from an attack of measles.

Memorial day exercises were held in the local church Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. H. B. Gaylord delivered the address and music was furnished by East Killingly band. After the church service the usual exercises were conducted at the local cemeteries.

Mrs. P. H. Coffey spent Friday with her sister, Mrs. Byron Place of Foster.

Ray Smith and family of North Sterling, were callers Sunday at The Oaks.

Francis Coffey was the guest of Marion Young on an automobile trip over the Mohawk Trail and northern New Hampshire over the week end.

Skirts must fall within six inches of the ground at the conservative Swedish court. In fact, all the ladies who are actually attached to the court wear black gowns with trains three yards long on official occasions. The sleeves to these official gowns are short and of white satin. Foreign women appearing at the Swedish court may wear any color they prefer, but their gowns are supposed to fall safely down on the ankles regardless of what Parisian dressmakers say.

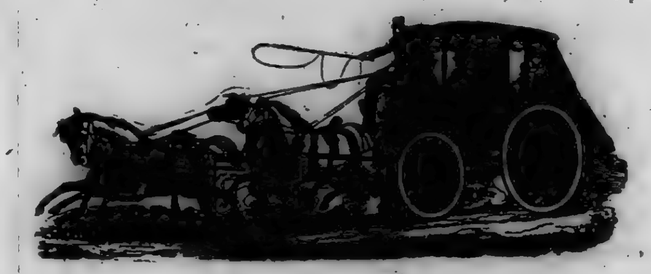
Has That Precise Distinction



1837·1926

Dotted all over New England, as nowhere else in the whole United States, in cities, in villages, at cross roads are businesses that are older than the memory of any living man. Businesses that despite the passing of their founders, that despite the style of modern methods continue to thrive and prosper.

Often among these businesses competition has raised its head, flourished a while, then died, unable to stand the acid test of long periods of time winning and holding trade.

Why is it that these old firms, many beyond the century mark, can carry on, generation after generation slowly growing—surely prospering while newer and apparently more modern companies often pass away with their founders?

The answer is simple. It is an axiom of trade that a business prospers as it sows. And these old businesses were inbred by their far seeing founders with the spirit of service—to serve "unselfishly, unfailingly, regardless of profits, but always sure in the knowledge that such service could not help but result in profits.

So that while the success of these old firms is seldom spectacular, it is the very bed rock of our present financial structure—the hope of our nation.

90 Years Following the Inspiration of a Great Merchant

Over 89 years ago, on the southeast corner of Central Wharf, Edward Chappell started the business that today carries on his name and ideals. Few men living today knew Mr. Chappell but the record of his business is a commentary of the man.

The history of New London County also chronicals his wide spread activities.

Until the early 70's the business dealt exclusively in coal. It then acquired the lumber business of Nash & Brewster that occupied the northeast corner of Central Wharf and from that time has been conducted as a coal and lumber business.

At Mr. Chappell's death in 1891 the business occupied two thirds of Central Wharf. And from that date ownership has always been vested in the Chappell family. First through Arthur H. Brewer a nephew and now through Willis Austin and Lucus Briggs, sons-in-law of A. H. Brewer.

Edward Chappell's Legacy to His Business

It is written in the records of the business that very early in Edward Chappell's career on Central Wharf he found himself in financial difficulties, called his creditors together and settled for a few cents on the dollar. Subsequently he gave a dinner to his creditors and under each plate was a check for the entire indebtedness plus interest from the time of the compromise. From that time on the unfaltering policy of the business became established—fair dealing and absolute integrity in every business practice—and its growth has been constant and assured.

A Business Policy that Cannot Be Changed

Many years ago the company adapted the slogan Q-Q-Q meaning Quality, Quantity, Quickness. Coupled with courtesy to all customers, whether large or small, this slogan has been so instilled into every member of the organization that it has become an unfailing habit. It is we feel the greatest asset of the business. The property, the stock all are measured in the value of dollars. Our integrity, our unfaltering service are reassured in the good will and respect of our townsmen and neighbors, who with us have come to revere the memory of a great merchant Edward Chappell.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

THE SWEETEST SWEET CORN

Cold backward springs have delayed safe sweet-corn planting for the last two years, but all through June is good sweet-corn planting time and the finest quality sweet corn comes from late planting when its entire growth is carried on in warm weather. Sweet corn may be planted at ten-day intervals until mid-July for a continuous supply. The later it gets the earlier the variety to be planted.

Just now the longer season varieties can be put in with a final planting of Golden Bantam and Malakoff or other extra early kinds to top off the season and mature before frost sets in. Corn can't have too rich soil. Give it the best you have in the sunniest spot and if no manure supply is handy, pulverized sheep manure can be secured from any seed house or from stockyard firms to spade in or spread about the roots of the corn to be leached in by rains. It is the handiest and most available modern fertilizer and adds something to the soil which chemical fertilizers do not.

The lesson of planting corn in squares to get fuller ears cannot be too thoroughly emphasized, a common sense discovery of scientific gardeners and experiment station workers. A square planting equalizes the distribution of the pollen or dust from the tassels without which deposited upon the silk there can be no corn. The pollen is sifted over the patch with every shift of the wind. In long narrow plantings half of it is wasted.

Cultivate corn on the surface. Do not hoe deeply as it is a surface rooter and chopping too deeply injures the roots which radiate like spokes of a wheel. Hill up as soon as a foot high to give support to the auxiliary roots to anchor the plant and produce extra nourishment. The hilling encourages this growth.

SELECTING BREEDING COCKERELS

Where special matings are not made, and cockerels for breeding are selected from the general flock, this selection should be made from some of the earlier lots of chicks. Cockerels from among the early chicks usually grow faster, mature more quickly, and are in better condition when the breeding season opens. Select males that have made good growth; are well feathered; have clean, alert-looking heads; and are reasonably true to type for the breed.

When examining the cockerel for body capacity, place the cockerel on your knee, resting upon the breastbone, with the legs stretched out straight behind. With thumb and forefinger, span the spring of ribs. Well-sprung ribs mean room for heart and lungs, which are absolutely necessary for vigor and vitality.

A broad back, deep body, and strong sturdy carriage are essential characteristics. Select twice as many cockerels as will be needed and place them on a separate range by themselves, entirely away from other stock.

With broiler prices declining, the question may well be asked, Will it not pay to hold chickens for roasters? With fowl and broiler prices running close together, there can be little if any decline in the price received for chickens due to increased weight. While it takes more feed to produce each additional pound of chicken after broiler age has been reached, the first cost of the chicks, brooding and mortality—is charged up to the broilers; while the extra pounds of gain, from the roasters, cost very little (except for feed and labor.) Cockerels kept for roasters should be separated from the pullets in order to give the pullets the best possible chance.

Caponizing is gaining in popularity, but should not be practiced unless facilities are available for carrying the capons well into the fall and taking advantage of maximum growth and conditions.

CAN BE CONTROLLED

The common cabbage worm, the most destructive insect enemy of cabbage and related crops, is best controlled by spraying with lead arsenate or calcium arsenate says the United States department of agriculture in a publication just issued entitled, The Common Cabbage Worm and Its Control. This pest is a velvety green caterpillar about 1 1-4 inches in length, and is the larva of a white butterfly well known to most farmers.

The worm would cause much heavier losses, according to the bulletin, but for a number of natural enemies, among the most important being certain wasplike parasites or four-winged flies, the immature forms of which feed within the body of the caterpillar.

Early in the season the worm attacks the cabbage, riddling the outer leaves as they form, frequently within the immature heads, which are rendered unfit for food. Sometimes it cuts out the "bud" from the young plant, thus preventing development of the head.

Arsenic poisons may be applied in dust form rather than as a spray by mixing the powder with hydrated or air-slaked lime, land plaster, dusting sulphur or cheap, light, finely pulverized material which will adhere to the cabbage leaves. Although dusts are more easily and quickly applied than sprays, they do not always distribute the poison as evenly, and, unless the dusting is done when the plants are wet, they do not stick as well.

SWEET CLOVER MORE VALUABLE FOR PASTURE

The recent sudden increase in the growing of sweet clover in the northern United States has brought many injuries to federal hay inspectors and to hay dealers regarding the marketing of baled sweet-clover hay. The acreage of sweet clover available for harvesting this year is the largest ever known, while the heavy plantings that were made this spring will result in sweet clover being one of the leading forage crops in the country in 1927. Most of this sweet clover will be used for pasture or for plowing under. Some of it, however, will be cut for hay, and the surplus above farm requirements will be offered for sale.

Sweet-clover hay is not held in high favor in the leading hay markets and dealers report much difficulty in disposing of the sweet-clover hay consigned to them. The United States department of agriculture reports that no official standards or grades have been established for sweet-clover hay and that no such grades are contemplated for the immediate future.

The very evident lack of market interest in sweet-clover hay is due to the fact that hay from this crop heretofore offered for sale has been of very low quality and of poor condition. Practically all of it has consisted of an unattractive mass of coarse woody stems, almost devoid of leaves and fine stems, often badly weathered or moldy, and obviously of low feeding value. The principal buyers of legume hays, including the clovers and alfalfa, are dairymen, and these demand hay that is fine stemmed and leafy, sound, and of good color and of high palatability and feed value. Sweet-clover hay may be so produced as to have all these characteristics, but the type of hay usually placed on the market would be largely wasted if fed to dairy cows. Most buyers will not consider it even for bedding.

ROAD CONDITIONS AND DETOURS ARE REPORTED

Road conditions and detours in this part of the state, are reported by the state highway department as follows this week:

Middletown, Middletown - Hartford road, route 10, is under construction, but is open for traffic.

East Hampton, road between four corners and the Lake, route 3, is finished. Work is being done on the shoulders.

Vernon and Tolland, Tolland turnpike is under construction. Road closed. Detour (no route number.)

Middletown-Durham, Middletown-Burham road, route 112, is under construction. No delay to traffic.

Willimantic-Putnam road, route 3 and 101, is under construction in Chaplin. Grading being done, traffic may pass.

Norwich-Putnam road, route 12, grade crossing being eliminated in Plainfield. Short detour.

Norwich-New London road, route 12, is under construction in towns of Norwich and Montville. Concrete pavement being placed. Through traffic between New London and Norwich should use the road on the east side of the Thames river.

Norwich-Willimantic road, route 32, is under construction in Franklin. Concrete pavement being placed. Section of one way traffic regulated by telephone.

East Lyme, route 1, on the post road, the Golden Spur bridge is being reconstructed. Detour posted.

Y. M. C. A. REPRESENTATIVE HELD SERVICE AT JAIL

At 9:15 Sunday morning representatives of the local Y. M. C. A. conducted a religious service at the county jail. Hugh Kinder rendered two vocal solos with pleasing effect. General Secretary Edwin Hill read the scripture and offered prayer.

Edmund A. Prentice gave a very impressive talk from the text "As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he." Mr. Prentice spoke in part as follows: "If you men will take the time to think about the text quoted in relation to your life these past years, you will find that the statement is very true, for the way you have been thinking has determined what you are today and the fact that you are here is simply because you have been thinking wrong. You can misuse your brain just as surely as you can misuse your body. The great ocean liner that crosses the ocean is well nigh perfectly equipped with all the latest appliances and accommodations: it has a superior captain, and a first class engineer, and the crew is carefully selected with an eye to efficiency, and she is steered by electricity and a perfect compass is a part of the equipment; however, even though this great craft is so perfectly prepared for the voyage, I would not trust my life on board unless I felt sure that the head officers would use their brains properly. Every day from the Grand Central railroad station in New York the Twentieth Century Limited all steel train and great engine leaves for her fast trip to Chicago. She has on board the best of men to manage the train, but I would not dare to trust myself to travel on that train unless I was convinced that these men would use their brains for the protection of the passengers. The brain is a very important part of a person, and it should be used as God intended it to be. It is time that you men began to use your brains differently than you have been using them; you have been thinking the wrong way. It is time you began to think the right way, for "as a man thinketh, so is he." Men, why not center your thoughts on God. More than usual recently I have been thinking of God and his goodness to me, and I have been trying for 40 years to serve him. Will you not today think of Jesus Christ seriously and begin to live for him?"

Opportunity has a way of calling on those who are already successful.

"CHOSEN PRINCE" PICTURE SHOWN AT Y. M. C. A.

The parlors were well occupied at the 4 o'clock service at the local Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Hymns, scripture reading and prayer constituted the opening exercises. Hugh Kinder rendered two vocal solos with efficiency. The third part of the Bible feature picture, "The Chosen Prince" was shown, picturing David sent to war against the Philistines, with the promise from Saul that he could marry his daughter if he won the battle; this David did and afterward married the King's daughter. Saul was shown in continual jealousy of David, fearing that David was planning to usurp the throne.

Between the reels Secretary Hill gave a brief talk on "The Golden Rule," and among other things said, "what a wonderful world we would have if the Golden Rule were followed. If we followed it in the words we speak, we would avoid hurting the feelings of other people, for our words are very powerful for good or evil. Then if we followed the golden rule in our actions, we would contribute much to the harmony of life: sometimes "actions speak louder than words." We should pray often that "the words of our mouths, and the meditations of our hearts shall be acceptable to God." If our thoughts were always in accord with the golden rule, what a vast difference it would make, for our thoughts are the basis of our words and actions; "as a man thinketh in his heart, so is he"; how true this is in every phase of life. Someone has said "if you sow a thought, you reap an act; if you sow an act, you reap a habit; if you sow a habit, you reap a character, and if you sow a character, you reap a destiny." We do well to think of this. Let us guard carefully our thoughts, and then our words and our acts will be far more helpful than they are perhaps."

Emruelt Fritz operated the moving picture machine.

LEBANON

A Memorial tablet for William Beaumont has been erected upon the Green opposite the Baptist church. It was given by the Beaumont Medical Research association named in honor of William Beaumont, a surgeon born in Lebanon in 1785, whose experiment upon a man who lived for years after receiving a gun shot wound in his stomach which left a large opening was of great importance to medical science.

Mr. and Mrs. Noraine of New London were callers at F. G. Bruces on Wednesday.

Rev. A. G. Littlefield, Thomas Fowler and C. S. Goodwin were in New London clamming on Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Harvey and family spent the week end at their home in Lebanon.

NO-NOX
MOTOR FUEL
STOPS KNOCKS
Turns Mountains into Mole hills

FOR many years mechanical engineers struggled to build automobile engines of higher compression. As compression is increased the power line goes up and the fuel consumption line goes down—ordinary gasolines would not withstand this higher compression without knocks, clicks, or detonations—accumulated carbon deposits increased this compression by decreasing the size of the combustion chamber—and the audible sounds of the engine distress grew louder.

It has been our good fortune to produce a gasoline that positively eliminates clicks, pings, and knocks.

Gulf No-Nox and Carbon are Power Twins

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel withstands compression to a high degree; carbon, increasing the compression of the engine, ceases to be a nightmare as long as it does not interfere with valve action. In other words, it puts carbon to work. More power and greater efficiency is thereby accomplished, resulting in greater mileage.

With GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel in your tank—step on it—you will get the story better than we can tell it.

This Guarantee goes with it

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is Non-Noxious, Non-Poisonous and no more harmful to man or motor than ordinary gasoline—that it contains no dope of any kind—that the color is for identification only—that it positively will not heat the motor summer or winter.

GULF No-Nox Motor Fuel is priced three cents per gallon higher than ordinary gasoline—and is worth it.

Johnny Is Greatly Peeved

Some folks by noting are aggrieved,
And finish by becoming peeved.
—Old Mother Nature.

If ever there was an astonished, upset Woodchuck, that Chuck was Johnny Chuck. He stared at the empty doorway of his home and there was a funny look on his face. Even now he couldn't believe that he had heard correctly. No, sir, he couldn't believe it. Instead of being welcomed by Polly Chuck, he had been told to go away and stay away.

"Well, in all my born days, I never heard anything like that," muttered Johnny. "Is Polly crazy? She didn't even ask where I had been, or what happened to me. She treated me just as if I was of no account at all."

A sudden thought popped into Johnny's head. "Could it be that while he had been away a strange Chuck had wooed and won Polly? Could it be? Jealously promptly surred all through Johnny Chuck. He glared all about for signs of a strange Chuck. But he saw no strange Chuck, nor did he see signs of any. He even ran about looking for footprints of a strange Chuck, but there were none. This relieved him, but it didn't make him feel any better-natured. He still remained peeved—very much peeved. In fact he grew more peeved with every passing minute. This was a nice way to be greeted after all the troubles he'd been through.

"I'll show her that she can't treat me this way," growled Johnny, and once more started to enter the house.

But that is all he did do—just start. There came from down below such a snapping of teeth and such an ugly warning that Johnny backed out hastily. It was clear that Polly Chuck meant just what she said. It was clear to him that he was no longer welcome in his own home.

"Well, what do you know about this?" grumbled Johnny. "There must be something wrong with Polly. She not only appears not to have missed me, but actually seems to think I have no business here. It is my house just as much as hers. I'll show her! Yes, sir, I'll show her! I can't do anything with her down in there now, but if she once comes out I'll show her whose house this is." Johnny was getting angrier and angrier. He certainly was very much peeved. And with it all he was very much at a loss, for he didn't know how to account for it. When he had last seen Polly Chuck, the day he was caught in a box trap and taken away by Farmer Brown's Boy, she had been good-natured enough. What had happened to make this change? Johnny didn't know. He didn't have the least idea.

Finally Johnny went over to the nearest sweet clover patch to soothe his temper with some sweet clover. While he was eating the Merry Little Breezes of Old Mother West Wind came dancing along. "Why, Johnny Chuck," they cried, "what are you doing here? We thought you were over in the Old Pasture. Didn't you like the Old Pasture?"

"No," grunted Johnny, and he was so cross about it that the Merry Little Breezes noticed it.

"My, my, my!" said one of them. "It doesn't do you any good to come home, does it? Is that the way you talk to Polly Chuck?"

Johnny said nothing, but he snapped his teeth and looked sulky and out of sorts. The Merry Little Breezes began to tease him. They rumpled his hair and they pulled his whiskers. It only made Johnny more peeved than ever.

THREE NORWICH PUPILS WIN IN BUDGET CONTEST

Norwich school pupils are quick to seize the opportunity to try their powers in whatever contest presents itself, as has been demonstrated in the budget competition recently referred to.

This week's issue of Zest, the national savings newspaper, issued in New York and furnished to Norwich schools by the Norwich Savings Society, tells of its Aunt Katie's Column, which the children like so much, that out of 18 pupils receiving honorable mention for budgets submitted, three are from Norwich schools, Margaret Whelan, Elizabeth Street school, Orese LaWallie, Occum school, Versailles, and Annie Strenkosky, Yantic school. Each has received a neat and handy little account book in which to note expenditures.

The first two prizes, $5 each, went to Willis A. Medlicott, of Auburndale, Mass., aged 9, and Vivian June Allen, 13, of White Plains, N. Y. Second prizes, $3.50 each, were awarded Gladys Bronstein, 11, of Hartford, and Willis C. Griffin, 12, of White Plains. Third prizes, $1 each went to Bobby Kapp, 11 and Clara Gable, 12, of White Plains; Frieda Silverstein, 14, N. Y. and Jonas Kamlet, 11, of the Bronx N. Y.

That this is considered a very important matter for the children who went into the contest and did so well, against pupils from the whole United States, is indicated by the following letters from the Savings Bank Journal, New York:

May 12, 1926.

Mr. Guy B. Dolbeare
Treas., Norwich Savings Society

Dear Mr. Dolbeare: Three Norwich children, Margaret Whelan, grade 7, Elizabeth Street school, Orese LaWallie, Occum school, Versailles, and Annie Strenkosky, Yantic school, Yantic, won honorable mention in the budget contest which has been conducted in Zest for the last month. Letters to them from Aunt Katie, together with their awards, will reach you within a few days.

The announcement of the winners in the contest will be made in the issue of Zest for May 26th. I am taking the liberty of calling this matter to your attention, and to ask if you would care to distribute this edition. If so, I will be glad to send the usual number of copies so that the awards may be given the winners at the same time with the number of Zest containing their names.

You may be interested to know that the response from the children in this contest was especially gratifying, and we feel that it has been well worth while.

Yours very truly,
FRANCES WRIGLEY.

May 24th, 1926.

Mr. Guy B. Dolbeare, Treas.,

Dear Mr. Dolbeare: Under separate cover we are sending you three small gifts to be delivered to the children who received honorable mention in connection with the Zest Budget Prize contest.

So many children sent in excellent work, which could not be recognized through the necessarily limited number of cash prizes, we are taking this method of showing them some appreciation for their interest.

Yours very truly,
AGNES WIEDEBECK,
Director of Education in Economics.

WILL KEEP LOW FLIERS AWAY FROM RACE CROWD

Precautions have been taken by the lation division of the state motor icle department to prevent low ng over craft in the Thames river the occasion of the Yale-Harvard t races to be held at New London urday, June 16. The state will have ng boats stationed nearby manned aviation inspectors with instruc ns to force down any airplane en ging in dangerous practices, and the partment will ask for vigorous pro cution of any offenders thus caught. People at the annual regatta in re nt years have been frightened by w fliers. Certain aviators engaged by oving pictures companies in past ars have filmed the spectacle from e air. In doing so, the machines ve flown at such low altitudes that e propellor of one amphibian plane rom Mineola last year blew a spray nto the faces of spectators on pleasure craft below. The state police were, powerless to do anything about it, because the flier made off without coming down. If the offenders succeed in flying out of the state before being apprehended, they cannot easily be brought to court in Connecticut.

To guard against the practice in the future, therefore the plan of forcing down the offending aviators has been decided upon.

Up to now, the aviation division of the state motor vehicle department has made use of planes of the 118th observation squadron, C. N. G. for its work. Military planes will be used for the police who work in connection with the boat races. A Laird-Swallow plane has now been put at the disposal of the state by private interests, for use whenever occasion requires. It will be kept at Brainard field, Hartford.

Sam H. Marshall, president of an Albany (Ga.) ice cream company, on a tour of inspection through the plant, entered the hardening vault about 10:30 at night. He was accidentally locked in. Marshall then experienced all the sensations of a marooned arctic explorer, as he ran constantly around the narrow room throughout the night to avoid freezing to death.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia"
Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent bottles, any drugstore.

Insulate

your home against both cold and heat

Now Celotex Insulating Lumber enables you to do it at practically no extra cost

The thing that gives costly homes their greater comfort is insulation—heat-insulation. Hitherto it has represented a cost prohibitive to most home builders.

But now even the simplest home can have it. Celotex Insulating Lumber has made possible complete insulation practically without extra cost. It keeps your home warmer in winter, cooler in summer, and reduces fuel bills approximately one-third. Used in place of wood sheathing and lath, it makes a stronger wall than the materials it replaces. Let us give you the facts about Celotex Insulating Lumber. Phone us.

A race was is raging in California and state authorities, far from trying to pacify the combatants, are adding to the slaughter by endeavoring to poison them all—namely, dark- brown Argentine ants and their redskin opponents, the fire ants. Fifteen years ago entomologists predicted the energetic Argentine ant eventually would crowd out all other breeds and become sole survivor of the ant race in California. Late bulletins from the front indicate that while the prophecy has not fully come to pass, the South American insect has most of his rivals on the run.

Sensitiveness is not necessarily cowardice.

BATH AND BEACH COMPANY ISSUE MAY COME UP IN NEW LONDON COUNCIL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 31.—It is expected that the committee on public safety of the city council will report Tuesday evening, on the matter referred to them at the meeting of the council a week ago, the alleged encroachment of the Bath and Beach company upon land in which the city of New London has title. Charles Schall, a land owner nearby, is pressing the matter for settlement, but the council does not seem inclined to bring the case to a solution. The opinion is expressed by members of the council that the matter will go to the courts, before any agreement is reached.

WESTERLY MAN FINED $75 FOR SCARE AT AUTO PARK

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 31.—Charles Tuscano of Westerly, married and with four children, was charged with a breach of the peace in having entered the lavatory at Riverside park and there giving a scare to a New York woman who was on the premises. Tuscano was drunk, or he would not been caught in an offense of the sort to which he pleaded guilty. He explained as best he could and the substance of his story was that he was under the influence of liquor. He was fined $75.

This city today had the most pretentious Memorial day procession it has had in many years. There were some 1,500 men and youths in line with three bands of music that "stepped" them at a lively pace through State street, to Broad and to the cemeteries on the western borders of the town. A platoon of police in charge of Sergeant Nelson Smith headed the column, which was made up of troops from the nearby forts, sailors from the submarine base and the ships of the coast guard in the harbor, cadets from the Coast Guard Academy, local artillery companies, Boy Scouts, Sons of Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, members of the American Legion, the Women's Relief corps, and survivors of the war of the Rebellion. The ranks of the Boys of '61 are thinning so rapidly that there was barely a score of men in the autos that took them to the burial places. When it is recalled that the members of the Grand Army served their country 65 years ago and that they then were approaching or had reached their majority, it is remarkable that so many of them survive. Dr. Joseph Ganey was marshal of the procession which was a few minutes late in moving. The column was conspicuous for the clean appearance of the men composing it and their splendid carriage. Their lines were accurate and they moved with the rhythm of well trained troops. Along the line as they passed out through State street they received generous applause at points where their appearance was appreciated. Rev. George R. Atha of Groton Baptist church delivered the address at Cedar Grove cemetery, and Morgan Bulkeley Haven was heard in a patriotic oration. The procession moved at 10 o'clock so that the marchers escaped the drizzling rain that fell a couple of hours later. There was a general display of flags along the line of march.
